Find Stray Dog

Police Work Spares Child Rabies Shots

A four-year-old Arlington Heights boy can thank two Arlington Heights police officers for saving him from a painful two weeks.

The boy was bitten by a dog Tuesday, and the boy's mother could only tell police it was a "stray dog," and looked like a German shepherd.

If the dog was not located, police knew, the boy would have to be given a series of rabies shots in the abdomen, one every day for about two weeks. The shots are extremely painful.

With this in mind, Humane Officer Gene Korns and Officer Willard Salee began knocking on doors in the neighborhood, trying to locate someone who owned a police dog.

THEY KEPT AT it for going on two hours, when Salee met with success. The dog was identified by the victim and his the boy, and is being checked to see if it carries rabies.

And in all probability, the little boy will be spared the pain of the shots — thanks to the determination of two Arlington Heights police officers.

Aviation's Payroll

Scheduled airlines of the United States paid 171,610 employees a total of $1.2 billion last year.

Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

Suburbia Today, our magazine supplement, this month tells the story of how another town three years ago acquired a country club as did the Mount Prospect park district this year. It is interesting reading as well as an example of what can be done in community development. There are other features, equally as worthwhile, to be found in the June copy.

Thirty-seven years is a long time to hold one job, especially when it is a newspaper job. When we congratulated our oldest employe in years of service, Paul Arneman, he had some nice things to say about his boss, which in turn has won for him this mention in the Editor's Column.

No longer will we be tempted to match the extravagant circulation claims of some newspapers. The final audit of Paddock's circulation was completed Friday. The figures will become official soon for anybody and everybody to know.

Publishers are basically honest, but there are some smart advertisers who are questioning their circulation honesty.

Listening to a panel last week, we heard the book editor of a Chicago daily newspaper say that any author or publisher can get a book on the "best seller list" by purchasing a large number of a particular book from two or three Chicago book stores.

The publishers would be performing a better service to book lovers by publication of a "recommended book list."

It is seldom that a story published in this paper gets as quick action as it did on May 31. The Palatine Enterprise appearing on the newsstands at 8 a.m. revealed that a township collector, by holding back $2 million in tax money was costing the tax payers many dollars in extra interest on anticipation warrants.

Within a few hours checks were in the mail to two school districts whose treasurers had stated that their previous requests for tax

Jaycees Install Officers Friday

New officers of the Arlington Heights Jaycees will be installed at a banquet tomorrow (Friday) night at the Old Orchard Country Club.

Newly elected president is Paul Gustafson, of 310 N. Dryden, a division manager at the Sears store in Highland Park. He has been a member of the Arlington Heights Jaycees for more than three years, and served as secretary and treasurer.

OTHER new officers are: Carl Schmidt, internal vice-president; Gail Elder, external vice-president; Walt Davis, secretary; and Art Nielander, treasurer.

Three new members of the board of directors are: Jerry Beauvais, Frank Kams and Jim Ward.

The new officers promised increased emphasis on community development and membership participation. An all-out drive for new members this fall will be the first major project under the new executives, who will take office July 1.

GUSTAFSON succeeds Don Sweeney as president of the group.

Featured speaker at Tomorrow night's banquet will be Jim York, outgoing state president of the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Rotary Donates $25 to Council

A $25 donation from the Wheeling Rotary Club brought the treasury of the Wheeling - Buffalo Grove Community Council to a total of $52, it was reported at the Tuesday council meeting.

Commencement

The fifty-third annual graduation program at Arlington High School will be held tonight, June 7, at 8:15 p. m. in the gymnasium - auditorium. There will be 446 graduates receiving diplomas.

Commencement exercises for 495 Prospect High School seniors will be held Friday, June 8, at 8:15 p.m. in the school fieldhouse. The second annual Prospect graduation program will feature three class speakers, in addition to the awarding of diplomas.

AT THE BEGINNING of the Arlington Heights village board meeting Monday night, Justin A. (Buzz) Nelson (left) was sworn in as a new village trustee, succeeding Richard Glantz, who is moving to the East. Administering the oath of office is John G. Woods, village president. Nelson will serve until April, 1963, when someone will be elected to serve the remaining two years of Glantz' term.

Fallout Shelter Aid Sought by CD Chief

Arlington Heights has 27 buildings or portions of buildings designated as potential fallout shelters ,and Wallace Daughtry, village Civil Defense director, this week spelled out some of the benefits and responsibilities the owners acquire through signing a "fallout shelter license" form.

These forms permit use of the buildings as public fallout shelters in case of impending or actual nuclear attack.

DAUGHTRY has urged the owners of the Arlington Heights buildings to sign the forms, and return them to him.

This week, he pointed out several benefits the owners would reap, not the least of which is a strengthening of the important "employer to employe" relationship, through showing in this way an interest in his employes' welfare.

Daughtry also said the owner would greatly enhance his public relations stature by providing shelter for citizens who live near by, or who may be in the neighborhood at the time of the emergency.

And of course, he may save his own life.

AN IMPORTANT point owners should bear in mind, Daughtry said, is that the owner assumes no liability for the care, protection or maintenance of the shelter stocks, and the license does not include use of the premises for tests and exercises.

And because licensing for the use of fallout shelters would be considered as necessary or incidental to the building, it would be covered under the owner's general liability insurance policies without additional premium charge.

This opinion was taken from a review by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters.

DAUGHTRY said the license provides permission for storage of supplies for the shelter either in the shelter area, or immediateely adjacent to it. Space required is approximately 1¼ cubic feet for each person to be sheltered.

Supplies will be furnished by the Federal Government and will be stored in these amounts:

1. 10,000-calorie food supply per person sheltered.
2. Water containers for a 14-day supply based on one quart per day per person sheltered.
3. Radiological measuring instruments and minimum medical supplies.
4. Minimum sanitation facilities and supplies.

If the owner of the building wishes, Daughtry said, he can exclude any area of the building from shelter marking and use, and he may state this restriction on his license or in an attachment.

More detailed information can be had by contacting Daughtry.

Man Appears, Thwarts Theft

A watchman's timely appearance at 12:40 a.m. May 29 frustrated the efforts of three men to steal an air conditioner from Polk Bros. Store, Palatine.

Watchman James Conway said he saw two men in shorts carrying an air conditioning unit toward the Northwest Highway exit. The men left the air conditioner and fled in a 1956 blue and white Mercury, driven by a waiting accomplice.

MOVE TO ANNEX SCHOOL PROPERTY

Forest View Actions Taken

In related but separate actions last week, the Village of Arlington Heights approved the low bid for construction of an sanitary sewer to the new Forest View High School and the District 214 school board initiated action to annex the Forest View property to the village.

The contract for the sewer was awarded Scully, Hunter, Scully, on a bid of $42,860.34, just $132.66 under the second low bid of Rossett Contracting.

Total cost, including engineering, is estimated at $47,000. Of this, high school District 214 will contribute $9,500. The major leandholder through whose property the sewer will run, will contribute about $14,050. He is E. L. Trendel.

THE SEWER line will run from Busse - Dempster west on Dempster to Algonquin, northwest on Algonquin to the west end of Cedar Glen subdivision (Trendel's property), north to one block from the school property, west to the center of the subdivision, north to the school property line, and west to the center of the school property boundary.

Trendel has granted an easement for the sewer, and construction is scheduled to begin shortly.

An annexation agreement with Trendel also was accepted by the village board, and the village attorney authorized to execute the necessary papers. The village manager was instructed to enter into a contract with the school board to bind that phase of the project.

JOHN HAAS, president of the school board, attended the village board meeting Monday night and thanked not only the trustees, but the village administration for their "excellent cooperation' in helping solve a serious problem for the school district.

At its own special meeting Saturday, the school board voted to negotiate with both the Village of Arlington Heights and the Elk Grove Township road commissioner, on improvement and maintenance of Goebbert Road from Golf to Algonquin Roads.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson stated the village would be willing to maintain Goebbert Road, even the sections which will remain outside the village limits and in Elk Grove Township, if the township would improve the road.

IT WAS suggested a suitable improvement would be sealcoat asphalt, since any permanent road paving would probably have to be torn up when final storm drainage improvements are made. At present, the road is gravel, and very narrow.

On the motion authorizing board secretary Mrs. Eugenia Chapman to sign a petition for annexation to the village, one school board member abstained "for personal reasons."

HE IS George Laubenheimer, who lives in Mount Prospect. The other board member who lives in Mount Prospect, George H. Paris, voted for the motion however, as did all the other board members.

At the village board meeting, Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel was authorized to file other annexation petitions, as necessary for orderly development in the area.

Father of 4 Sentenced

A Rolling Meadows father has been sentenced to six months in the county jail for deserting his family.

Judge Francis Kelly of Palatine gave the decision Saturday that sent Egidio Schiavi, who lived in the farmhouse at Industrial Ave. and Rohlwing Road, to jail.

Schiavi was apprehended by local police May 21 after he had been missing from his home 11 days. He was charged with contributing to the delinquency of his four minor children.

Bickley Is Speaker at Ceremonies

Arlington Heights residents observed Memorial Day May 30 with an almost festive parade, but also with a subsequent, solemn service at Memorial Park.

John H. Bickley Jr., a major in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, gave the principal address at the Memorial Day services, sponsored by Arlington Heights VFW Post 981.

Mrs. Don Knapp, wife of the general manager of the Arlington Theater, accepted a citizenship citation from the post on behalf of her husband, who was out of town and could not attend.

AMONG THE distinguished guests who spearheaded the parade and shared a seat on the speakers' platform were U. S. Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.); Brig. Gen. Kermit L. Davis, commanding general of the Nike base; and other military officers and village governmental and administrative chiefs.

Following the ceremonies, services were held at two Arlington Heights cemeteries.

THE PARADE began promptly at 9:30 a. m. from the corner of Dunton and South streets. The parade route north on Dunton street was thinly lined with spectators, who seemed to view the occasion more as a holiday than as a day dedicated to remembrance of this country's war dead.

Units taking part in the parade included several drum and bugle corps, a number of units from Great Lakes Naval Training Center, veterans marching units, boy and girl scouts, 45th Artillery Brigade drum and bugle corps, civic group representatives ,and many others.

Enumerators Are Needed For Census

Fifteen enumerators still are needed for the special Arlington Heights census to be conducted this month. Mrs. Dorothy Pakys, deputy village clerk, urged anyone interested to apply not later than 9 a.m. Friday, June 8, to the temporary village hall, 315 N. Highland.

Basic requirements are: At least 18 years of age, United States citizen, able to work full-time for approximately two weeks, sound physical condition.

Enumerators will be paid six cents for each name recorded, and Mrs. Mary C. House, of the census bureau, said an enumerator should be able to record an average of 200 names per day.

Sewer Bonds To Be Sold On June 25

Arlington Heights will offer $1.9 million general obligation bonds and $1.6 sewer and water revenue bonds for sale June 25, it was reported at the village board meeting Monday night.

The bonds will finance a comprehensive relief storm sewer system approved by the voters in a public referendum last December.

Bill Inman, of the John Nuveen Co., told the board his firm is ready to proceed with sale, but other conflicting public offerings of bonds scheduled this month indicate it would be wise to wait until June 25 to sell Arlington Heights'.

Local Concern, Action

'Senior Citizens' Center Studied for Suburban Aged

A respected, beloved — and often lonely — segment of Arlington Heights society is the subject of increasing concern here. That concern soon may take the name of action.

The plight of many of the aged in Arlington Heights and the surrounding area is a simple one — they have little in common with the younger generation, few places to get together for conversation and activities.

"They may be quite lonely, even in the midst of their own relatives. They have so little in common with their sons or daughters, or their grandchildren—things are so different now than a few years ago. The manner of living has changed."

These thoughts were voiced this week by the Rev. John M. Kempf, superintendent of the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged, in Arlington Heights and one of the people giving this problem serious study.

In fact, Rev. Kempf hopes that facilities for a day center for the elderly may be included in the Lutheran home's $1 million building program scheduled to get under way this year.

"WE HAVEN'T made any surveys yet, but we are including such a facility in our plans," the Rev. Mr. Kempf said. "It would serve elderly residents in all the villages around Arlington Heights, and would provide a place where the aged people who otherwise would be left to their own initiative could go to play cards, or checkers, or chess, or perhaps just read or chat with others."

Rev. Kempf is not alone in his concern. Robert Y. Paddock, a director of the Chamber of Commerce in Arlington Heights, has outlined possible action the Chamber could take in this area.

"Right now," Paddock said, "we're thinking along the lines of some kind of day center, supported by all the organizations in the village. We can do some organizing work and then turn the project over to a special committee to carry it through."

ANOTHER possibility is that the chamber might purchase a suitable building for a permanent home, a building large enough for other activities within its confines, and earmark part of the space for a day center for the elderly.

"This is all in the talking stage at the moment," Paddock said, "but we definitely are going to take action of some kind."

If a special committee of groups is formed, one space which may be available for a day center is the American Legion Hall, across from Recreation Park.

"We haven't taken any steps yet," said Dr. Robert Balfour, director of the Legion post, "but we did think that if an organization is formed, we might be able to reach an agreement with it to use our hall."

For the elderly, action cannot come too soon.

"I GET SO many calls every year from people wanting to know if we have someone to send somewhere as a companion for elderly relative," Rev. Kempf said. "Even when they live with their children who love them, and whom they love, the elderly often are lonely and unhappy."

"But," Rev. Kempf added, "if they can get out and be active and associate with others of their generation, life begins to take on more meaning. They no longer get out of bed in the morning and wonder what they are going to do with the day."

Suburb News of the Week

WHEELING TOWNSHIP — A $5 million interceptor sewer will be extended from Park Ridge to Wheeling by the end of 1964, according to Trustee Walter Baltis of the Metropolitan Chicago Sanitary District. In an interview last week, he said the sewer would be installed along Rand Road to Wolf Road, and along Wolf to Wheeling. Wolf also extends through the Prospect Heights area.

PALATINE — Township Tax Collector Albert DePue advanced an additional $600,000 to School District 15, raising to $750,000 the amount of taxes distributed to the district. The action followed a special meeting of the town board of auditors who sought to find out why distribution of taxes was slow. As of Wednesday the high school district had received only $150,000. The general practice is to distribute 75 per cent of collected funds as soon as possible. Township Attorney Francis Kelly questioned the legality of some of the tax collector's action.

ELK GROVE — Faced with increasing demands for services and not enough income to meet expenses, trustees plan to borrow $100,000 in general obligation bonds. Bids will be opened at 7:30 p.m., Monday, June 11, at the village hall.

School will end for 3,375 district 59 children Friday.

ROLLING MEADOWS — The annual treasurer's report published on this week's legal page reflects a "very satisfactory" position for the city of Rolling Meadows, according to Treasurer Robert Bochte. He plans to analyze the totals and statistics at next Tuesday's city council meeting to help the aldermen as they study the appropriation ordinance for the current fiscal year.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS — The Village of Arlington Heights approved this week the low bid for construction of a sanitary sewer to the new Forest View High School south of the village, and the District 214 school board voted to annex the school property to Arlington Heights, although it is known Mount Prospect had its eye on the site. The low bid was $42,860. Engineering and other fees will raise total cost to an estimated $47,000. Work will begin shortly.

HOFFMAN ESTATES — The village's civil defense unit held its first mock disaster last Saturday afternoon. Hoffman Estates fire department and police department and the Schaumburg police department took part in the disaster. This was the first alert or mock disaster the unit has had since it was accredited by the State. All service groups of the C.D. unit took part.

SCHAUMBURG — The police department has a new squad car in service. Marty Conroy, chief of police, accepted delivery of the 1962 Ford from Roselle Motors, Roselle. Vote registration is being conducted this Friday and Saturday at the village hall.

25 Couples At Chamber Smorgasbord

Some 25 couples attended an Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce "Information Please" smorgasbord last Friday night at Gunnell's restaurant.

Chamber President Wayne Brennan called it an enthusiastaic turnout, boding well for the Chamber's upcoming promotions, which include a weekend "carnival days" late in July.

At the husband and wife get-together Friday, the JuJly promotion was discussed and explained, and three Chamber members—Bob Atcher, Paul Ellingsen and Bob Walters—presented a skit.

Brennan said the July promotion will include a sidewalk sale, a strolling German band, a carnival set up in the downtown area, a Friday night street dance, possibly a sidewalk art exhibit and sale, and a variety of other features.

Final plans are still being determined.

money had gone unanswered.

It was just another public service of this newspaper.

After a sightseeing trip through the southern part of Inverness Sunday, we can understand why the villages of South Barrington and Hoffman Estates are seeking annexation of the area south of Palatine Road. Some of those homes are in the 75 to 100 thousand dollar class.

Some interesting predictions were made last week by a regional planning commissioner. He said that an extension of Edens highway will ultimately extend west to the Barrington area, along the Dundee Road area.

Many years will elapse before it becomes a reality but he did warn municipalities not to kid themselves about influencing a planning board to change its plans for a highway because it does not appear on the master plan of an individual village.

He warned against the practice of over-zoning for industrial development. "Villages," he said, "should develop zoning ordinances that will prevent building in flood prone areas." He added, "Some builders just look the other way when we warn them that an area will flood. They can buy cheap and build cheap and then sell at a good profit."

He was speaking the truth, as more than one municipality in this area has learned.

The opinion poll of Congresswoman Marguerite Stitt Church was answered by 13,306 people. Results are published on this week's editorial page.

The voting record of Mrs. Church has been substantially along the lines expressed by her constituents.

That poll should stand as a guidepost to her successor.

Slate Further Study

Sign Ordinance Fee Changes Are Agreed

Village trustees have agreed to make some suggested changes in sign ordinance fees requested by many downtown Arlington Heights merchants, although implementation of this decision will await further study of two other sign ordinance matters.

The Chamber of Commerce and several non-affiliated merchants questioned the method of assessing inspection fees for signs, the need for special insurance coverage to free the village from liability for injuries from accidents involving merchants' signs, and other features of the ordinance.

AT THE village board meeting Monday night, the board's safety committee submitted its report, which is partially a result of two meetings of Trustee Sam Wit with Chamber representatives.

The report noted these findings of fact: (1) Progressive sign inspection is in progress. (2) Sign inspection procedures are being followed as set up under the ordinance.

Wit, chairman of the safety committee, and Trustee Eugene F. Schlickman, the other member, reached these conclusions and recommendations:

1. Annual inspection should be continued.

2. If there is more than one sign at the same business location, then the basic fee should be charged only once, instead of for each sign, and the square foot rate apply to all the signs at the location.

THE COMMITTEE said two points warrant further study. One is the matter of insurance coverage for the village, and the other is whether or not all signs on buildings should be flush against the building, rather than overhanging the public right-of-way.

These two points will be examined further and when a conclusion is reached, the board will take necessary action to amend the sign ordinance in accord with its decision.

Suburban Bird Digs Downtown

PEANUTS PARTRIDGE

Partridge in a pear tree? Not so unusual.

But in downtown Arlington Heights, raising a family? That's a bird of another feather.

Yet a partridge has moved to Arlington Heights and not, as might be supposed, for the suburban atmosphere, for the trees and grassy spaces.

This particular partridge has moved smack dab in the middle of the business district, into a long, narrow space between two buildings.

Every day for the past week, "Peanuts" has come out into the alleyway behind the buildings for a leisurely stroll, unheedful of the interest he, or she, has aroused, accepting without a word the handouts several of the merchants in the area now provide.

And a couple of times, two smaller partridges have been spotted in the alleyway, presumably Peanuts' brood. (The name "Peanuts," by the way, was tacked on by a new found friend in the Heights Wall and Floor Covering shop.)

Making the most of an unusual situation, the Herald's inquiring reporter questioned Peanuts about its move to Arlington Heights — and learned a few things.

Q. Tell me, Peanuts, or Mrs. Peanuts as the case may be, why did you choose Arlington Heights as your home in preference to all the other villages?

A. Well, schools had a lot to do with it, particularly because of the simply wonderful health program provided for all the girls and boys of the village.

Q. I hate to disillusion you, ma'm, or sir, but not quite all of the children get this health service anymore. You see . . . but never mind, what about the progressive merchants?

A. Oh my yes, these modern, up-to-day stores are just marvelous — a treat for the eye, don't you know.

Q. I see, but if you like them so much, why do you wander around out here in the alley behind the stores instead of out in front where you can . . . er, yes, I see what you mean. How about the over-all picture, the general atmosphere?

A. Wonderful, wonderful. Good government, fine police and fire departments, the park system, the wide streets, the large lots, the . . .

Q. You plan to settle here permanently then?

A. Well, no. You see, I have some property south of town and Mount Prospect will let me build 10 houses instead of 8, and have narrow lots, and narrow streets, and narrow sidewalks, and two liquor licenses, and . . .

Q. Never mind, never mind. Thank you very much for your time.

A. That's quite all right, young man, but if you repeat any of these things, don't use my name. Just say that a, ha ha, little bird told you.

Slate Five Experts

DR. WESTBERG

Five widely-known authorities in the field of hospital chaplaincy are participating in the third annual institute for clergymen of the Chicago area, sponsored by the Department of Pastoral Care of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. The subject of the June 6-7 institute is "Pastoral Care in a New Age."

"The purpose of the annual institute, which features nationally known resource authorities, is to stimulate interest in and deepen understanding of people's emotional crises on the part of clergymen, thus better equipping them to cope with these crises as they occur," said Reverend Lawrence E. Holst, head of the hospital's chaplaincy training and servieces. "In this age, more and more is expected of the minister in terms of pastoral counseling."

THE FIVE major institute speakers include Dr. Frederic M. Norstad, Professor of Practical Theology at Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota, who set up the Department of Pastoral Care at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge and Lutheran Deaconess Hospital, Chicago. His subject is "The Goals and Limitations of Pastoral Counseling."

Dr. Norstad, whose areas of teaching are pastoral psychology and counseling as well as clinical training, has held a number of key posts in mental health and pastoral counseling associations.

OTHER institute speakers are Dr. Granger E. Westberg; Rev. Dayton G. VanDeusen, Rev. Daniel H. Sandstedt and Dr. William Hulme.

Dr. Westberg will lecture on "Grief as a Precipitator of Mental Illness." He is an associate professor of religion and health at the University of Chicago, working in the interrelationship of religion and medicine.

"The Pastor and the Mentally Depressed Patient" will be the subject of the discussion by Rev. Van Deusen. He is the first pastoral care research fellow at Lutheran General Hospital and former assistant secretary for chaplaincy services of the Welfare Division, National Lutheran Council.

Guest lecturer at McCormick Theological Seminary, University of Illinois Medical School and Northwestern University Medical School, Rev. Sandstedt is head of the chaplaincy department of Augustana Hospital, Chicago. His institute topic will be "The Parish Pastor in the Hospital."

DR. HULME will speak on "The Pastor as Marriage Counselor." He is professor of practical theology at Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa.

Alcoholism was the subject of the first two-day institute for Chicagoland clergymen, sponsored by the Department of Pastoral Care at Lutheran General Hospital.

The 1961 institute dealt with the emotional hazards of the ministry, and was attended by clergymen and their wives.

ONE DAY conferences for ministers, sponsored by the Pastoral Care Department, dealt with: (1) Ministering to the Dying Patient; (2) Ministering to the Surgical Patient; and (3) Ministering to the Depressed Patient.

In 1961, local ministers were provided a six-month course, with weekly meetings, on personal counseling.

Traffic Miscues

Blame Negligence as Cause of Accidents

State police report negligence as the cause of accidents and injuries on northwest suburban highways recently.

In a two-car smashup June 3 at 5:40 p.m., Edward McNally, 36, of 2349 Rascher, Chicago, disobeyed a traffic control signal while headed north on River Road, two miles north of Illinois 72.

When, according to police, he disobeyed the signal, his car crashed into one driven by Jean Jeffers, 7219 N. Wolcott, Chicago, which had the green light and was headed east.

A PASSENGER, Rosemary Jeffers, 34, was injured and taken to the Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge.

Damage to the first car was $250; to the second, $300.

McNally was charged with disobeying a traffic signal.

In a second accident, on Illinois 58 at U. S. 45, Alfred Gutzeit, 58, of 1720 Touhy, Chicago, stopped at a light facing east on 58.

His car was struck in the rear by a second vehicle driven by Milton Haffner, 64, of 7057 N. Ravenswood, Chicago.

INJURED WAS one passenger in the first car, Kathy Gutzeit, 55, and two in the other car, Bruce Kikinder, 8, and Jacqueline, 9. Not injured were both drivers, two passengers in the first car, Marie Wascher, 60, of Hot Springs, Ark., and Bertha Wanninger, 54; and two passengers in the second car, Jeanette, 47, and Virginia Haffner, 19. The injured were taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines.

Damages to the first car were $250; to the second, $300; Haffner was charged with having defective brakes and an expired driver's license. The accident occurred at 9:45 p.m. on May 30.

In a third accident, at 6:45 a.m. on May 31, on Illinois 58 at Illinois 62, Herman E. Field, 66, of 5726 N. Kenmore, Chicago made a left turn on to 58.

His car was struck by a second vehicle, driven by Felix G. Poitras, 35, of Melrose Park, which was headed northwest on Illinois 62. Field's car was pushed back and struck a third car, driven by Albert F. Dieter, 59, of 1314 Argyle, Chicago.

INJURED WERE Field, his wife, Ann, 54, and son, Philip, 16. They were taken to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

Damage to the first car was $500; to the second, $150, and to the third, $50.

Poitras was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

True Revolutionaries Are Americans: Gen.

CARTHAGE, ILL., (UPI) — The head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said here Monday that Americans, not the Soviets, are true revolutionaries.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, speaking at Carthage College commencement exercises here, said communism cannot justly claim "to excite the imagination of man or replace those driving forces of spirit and soul which have sparked all human progress on this planet."

"What is revolutionary about tyranny," he said.

LEMNITZER said the dangers that hang over the world will be overcome by the same forces that have driven men to freedom throughout history.

The dangers of today are not different than those that have burdened the world for centuries, he said.

He said that by the same token the Communist threat is akin to all the evils that have shocked the world since the beginning of time.

Lemnitzer, who became head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on Oct. 1, 1960, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

'The Black Sheep'

Arlington Resident Plans Opening of Plush Key Club

Walter Kellin, an Arlington Heights resident, is getting set to open his own million dollar entertainment and dining operation — The Black Sheep Club — and it represents fulfillment of an old ambition.

As Kellin says in his prospectus, after noting that he was manager of the internationally famous Gaslight Club for seven years:

"Of the original associates of Burton Browne, who founded the Gaslight Clubs, fourteen were reputed millionaires who wanted to become saloonkeepers. I was the saloonkeeper who wanted to become a millionaire."

THE NEW "gentleman's key club" is under construction in the Northbrook-Highland Park area, and is scheduled for opening around Aug. 1. A "construction party" is planned for members and stockholders on June 9 and 10, from 4 to 7 p.m. The club will be part of a national network of such clubs.

Kellin, of 105 Stratford, is past president of the Stonegate Homeowners Association, and has been active as a Little League coach in baseball and football. His intermediate team, the Mohawks, won the league championship in baseball last season.

KELLIN'S background in the restaurant and club business goes back many years, but he is known most recently as manager of the Gaslight Club in Chicago, where he played host to such personalities as Joe di Maggio, Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, Marilyn Monroe and many others.

The new club will contain a lavish Edward VII dining room, a French sidewalk cafe on the patio, a "Captain Nemo" room under the glass-bottomed swimming pool, and three other rooms:

The "Can-Can Room" with a Moulin Rouge atmosphere and featuring dancing and champagne brunches; the "Speakeasy" room in an authentic Roaring Twenties mode with a Dixieland band; and the "Black Sheep" room, featuring beautiful Black Sheep Girls and the nostalgic songs of yesteryear.

The new key club will be located on Skokie Boulevard just south of Lake-Cook Road.

Shrine Club to Dance Saturday

Members of the Northwest Shrine Club will entertain their ladies for dinner and an informal dance at the Lions Ballroom, 4306 W. North Ave., Chicago, this Saturday.

The club is comprised of about 700 members of Medinah Temple who reside on Chicago's northwest side and in northwest suburban communities. President William F. Abel of Chicago invites all shriners to attend. The affair will begin at 7 p.m. (B8

Mount Prospect Camp Fire Organization announces its newly-appointed committee for the year 1962-63. The following women were selected to serve: general chairman, Mrs. George Hansen; leaders association chairman, Mrs. Donald Jaacks; secretary, Miss Bertha Ehard; treasurer, Mrs. Arlo Robinson; Camp Fire Fund Drive, Donald Laflen; candy sale, Mrs. Dolores Lunardi; supplies, Mrs. Kay Schwarz, Mrs. Sally Hagen and Mrs. Shirley Sawyer; public relations, Mrs. Sally Hagen; publicity, Mrs. Marie Laflen.

Adult membership, Mrs. Eunice Granzin; group organization, Mrs. Evelyn O'Keefe; registrar, Mrs. Evelyn Brandeau; training courses, Mrs. Sue Beesley; music, Mrs. Norma Luce; handicraft, Mrs. Alice Landis; special events, Mrs. Betty Potter; community service, Mrs. Betty Ostrom; committee of awards, Miss Bertha Ehard.

LA WA NICK A WADIS Camp Fire Girls passed the rank of Wood Gatherer this spring. The group, composed of Jane Beesley, Nancy Bornhoeft, Susan Bornhoeft, Carol Knechtel, Penny Landis, Jacqueline Madigan, Patricia Olsta, Shelley Pierce, Linda Rogers and Diane Skafte, received 526 honor beads of many colors, each representing a different achievement.

Buttercup Blue Birds, led by Mrs. C. Stearns and Mrs. M. Garber, enjoyed a creative spring. The girls, Susan Barrett, Joanne Benhart, Karyn Erickson, Alida Garber, Connie Lessner, Marilyn Lewis, Bonnie Oehlerking, Jeanne Reder, Norma Jean Schultz, Kathleen Sime, Mary Stearns and Cathy Wooten, completed the following projects: eggs that were blown out, then painted with novelty faces and adorned with bonnets, plus a nest centerpiece were created for Easter; from milk cartons, the girls styled and decorated May baskets; each held a marigold plant and was presented to a neighbor or friend, specifically not a Blue Bird mother; finally, one-pound coffee cans that were decorated with macaroni designs and then sprayed with gold paint became attractive planters.

MOUNT Prospect Camp Fire girls held their Grand Council Fire May 20 at Lincoln School. The program was conducted by Mrs. Otto Timmerman, this year's district chairman.

Traditionally, the Council Fire began with a processional and entrance of the flags plus a special explanation of the Camp Fire Flag given by Kay Winkelmann. Highlighting the Blue Bird participation in the program was the "Fly-Up" ceremony, at which time 11 Blue Bird groups became Camp Fire girls.

The conferment of all four ranks of Camp Fire girls was followed by a song response for each. The rank of Torch Bearer was awarded by Mrs. R. Seidel to Diane Airey, Patty Bader, Mary Brereton, Linda Busse, Roberta Butz, Barbara Potter, Ellen Starck, Mary Sternberg, Kathy Willert and Kay Winkelmann.

SPECIAL national honor awards were presented to Camp Fire girls who through the past year earned national honor recognition for excellent work on their memory books in the following crafts as indicated: Trail Seeker, Pamela Carlson, Wendy Jaacks, Patti Perkins, Becky Wallies and Patricia Schramm; Wood Gatherer, Karen Brongeil, Kathleen Graham, Kris Granzin, Janet Haase, Laurie Nave, Marisa Nelson and Lynda Petersen; Torch Bearer, Linda Busse and Kay Winkelmann.

At the close of the program the TaWonKa Camp Fire group, who are guided by Mrs. W. H. Granzin and Mrs. G. Nave, enacted an Indian Ceremonial Dance which was followed by the Recessional and Camp Fire Good Night Song. (B9

Love Is Blind to Pining Farm Hand

NORMAL, ILL., (UPI)—A 34-year-old rural Weldon farm worker, carried away by a hankering to see his girl friend 90 miles away, was lodged in Normal City jail last Friday on a charge of operating a vehicle without a driver's license.

Authorities said Paul Winstead told them he started from Weldon to Streator late Thursday night. He was stopped by state police at Normal for driving without a tail light.

Winstead's employer and the owner of the vehicle, A. L. Brown, was expected to pick up his property—a tractor with a maximum speed of around 30 miles per hour. (B-3

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall CLearbrook 5-2936

New officers of the Arlington Acres Civic Association elected at the association's regular meeting last Friday evening are: president, Stan Merchant, 513 S. Forrest; vice president, Arvid Alvin, 513 S. Phelps; secretary, Lorraine Soderberg, 436 S. Phelps; treasurer, Beverly Brown, 432 S. Phelps.

A welcome to Arlington Acres is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ron Harmon and Beth Ann, 2005 E. Park, formerly of Newcastle, Pa. Mr. Harmon is with Liberty Mutual Insurance Company of Chicago.

CONGRATULATIONS and best wishes go to Mr. and Mrs. Stan Fletcher, 2024 E. Park, on their June 2 wedding anniversary. They They have a second reason to be in a celebrating mood, as their daughter, Carol, has just arrived home for the summer after the completion of her junior year at the University of Kentucky.

Belated congratulations on their ninth wedding anniversary go to Mr. and Mrs. Don Slusser, 516 S. Prindle. They had to forego plans to celebrate because they were both ill.

Another anniversary marked during the week was that of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bruce, 441 S. Gibbons, who were married 17 years June 1. They were honored last Sunday by a surprise visit from the Herbert Rother family of Milwaukee. They are friends of long standing and the two families spent an enjoyable day together.

Best wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Truelove, 532 S. Phelps, whose June 2 wedding anniversary was marked very quietly.

RECENT GUESTS of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Swaim, 512 S. Waterman, were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Segal of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Canada.

While the Segals were here, the Swaims, hosted a dinner party to celebrate daughter Shelly's second birthday May 30. Other guests in addition to their son, David, were the children's other grandparents, the senior Robert Swaims of Evanston.

Steven, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Butkus, 429 S. Phelps, was the birthday boy at a cake and ice cream party Friday evening to celebrate his fifth birthday.

Joining in to sing "Happy Birthday" were his sister, Susan, and uncle, aunt and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. James Pinney, Jay and Leslie, of Arlington Heights.

The tent pitched in the Soderberg yard, 436 S. Phelps, over the weekend housed Doug Soderberg and his friends, Jim Glynn and Dale Dassonville. The boys cooked their own breakfast in the open but did not report on whether they ate it. (A

With the closing of school, the Sam Leone family and their four children, George, Sam, Clarice and David, will pack up their belongings and move to their new home in Milwaukee. The Leones have been living in the former Myron Kuhlman home at 716 N. Beverly Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Bartolone returned Sunday from a 9-day vacation trip to Daytona Beach. The Bartolones drove to Florida and enjoyed sightseeing the areas surrounding Daytona. Their four youngsters, Stevie, Mike, Billie and Susan, stayed home at 408 N. Hickory and had a grand visit with Grandmother Mary Waldmueller, who came from Chicago to take care of them.

The members of Loretta Meindl's bridge club surprised her Tuesday evening with a shower. Neighbors Mrs. Dareby and Mrs. Cassidy were among the group who gathered at Joy Narquis' home for the party. Mrs. Meindl's sisters, Fran and Liz Clancy, came from Chicago to join the once-a-month bridge group at the party for their newest niece or nephew.

SANDRA VANA'S third birthday on June 10 was celebrated jointly last Sunday with her cousin Steve Nelson, who was 4. The youngsters had their party at the summer home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Nelson, Cedar Lake. Steve's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nelson and his brother, Ricky, along with Sandra's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vana and Sharon and Scott, celebrated with the birthday tots at an outdoor barbecue.

A large family gathering was present Sunday May 27 at Norine Farrell's graduation from Alverno College in Milwaukee. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Farrell, drove to school on Saturday to be present at the senior banquet given by the faculty in the school's dining room. They stayed overnight at the White Court and on Sunday were joined by Norine's grandparents, Mrs. Norine Farrell and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cassidy; and aunts and uncles Mr. and Mrs. John Lowery and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Farrell; and brothers and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Farrell of Elgin and Margaret and Michael. After the graduation exercises the Farrells held open house Sunday night at their home, 745 N. Hickory, for neighbors and relatives.

NORINE received her bachelor of science degree in education and will teach at St. James Catholic School in September.

Graduation honors are coming doubly for the Farrells this year. Tonight Margaret graduates from St. Patrick's Academy in Des Plaines and also will be toasted at a family party after the commencement exercises. Margaret plans to attend Marian College in Indianapolis in the fall.

An end-of-the-season gathering for members of the Elks Club bridge group was held Saturday night at the Officers Club in the Glenview Naval Air Station. Nina and Norman Hoym were among the group dining and dancing at the club.

Village to Retain Easement For Half-Block 'Parkway'

Mor's Parkway, the half-block long "street" running from the corner of Northwest Highway and Wing Street southeast to State Road, will be retained by the village of Arlington Heights as a thoroughfare.

The village board Monday night concurred in a recommendation of the plan commission to retain the easement on the property, and not vacate as had been requested by a realtor so the property could be included for sale with the remainder of the triangular parcel fronting Northwest Highway in front of the Sterling Oil Company station.

THE PLAN commission had decided the street was not necessary in the village traffic pattern, but a motion recommending vacation was narrowly defeated by a 5-4 vote.

Plan commission chairman Harold Carlson noted in his report to the village board that if the motion had been successful, it would have included the stipulation that the vacation would be effected only if it would not adversely affect the Sterling Oil property.

THE PLAN commission majority then cited the following reasons for retention of the street easement:

1. It provides metered parking spaces for shoppers.
2. It provides a much-needed turn around zone for commuter pick-up without necessitating traffic going out into Northwest Highway.
3. By retaining the street, the small triangular park remains unusable for commercial purposes which benefits the esthetic effect of the downtown area.
4. It makes possible the operation of the filling station without bringing all the traffic out into Northwest Highway, which would cause further congestion at this point because of the shortness of the block.

Trustee William Sauer said he believed the only valid reason among the four was the one noting that the area provided parking spaces, and that this benefit might be nebulous since only seven spaces are provided, and another lot on State Road is never filled.

Carlson, in attendance at the board meeting Monday night, said the commuter pick-up problem in that area is serious.

Sauer said that if the problem is serious, leaving it serious is no help.

A Realtor also brought out that a commuter turn-around street is available only a short distance farther north, and that retaining the easement prevents utilization of the remainder of the triangle, on which the owner must pay taxes.

AN EASEMENT to the whole triangle was granted the village back in 1923 for street purposes by the Chicago and North Western Railway. The village has only used the Mors Parkway portion, but the entire property has not been listed on the railroad tax list, and presumably no one has been paying taxes on it.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said the village would be entitled to compensation for vacation of the street and the remainder of the property, in case it ever took this step.

AN APPRAISAL of the Mors Parkway property by Smith-Pipenhagen Inc., of Des Plaines, made at the request of the village, indicated the fair evaluation of the easement would be $19,500.

The village board voted 4-1 to retain the easement, Sauer casting the negative vote. Trustees William Moore and Samuel Wit were absent, and Village President John G. Woods cast the necessary fourth "yes" vote. Voting in favor were Trustees Justin Nelson, Eugene Schlickman, and Norval Stephens. (A

Schools Seek Share Of Surplus Monies

Action to acquire its share of $90,000 in surplus Wheeling Township funds has been initiated by the Arlington Heights District 25 school board.

The funds were earmarked for elementary schools in the township by voters at the annual town meeting earlier this year, but there remained a question of the legality of the transfer.

The law states that township funds can be diverted to school purposes only if there has been no township levy for three years.

ALTHOUGH there has been no levy by the township's general fund, the road and bridge fund has levied taxes for the past several years. Ralph E. Clabaugh, District 25 superintendent, said the district's attorney has assured the school board that the transfer is legal.

Monday night at a special meeting of the District 25 Board of Education, Clabaugh reported that the board's attorney, William R. Engelhardt, advised seeking a declaratory judgment in court to acquire the money.

Engelhardt's advice was based upon a letter he received from Robert C. Buckley, Wheeling Township's attorney.

BUCKLEY TOLD Engelhardt that Fred Gieseke, a township school trustee, stated the trustees would not accept the funds without a court determination as to the validity of the transfer.

Buckley also noted that he had advised the township that a current, somewhat relevant case involving Northfield Township would not be determining as far as the Wheeling Township question.

Buckley advised Engelhardt that it appeared the wisest move would be for the school officials to meet the issue squarely and seek a court ruling as soon as possible, so the funds could be dispersed during the current fiscal year if such a move is valid.

The District 25 school board approved this course of action, and instructed Clabaugh to contact the superintendents of the other elementary school districts in the township to enlist their support.

IT WAS SUGGESTED that all the districts would share equally in the cost of the suit.

In other action, the District 25 school board set June 24 as the date for the board's annual dinner, which this year will be held in honor of Roger Burke, who retired from the school board this year. (A

Building Materials Sales Tax Upheld

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., (UPI)—Gov. Otto Kerner's administration won a victory Wednesday when the Illinois Supreme Court held that sales tax must be paid on building materials sold to contractors.

The opinion, which affirmed a lower court order vacating an injunction against collection of the tax, opened an avenue of revenue long sought by the state.

WHETHER the opinion would allow the state to get its hands on sufficient money quickly enough to avert what some officials have said is a pending cash crisis this year was not known.

The high court, in its opinion, said "the sales to the contractor are not for resale as tangible personal property but for his own use or consumption and the amount there of is includable in measuring the tax." The opinion was unanimous and written by Justice Ray I. Klingbeil.

CONTRACTORS have argued through the years that the materials they buy are not truly retail purchases and thus should not come under the tax.

Theodore J. Isaacs, revenue director, said prior to today that if the state won this case he was prepared to dispatch up to 100 field auditors to begin collecting the sales tax on building materials which has not been paid pending the outcome of the case.

Isaacs estimated that he could perhaps collect some $20 million by December.

Kerner, it has been believed, was awaiting this decision from the court for inclusion in his consideration of whether or not to call a special session of the legislature to help meet a projected deficit of $100 million in state funds caused by runaway aid spending.

THE SALES TAX case was taken on appeal to the high court by Material Service Corporation of Chicago. The Supreme Court tangled with this long-standing problem last summer.

Exchange Program Benefits Students

Prospect 'Grads' Cite Experiences

By HELENE BRISTOL

Attending school overseas can develop a variety of skills and understanding, a new insight in people-to-people contact around the world, and a broadened language and cultural background but a completely different viewpoint of the United States is the most unexpected result of overseas study.

So say two Prospect High graduates: one an American student just back from one-year "living and studying" experience in Switzerland and the other a student from East Pakistan living in Mount Prospect for a year.

"Seeing your own country from the outside is a new experience. It changed my opinions a great deal," says Tom Gewecke, 18. Gewecke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Gewecke, 507 Na-Wata, Mount Prospect, returned May 16 from Solothurn, Switzerland.

"My conception of America is totally different since I have been here," was the comment of Asad Khawaja, 18, of Lahore, East Pakistan.

IN PAKISTAN, the general opinion of the United States comes from a variety of sources such as books and movies, Asad said. "This leaves the opinion that American teenagers are wild and Americans in general are not very smart," he pointed out. The vast resourc- attributed to the natural wealth of the area, not American skill or knowledge, Asad stressed.

Tom noted it was a surprise to him as an American to have the United States considered "just another country" rather than something special or a world leader. "And some of the things that we take very calmly are a 'big deal' overseas," he pointed out. Among the "big deals" are the Berlin situation and the Hungarian uprising in 1956. In Europe the Hungarian revolt is still celebrated every year, he said, and noted most Europeans "are particularly mad about Hungary and still very upset that we did not intervene."

A HELPING HAND from Pakistan to Mount Prospect is given by Asad Khawaja of Lahore, East Pakistan, to Tom Gewecke of 507 Na-Wata, Mount Prospect. Asad is the American Field Service foreign-exchange student at Prospect High this year, while Tom spent the year as an exchange-student in Solothurn, Switzerland. The two youths will be fellow graduates tomorrow night, June 8, at the Prospect High commencement program. (B-8

During his year in Switzerland, Tom spent considerable time in weekend travel in an effort to see the country and have the experience of meeting continental people. He usually traveled alone, walking or hitch-hiking to his destination. He called the mountain sections "very beautiful" but noted he had difficulty many times in his travels in practicing German since almost everyone speaks English.

TOM COMMENTED on the contrast between the French-speaking and German-speaking sections of Switzerland. "In the French part of Switzerland, there is a large communist faction," he said, "but in the German part the people are fantastically anti-communist. They even have a special campaign each year to stress anti-communism and most of the stores do not even sell Red merchandise."

Living with the H. Probst family in Solothurn, near Bern, Tom found he had five "brothers and sisters"—three older children, one younger and a son, Hans, who also 18. The two boys attended the same schol, but were in different classes.

Although the high school there taught many subjects, Tom thought the studies were easier than at Prospect High. He emphasized there was "not so much homework" but tests were more difficult.

BOTH ASAD and Tom pointed out that schools in Switzerland and Pakistan place the responsibility for studying on the student, with very little day-to-day supervision on work accomplished. The final result comes at the end of a complete school attendance when state or university examinations are given.

In Switzerland, "the school did not force you to work and they hardly ever gave tests—maybe a test at the end of the year," Tom noted. In order to graduate from high school, students must pass a state examination at the end of their six years of secondary schooling, and those who do not study during the six years just do not pass the final examination. "There is a vey high drop out," he pointed out, "but if you pass the examination the college must accept you as a student—yearly grades do not matter."

In Pakistan, Asad explained the schooling for grades 11 and 12 was considered a junior level of college. Students enter this at 16, when they are considered to be responsible adults. A very difficult examination after grade 10 must be passed in order to enter the junior college, Asad noted.

THE EXAMINATION at the end of the two-year junior-college program is given by the state university and consists of 15 separate papers on various subjects, with each paper taking "about three hours" to complete, he stated. Last year, the examination was made even more difficult and only 25 per cent of the students passed.

During his stay in Mount Prospect, Asad has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Nels Anderson, 8 E. Berkshire. Asad praised the Anderson family, noting he has been treated as a member of the family. He has attended Prospect with Jim Anderson, 18, who also graduates tomorrow. Other family members include an older daughter, Carol, now attending college, and a younger son, Ronald.

During his American school experience, Asad has studied American history, English, speech, economics and world affairs. He has joined school activities, and has attended school dances and parties. An enthusiastic observer of school sporting events, Asad has been surprised at the great many rules and referees — noting that referees often set the winners of the games by their decisions here while in Pakistan sports are less regulated and playing skill alone is the basis for winning.

While social activities are different in Pakistan, Asad noted that old-time strict segregation of sexes is not common today among the youth. At the junior college or college level there are social functions to which girls are invited. There is a great emphasis on athletics and most students participate in sports, he said.

A MOSLEM, Asad found living in a non-Moslem country a "little difficult" but admitted laughingly that "I guess I am not a very strict religious man it would be hard for a strict Moslem, he added more seriously.

The major complaint Tom had about his stay overseas was the lack of activities. There are almost no school functions, no social functions and no sports, and with very little homework, this leaves little to do," he pointed out. Girls in Switzerland are much more "natural" and do not start wearing makeup until they are out of high school, he noted. While girls and boys have a very casual and friendly relationship, there is very little dating at the school level, according to Tom. Many boys spend their spare time in drinking beer — a habit they quickly give up when they get to the college level because of the demands of their studies, he said.

After a summer in Mount Prospect, Tom will leave home again. This fall he will enter Harvard where he intends to major in the study of physics.

ASAD LEFT Lahore last August in a group of 40 Pakistani students, 32 of them from East Pakistan which Asad calls more a "center of education" than the larger western section of the country. He will leave Mount Prospect in late June, taking a three-week tour of the eastern United States and leaving for Pakistan July 15.

On his return he will enter college where he will study political science, economics and law. He hopes for an eventual position in the government, possibly in foreign service. Competition is keen for such jobs, he pointed out, with more than 1,000 people who receive masters' degrees seeking a very limited number of positions each year. His interest in law stems from his father, now dead, who was a lawyer and, in Asad's words, the first man in his family to have a profession or such training since the family had lived for years as wealthy landowners.

Asad smilingly admits his family is waiting for his return. He has three brothers and three sisters, all married and considerably older. During his American visit, the youngest of Asad' sisters left Pakistan to live in England, leaving his mother, a widow, even more anxious for his return to Lahore.

THE MAJOR effect of Asad's visit here? "When I get back I will tell them what America is really like" he stresses.

The pair of youths are visible proof of the success of the American Field Service program which "exchanges" teenage students around the world. People-to-people contacts do work, as the continuing chain of exchange students at Prospect attests each year, school officials point out. (B8

Migrant Camps Need License to Operate

Growers must obtain a state license prior to operating a migrant labor camp, Dr. Franklin Yoder, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said last week.

Many have not applied for a license and the time is growing short for those who wish to avoid an economic loss in seasonal crops, Dr. Yoder warned.

THE NEW ILLINOIS Migrant Labor Camp law affects about 500 migrant labor camps in the state and applies to any person hiring six or more seasonal or temporary migrant workers who have living quarters of any kind on the premises, Dr. Yoder said. The camp must be licensed under the state law before the State Department of Labor will honor any request for migrant workers.

This year's basic requirements — safe drinking water supply and proper sewage disposal facilities — constitute the beginning of a progressive program of improvement in labor camp conditions, he added.

Applications for a license to operate or maintain a migrant labor camp must be made upon forms furnished by the Department of Public Health's Division of Sanitary Engineering, Yoder said. (A14

In Melrose Park

Special Section for Brides Now at Motel

The Country Club Motel, 8303 W. North Ave., Melrose Park, is prepared for June brides, according to owner Phil Green.

The 100-unit motel has a special bridal section, complete with custom-made furniture and picture-window views of spacious lawns.

A bottle of champagne goes to newlyweds along with a continental breakfast, included in the $15 fee. A special weekend honeymoon (three days) rate is $30, including the same features.

"I PUT IN A few honeymoon suites last fall," says Green. "But the demand was so great that I had to convert several more unis this year. They'll be finished this week."

Green suggests reservations for the bridal suites.

The three-year-old motel, located on North Ave. (Route 64) about one-mile west of Mannheim Road, has many other features, including a two-hole pitch and putt golf course.

There is an outdoor heated swimming pool, outdoor games and play areas for children.

Green operates a heliport with direct service to nearby airfields, including O'Hare International Airport.

FOR RACING fans, Maywood Park is at hand. There is also bowling, a bar and two restaurants.

A special sound-proof meeting room accommodates businessmen's conferences.

All rooms include television, air conditioning and wall-to-wall carpeting. Other nearby recreation facilities include a kiddieland for youngsters and an outdoor movie theatre. (A14

Seminar Set For Suburban Journalists

Larry Cameron Heads Photojournalism Panel

Photojournalism in the suburban press and problems of public welfare will be discussed at an editorial seminar for members of the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc.

Fifteen members of Paddock Publications' editorial staff will attend the seminar today (Thursday) at the Pearson Hotel, Chicago.

Dr. C. William Horrell of Southern Illinois University's department of printing and photography will address suburban newsmen on the subject, "Photojournalism and Its Importance to Today's Communication Needs."

LARRY CAMERON

CHAIRMAN OF the session will be Larry Cameron, chief photographer of Paddock Publications 14 suburban newspapers. He will preside over a panel of staff photographers who will lead discussion, following Dr. Horrell's address.

"Ignorance and Public Welfare" is the address to be delivered at a second seminar session by Raymond Hilliard, director, Cook County Department of Public Aid.

"As automation and changes in population patterns continue to develop, the public's need to be informed on the complex problem of public welfare increases," explained Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall, professor of journalism at Northwestern University, editorial consultant to the foundation, and seminar director.

"The responsibilities of the suburban press in keeping its readers fully informed on this vital question will be outlined by Mr. Hilliard."

Discussion following Hilliard's address will be led by State Rep. John W. Carroll, publisher of the Pickwick Newspapers, Park Ridge, and chairman of the Illinois Public Aid Advisory Committee.

Attending the editorial seminar will be representatives of member newspapers from Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Detroit, Birmingham, Mich.; Dayton and Columbus, O.; Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Los Angeles, and other cities.

THE SUBURBAN Press Foundation, Inc. is a national organization of suburban newspapers. One of its major functions is the development, through cooperative effort, of high editorial quality and readership service for its member newspapers.

President of the foundation is Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications, Inc. Executive director is Chester K. Hayes, 605 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights. (A-14

WANT ADS are for EVERYBODY

I'm one of those little people with big ears that grown ups are always talking about. I keep quiet and listen. That is how I learned about advertising. I know all about how my parents use Want Ads. Like the time they ran an ad to sell my outgrown playpen, bathinette and baby bed. Then they used the money to buy me a good used bike for my birthday. They saw it advertised in another Want Ad. When I see one of these ads that says "Want Ads Are For Everybody," I know what it means and I believe it.

'Ticondergo' Launched

He Turns His Dream into Floating Reality

by LEE SECHLER

"The real secret is to take your time," said Roy Groth. And he should know. He made a dream come true.

Groth, a route salesman for Wonder Bakery, has spent the last 10 months remaking a boat.

Last July he purchased a 16-foot Chris-Craft cabin cruiser and had it moved to his home at 121 Flagstaff Lane, Hoffman Estates. He began remaking the boat over to suit the design he worked out in his mind and on odd bits of paper.

Groth pulled a paper doily out from the hand full of papers he was holding and explained about the way in which he changed his dream to a floating reality.

NAMED the "Ticondergo," the sleek craft was launched in Chain-o-Lakes last week. The white hull is the only part of the craft he didn't change.

"I've wanted a boat since I stepped off a troop ship in 1945," he said, "and I've been working toward that dream for a long time."

From the first of August until the weather got bad, Groth worked on the boat on his patio in back of the house.

"I had to move it into the garage," he explained, "when the weather got bad because there was no prime coat on the hull."

Groth worked on the off-shore cruise during his days off and weekends to complete it for his vacation.

His effort paid off and the boat was launched for his enjoyment.

"I'm not an engineer, but I've always wanted to design my own boat," he said looking at the model he used before starting on the full-size boat.

THE model, he explained, was made from a kit. It, too, is a Chris-Craft of the same scale length of the boat in his garage.

Groth built the model without making any changes in the hull design. But the cabin and window design were changed.

"I moved the cabin forward one - and - one - half feet to compensate for the overhang of the 35 horsepower motor.

"Before I moved the cabin forward, the bow rode high in the water," he explained.

He purchased the boat and the motor, both of which have been in dry dock for the past two years, for $300. The hull, he said, was in good shape.

"I told my wife that I didn't think I would enjoy using the boat half as much as building it," the Hoffman Estates resident said.

To the original investment of $300 for the boat and motor and some other items that were included, Groth estimates he has spent about $400 more.

"My most costly items were fiberglass, sandpaper and brass screws. The entire cabin roof is fiberglassed and so is the hull."

THE FIBERGLASSING of the boat was delayed by the weather and the fact that the entire boat has to be dry and free of oil or other matter.

This meant that all the paint had to be removed by sandpaper and not by any easier means.

Groth never started working on the boat until after 9 a.m. and stopped at 10 p.m. because he was using power tools which might disturb his neighbors.

After 10 p.m. he put the parts together that could be joined by brass screws.

"I cannot thank my neighbors enough for their help in completing this project," he said. "They provided all kinds of assistance. For example, have you ever tried to turn over a 16-foot boat by yourself?"

He has been on vacation for the last two weeks. but expects a great number of inquires from the customers of his route about the boat.

He used cardboard mock-ups of the cabin sides and roof before cutting the actual parts from plywood. His main tools were a sabre saw, a table saw and a screw driver.

GROTH GOT his first dunking a week after the boat was launched. The launching, he reported, was delayed a day before it was put in the water.

"My wife wanted it blessed and we couldn't get a priest on the day we first decided to launch it."

His latest project, since the boat was launched, is to install a locker for his wife.

What did Mrs. Groth think about the project?

"She told the neighbors she was a boat widow because I spent so much time out here in the garage," Groth said with a smile. (B8

New Board Member Needed by Monday

Aiming for the "best person possible" to fill the recently-created vacancy on the Arlington-Prospect District 214 board of education, members are finding the solution harder than it sounds.

Several potential board members have been suggested. The board even has undertaken a personal interview with one candidate, who has received the "stamp of approval" of most board members.

Noting that the school board had an obligation to the public to seek out "the best," President John Haas suggested that interested appointees contact the high school. Haas emphasized all applicants would received a fair hearing and consideration by the school board.

PRELIMINARY conversations among board members indicate the school board would prefer to find a qualified candidate from the Wheeling area, if possible. Present board membership is divided, with two members from Arlington Heights, two from Mount Prospect, one from Elk Grove Village and one from Prospect Heights.

With the fourth high school of the district to be built adjacent to Wheeling, board members would like to find someone qualified who resides in that area.

Monday will be the "day of decison" in selecting the replacement for Kenneth Dougan, who resigned his board position after 11 years of service. Local board members must name a replacement within 30 days or this power resorts to the county school superintendent of schools. Monday is the last regular board meeting before the expiration of the 30-day period.

While Wheeling residency would be a "big plus," board members agree the personal qualifications of the candidate are the most important aspect. Interested potential residents are being asked to contact school board members or the high school.

SORRY....

Cardy's Restaurant, Tuesday, May 29th, featured a "Steak Party." We advertised that steaks would be served from 6 until 12 P.M.

Due to the response to our advertising, more people decided to try Cardy's than we had anticipated and we were therefore caught unprepared.

The Management at Cardy's would like, at this time, to apologize for running out of what we had advertised, as well as for the poor service, which was not the fault of the waitresses or Sylvia, who acted as hostess and bus boy; each having done a fine job; but it was entirely the fault of management for being caught napping. All we can do is apologize, and promise that it will not happen again.

Thank you.

Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

Friends and neighbors of Ellen Lee gathered to wish her well at her wedding Sunday to Rodney Boyette. Daughter of the William Lees, 1012 N. Ridge, she was honored at three showers before her wedding ... one by former neighbor, Mrs. Lucy Erickson, one by school friends and one by the girls at work.

After the church reception, the Lees entertained at a home buffet. Joining them were Ellen's grandparents, Mrs. Anna Lee and Mr. and Mrs. William Nebel of Chicago, and Rodney's aunt, uncle and the aunt's parents from North Carolina and Missouri.

Mrs. Lee has just a few days to recover from being mother of the bride until she becomes mother of the graduate. Kathy will graduate from junior high school on the same day that her cousin, Roy Prince, graduates in Wheeling, and a family celebration is planned. The Lees are also attending the graduation of Mrs. Lee's other nephew, Steve Musgrove in North Lake Village.

RIDGE PARK has graduates this week — high school, junior high, St. James and St. Peter's, and joining them proudly is 4-year-old Joey Lauer. Joey proudly was presented with his diploma from the Village Nursery School last Monday, applauded by his parents and two brothers. Joey is the son of the junior J. W. Lauers, 1020 N. Kennicott.

Birthday greetings go to two Kaspar Street children. Libby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Griffith, 625 N. Kaspar, recently celebrated her ninth birthday, and Bryon Finger, 715 N. Kaspar, was 5 last Monday. The Finger family celebrated Memorial Day with a trip to Crystal Lake to visit a family friend, Aubrey Brisco.

Congratulations and good wishes to to LeRoy Nelson, whose friends are wishing him well in his new career. Last Tuesday he was sworn in as an attorney by the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois in Springfield. Joining him there for the ceremony were Mrs. Nelson and their daughter, Karin, his parents and sister, the LeRoy Nelsons from Lincolnwood and Dorothy, and Mrs. Nelson's mother, Mrs. Stanley Johnson from Park Ridge.

At a neighborhood party last Saturday, the Nelsons welcomed the relatives to 935 N. Fernandez, and the H. Vetters, Marvin Buehlers, Norman Walls, Don Mohr, the John Raitts, Mrs. Jim Hedger and Ernest Dahl. Mr. Nelson is a recent graduate of John Marshall Law School.

ANY HOLIDAY plans the R. B. Kesseniches may have had were abruptly canceled, and the "contagious" sign went up over 1005 N. Illinois. First Danny had chicken pox, followed on succeeding days by Susan, Andy and Lori. The big question now is, "Will Susan be unspotted in time for her first-grade zoo trip on Thursday?"

"We caught lots of pan fish," reports Harry Phillipp, "but those big ones got away." Harry and Bud Carlson, both of Salem Avenue, and Harry's brother, Joe, spent last weekend in Wisconsin.

Stephen Schlickman, now 9, son of the Gene Schlickmans, 712 N. Fernandez, celebrated with his godfather, Dick Muraski, Margaret's brother from Rockford. Coming along for family dinner were Mrs. Muraski and Steve's cousins, Martha, Joey, Peter and Francis.

Two Ridge Park babies are home from the hospital. Danny, son of the J. M. Ronaynes, 1011 N. Kennicott, is recovering after surgery in Northwest Hospital. His grandparents were anxious to see him, so Danny, Noreen, Jimmy and their parents spent Memorial Day with Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Ronayne in Glen Ellyn.

AFTER SOME anxious moments, the new Winters baby is home again and doing well. George Hanbrook Winters will be christened Sunday at St. James. His godparents will be cousins, Imelda Hanbrook of Oak Park and Robert Fleming of Urbana.

Mary Winters, his sister, is a member of the graduating class at St. James. Her parents, the Jerome Winters, 1015 N. Princeton, report she got the highest mark in the entrance examination and has won a scholarship to Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

Marge Lineback's dessert bridge Thursday at 881 N. Patton was attended by Helen Rathsam, Lil Lurtz, Doris Walker, Lorraine Cummings, Joanne Heinz, Marilyn Fletcher, Pat Andre, Harriet Larkin, Marian Bayert, Norma Harlow and Addie Fischer. Memorial Day the Linebacks and their children visited grandparents, Mrs. Virgil Crowe and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lineback, of Gary, Ind.

Another Ridge Park bridge group wound up the year by lunching at the Spinning Wheel. Harriet Larkin, Fran Huff, Jean Kunberger, Peggy Harvell, Joyce Lewinski and Lil Lurtz were present. Although fellow club members, Lorraine Cummings and Helen Krilcic, were unable to attend, they sent their best wishes.

CONGRATULATIONS to Richard Sorensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Sorensen, 943 N. Kaspar, who graduates from St. Peter Lutheran School. Richard spent two days in Springfield last week with his class.

Jacquie Bliss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bliss, was 11 Saturday and entertained seven friends for luncheon to celebrate. Joining the treasure hunt were Barbie Schultheis, Kathie Waara, Susie Wood, Bonnie Halleck, Melinda Moss and former neighbor Linda Morrow who now lives in Winston Park. That evening the relatives gathered at 615 W. Vine. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Christ, from Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bliss and children, Donnie and Dustie, also from Chicago, were present.

Home from Knox College at Galesburg where he has completed his sophomore year is Bruce Law, son of the A. Charles Laws, 1021 N. Chicago.

For two Ridge Park families, what started out as happy visits nearly had disastrous endings. At the F. Deane Shumate home, 717 N. Salem, weekend guests were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Shumate, of Madison, and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dyer from Janesville and their families. Fourteen-month-old Anita Shumate had a folding chair collapse under her, and she plunged through the living room window, but escaped with only a few scratches.

MRS. J. H. NIELL and her children joined former Ridge Parker, Chris Vickery, in visiting another former resident, Mrs. Gene Eaton in Fox River Grove.

Mr. Niell spent several days this week in Detroit, returning home to 630 N. Salem Tuesday.

Memorial Day found a party going on at the Jack Bickfords. Gathering at 1009 N. Race to celebrate the holiday were the Bill Harris, Bud Wallace, and Jim Fleming families.

The Arthur Hughes family, 647 N. Kaspar, welcomed guests for Memorial Day. Joining Arthur, Betty and Dee Dee were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Linn of Park Ridge and daughter, Cheryl, and Mr. and Mrs. John Paven and children, Thea, Melissa and Jimmy. The Hughes' older daughter, Carolyn, is expected home from school next week.

Donnie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Holmes, 823 N. Salem, celebrated his second birthday by inviting 21 children under six years of age, along with 12 mothers and five cousins, to a picnic lunch May 25. Donnie's three aunts, Mrs. Barbara Ehrhart, Mrs. Judith Gembusis and Mrs. Nancy Polizzi, joined the celebration.

Five days later the Holmes entertained Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Gembutis and daughter, Kim, from Mount Prospect, and Mr. and Mrs. Les Hagen, of Chicago, at a Memorial Day party.

FOR JERRY Inselberger, 640 N. Salem, the prom was a treat, but for Jerry's family, too, it had a special significance. Jerry's father, Hank, was chairman of the decorating committee for the entire train which took party-goers to Nippersink, Wis., for an after-prom party, and he joined the group as a chaperone.

Jerry's family entertained Saturday for him, welcoming his godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Urban, of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Scherer of Morton Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alderton of Lake Villa and Mr. and Mrs. Vince Burns and Mr. and Mrs. John Schaffrath of Chicago at a buffet dinner. Jerry's grandmothers, Mrs. Vera Inselberger and Mrs. Katherine Trachsel, were also present.

A combination Memorial Day-birthday-nephew's birthday party found members of the Kiecka clan gathering at 821 N. Salem. Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Kieca honored their daughter, Karen, who turned 12 Monday, and were joined by aunts, uncles, 19 cousins and friends. Happy Birthday was also sung to Karen's two cousins, Neil Vogel of Chicago and Steven Vogel of Crystal Lake. To top it off, Karen's birthday also is the Kiecas' 13th wedding anniversary.

MARY ANN O'Brien combined Memorial Day with her 11th birthday party. Her guests at 820 N. Salem included Joanne and Karen Kiesa, Mary Ann Erd. Susie Forrester, Christine Loechl, Marilyn Patton, Mary Bohorfoush, and Mary Ann's sister, Joan.Michael the O'Brien's son, turns five this week.

Birthday congratulations also to John McNamara, son of the John McNamaras, 924 N. Kaspar, who was honored at a family celebration Sunday. John is now 12.

Moving vans are busy in Ridge Park. Mr. and Mrs. John Strong and Sally and Timmy have moved from 912 N. Salem to the Robert Stevens' house, 1007 W. Oakton. The Stevens, in turn, have left for Philadelphia. Moving into the Strongs' former home are Mr. and Mrs. Hal R. Eckstein and their son, Frank, who will soon be two. The Ecksteins came here from Manhattan Beach, Cal. Mr. Eckstein is an executive with the Edward H. Weiss advertising agency in Chicago.

JOINING A group who spent a recent weekend at the Wagon Wheel in Rockford were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kunberger, 926 N. Kennicott, and Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson Jr., 1001 N. Yale. Congratulations to the Anderson's son, John, who will graduate this week from Arlington High School.

Friends of the Andersons were sorry to learn of the unexpected death this week of Mrs. Anderson's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Boyle of Chicago.

The teachers of the Industrial Arts Department of Arlington and Prospect High School and their wives had a farewell dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Paulus in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Avon Reeves, 816 N. Kaspar. Mr. Paulus, who has spent 41 years in the teaching profession, is retiring in June.

Guests present were the Curtis Larsens, John Griffiths, Vernon Stahnkes, Charles Millers, William Laymons, Hal Hensons, Richard Ethertons, Joseph Wanners and the Robert Thompsons.

FROM SHERWOOD

Mrs. Herbert Conner, 1117 Burgoyne Road, was honored Thursday at a luncheon given by Mrs. John Auld and Mrs. Carl Palmer. Mr. Conner has left the area for Portland, Ore., and Mrs. Conner will be joining him at the close of the school term. The Conners have two children, Tim, finishing seventh grade, and Terry, finishing his freshman year at Ann Arbor.

The luncheon was held on the Palmer patio, 1023 Burgoyne for 31 guests.

Congratulations to Jim Auld, who graduates from South Junior High School this year.

Wendy Fellingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fellingham, 1145 N. Patton, has returned from Western Illinois University at Macomb. (A

Board Passes Plans Of Church Building

Approval of the plans for construction of a new church building in northwest Arlington Heights was given Monday night by the village board, in accordance with recommendations of the plan commission.

The new structure, the Christian Church of Arlington Heights, will be located in the block bounded by Thomas and Marion streets on the north and south, and by Mitchell and Chestnut on the west and east.

Included in the first phase of construction are two joined buildings on the northern portion of the property and a 56-car parking lot fronting on Mitchell. Projected construction includes two more buildings fronting on Chestnut.

THE BOARD, as recommended by the plan commission, authorized delay of paving of Chestnut, Marion and the south half-block of Mitchell until a later date.

The church will pave Thomas and the north half-block of Mitchell, which will serve the church parking lot, immediately.

It was stipulated, however, that the remainder of the surface improvements will be required before building permits are issued for the later construction phase.

The area is being improved as a planned development.

Hat-Making Demonstration For Dorcas Aid

St. Peter Lutheran Dorcas Aid will meet Tuesday, June 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Social Hall of the church. A hat-making demonstration will follow the regular business meeting and refreshments will be served by the June group.

Sunday, June 24, the Aid will sponsor a bake sale following the morning worship services. Bakery goods will be sold in the social hall at 111 W. Olive St.

North Cook 4-H Fair Slated for Randhurst

Randhurst Center, Rand Road and Illinois 83, has been selected as site for the three-day 1962 North Cook County 4-H Club Fair on Aug. 23, 24 and 25.

North Cook County 4-H Club officials said several offers had been extended the organization for use of grounds. Robert Hood, assistant to 4-H Club Center was selected as site for the fair because of provisions to be donated for essential services.

Because of the Randhurst Center's central location in North Cook County, Hood said this year's fair is expected to be one of the largest in the 15-year history of the event.

WHEN VISITORS tour the fair, they will find household and agricultural exhibits displayed under canopies around the perimeter of the buildings. The fair will be held a week after the grand opening of the largest area shopping center.

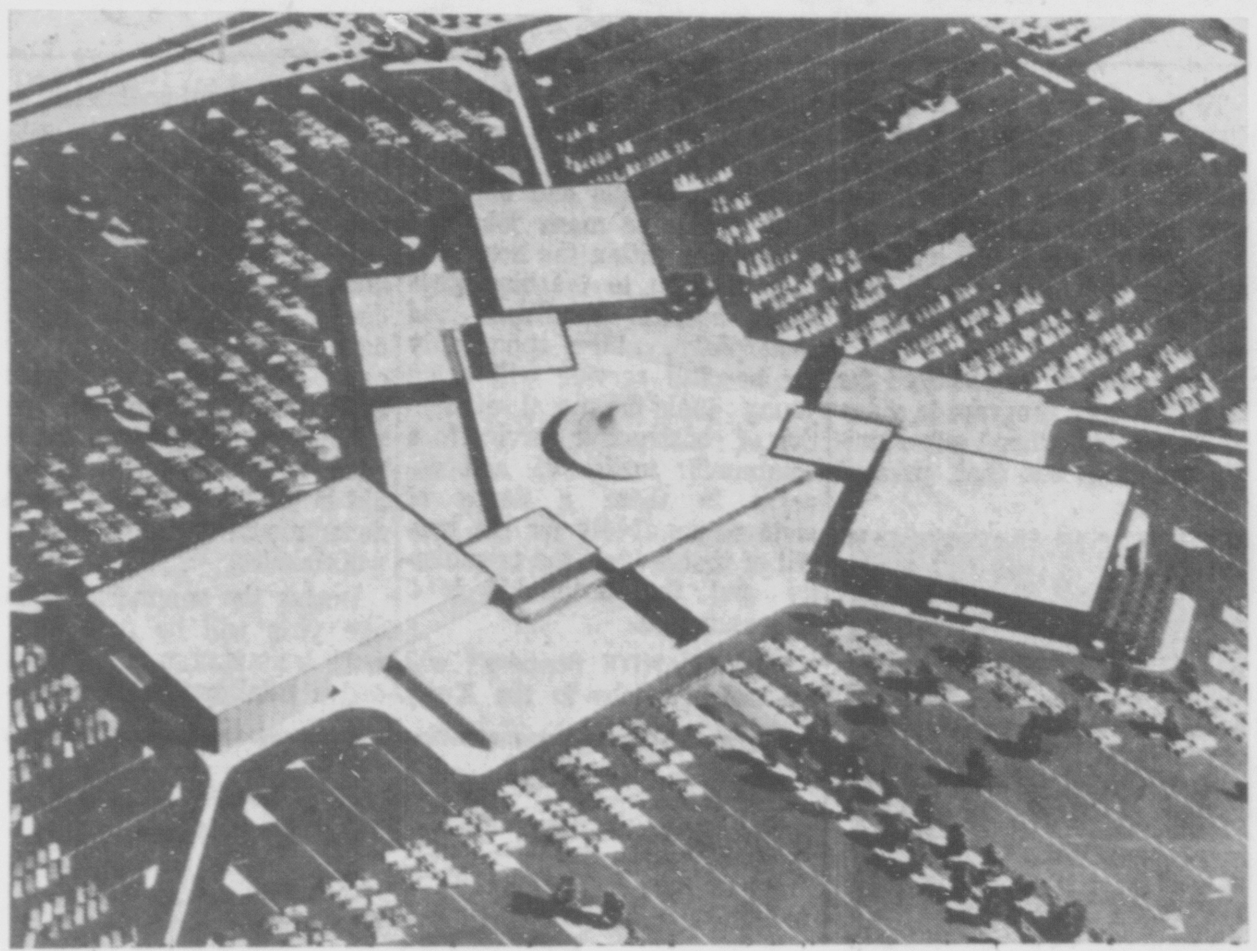
Hood said that popular reaction to the fair will be a factor in determining if the Randhurst Center is to be the permanent site for the Annual 4-H Club affair.

Finding a location for the fair had been a growing problem for Mees and Hood. Last year the fair with its more than 1,000 exhibits was held at the Lake County Fair Grounds at Grayslake, but was not so well attended as officials anticipate it should be if held in a more centralized location.

THE PREVIOUS 12 fairs were conducted at the Arlington Park race track, but development of a recreation program there and the extension of the racing season into September have prompted 4-H officials to seek another location.

Purpose of the 4-H organization, a national group, is to "Build Better Citizens." There are nearly two million 4-H members throughout the nation, with some 2,500 in the Cook County unit.

Motto of the 4-H is "Make the best better." This is accomplished by having the youngsters "learn by doing," Hood explained. The annual fair is a major event for 4-H Club members. (B-8



THIS SCALE MODEL of Randhurst Center, Rand Road and Illinois 83, shows vastness of area placed at disposal of North Cook County 4-H Club officials for the organization's 15th annual Fair. Exhibits and livestock will be displayed in canvass-covered area around the completely enclosed shopping center. (B8

Unemployment Falls Off in Chicagoland

CHICAGO, (UPI)—Unemployment in the six-county Chicago area fell during April to the lowest rate since October, 1960, the Illinois State Employment Service has announced.

The ratio of joblessness to the labor force fell to 4.2 per cent from 5.1 per cent during March.

Unemployment totaled 120,000, a drop of 27,000 from March and 52,000 less than the April, 1961, figure.

However, the service warned that unemployment could rise during the summer with the entry of 30,000 high school graduates into the labor market.

Wage and salaried employment in Cook, Lake, McHenry, Kane, DuPage and Will counties totaled 2,457,000 in mid-April, the service said. This represented an increase of 24,000 from March and 50 000 from April, 1961.

Baby Slumber Gadget

by ED LANDWEHR

Now you can get your baby to sleep electronically. A Minnesota physician has invented a transistorized device that induces sleep for infants up to a year or more of age. A small plastic case about three to four inches in diameter having no sharp edges, it operates many hundreds of hours from the power of a small battery. The device emits a steady, comforting hum similar to a mother coaxing an infant to sleep. It is proving unusually successful.

Maybe we'll stock this new idea at LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights because we can appreciate the idea. We have walked babies in the middle of the night. And we could even service this gadget if necessary. Don't we spend our time on more intricate electronics like TV and radio. Keep the phone number handy CLearbrook 5-0700. You'll like our service.

HOFFMAN ESTATES

The close of the school season found many troops having cookouts as their last get-together. Brownies in Troop 807 chose Deer Grove for their picnic Saturday, while 20 second-graders of Troop 861 met Friday at Mrs. Charles DePaul's home for a backyard meal. Mrs. Charles Knapp and Mrs. Jack Callison took their third-graders to Busse Woods for their wiener roast last week.

The weekend of May 26 was special for Troop 662, when they combined their first overnight at Camp Pine with their fly-up ceremony. The troop was accompanied by leaders Mrs. Marvin Morse, Mrs. Lorraine Klein and Mrs. Yvonne Bradtke. Friday evening the girls had a ceremony by the river with their candle-soap boats floating down the river to remind them of their promise and laws.

ROLLING MEADOWS

Brownie Scouts of Troop 17 and the committee mothers surprised their leader, Mrs. Emmett Anderson, with a birthday cake decorated in Girl Scout colors. Kool-Aid and songs went along with the cake. Mrs. Donald Foley, Mrs. Alfred Haske and Mrs. Guenther Lindholm, committee mothers, and Mrs. Donald Reynolds, coleader, were responsible for the treat.

Troop 666 participated in an outdoor program aided by four junior high scouts. Mrs. Ted Werling, neighborhood chairman, and mothers, Mrs. William Abraham, Mrs Timothy Byrne and Mrs. Eugene Ball assisted the leaders Mrs. H. J. Cress, Mrs. Alex Mitchell and Mrs. Al Estrella. The scouts made tablecloths for their mothers and presented them at a Mother-Daughter Tea held May 25. This group also participated in the Memorial Day parade.

NORTH PALATINE

The Brownies of Troop 368 have been in preparation to fly up to intermediate scouts. They made their own invitations, name tags, and programs. The affair was held in the Methodist Church and was combined with their second birthday.

Program included the posting of colors by Judy Brauer, Pamela Gale, Diane Stier and Candice Vogt; the singing of the National Anthem; and the girls removing their Brownie pins to be presented with their fly-up wings by the assistant leader, Mrs. Gale.

The center of attraction was a wooden bridge with water beneath. Each Brownie walked over this, to be met on the other side by her leader, Mrs. Thomas Bouffard. The 15 new scouts served their friends with cookies which they had made, and punch.

The table was decorated with a centerpiece of yellow flowers flanked by a Brownie and Intermediate doll. Guests received a souvenir doll which the girls had clothed, and each new scout received a brown felt Trefoil on which to keep her pins.

SOUTH MOUNT PROSPECT

Troop 543 sixth graders planted a ground-covering of myrtle on Prospect Avenue's median strip May 19. The troop went to Happy Hollow for an overnight May 4-6 where Leaders Mrs. E. Shaw and Miss Arlette Blake helped them work on the outdoor badge and an amateur hour was enjoyed around the campfire.

The troop will hold a Court of Awards from 6 to 9 o'clock tomorrow evening at Allison Woods. Parents will be guests and the girls will cook dinner out-of-doors. Every member of the troop will be awarded the outdoor badge.

Troop 597 fifth graders, led by Mrs. Robert Nordli, held a Court of Awards yesterday with mothers as guests. Badges were awarded and every member received second class rank. Six girls, completing second class requirements, taught their mothers a folk dance. Mrs. Milton Crandall, co-leader, will entertain the members at a backyard barbecue next Tuesday. Mrs. Emanuel J. Glyman, a coleader, has completed her comprehensive outdoor leader's training course.

TROOP 464, seventh graders, led by Mrs. Guy B. Courtney, held a Court of Awards last Friday at South Church. All members received first class badges. Parents were guests. Troop members presented skits and served refreshments.

Troop 142 fifth graders, led by Mrs. Jack Buyers, enjoyed an overnight at Camp Pine May 25 27, inclusive. Members went hiking, attended Sunday church services, presented skits around the campfire and held a Court of Awards at which all members received the Second Class Rank Badge and Painting and Drawing Badges.

Troop 179, sixth graders, went to Camp Pine for an overnight May 18. They were accompanied by Leaders Mrs. Clifford Stock, Mrs. Alan Schoerger and Mrs. Richard Andrews. The girls themselves planned and executed the outing, presenting skits around the campfire and working on rambler badge requirements for second class.

The troop will hold a Court of Awards tomorrow at Lions Park. Pamela Munn will receive the horsewoman's badge.

NORTH EAST ARLINGTON

Brownie Troop 110 had its Candlelight Fly-up Ceremony May 21 in St. John Church. They served their mothers homemade Girl Scout cupcakes and pink lemonade. Their centerpiece was the Girl Scout Trefoil with yellow roses commemorating the fiftieth year of Girl Scouting. This troop was going to Potowotami Woods for a cookout June 4.

SOUTH ARLINGTON

A Court of Awards was held for the 20 Scouts of Troop 102 the evening of May 21 at Pioneer Park. The program opened with a flag ceremony, after which all the parents who had helped out through the year were recognized and thanked with homemade candy and small planters of begonias.

The three leaders presented each girl with badges and stars she had earned. A movie was shown that had been taken of the Fiesta Party which the girls had given for a Browni Troop.

Troop 355 invited 24 members of Fly-Up Troop 521 to their International Friendship Party. Florence Berger, an exchange student from France, was guest of honor and speaker. Following refreshments, members of 355 taught the polka to their guests. A world globe and dolls dressed in scout and guide uniforms of different nations, made by troop 521, made up the centerpiece. Troop 189 ended their Scouting year by presenting a play for their families. This eighth grade troop awarded Curved Bar Rank to several girls and First Class Rank to six others. Refreshments, songs and dances concluded the program. Following the Memorial Day Parade, Mrs. W. Knorr served lunch to the girls in the troop who marched.

The final meeting of Troop 355 was a Court of Awards held May 28. Sixty-two proficiency badges were presented, along with Second Class Rank and fourth year membership stars. Retiring leader, Mrs. W. Hunter, was presented with a gift by the 19 troop members.

NORTH MOUNT PROSPECT

Saturday, June 2, Brownie Troop 370 had a Father and Daughter Cookout at Camp Pine. The girls were pinned by their fathers with their World Friendship Pins which they received for their correspondence with a Scout Pack in England. An afternoon of games, trail laying and following were enjoyed by all. (B9

Hospital to Enlist Help Of Teenage Girl Volunteers

Patients at Northwest Community Hospital will be seeing red stripes—not spots—before their eyes starting in July.

On July 2 the hospital will initiate a "Candy Striper" program for teenage girl volunteers. The youthful volunteers, attired in red-and-white striped pinafores, will give a real "red stripe" effect around the hospital.

Active recruiting and interviewing for the new program is underway. Mrs. Paul (Carole) Graesser, new director of volunteer services, stresses she hopes to place between 75 and 100 girls in volunteer jobs during the summer months.

LETTERS announcing the program have been sent to all high schools in the area served by the hospital. Initial response to the program has been "very good," Mrs. Graesser noted.

To be eligible as a "Candy Striper" girls must be between the ages of 14 and 18, in good health, of good character and with sufficient maturity to accept responsibility. All teen volunteers must have their parents' consent to participate in the program.

Mrs. Graesser emphasized the teen volunteer program is viewed as an educational opportunity, pointing out that present plans call for a special "Career Day" at the end of the summer. This will bring before the young volunteers details and explanations about the many jobs and professions within the hospitals.

In addition to teaching girls about hospital conditions and atmosphere, "the opportunity for hospital service will bring young eople the moral satisfaction of constructive service to a community institution and develop in them a sense of civic responsibility for the benefit of themselves, the community and the hospital," Mrs. Graesser said.

THE "CANDY Stripers" will be assigned jobs in the X-ray office, gift shop, pediatrics, cast clinic, medical library, snack bar, volunteer office, dietary department, distributing flowers and mail to patients, distributing between-meal "nourishments," operating elevators during visiting hours, reception desk, patient mobile "book cart" and aiding with patient recreation. Some of the young volunteers will work in the hospital admitting office or nay aid in taking patients to various departments or for discharge in wheelchairs.

During the summer, the teenage girls will be permitted to work a maximum of eight hours and a minimum of three hours each week. Next fall, the prog am will be evaluated and evening and weekend hours established for "Candy Stripers."

The first program for the youthful volunteers will be a uniform fitting session and orientation program on June 20. The volunteers will purchase their own pinafores. The pinafores will be worn with white bluoses and shoes.
blouses and shoes.

Formal initiation of the pro- Stripers" and their mothers on JJuly 2. The tea, given by the Women's Auxiliary of the hospital also will bring the girls into the auxiliary as honorary members.

THERE IS A NEED at the hospital for additional adult volunteers, Mrs. Graesser emphasized. While there were 178 members of the Women's Auxiliary on duty last month in some form of volunteer service, most of the present volunteers plan to take "time off" for at least a part of the summer. Women interested in volunteer service are being urged to contact Mrs. Graesser at the hospital, CL 9-1000.

Mrs. Graesser undertook her dutites as director of volunteer services on May 1. She has been an active leader in several volunteer groups, is a medical secretary and has managed medical offices. She exudes enthusiasm for her new position with such comments as "I can honestly say I have never worked in a place where the 'esprit de corps' is so high!"

In addition to the "Candy Stripe" program, Mrs. Graesser noted plans are underway for a general expansion of volunteer services in an effort to give patients the highest level of service possible.

The mother of two daughters—Corey Lynn, .17 months, and Lynda, 7 months—Mrs. Graesser and her husband live at 1522 Reynolds Drive, Winston Park, Palatine.

ADJUSTMENT OF THE new bright red-and-white stripe pinafore for the teen-volunteer "Candy Stripers" is made by Mrs. Paul Graesser, new director of volunteer services at Northwest Community Hospital. The hospital is initiating the "Candy Striper" program this summer for the first time to supplement the volunteer work done by adults. Modeling the new uniform is "Candy Striper" Jenny Johnson, while Mrs. John Allen, service area chairman of the Volunteer Service Department, watches the fitting project. The hospital hopes to have 100 active "Candy Stripers" when the program starts July 2. (B-8

High Court Bans O'Hare Suburb Cabs

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., (UPI)—The Illinois Supreme Court Wednesday upheld a ban on suburban taxi cabs at O'Hare International Airport.

Chicago banned the suburban cabs from seeking fares at the airport early this year after the city received complaints that the drivers were overcharging and were driving roundabout routes to increase the meter reading.

The Cook County Superior Court had upheld the city's right to make the ruling and the Supreme Court affirmed that decision.

Suburban drivers had charged the city had no right to stop them from seeking riders and contended many Chicago cab drivers are not familiar with the suburbs and not willing to take passengers there.

Stress Importance of Youth Fitness

Suburban Park Programs Told

(This is the first in a series of four articles on National Recreation Month, being held in June. This week's report concerns youth fitness.)

by MELDA LYNN

With Americans having more leisure time than ever before, it is appropriate that National Recreation Month have as its theme "New Horizons For Your Free Time." The National Recreation Association, a non-profit and non-political organization dedicated to serving the recreation needs of America is sponsoring and promoting the celebration.

To assure Americans of all ages that their recreation time can be of benefit to them and the community, various recreational agencies, such as park districts, YMCAs and other recreation centers, are constantly enlarging and improving their programs.

THE ASSOCIATION believes "it is important for Americans to have opportunities to learn the attitudes and skills that will enable them to benefit from their leisure."

The first week of National Recreation Month is celebrated as Youth Fitness Week; the second is Family Recreation Week; the third is Recreation-and-the-Arts Week and the fourth, Recreation-Through-Service Week.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower first called the nation's attention to the lack of fitness of our youth when he formed a special commission to carry out research into the subject and to activate centers to provide adequate programs of physical fitness for the whole nation.

SHORTLY BEFORE he had his first heart attack Eisenhower arranged for a National Conference on Physical Fitness of our youth. The conference had to be postponed because of his illness. However, the very fact that his illness did come at a time when he was stressing the importance of youth fitness, more emphasis was focused on the need for such a program.

"National policies will be no more than words if our people are not healthy in body, as well as of mind, putting dynamism and leadership into the carrying out of these major decisions. Our young people must be physically as well as mentally and spiritually prepared for American citizenship," Eisenhower said to those who attended the Youth Fitness Conference, June 16, 1956.

YOUTH FITNESS is stressed in many programs at the Northwest Suburban YMCA. Above, Don Marquart, Physical Education instructor, shows some of the members of a gym class how to use the parallel bars. The Y stresses youth fitness in gym classes through special exercises and through a well balanced over-all recreation program. (B-8

Since then, almost every magazine and newspaper has carried articles stressing physical fitness. Many have compared American with European youth, with ours not showing a very favorable record.

EXPERTS HAVE warned that our modern "soft" way of living with modern push-button conveniences is making us a nation of weaklings.

Programs to make this untrue are now being instigated in communities all over the nation.

President Kennedy took up where Eisenhower left off and has been an advocate of the physical fitness program in America. Charles B. "Bud" Wilkinson was named Special Consultant to the President on Youth Fitness in March, 1961. He is director of athletics at the University of Oklahoma. His job is to push a program of physical fitness for all youths.

He says many youths lack adequate muscular structure and that there are a great many American youths who are physically undeveloped.

Wilkinson, in making surveys comparing the physical fitness of young people in other countries with American youths has found that our youngsters do not rate at all favorably with our neighbors.

HE IS stressing the need for fitness programs in the schools and other recreational centers by presenting a definite program for youth fitness.

In the northwest suburbs, physical fitness programs are using fitness tests set up by the President's Council on Youth Fitness.

Most physical education programs in the school regardless of what the activity may be, are all actually designed to improve over-all physical fitness for both boys and girls.

At the Northwest Suburban YMCA, gym classes include basic programs such as tumbling and exercises, along with regular sports. The Y has at times used the Kraus-Weber tests and the Wilson tests to determine the endurance of the youths to determine what areas need strengthening.

SWIMMING, considered one of the best all-around forms of exercise, is endorsed by the Y as a major contribution to its physical fitness program.

The Mount Prospect Park District has set up a specific program and system of physical fitness for its 1962 summer program. The program will, through tests, attempt to measure and evaluate fitness of the youngsters.

Clifford Elliot, assistant superintendent and director of recreation, reports the program is in keeping with the President's recommendation that the community become aware of the importance of physical fitness.

AT EACH of the playgrounds within the Mount Prospect Park District, a male adult will conduct a daily session in physical fitness, consisting of exercises and tests suggested by the President's Council on Youth Fitness. The district, like other districts, has also stressed physical fitness throughout the year, not only through regular games, but through programs of ballet and gymnastics.

The Arlington Park District offers a physical conditioning program for boys 13 and older, concentrating on body building and accelerated physical conditioning. Classes in tumbling and trampoline for children are also included.

The Wheeling Park District has included ballet and tap for boys as well as girls, feeling that the lessons teach co-ordination which will help the boys become physically fit to participate in major sports.

MOST PARK districts as well as the Y are planning hikes, camping sessions, judo lessons and many other programs which are all designed to let the youngsters have fun while at the same time, painlessly becoming physically fit.

In this way, the youth of our community can join those throughout the nation as they find new horizons for their free time. (B8

DANCING LESSONS provide a way for young people to become co-ordinated, a necessary part of becoming physically fit. Most park districts in the area and the Northwest Suburban YMCA offers classes in ballet as a part of their over-all physical fitness and recreation programs. The above chorus recently took part in a dance recital as a finale to lessons sponsored by the Mount Prospect Park District during the past winter.

Rose Show Next Sunday

Kennedy Clan Is Growing

ST. LOUIS, (UPI) — The nation became the home of two more Kennedys last Friday.

At naturalization ceremonies in St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Ali Jack Kennedy, originally of Hungary, took the oath of citizenship.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, who came to the United States following the anti-Communist revolution in Hungary in 1956, decided that their old Hungarian names would cause too much trouble in their new life. So Alajos Janos Palfalvia became Ali Jack Kennedy and his wife, Ibolya, became Violet Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy, 41, is employed as an order clerk by a shoe company.

Police Persistent

20-Year-Old Charged With Murder of Baby

Persistent investigative work by three Arlington Heights police officers turned up information which materially contributed to securing a confession from a 20-year-old man who admitted he beat to death a 21-month-old baby in the Keyes Motel on Rand Road last weekend.

Ronald Busse, 20, who checked into the Keyes, 1000 N. Rand Road, last Friday morning with his wife, Darlene, 18, and the baby, has admitted to county police his guilt in the baby's death and is charged with first degree murder.

Busse told investigators he is from Seattle and was unemployed at the time of the alleged murder late last Saturday morning.

HE AT FIRST told police the death was accidental. He said that after checking into the motel, he and his wife fed Randy, the child, some milk and cookies. He said his wife then left to visit two sisters, Shirley and Betty Dobbi, of 1116 W. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights, leaving the baby in its crib.

Busse said he went into the bathroom, then heard a noise and a cry and discovered the baby lying on the floor.

He and the motel owner took the baby to the North Side Medical Center, 1430 N. State Road, Arlington Heights, where Dr. Raymond F. Grisson ordered it taken to Northwest Community Hospital.

Busse, Fireman Ray Starck of the inhalator squad and Arlington Heights police took the baby to the hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

COUNTY police were called, since the motel is outside the Arlington Heights village limits, and Arlington Heights police Sgt. Joseph Ostermann and Officers Louis Kohler and Francis Bischoffer went to the Hawthorne address to inform the mother of her son's death.

Although Mrs. Busse had already left, the officers caught a few remarks made by the sisters which indicated further investigation might prove advisable and questioned the sisters.

The sisters told police Busse was not the father of the child and had not adopted it since his marriage. They said Busse resented the child and had repeatedly urged Mrs. Busse to give it away.

THE OFFICERS turned this information over to Gene Ecker and Allen Taylor of the sheriff's police.

The next morning, Ecker and Taylor informed the police department that, acting on the information supplied by Ostermann, Kohler and Bischoffer, they had secured an eight-page confession from Busse in which he admitted he beat the baby about the body and groin, causing its death.

Chief of Police L. W. Calderwood has officially commended the three Arlington Heights officers for diligently investigating the death, even though it occurred outside the village limits, and turning up facts which helped result in Busse's confession. (B8

Almost Hourly Galas Honor June Brides and Graduates

It's "June is busting out all over" time again and for social purposes at least, the calendar should have twice 30 days this month to accommodate all that's been planned. June brides and June graduates are being feted almost hourly and a miscellany of other happy events further crowds the gala schedule.

The lure of pizza brought bride-elect Janet Rightmire to the scene of a surprise shower Sunday afternoon as 15 family friends and relatives wondered if the same bait would work twice. It did, and Miss Rightmire, daughter of the Mark Rightmires, 116 S. Walnut, was just as surprised Sunday as she was the first time, a month ago, when she accepted a pizza invitation that camouflaged a surprise party.

SUNDAY'S PARTY was given by a long-time family friend, Mrs. John Traikoff and her daughter, Mrs. Jon Kozokari, in the Traikoff home, 25 N. Kennicott. The honor guest was showered with linen and personal gifts, but no pizza.

The previous Sunday, the day after her birthday, Miss Rightmire visited her Aunt Louise, Mrs. George Lennartz in Chicago where she knew there'd be a birthday cake in her honor. She was not prepared, however, for the 20 relatives and family friends who hailed her entrance with the "Surprise!" shout, and showered her with miscellaneous gifts. Co-hostess was another aunt, Mrs. Mary Jensen, also of Chicago, who assisted with the serving of, among other things, birthday cake.

Miss Marci Beigel, who will serve the bride-elect as maid-of-honor, was the originator of the pizza fraud that lured Miss Rightmire to the first pre-nuptial party May 5. Six school friends awaited the honor guest in the Beigel home, 135 Golf Terrace, and showered her with personal gifts.

Miss Rightmire and G. Douglas Sorensen of Omaha will be married June 16 in St. John United Church of Christ, Arlington Heights. They will make their home in Omaha.

ANOTHER JUNE 16 bride-to-be who has also recently been feted at pre-nuptial parties is Miss Susan Layson, daughter of the Harry Laysons, 1109 N. Dunton. She, too, will be married in St. John United Church of Christ, within an hour of the Rightmire-Sorensen wedding.

A silver shower that was a "sterling" event in all respects Sunday climaxed the shower cycle for Miss Layson. Guests in the home of Mrs. James Hendricks, 1506 E. Fremont, were 10 long-time friends and neighbors of the Layson family, and the honor guest's bridesmaid, Miss Susan Keller. Unable to be here for the shower but sending her party greetings long distance was Miss Layson's grandmother, Mrs. Don Dietrick of Lafayette, Ind.

The Laysons have recently received good news from a VIP in the wedding party, the bride's brother, Jeff. He'll arrive here June 14 from his newly-assigned post at Ft. Riley, and his 4-day pass has been newly and miraculously stretched to eight days.

The groom, Michael Koenig of Palatine, will arrive here Saturday from Colorado where he is studying at the University of Denver.

TWO SURPRISE pre-nuptial parties within three days launched the social whirl for bride-elect Miss Judith Vandy, daughter of the Chester Vandys, 1208 E. Fremont. Friday evening 22 former collegemates and local friends awaited her in the Mount Prospect home of her bridesmaid, Miss Joan Johnson, to shower her with miscellaneous gifts.

Among the guests and adding to the happy surprise were nine Marquette University sorority sisters who came from Milwaukee for the gala occasion. Since attending the university, Miss Vandy has been teaching a third grade class in St. James Catholic School.

The bride-to-be was still marveling at Friday's surprising turn of events Sunday afternoon when she arrived for a little supper visit with Mrs. Wilbert Grandt, aunt of her fiance, Wayne Rolfs. And she dreamily walked into the midst of 60 local people who waited at 210 S. Vail to give bridal events another surprise turn. Friends, neighbors and relatives of the Vandys and the Rolfses showered her with miscellaneous gifts after the shock wore off.

Miss Vandy and Mr. Rolfs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Rolfs, 204 N. Belmont, will be married June 30 in St. James Catholic Church of Arlington Heights.

MISS MARYBETH Thomson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thomson, 1017 N. Vail, who will be married Sunday, was feted last month by 10 co-workers at a gala supper shower in the Maitre d' restaurant in Elk Grove. She was presented with a group gift and a shower of recipes guaranteed to keep a husband happy.

Miss Thomson will be married Sunday afternoon in First Prebyterian Church of Arlington Heights to Grant Prather, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Prather, 738 S. Highland.

A GARDEN PARTY Friday evening at the Carl Behrens home, 525 W. Kirchoff, gave 75 eighth grade friends of Jennifer Behrens and Betty Ball a chance to celebrate early, and hopefully, their upcoming junior high school graduation.

Invitations sent by Mr. and Mrs. Behrens and the William Balls, 454 Banbury, included rain checks for Sunday evening "just in case," but the coke-tail-supper party went off as per original plan. The evening lacked nothing but a guarantee that final exams would be as easy to take as the pre-graduation party.

Recent Sunday guests in the Behrens home were long-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald B. Moore of Port au Prince, Haiti, who enjoyed a 2-week visit with relatives in Wilmette.

Among eighth graders graduating Sunday from St. James Catholic School was James Hawley, son of the Richard Hawleys, 721 N. Highland. Guests at a graduation party later in the Hawley home were friends and relatives from Niles, Chicago and Arlington Heights, and James' godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burns with their family, of Edison Park.

MARK AND TIM Knight, sons of the William Knights, 735 N. Dunton, shared family congratulations over the weekend as Tim was graduated Saturday from Loyola Academy in Chicago and Mark from St. James School Sunday.

Fifty area relatives issued double congratulations Sunday at a party in the Joe Muran home, 1319 N. Dunton, following the graduation from St. James School of the Murans' son, Don, and their nephew, Earl Weidner, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Weidner, 1411 N. Dunton.

The St. James graduation service occasioned a family celebration Sunday in the Louis Conti home, 648 N. Dunton, marking the event for their son Bruce.

Dick Larson, son of the Edwin Larsons, 733 S. Highland, was among local junior high schoolers celebrating graduation day early to avoid the upcoming rush of parties. He recently hosted 17 fellow eighth grade hopefuls at an evening party in his home where a scavenger hunt, dancing in the driveway and refreshments that carried out South Junior High School colors combined to make a perfect party.

"Roll -'em -up" sandwiches tied with red ribbons made delicious diplomas and everyone wished the real thing would be handed to them on a platter, too. The evening was so inspiring however, that Dick and all his guests now look forward to final exams with joy, almost.

THE MAYTIME weather pattern of heat wave-cold spell temporarily confounded neighborhood hosts of a May 26 farewell fling for the Thomas Boyles, 1042 S. Dunton, and the Jack Larsons, 1016 S. Dunton. Final plans for an outdoor, co-op block party were made during 90-degree temperatures, then the wind suddenly shifted and so did the party, to the William Patterson basement.

Only temporary turmoil resulted and toasts to the departing couples, a late buffet supper and twist instructions merged handily and happily indoors.

Memorial Day a second, but probably not final, farewell resulted when the John Dralles, 1037 S. Dunton, entertained Berwyn friends with a backyard holiday barbecue. Another guest was Mrs. Timothy Murphy of New York, mother of Mrs. Boyle, who is staying at her daughter's home until the moving is accomplished. When a few more neighbors joined the Dralle doings the holiday gathering evolved into another goodbye session.

THE BOYLES, native New Yorkers, will return to the East on a still undetermined date this summer, and the Larson family will exchange local addresses next month.

May 24 the Dralles' son, Joseph, was 4 years old and entertained the 2-to-4-year-old socialites of the neighborhood with a patio party at his home. Ten young friends enjoyed games and birthday refreshments while Joseph received various juvenile pronunciations of "Happy Birthday" from his guests.

Among 13 local couples recently enjoying a weekend together at the Wagon Wheel lodge in Rockton were the Leland McKays, Bernard Clarks, "Bud" Bogans, James McInneses, Robert Martins, Victor Beislers, William Stockdales and Bill Busches. Ridge Park couples completed the party which "officially" climaxed a season of regular get-togethers for bridge.

MR. AND MRS. William Luehring, 220 N. Dwyer, returned Sunday from a 5-day, 1500-mile motor trip through Missouri and the Lake of the Ozarks region. Many reunions with relatives and old friends along the way added to the pleasure of their scenic tour.

At the same time Mrs. Luehring's mother, Mrs. George Ladd, enjoyed a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Lee Geary of Mundelein. She returned Sunday with greetings from Mrs. Geary to old friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Bartulis, 31 N. Reuter, were hosts Sunday evening at a dinner party for six local and Park Ridge friends, Mr. and Mrs. George Lurtz of Arlington Heights, and the Roy Eberlings and Chris Tarants of Park Ridge. Movies of the recent vacation to Mexico of the host couple and of the Eberlings' trip to Hawaii, with appropriate musical background for each travelogue, entertained the group.

MR. AND MRS. Carl Luettschwager, 317 S. Evergreen, weekended in Wisconsin to join a wedding anniversary-birthday celebration in the home of Mrs. Luettschwager's parents, long-time Arlington Heighters, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schubert. Completing the family circle was the Schuberts' son, Harold, with his family of Lombard. The occasion marked the 42nd wedding anniversary of the senior Schuberts and the "groom's" birthday, both on June 2.

A week ago Sunday the William Andres family was part of a reunion in Chicago that brought together 250 aunts, uncles and cousins, brothers, sisters and grandparents.

At the reunion Mr. and Mrs. Andres talked about the quiet family party that will tonight mark their 21st wedding anniversary, and now the little celebration tonight at 1145 N. Belmont will be augmented by a not-so-little party Saturday night in the Chicago home of Mr. Andres' brother, James, and his wife. Several, though of course not all, of the "reunioners" are planning to join the party.

LAST SATURDAW night Arlington High School Science Instructor George Barrett anticipated a dinner out occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Andres to celebrate the anniversary and Barrett's June 1 birthday. The Andres had other plans: a surprise party for him in their home with 25 of Barrett's fellow faculty members of Arlington and Prospect High Schools. The surprise was so complete for the honor guest that he spent most of the evening muttering, "I don't believe it." After a buffet supper he was showered with gifts, some useful only for laugh-provoking. Among the gag gifts for the science teacher was a toy science kit.

Mrs. Douglas Johnson, 104 E. Hawthorne, was guest of honor recently at a baby shower given by Mrs. Jere Rood, 706 N. State. Ten neighborhood friends extended congratulations and gifts for the new little Johnson who is expected next month.

THE JOHN Kramers, 919 S. Evergreen, enjoyed a pre-holiday weekend in Midland, Mich. with former Arlington Heighters, the Lewis Corbins. They returned a week ago Monday with greetings from the Corbins to their friends here.

Also on the road to Michigan the same weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bloss, 1109 W. Miner bound for the home of cousins in Paw Paw. Among the weekend activities was the maiden voyage of a new cabin cruiser.

Jerome Carroll and his son, Steve, 646 S. Vail, and Grandpa Carroll of Humboldt, Kan. are home again after a 10-day annual fishing trip to Upsala, Ontario, Canada. They enthusiastically report that there's a heckuva lot less wall-eyes and muskies in Upsala waters now than there were when they got there; fishing was the best in years. The senior Mrs. Carroll visited here with her daughter-in-law while the anglers angled.

MR. AND MRS. Charles E. Skinner, 721 S. Beverly, returned to Arlington Heights last Thursday after an absence of two months during which they attended a series of conventions and vacationed. While away they visited Mr. Skinner's sister, Mrs. Nina Price in Jackson, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Norman, 604 S. Dryden, were in Minneapolis last week for the funeral of the latter's nephew, James Kirkeside. From Minneapolis, they went to St. Peter, Minn., to bring home their daughter, Judy, a freshman at Gustavus Adolphus College. Their son, Stanley, will arrive home June 20 from the University of South Dakota medical school, and will spend the summer working in the research laboratory of the hospital at the Great Lakes Naval station.

Jim Peery, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Peery, 504 S. Beverly, graduated with distinction from Purdue University Sunday. He and Mrs. Peery and their two young sons left the Purdue Campus Tuesday for Wilmington, Del., where they will live. Mr. Peery plans to spend the summer working for Du Pont Co., and in the fall, will enter Princeton University to study for his Masters and Doctors degree.

MR. AND MRS. Donald Strathearn, 720 Bristol, will give a dinner party Sunday in honor of the graduating members of the family. Their daughter, Julie, graduates from Arlington High School and will enter DePauw in the fall, and their son, Don III, graduated from South Junior High School this week.

Among the guests will be Mrs. Strathearn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown of Brookfield, Wis., and her brother and family, the Howard Browns and Gregory and Cynthia, Mr. Strathearn's mother, Mrs. Harry Pearce of Milwaukee, and friends from Glenview, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Boldt.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Tremberth, 300 E. Rockwell, and their sons, Steve and Scott, spent the weekend in Green Lake, Wis., and then brought home their daughter, Shari, a freshman at Ripon College.

This weekend, the Tremberths will have as their houseguest, their nephew, Peter Tremberth of Cresskill, N. J., who is stationed at Great Lakes Naval Station.

Lt. and Mrs. A. Q. Cooke and their daughter, Victoria, arrived here Sunday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Jones, 315 E. Park. Lt. Cooke, who had been stationed in North Dakota at the Minot Air Force Base, has been transferred to the Chambery Air Force Base in France and will leave in July. Mrs. Cooke will join her husband later in the summer and will remain in France during his 3-year assignment.

The Joneses' son, Tom, arrives home Thursday from Ohio State University.

MR. AND MRS. Peter Jungbluth of Fort Madison, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson of Letts, Iowa, will arrive in Arlington Heights early this week to attend the graduation of their granddaughter, Linda, from Arlington High School. Linda, daughter of the Kenneth Jungbluths, 346 S. Burton, plans to enter Monmouth College in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. David Heuer, 102 S. Brighton, had as their houseguest for the past week, Rev. Andrea de Villiers of Durban, South Africa. Rev. de Villiers, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church of the Union of South Africa, is currently in the United States on a lecture tour.

Mrs. W. A. Miles, is home after spending three weeks in Arlington, Va.

MRS. JOHN DEVINE of Saginaw, Mich. will arrive in Arlington Heights Thursday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Arnice Basil, 427 S. Windsor, and to attend the graduation of her godson, Jim Basil, from Prospect High School. Also coming for the graduation are Mrs. Basil's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Peterson of Collingswood, N. J.

Miss Pam Nagle came home last Thursday from Culver Stockton college and will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nagle, 321 S. Stratford.

Sunday, Miss Nagle was maid of honor at the wedding of her friend and classmate, Miss Ellen Lee of Arlington Heights, to Rodney Boyette of North Carolina in Faith Lutheran Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Koenig, 1312 Woodford, attended a picnic Saturday in Lake Zurich with about 200 members of the George F. Brown and Co., Inc.

MISS GEORGIANNE Wesler, arrived home over the weekend from Williams Woods College and has begun training for Nurse's Aid duties at Northwest Community Hospital. Georgianne is the daughter of the George B. Weslers, 322 S. Derbyshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson, 304 S. Wilshire, have just bid goodbye to their daughter and son-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Ronald Prater, who, with their children, Ricky and Beth, have returned to their home in Albuquerque after a 3-week visit here. The Wilsons will welcome home their son, Edward, who will arrive Saturday after graduating from the State University of Iowa this week. June 25 Edward will leave for Newport, R. I., to attend Navy Officers Candidate School, after which he will be commissioned an Ensign.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Olsen, 1116 E. Northwest Hwy., celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary June 5. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Allendorph at a dinner at the Black Steer Restaurant, given in their honor, after which they spent the evening at Mister Kellys in Chicago. Joining the party were friends from Mount Prospect, Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson.

MR. AND MRS. George W. Rose, 1300 Mayfair, and daughter, Susan, are home from a 3-week motor trip to the West Coast. They first drove to Tucson to visit their middle daughter, Marilyn, a student at the University of Arizona, and then went to California, where Mr. Rose attended a convention in Los Angeles, and visited friends in the San Francisco area, including a 5-day visit with Mr. Rose's sister, Miss Dorothy Rose of San Bernandino.

From California, the Roses went to Denver, where their eldest daughter, Jean, attends graduate schools, bringing her back home with them. After a brief stay here, Jean went on to New York City to attend a 5-day National Conference of Social Workers.

This past weekend Mr. and Mrs. Rose went to Indianapolis, to visit their sister-in-law, Mrs. James Rose, and to attend a college graduation program. Their hostess, who has two sons, David and James, both of whom graduated from separate colleges Sunday evening, was only able to attend one, so the Roses represented the family of David at Wabash College while she attended James' graduation from Hanover College.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Todd, 103 S. Brighton, attended the Metropolitan Opear performance of "Tosca" last Wednesday. Joining the Todds were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Daniels of Wilmette and Robert Moody of Palatine. Before the performance, the Todds and their friends enjoyed a picnic supper on the breakwater at McCormick Place. (A

A message from George Harris
Your Prescription Pharmacist

FATHER'S DAY IS ON JUNE 17th.
Fathers are easily spotted in our pharmacy. We can see the love in their eyes when they purchase perfume for their beloved wives. We notice their pride when they secure their son's first shaving equipment. And we observe the serious consideration they give when getting anything for the children.

IF ONE OF THE FAMILY IS SICK —
Fathers can never hide their deep concern, particularly when waiting impatiently for us to compound a prescription. Nothing is more important to them than their loved ones' health and happiness.

DAD — IS REALLY A WONDERFUL GUY.
We are proud we are given the opportunity to serve him so often. He is the symbol of the community life which has made our country a happy place to live in.

WE SALUTE ALL FATHERS.
May every one of you enjoy many more Father's Days in the years to come. Depend on us for any service or courtesy we can perform for we appreciate you greatly.

THE FLAMELESS ELECTRIC KITCHEN

WHEN YOU MODERNIZE YOUR KITCHEN, REMEMBER...

A flameless electric kitchen won't go out of date

The lady above demonstrates the amazing flexibility of a flameless electric kitchen. Because there are no fuel pipes to get in the way, she can have her automatic electric dryer wherever she wants it. There are no vents to install, no pilot to burn. So the entire laundry unit can fit into a small area behind attractive sliding doors.

Of course, the electric range is the heart of every flameless electric kitchen. With it, you can cook your meals without overheating your kitchen (or yourself). The oven is insulated on all six sides, not just five. Hardly any heat escapes. The surface units transfer heat directly into pans and into foods—not into your kitchen.

And because electric ranges burn no fuel, no dirt is created. Your kitchen (and everything in it) stays clean twice as long.

Before you spend a penny on kitchen remodeling, get a professionally-prepared plan based on your specific needs and budget. An experienced kitchen specialist can show you how imaginative planning can save you steps and eliminate unnecessary bending and reaching. He can also help you work out color schemes and lighting effects and help solve storage problems.

For the names and addresses of kitchen modernization specialists in your area, call your nearest Public Service Company office.

Arlington High Graduation Scheduled Tonight for 446

Arlington High School will graduate 446 seniors tonight at the school's fifty-third annual commencement in the boys' gym at 8:15 p.m.

Heading the list of graduates are six Valedictorians, each of whom maintained a straight "A" average for four years. They are Robert Bohac, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bohac, 2209 Heron Court, Rolling Meadows; Judy Erwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Erwin, 908 Campbell, Arlington Heights;

James Hosek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hosek, 804 W. Elm, Arlington Heights; Nancy Kruk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kruk, 1010 N. Mitchell, Arlington Heights; Sharon Slater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Slater, 44 S. Salem, Arlington Heights; and Eric Vittinghoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Vittinghoff, 623 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights.

CLASS Salutorian is Steven Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Olson, 1219 Watling Road, Arlington Heights.

Besides the presentation of diplomas, tonight's program will feature music by the Senior Choir, and addresses by the three class speakers, Susan Allison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Allison, 515 S. Gibbons, Arlington Heights;

Dick Daeschner, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Daeschner, 310 Mayfair, Arlington Heights; and Linda Krueger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krueger, 735 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

The school will also honor three retiring teachers at tonight's commencement program. They are athletic director H. W. Grace, industrial arts instructor Edward J. Paulus, and counselor M. Ethel Riordan.

Superintendent H. L. Slichenmyer will present the class and President John Haas will accept the class on behalf of the Board of Education.

THE SENIORS heard Reverend Robert S. McDonald of St. John United Church of Christ, Arlington Heights, speak on "Freedom and a Piece of String" at the annual Baccalaureate services Sunday night.

Invocation and benediction for the baccalaureate program were given by Rev. Harry L. Evans, Evangelical Free Church, Arlington Heights. The commencement invocation was given by Rev. Raymond Morrison of St. Colette Roman Catholic Church, Rolling Meadows.

Diplomas will be presented by Haas and Mrs. Eugenia Chapman, board of education secretary. The graduates names will be announced by Arlington Principal E. Eugene Oliver and Assistant Principal Bruno W. Waara.

Prospect To Graduate 495 in Second Class

The second graduating class of Prospect High will march to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" into the massive school field house and toward their diplomas this Friday at 8:15 p.m.

The 495 graduates will listen to a variety of music and speeches before the cherished graduation certificates are presented to them.

Three girls of the 1962 class have been chosen as class speakers—Cheryl Ann Maxwell, Sharon Young and Rebecca Welch. They will be introduced by class president Newell Krogmann.

The three youthful speakers will set the theme for the graduation program. Miss Maxwell will speak on the value of a high school education: Miss Young will talk on the results of enthusiasm, and Miss Welch will discuss the need for patience.

The invocation for the program will be given by the Rev. R. Norman Herbert, Community Presbyterian Church, Mount Prospect.

The 75-voice Prospect Choir will sing "Roots and Leaves" by Williams and "Processional Hymn" by Work. The choir will be under the direction of Sterling Mische.

FORMAL presentation of the Prospect 1962 class will be made by Harold L. Slichenmyer, superintendent of Arlington-Prospect High School District 214. The response will be made by John A. Haas, president of the District 214 Board of Education.

While Prin. Alvin L. Kulieke and Asst. Prin. Donald Thomas announce the names of the graduates, Haas and Board of Education member George Laubenheimer will present diplomas.

The baccalaureate program for the class was held Sunday in the school field house. With the class attired in caps and gowns and marching in a processional, the Sunday program was a vivid prelude to the commencement tomorrow.

The main speaker for the baccalaureate program was Dr. Ewing T. Wayland, editor of the Christian Advocate. Title of Dr. Wayland's presentation was "The Freedom That Redeems."

Invocation and benediction for the program were given by Rev. John Cooperrider, Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Prospect Heights.

Under the baton of Director Mische, the Prospect Choir sang "Glory to God on High" by Harris and "Honor and Glory" by Bach.

CLASS valedictorians are Stephen S. Holderman and Gail J. Katagiri. The salutatorian is Cheryl A. Maxwell.

In addition to Krogmann, class officers are Marta Elizabeth Nordenholz, vice-president; Suzanne Elizabeth Turner, treasurer; and Nancy Anne Arndt, secretary. Douglas D. Vaughan served as president of the Student Council.

The 1962 class will present the school with a portable steel stage and an adjustable walnut lecturn. The balance of funds from the senior class treasury will be set aside as an emergency fund for one year. After that time any remaining funds will be donated to the student-faculty scholarship fund.

New Library Books Tickle 'Funny Bone'

By BETTY AINSLIE

Warm weather is a fine time to settle in that yard deck chair with a good book—a good book from Arlington Heights public library, one that requires no exertion and no mental strain.

Perhaps one of these new books will tickle your funny bone.

"And How She Grew" by Stanton Deleplane is a lively, humorous account of the author's experiences with his young daughter. The book is not about how to raise children but how to survive them.

The suburban problems of car pools and summer camps are humorously discussed in this witty book. For instance Delephane asked his daughter why she always insisted upon getting him up every night for a glass of water.

"You're old enough so get your own," he complained. But daughter said, "Your's always taste better." A good family book.

WALLY COX discusses his old-fashioned boyhood in the book called "My Life As A Small Boy." In this book Wally has written the text and done all the drawings which are different and clever.

He tells about all the swell things he got with box tops, and the little things will make you remember your own childhood. This is a fun book for all of the Wally Cox fans.

"I Remember America" is a collection of essays by William E. Bohm. The subjects vary from politics to boyhood memories, short sketches on baseball, art and the little red school house. For a nostalgic adventure into the past read this book.

The late Ernie Kovacs wrote a strictly Kovac's style book before his untimely death, called "How To Talk At Gin." A humorous account of how to play this game for two and a funny discussion of the fine points of winning. As witty as the well known Nairobi Trio.

A THIN BUT gay little book called "Oh Ye Jigs and Julips!" by Virginia Casy Hudson is a series of short essays which were written for an understanding teacher when Virginia was 10 years old. It's a collection of a child's impressions of small town America.

For a fun hour of reading.

"Everybody Who Owns His Own Home Deserves It" by humorist and TV performer Alan King is a book which attacks the problems which are common to every American community and in the usual King style.

Inez Robb who writes a column for a series of newspapers has gathered a collection of her columns together in a book called "Don't Just Stand There."

These are in the usual humorous style and are easy reading, dealing with everything from politics to the many problems of every housewife. A good pick-up book for light summer reading.

FOR A BOOK about people who are able to do the impossible get "Strange People" by Frank Edwards.

A typically Twilight Zone type of short chapters dealing with more than eighty people with almost impossible capabilities—the blind boy who can see with his skin, the girl who can read letters before she opens them and the mental freaks who can solve unbelievingly difficult math problems but are completely retarded in everything else. A different and fascinating book. (A

Board Accepts Teis Petition

The annexation petition regarding the J. J. Teis property, 909 W. Kirchoff Road was accepted Monday night by the Arlington Heights village board, and the village attorney was instructed to prepare the necessary papers.

The property, consisting of five acres, is immediately northwest of the Northwest Community Hospital property. It will be annexed as R-1, single family residential. (A

What Will College Do for Your Child?

Higher Education Undergoes Change

(This is the third in a series of four articles prepared by members of the staff at Monmouth College. The series describes the college of the 1960's. Next week's article is entitled, "College Education: Who Will Foot the Bill.")

by L. V. ATCHISON

"Men are men," said John Stewart Mill, "before they are lawyers or physicians or manufacturers; and if you make them capable and sensible men they will make themselves capable and sensible lawyers or physicians or manufacturers."

After all the words used to indicate what a college education should be, this quotation sums it up fairly well.

What your child will get out of college will in some measure depend on what he's looking for. Tremendous changes have occurred since many of us strolled the halls of ivy, changes which indicate trends for the future.

THE COLLEGE graduate of the sixties will have much more political sophistication than did the average person who marched up to get a diploma a decade ago. Student political organizations flourish and student government groups are becoming more and more vocal on national and international affairs.

So I think that somewhere in the nearly 2,000 colleges and universities in the nation, there will be a place for your child.

That's if they graduate from high school with something better than a borderline record, if they apply to the college or university best suited to them — aiming their transcripts neither too high nor too low — and if the nation's institutions of higher learning can continue to find the resources to carry out their plans for physical and academic growth.

IT HAS BEEN our experience that too often students fail to evaluate clearly what they want from a college and at which college they are best qualified to study.

Too often, we find, students apply for admission to the "prestige" schools, where competition is the roughest, regardless of whether their academic record gives them a realistic chance of success.

Often we find that students are the victims of bad advice from parents, teachers and friends. Last year, for example, nearly 34,000 young people applied for admission to one or more of the eight Ivy League schools. Of these, more than 20,000 were rejected.

HAD THESE high school seniors attempted to enroll at other institutions equally or even better suited to their capabilities and interests, they would have been accepted gladly, avoiding a bitter disappointment and a frantic last-minute search for a college that still had vacancies late in the summer.

Frequently we find that students who aimed their sights too high in May find themselves worse off in the fall simply because the college where they would have been accepted had no vacancies in July.

Happily, recent statistics seem to indicate there is a trend towards more realism in student applications. The "prestige" schools report fewer applications, fewer rejections.

BOTH HIGH school and college officials are conscious of the need to "match" the right student to the right college and I think you'll find that, more and more, high school counselors are giving better guidance through improved testing methods (such as the College Board Entrance Examination) and improved knowledge of the individual colleges and what they seek in the way of students.

Also, as the number of applicants grows, the individual colleges and universities are framing better definitions of their admissions criteria and the type of student they can best educate.

We're finding that parents are becoming less concerned with getting their child into the college or university that mother or father attended, are not quite as determined to select an academic institution by virtue if its "snob appeal" or sports reputation.

"THE CLOSING College Door" seems to have given birth to an awareness that colleges differ from one another, just as students are different from one another, and that a fruitful marriage of student and institution is within the reach of any parent and student who take the pains to seek it diligently.

With the improved guidance and counseling being developed in the secondary and even elementary schools, improved testing and stronger school curriculum, it should become easier to make the right decision on which college to attend if the student and his parents will consider the possibilities in realistic terms.

OFTEN MISUSED

Although "necessaries" is acceptable, it is generally considered better to use the word "necessities."

Do not say, "Each of the plates was identical in color." Say, "The plates were identical in color." The "each" makes the idea singular, whereas "identical" requires Two things to be compared.

Distinguish between acceptance (the act of receiving or taking) and acceptation (general acceptance of a word; a usage). Thus: "His acceptance of the gift was gracious," and, "Common acceptation permits us to say 'auto' and 'plane.' "

Twenty-five Elk Grove Village women have been appointed to the Hostess Committee for the 1962 Miss Illinois Pageant, according to Mrs. Charles P. Smith, committee chairman.

The committee is charged with making arrangements and coordinating pageant activities for the 47 contsstants who will be seeking the Miss Illinois crown in Elk Grove Village, June 27-30.

Members were selected from social and civic organizations in Elk Grove Village. Each member will be assigned to two contestants.

MRS. SMITH said that the purpose of the committee is "to make certain that the contestants get to the various rehearsals, civic events, and the actual competitions on time during the four-day event."

"The hostess committee is set up under Miss America Pageant rules to give parents assurance that their daughters will be well chaperoned while taking part in the many social and business activities associated with our Miss Illinois Pageant," she continued.

Mrs. Smith added that the girls will spend several hours daily relaxing and discussing their talent routines with each other. (A14

New Parish Launches Building Fund Drive

The rapidly growing membership of the Southminster United Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights, and the pressing need for larger facilities to accommodate its expanding program were cited this week as reasons for the accelerated building program of the church.

Southminster, organized only six months ago, is launching its building fund campaign this week. Carl P. Clare is general chairman of the church's building committee.

PASTOR OF the church is the Rev. Dr. William T. Jones, who became the church's first minister in January of this year.

At that time, friends of the church had already secured for it a four and one-half acre site at Dryden and Central. This has since been expanded to about five acres by addition of the property at 906 E. Central Road.

The house at this address is now serving as the temporary church office and parish center. In addition, the church has acquired a new manse for the pastor and his family at 1309 Leona Terrace, in the Westgate section of Arlington Heights.

A MONTH ago, the church's building committee approved selection of the engineering and architectural firm of Carl M. Teutsch and Associates, Chicago, to plan the new buildings. Preliminary sketches are being developed currently for presentation to the congregation this summer.

Ground will be broken for the new church this fall.

Included in the expenditures now contemplated is a sanctuary of a modified contemporary design, seating 450; a full basement, to provide facilities for Christian education and fellowship needs until the second unit is built; and a pastor's office.

Lloyd C. Peterson, chairman of the building fund campaign, said advance pledges of $50,000 have already been made.

THE REMAINDER of the financing for the $260,000 first unit will be provided from the proceeds of the current campaign and from loans, including those secured from the denomination's Board of National Missions. The large advance gifts have been a tremendous incentive to the canvassers, Peterson said.

Until the new unit is completed, the church will continue to use the facilities of Dryden School for both its worship services and its Sunday School, in addition to the new facilities at the recently-acquired property on Central. (A-E

Troop Plans Paper Drive

Senior Mariner Troop U.S.S. Enterprise No. 65 will conduct a paper drive in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect Friday and Saturday, June 15-16.

A semi-trailer, in which residents of the two communities may deposit newspapers, will be parked in the lot at Prospect High School both days.

Anyone preferring to have papers picked up at home may call Mrs. Harold Drew, at 253-1010. (A-M

County Takes Over Bike Safety Check

The long-standing program of bicycle checks, conducted annually by the Arlington Heights police department, ends this year—but not because it has been unsuccessful.

Lt. Ray Jahnke, head of the traffic department, said the police will discontinue the checks because the county now has eight men who devote their time to bicycle inspection, and the village department is, in a way, duplicating the county service.

JAHNKE'S MEN last month completed the 1962 bicycle inspection and the lieutenant said it took four men, two weeks to complete.

The number of manhours involved is one reason Jahnke said he will let the county take over the program in the village next year. Jahnke will meet yet this week with a county representative to explain to him the techniques Arlington Heights police use in checking the bicycles.

The county program is only about two years old.

Under Arlington Heights' program this year, Jahnke furnished schools with cards for the children to take home and have filled out, then return to school for use during the actual check.

"WE RECEIVED about 75 per cent cooperation from the schools," Jahnke said. "Most of them cooperated completely but a couple of the principals didn't even send the slips home with the kids."

Some 2,074 bicycles were checked, with only 218 receiving rejections. At the time of the final check late last month, 1,348 bicycles had been issued licenses. (A

OFTEN MISUSED

Do not say, "The weather is the same as last week." Say, "The weather is SIMILAR TO THAT OF last week."

Do not say, "Shall we refer back to the April statement?" Omit "back."

Distinguish between INVALUABLE (beyond value; priceless) and VALUELESS (without value; of no worth). "Your help has been invaluable." "This tawdry piece of jewelry is valueless."

News Of Prospect Meadows

The month of June has ushered in a host of graduations, and Meadows families have had a fair share in the proceedings. Larry Webber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Webber, 421 Bob-o-link, was graduated from Beloit College on Sunday. Gail and Millie and another son, Bob, spent the weekend at the Wagon Wheel, and neighbors who went up for the ceremonies included Dick and Myrna Schultz, Diane and Tom Thackeray Jr., of Arlington, and Kathy Kovac of Mount Prospect.

Bob Orlowski, 621 Bunting, and Noreen Nolan, 613 Oriole, were graduated from St. James grammar school on Sunday. The Nolans celebrated the occasion with a family party of 40 persons on Saturday evening.

ACCORDING to co-chairmen Sue Appleby and Inge Vollhardt, the plans for the Father's Day park dance are well under way. The date is June 16, and they have obtained the services of Larry Webber to act as disc jockey. The price of the tickets include refreshments.

During the weekend the Chuck Brazeau family were joined by friends from Chicago at Fox River Grove, where they picnicked and water skied. Lorrie and her sister, Marge Murray, 629 Oriole, attended a baby shower for Mrs. Lois Chesrow in Glenview.

Lynn and Dick Coopmans attended two graduation parties on Sunday, first for Dick's cousin, Sharon Mary Coopmans, who graduated from eighth grade, then on to the home of Mrs. Nelda Steil in in Morton Grove, to celebrate the high school graduation of Leona Steil. Monday Lynn's sister, Mrs. Raymond Nasby, and children from Chicago spent the day with the Coopmans family at an outing at Hawthorn-Mellody Farm in Libertyville.

WILLIAM Schultz, son of Dick and Myrna, 419 Bob-o-link, was baptized on Sunday in Grace English Lutheran Church. His parents celebrated the occasion with a family party at home. Godparents were Phil Schultz and Barbara Hachmeister.

Pat and John Wrath attended a convention for the Watch Material Distributors Association on Saturday at the Edgewater Beach Hotel.

Walter Ampulski, 425 Bob-o-link, was in Grand Rapids over the weekend, attending the ordination of his nephew, Stephen Vesbit. The new Father Vesbit will be stationed at the Mexican Mission in Michigan.

Rita and Chuck Durec were guests at the wedding and reception on Saturday of Miss Karen Whitney to Dennis Rogala of Park Ridge.

The George Hampe family spent a day at the family cottage at Pell Lake, Wis., and on Sunday they entertained Charlene's sister and her family, the Joe Cipranis.

Sunday dinner guests of Joan and Lee McCamant were Pat and John O'Grady of Oak Lawn.

GUESTS OF Pat and Joe Phillippi, 440 Bob-o-link, at a picnic in their yard were members of Pat's family: Mr. and Mrs. David Anderson of Half Day; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pelinski of Park Ridge; and Pat's parents and another sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Horcher and Vi Horcher.

Carol and Roy Schaetzlein had dinner at the Quid Restaurant in Chicago recently, with friends from Chicago to celebrate Carol's recent election to the post of Grand High Marshal of Job's Daughters of Illinois. Saturday the Schaetzleins visited the Grecian Village with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jurczak of Chicago, stopping off at the Ranch House for a late snack.

Rosemary and Bill Vosburgh, 419 Larkdale, entertained the Tom Wagner family for dinner on Saturday, and on Sunday the Vosburghs spent the day at the cottage of Bill's folks at Bangs Lake.

Priscilla Carleu had a kaffee klatsch welcome for her new neighbors, Lynn Head and Sue Wilson. The "gals" on the 400 block of Larkdale were invited.

Jim and Kay Wilson and Myrtle Stickrod entertained Jim's cousins, the Harold Jacksons of Rolling Meadows on Sunday. The Jacksons dropped over to admire the Wilsons' bowling trophies, newly won after a hectic year.

Madeline Lindahl had dinner recently at the home of her uncle and his family, the Robert M. Allens of Skokie. Honored guests were Madeline's grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Allen, and Mrs. Katherine Smith of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.

Paris Memories Linger From After-Prom Party

Prospect High's 1962 after-the-prom party is over, but memories of Paris linger with hundreds of Prospect juniors and seniors.

Comments from the young couples in attendance at the "Midnight-In-Paris" party May 29 were approving. One couple raved, "The setting was terrific, the food terrific, the music and entertainment terrific: it was a terrific party!"

Rollie Gerrard, chairman of the parents' after-the-prom committee, reports that the Mount Prospect Country Club provided the ideal set-up for the party. He expressed the appreciation of the committee for the cooperation and efforts of Charles Payne and the Mount Prospect Park District in making the party a big success.

Gerrard also pointed out that many other organizations contributed much to the success of the affair.

Realtors Give School Famed Oil Landscape

A framed color print of a specially commissioned landscape oil painting was presented to Prospect High School recently by the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Similar presentations were made to eight northwest suburban high schools, honoring local educators, during Realtor Week, May 20-26.

The painting, "Under All is the Land," is the work of Robert W. Hines, artist-illustrator on the staff of the U. S. Department of the Interior. Depicting the grandeur of wooded mountain slopes and fertile valleys, it has been praised by critcs for its skilled techniques and content.

HINES, THE illustrator of several books, including Rachel Carson's "The Edge of the Sea," has drawn wildlife and wildlife habitats from the Florida Keys to the Aleutian Islands for books, national magazines and murals.

He designed the "Whooping Crane" U. S. postage stamp which was selected by a British poll as one of the 10 best stamps in the world in 1957.

"Under All is the Land" was painted for the Department of the Interior, which is comemorating the centennial of the Homestead Act and related legislation with the National Association of Real Estate Boards and other national civic groups.

THE PRESIDENT of the northwest board, Arthur C. Kelter, 6A E. McDonald Road, Prospect Heights, said, "I think it is particularly appropriate that we should honor the schools of our area and the men and women who head them by presenting them with prints of this outstanding painting.

Ask Milwaukee Judge To Ban 'Tropic' Book

MILWAUKEE, (UPI)—A Milwaukee judge is mulling over a decision he will make later this month on the banning of Henry Miller's novel, "Tropic of Cancer."

Judge Ronold A. Dreschler has been asked to declare the novel obscene. His decision is expected between June 20 and 25, after opposing briefs have been filed.

This is the first time a Wisconsin court has been called on to ban a book by a recognized writer and published by a reputable publisher.

OPPOSING attorneys gave closing arguments Monday in the civil case before Judge Drechsler.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Richard B. Surges said Milwaukee's moral standards were different from those of several places in Northern Wisconsin "which are rather infamous for having bawdy houses."

"We have a finer set of moral standards than any other community" he said. "We do not have the standards of California or parts of Florida."

Surges said "We have not been jaundiced by this kind of material . . . jaded by this type of literature."

He said the question of a book's literary, cultural or educational character was considered in weighing its merits, but the basic issue was whether it was obscene.

HE SAID THE court is the "exclusive judge of the common conscience of the community."

Defense Attorney David B. Bartell said "Milwaukee is not an island, which gets its information by rowboat."

"Our intelligence, emotions and moral capacities are the same as those in Chicago or New York," he said. "I don't think we ought to model ourselves after Boston for the purpose of banning books."

Bartell said in order to find a book obscene, the judge would have to decide it has not the slightest social importance, has no literary value, is dirt for dirt's sake and as pornography does not have the protection of the First Amendment.

Even the prosecution's own witnesses admitted Miller's book had some literary or cultural merit, Bartell said.

Chicago Superior Court Judge Samuel B. Epstein ruled recently that Miller's book was not obscene. The case grew out of police imposing a ban on the book in some suburban communities, including those in the northwest suburban area.

GIVING MANICURES, running errands and reading are just a few of the odd jobs members of Palatine Girl Scout Troop 430 perform Saturdays at the Aage Nelson Nursing Home in Palatine. The girls are not at the home to earn badge requirements, but because they recognized the need of the residents for companionship and help. Judith Warner and Jean Kenyon chat with Peter Becker and Ed Christiansen, residents of the Home. (B-8 are particularly concerned, has in a very literal sense been the foundation of public schools in our country since the turn of the 19th century, when Congress marked one section of public lands in each township for the support of schools. Those who are close to the land today—urban and rural home owners and the Realtors who serve them—are no less dedicated to the support of a high level of excellence in our schools." (ACM

Supply Company Moves Quarters

This is moving week for Northwest Tire and Supply Co. The Firestone dealership is moving headquarters from 700 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, to its newly constructed building at 630 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Jack Walsh, owner, said the actual opening date depends on the state of construction, which is now being finished. In the new location Northwest Firestone will offer greatly enlarged services and will have easy access from both Euclid and Northwest Hwy. (B8

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Quotidian; daily; recurring daily; as, "a quotidian fever." (Pronounce kwo-tid-i-an, accent on second syllable).

Adventitious; accidental; casual. "He gained much fame from his adventitious discovery."

Disparagement; diminution of esteem or standing. "His attempted disparagement of the governor had no effect upon that man's popularity."

Parabolic; of the nature of a parable; allegoric (accent third syllable). "The speaker illustrated his points with frequent parabolic references."

Cite Encyclopedia As 'Help' to Blind

The Arlington Heights Lions Club has given the area-wide blind education program the "biggest help" received to date.

That is the description given of the club's donation of a 145-volume Braille World Book Encyclopedia by Mrs. Halcyon Peters, blind resource teacher at Prospect High.

The volumes were hailed by Mrs. Peters and the two present blind students at the high school as the most useful books the special resource room has available.

PROSPECT HIGH maintains an integrated blind educational program on the secondary level as a part of an area-wide special education program involving school districts in Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. The elementary level blind program is being held in the Wheeling District 21 schools.

Mrs. Peters stressed the Arlington Lions have been consistent supporters of blind education at Prospect and have contributed more to the program than any other group.

"Without the Arlington Lions Club our resource program would be much more limited," Mrs. Peters said. She pointed to an initial donation of $1,000 by the club when the high school blind program was initiated.

Illinois Lions Clubs have a state-wide blind and sight-saving promotion and many local Lions Clubs have aided the Wheeling and Prospect school blind programs. Mrs. Peters cited the Mount Prospect Lions Club in addition to the Arlington Lions, noting that "whenever our funds seem at an end and purchase tf needed materials must be postponed, the Mount Prospect Lions always come through with a $100 donation."

THE FIRST volumes of the Braille encyclopedia were delivered by the Arlington Lions Club last spring. Presentation of the final volumes in the set was made at a special Lions Club dinner attended by Mrs. Peters and students Ceinwen Klepper and Maureen Ryan.

Demonstrating that blindness is not a handicap to talent or activity, the two blind students entertained the club. Ceinwen, a state champion speech finalist, gave an original monologue on the trials and tribulations of a Russian immigrant in this country. Maureen and her date for the evening gave a "twist" demonstration for the club.

Both the girls are "excellent" students, Mrs. Peters said. Ceinwen is in fast or accelerated classes and carries five academic subjects. She has completed her second year of Russian study and has won a scholarship to a special summer language institute in Russian to be held in Connecticut.

THE BLIND students at Prospect and Wheeling schools attend regular classes with the high school girls passing from class to class with other students without difficulty. Prior to the start of each semester, Braille textbooks are developed for their elected courses. Arrangements for such books are made through the resource room.

Daily tests or written materials are given to Mrs. Peters by individual teachers, with Mrs. Peters preparing the lesson or quiz on a Braille writer. Each blind student carries a portable Braille writer to class, to write answers to tests, write themes and do similar work. Writing that must be read by the class teacher is transcribed from Braille to English by Mrs. Peters.

Some special resource material is not available in Braille. Such material is read by Mrs. Peters or student volunteers on a tape recorder, which is then played as needed by the blind students.

THE COMPLETED encyclopedia were presented to the school by Harold C. Best, Lions Club president; E. B. Stine, chairman of the Blind Activities; Avon D. Reeves, club past president and chairman of the high school industrial education department; and Morris F. Benzuly, chairman of blind activities in Lions District 1-F, which includes Arlington Heights.

Best noted that while the books had been donated primarily for student use, they are to be available to any person who may need them upon application to school authorities.

The massive encyclopedia includes 145 volumes covering 43 feet of bookshelf. Cost of the books will be more than $600.

(ACM-EG

THE NEW BRAILLE encyclopedia, donated by the Arlington Heights Lions Club to Prospect High, completely lines one wall of the school's blind resource room. The new World Book Encyclopedia is given constant use by Maureen Ryan of Mount Prospect and Ceinwen Klepper of Prospect Heights, students in the area-wide integrated blind education program centered at Prospect. The 145 volume set cover 43 feet of shelf space.

PRESENTATION AF THE last four books in the 145 set of the Braille World Book Encyclopedia is made by E. B. Stine, chairman of blind activities for the Arlington Heights Lions Club. The Lions Club donated the massive Braille reference work to Prospect High for the area-wide blind education progrgam centered at the school. Present at the final presentation were Morris F. Benzuly, chairman of blind activities for Lions District 1-F; Prospect teacher Avon D. Reeves, past president of the club; Mrs. Halcyon Peters, resource teacher in the blind program; and Harold C. Best, president of the oLins club. The two students pictured are Maureen Ryan of Mount Prospect and Ceinwen Klepper of Prospect Heights. (ACM-EG

Ravinia Coupon Books Available in Suburbs

Coupon books for the 1962 Ravinia Festival, featuring music under the stars by some of America's most renowned artists, are now available to Chicago area residents.

The $16 books, with 12 coupons each provide a savings of $5. The coupons can be used for admission to the park or for reserved seats in the pavillion.

Area sales chairmen are Mrs. John H. Kuper, 822 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights; Mrs. Charles L. Kimball, 500 Go-Wando Trail, Mount Prospect, and Richard C. Wallace, 51 E. Washington, Palatine. The Mount Prospect State Bank, 15 E. Busse, also serves as a coupon book agency.

Ella Fitzgerald, Benny Goodman and the Limeliters are slated for festival performances, and seven guest conductors will lead the Chicago Symphory Orchestra in 18 concerts between June 26 and Aug. 4.

LEADING OFF the season will be Jean Martinon, French maestro who will take over as symphony music director next year. He will appear June 26, 28 and 30.

Associate conductor Walter Hendl, Ravinia Festival artistic director, will fill in during the second and third weeks, conducting July 3, 5 and 12.

Appearing July 7 and 10 will be American composer Aaron Copland. William Steinberg, musical director of the Pittsburgh Symphony, will take the baton July 14, 17 and 19.

The acknowledged master and grand old man of 20th century composers, Igor Stravinsky, will be on the podium July 21 in a tribute to his 80th birthday. Present-day music specialist Robert Craft will appear with him.

THE JULY 24, 26, 28 and 31 and Aug. 2 and 4 concerts, will be led by French conductor Andre Cluytens.

A special program during the season will be the Jack Benny benefit concert July 29. The violin-playing comedian will join the orchestra in launching the drive to rebuild the Ravinia stage and dressing rooms destroyed by fire in 1949.

Guest soloists during the season will be pianist John Browning, June 28 and 30; violin virtuso, July 5; pianist, Earl Wild, July 7; William Warfield, internationally recognized baritone, July 10; violinist Henryk Szeryng, who performed at the festival last summer, July 12 and 14; Jose Iturbi, pianist, July 17; Signey Foster, pianist, July 19.

Internationally acclaimed soprano, Joan Sutherland will sing with the symphony July 26; pianist Eugene Istomin will appear July 28 and 31, and pianist Byron Janis will play Aug. 4.

THE LIMELITERS trio, combining vocal and instrumental folk music, are the first of the popular music performers scheduled for the festival. Their shows will be July 4 and 6.

Top ballad and jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald and her company will be on stage July 18 and 20. The Benny Goodman Band will be on two weeks later, Aug. 1 and 3, returning from its first tour of Russia.

Other programs on the schedule include the Shakespeare festival in Murray Theatre July 11, 13, 14-16, 21, 22, 23, 24, 27, 28, 30 and Aug. 4, repertoire Aug. 13 through Sept. 29, and the New York City Ballet, Aug. 7-12.

FOUR CHILDREN'S programs will be presented on Saturday mornings at 11 in Murray Theater. They are the Lindman Marionettes, June 30 and July 14, and the Chicago Symphony Ensemble Groups, July 21 and Aug. 4.

The two exhibitions in the Ravinia Festival Art Galleries July 3-Aug. 12 will be paintings by 28 artists working in the Midwest, Casino Gallery, and small sculptures by Moore, Archipenko, Maillol, Picasso, Arp, Giacometti and others, Little Gallery. (ACM

Multiple Dwelling Acreage Cut OK'd

The Arlington Heights village board Monday night approved a plan commission recommendation reducing the amount of multiple dwelling acreage requested at a pre-annexation hearing on property on the northeast corner of Rand, Palatine and State roads.

The plan commission recommended B-2 (commercial) zoning for the area fronting Rand Road, but did not approve R-6 multiple for the remaining 29 acres. Instead, it recommended half be zoned R-3, single family area and the B-2 area.

A covenant would require a minimum of 3,000 square feet per unit for the multiple dwellings, and the whole tract would be subject to rules governing a planned development.

ATTORNEY Howard Borde, representing the owners, submitted to the village board three alternatives for the 29 acres, all of which would have increased the multiple dwelling area, but which were in general accord with recommendations submitted to the plan commission by village planning consultant Eugene Baughman.

The board rejected these alternatives. Trustee Norval Stephens said he could see no hardship on the owners of the property if the plan commission recommendation was accepted.

Borde was not in a position to state whether the owners will be agreeable to the zoning, as approved. If they are not, he will ask that the annexation petition be withdrawn. (A

Gas Lights Approved For Hasbrook Area

Hasbrook subdivision in Arlington Heights will get gas lights.

The village board Monday night approved expenditure of the necessary funds for installation of gas lights in Hasbrook, with underground connections, as requested by Hasbrook Civic Association to enhance the residents' property values.

Even though the gas lights will not compare with electric lights as to amount of illumination provided, and though they will cost the village more, it was decided to proceed with installation of the gas lights.

THE VILLAGE took the stand that such lights would be in keeping with the nature of the subdivision.

The vote in favor of gas lights was unanimous, although Trustee Eugene Schlickman noted that the prime justification for them seemed to be the ensuant the residents.

Schlickman said the village has the responsibility to provide the setting for and indirect support of increase in property values, although the prime responsibility rests with the property owner, and the village should not subsidize him.

THIS APPARENTLY, however, is what the village is doing in the case of Hasbrook residents since the gas lights cost considerably more than the more efficient electric lights would have, with no evident to other village taxpayers.

A previous report submitted by Village Manager L. A. Hanson indicated the gas lights would cost about $1,400 more per year for four years under the now-approved plan.

Although the gas lights still will cost substantially more than electric lights, the $1,400 figure does not apply since the board decided not to finance the installation over a five-year period as proposed, but to pay the cost all at once, eliminating finance charges.

To this end, it altered its appropriation ordinance to provide $5,000 for installation of the lights. If electric lights had been installed, no revision would have been necessary since enough money was provided in the ordinance — about $4,000 — to take care of installation of electric lights.

A COMMITTEE composed of Trustees Norval Stephens, Samuel Wit and William Sauer recommended payment of the cost initially, and also recommended that all lights, gas or electric, installed in residential subdivisions not covered by the new subdivision ordinance, be paid for out of village funds.

Schlickman asked that it be spelled out more specifically that it is the intent of the board to have an annual street light improvement program, and this was done. (A

Business Zoning OK'd for 2 Lots

Two lots in Feuerborn and Klode's Arlington Manor just south of Central Road on State Road were approved for B-1 limited business zoning Monday night by the Arlington Heights village board.

This was the recommendation of the plan commission after a per-annexation hearing.

THE PROPERTY is owned by Victor and Sophie Konieczski, and is located on the east side of State Road, about 350 feet south of Central.

It is across the road from a medical building and parking lot, and adjacent to a lot owned by Konieczski on which he has constructed a new combination office building and retail store, with four offices.

At the pre-annexation rezoning hearing, it was stated by Fred Weber, attorney for the Konieczskis, that the two parcels are intended for use as a parking lot for renters of the office space.

THE PLAN commission unanimously approved the requested zoning, but chairman Harold Carlson said he would oppose use of the lot for customer parking, in contrast with renter parking.

The village board also approved the request unanimously.

Teacher Will Attend Institute in Ecuador

A Spanish teacher of Prospect High School will be one of 50 participants in a seven-week summer institute in Quito, Ecuador, from July 2 to Aug. 18.

James J. Curry, 115 W. Euclid, Arlington Heights, will join the 50-member group at Miami on June 29 when they will enplane for Quito.

The Quito NDEA Summer Institute for secondary school teachers of Spanish is a second-level course. Curry completed the first-level NDEA Institute in the summer of 1960 at Louisiana State University.

THE QUITO institute is sponsored by the American Institute for Foreign Trade, Phoenix, Ariz., in cooperation with the U. S. Office of Education. The summer session is one of the projects of the language development program of the National Defense Education Act.

Objectives of the institute are: (1) to improve further the participants' language skills by continuous and intensive exposure to Spanish in a culturally genuine environment; (2) to offer the latest techniques and materials for teaching Spanish, particularly at the intermediate and advanced levels; (3) to spread the most recent language-teaching concepts and techniques among their professional colleagues; (4) to encourage the participants to develop long-range language curricula, extending from elementary grades through high school.

THE SPONSORING institution, The American Institute for Foreign Trade, is the only postgraduate school in the U. S. exclusively devoted to the practical training of college graduates for careers abroad with U. S. business or government. (ACM

Revised Plat Is Voted by Trustees

A revised preliminary plat of Greenbrier subdivision in the Village Green in northwest Arlington Heights was approved Monday night by the village board by a 4-1 vote, with two trustees absent and Village President John G. Woods casting the fourth vote needed to pass the measure.

Trustee Norval Stephens voted against approval.

THE SOLE POINT of controversy was whether or not the developers should put lots in escrow to guarantee dedication of land for park and school purposes.

This was done recently in a similar case, prompting the plan commission to suggest that the village board consider this course of action.

THE GREENBRIER situation varies from the other case in that the majority of the trustees considered was a vital point: The original Greenbrier preliminary plat had been approved without such a provision, and the revision of the plat was made to comply with a later request of the plan commission.

Thus it was not as if a developer was bringing in a plat for the first time, as was the situation in the other case. (A

Faith Church Plans Twelfth Bible School

Faith Lutheran Church, 431 S. State Road, Arlington Heights, this week announced plans to conduct its 1962 Vacation Bible School from June 18 to 29. This will be the twelfth such program for the church.

Classes will meet Monday through Friday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. The theme of this summer's school is "Let's Learn About God!."

COLORFULLY designed art projects will be correlated with the theme. Nursery and kindergarten classes will have 10 projects each; primary classes will have five projects; junior classes will have six; senior classes will have five.

The nursery department, for 4-year-olds, will be supervised by Mrs. Ralph Windheim. The kindergarten department, for kindergarten and first grade children, will be supervised by Mrs. Irvin McDougall.

Mrs. Eugene Wagner will supervise the primary department, for children entering second and third grades this fall; Mrs. Joseph Gruenes will head the junior department, for children in grades four, five and six.

THE SENIOR department, for young people entering the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, will be led by Harvey Honig, vicar of the church, and Mrs. Edgar Behrens.

Mrs. Fred Danker, registrar for the school, said registrations will be received Sunday mornings before and after Sunday School, and Friday, June 15, between 1 and 3 p.m. in the education building of the church.

A REGISTRATION fee of $1 will be charged to help defray the expense of the pupil's workbook and the project materials. Transportation will be available for the younger children, and can be arranged by telephoning Mrs. Briard Strout, transportation secretary, CL 5-4736.

The Rev. Edgar Behrens, pastor of Faith Lutheran, will be general superintendent of the school. Further information can be had by telephoning the church office, CL 3-4839, during week-day mornings.

Confirmation Class Has Two Members

Special Pentecost services Sunday of Lutheran Church of the Cross in Arlington Heights will include confirmation rites for the year-old church's first class, consisting of two members.

The Rev. Bruce K. Benander, pastor, said the two confirmands will be Jean Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hansen, Arlington Heights, and Michelle Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morgan, also of Arlington Heights.

The services will begin at 9:30 a.m., at Pioneer Park Fieldhouse. Sunday School children will present special music.

The Rev. Benander also announced that confirmed membership in the church has now approached 100.

The church has engaged Walter Kroeber, Arlington Heights architect, to design the first unit of its future church, which will be built on a four-acre site adjacent to the north edge of the Forest View High School property on Goebbert Road. (A LIGHTER MOMENTS of the past year were recalled Friday night by members of the Arlington Heights village board at a dinner party given in honor of Trustee Richard Glantz, who has resigned his position and is moving to the East. Glantz was presented a plaque of commendation for his services on the board and his efforts to make Arlington Heights a better place to live. Flanking Glantz on the sofa are Trustee William Sauer (left) and Trustee Samuel Wit. Behind him are (from left) John G. Woods, village president and host for the party; Trustee William Moore; Trustee Norval Stephens; and Trustee Eugene Schlickman. (A

$200,000 Aid

Randhurst Donates Funds for Roadways

A check for $200,000 from Randhurst Center, Mount Prospect, was turned over to the Cook County Board of Commissioners Monday to help pay for the road improvements being made in the Foundry-Euclid-Rand Road areas.

Elmhurst Road will be improved for 634 feet south of Foundry to 662 feet south of Palatine Road. It will be widened from 52 feet to 74 feet at various points according to the width of the center medians. Medians will have left turn bays and will vary in width from 4 to 16 feet.

Foundry Road will be widened from its present 22 feet to 44 feet in the general area around the Elmhurst-Rand intersection.

EUCLID ROAD, 900 feet west of Rand to Wolf Road will be widened to 52 to 74 feet also varying according to the width of the center median.

Randhurst voluntarily agreed to pay a portion of the cost for the improvements when plans were made August 8, 1961. The Euclid Avenue portion of the improvement will cost $623,000. The Foundry-Elmhurst portion will be done at a cost of $760,000 Improvements will include a surface of I-11 cement type binder, storm sewers curbs and gutters.

Previous discussions had suggested the new sanitary interceptor for Wheeling be run up Elmhurst the same time the improvements were made. Plans announced this week, however, now place the interceptor along Wolf Road instead.

Robert Black Construction Co. and Rock Road Construction Co. are contractors for the improvements. (AF

Set Summer Reading Program for Young

Registration for the summer reading program for children will be held June 13 to 30 at Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 112 N. Belmont, and, at the Pioneer Park branch.

Boys and girls may select a book about something they are interested in, or a book about strange places, new people or unusual experiences.

AFTER READING three books and recording them at the library, they will receive a button-badge showing they are members of the reading program.

Upon completion of ten or more books, children are eligible to attend a program at Recreation Park on Aug. 15 at 10:30 a.m. (A

Assn. Picks New Slate Of Officers

Stan Merchant, of 513 S. Forrest, Arlington Heights, was elected president of the Arlington Acres Civic Association at its meeting last Friday night.

Other 1962-63 officers elected were: Arvid Alvin, vice-president; Lorraine Soderberg, secretary; Beverly Brown, treasurer.

The election was preceded by a showing of the movie, "Seconds to Survival," and an informative talk by Sgt. 1/C Laird J. Kayler, 45th Artillery Brigade (Air Defense), Arlington

VIRGINIA TERRACE

On May 26 Sandra, daughter of Ernest and Madonna Ross, 1333 N. Illinois, was married to James Barton in Dayton. Ernest and Madonna accompanied Sandra to Dayton earlier in the month to make final arrangements for the wedding and stayed with Madonna's sister, Mrs. Melva Thygerson, during their visit.

Adding to the wedding news, Danny, son of Helen and Virgil Marienau, 1334 N. Illinois, served as an usher recently when his cousin, Henry Nagorny, was married to Miss Terry Tarrulo in St. Francis of Rome Catholic Church in Cicero. On hand for the ceremonies were brothers Leonard and Timmy, along with their parents.

Further news of Len and Timmy Marineau concern their double birthday celebrations on May 26, when Len was 13 and Tim was 4. In the afternoon Timmy was guest of honor at a party with playmates, Vicky Bade, Mike Pircher, Jimmy Cocker, Jimmy Charleston and Doug Martin.

SOME MEMORIAL doings involved the birthday party Ken and Joan Herrmann, 1443 N. Race , hosted for Kenny, who was 7 May 29. Guests included his brothers and sisters, Robert, Tommy and Lori, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Johnson of Palatine, and an aunt and uncle, the Ted Owens, from the Terrace. The second-stage of Kenny's birthday took place when the Herrmanns drove to Kalamazoo to spend the weekend with Joan's brother and family, the junior Ted Johnsons. While there, a double birthday party was held for Kenny and his cousin, Randy.

Another Memorial Day outing took place when three Terrace families banded together for a picnic at Sycamore Park. The baseball playing, potato-salad crowd included the Frank Pirchers, Andy Reeds and the John Fairfields. They concluded the day with a snack at the Pircher house.

Scott, son of Ed and Marion Nielsen, 1252 N. Illinois, celebrated his 10th birthday May 29 with a family dinner party.

The Terrace bid farewell this week to Tom an Marie Bandy, andTom's sister, Mrs. Pauline Carmody, who lived at 1251 N. Race. A job transfer has taken Tom to Indianapolis.

IN LINE WITH the Bandy's departure, Dorothy Ballard, 1241 N. Race, hosted a farewell luncheon for Marie and Pauline last Tuesday noon. Guests included neighbors, June Hacker, Mina Sheilds, Margay Wilmot, Pat Davis and former Terrace residents, Pat Lechelt.

Get-well wishes are extended to Alice Brown, 1413 N. Chicago, who is recovering at home, with the aid of a plaster cast, from the effects of a broken foot.

Bob Chernesky, 1228 N. Chicago, returned just in time from his 2-week training program in Glendale, Calif., for Pharaseal Labortories, to assist Mary in hosting a first birthday party for their daughter, Kathy. Among the outdoor barbecue guests last Saturday were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Chernesky of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Dyck of Milwaukee.

Last weekend Mary and Paul Kale, 1322 N. Illinois, and daughter, Nancy, drove to upper Michigan, near Iron River, for a fishing holiday.

A FAMILY birthday party was held June 3 for Danny, son of James and Dorothy McGrath, 1248 N. Race, who was 2.

A welcome is extended to Terrace newcomers, Jim and Janice Murphy who, with Gail, 3, and James, 10 months, have moved to 1326 N. Chicago. Jim, a salesman for Moore Business Forms in Chicago, is a tremendous football fan; while taking care of the children takes up most of Janice's time at present, she enjoys bridge and athletic events, such as playing volleyball. The Murphys moved here from Chicago and attend St. Thomas of Villanova.

Last Tuesday a belated party was held for April, daughter of Bob and Darlene Krug, 1212 N. Race, who was 3 April 13. Guests who enjoyed a trip to Kiddieland and ice cream treats included her cousin, Curt Cartolano, and neighborhood playmates, Scott Vogtritter, Thea Larson and Laurie Bartel.

More Memorial Day news involves Andy and Esther Turner, 1525 Clarendon, who, with the children, Jill, Steve, Lynne and Joy, attended a family reunion at the home of Esther's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leonard in Melrose Park. They enjoyed visiting and dining with the 65 relatives.

ANOTHER big Memorial Day party took place when Ken and Kathleen Niebuhr, 1309 N. Ilnois, entertained more than 50 people at an all-day barbecue party.

Last Friday a "coffee-turned-into-a-surprise-shower" was hosted by Peggy Maclatter's home, 1226 N. Race, in honor of Myrna Diftmar, who recently joined the mamaranks. Guests who presented Myrna with a baby stroller and a planter included Lenora Crowe, Connie Dolejs, Bunny Salzman, Donna Stratton, Isabel Nottli, Norma Elf and Carol Narup. Florence Paul was unable to attend.

Recently Les and Charlene Bang, 1315 N. Illinois, enjoyed the opportunity of seeing former Terrace residents, Marie and Jim Frial, when they attended the wedding of their daughter, Carol, in Edison Park.

PRIZES AND fun were in order when John and Margay Wilmot, 1240 N. Race, hosted a party for George on his sixth birthday. Attending were Paul Hacker, Christopher McGrath, Daniel Nieman, Ricky Nieman, Gary Crowe, Kurt Davis and his nephews, John and Rick MCabe.

More birthday news at the Wilmot household involved Margay's mother, Mrs. Adelaine Wynn, who celebrated her 72nd birthday at a family party, which included her sister-in-law, Mrs. Agnes Dodd of Chicago, in addition to several other members of her family.

Recently several Terrace friends held a farewell luncheon for Doris Koser, 1327 N. Illinois, who will be moving shortly. Guests at the Milk Pail in Dundee included La Rue Reed, Addie Fairfield, Shirlee Pircher and Helen Marineau, all of whom presented Doris with a farewell gift. (A

Linda Zwick Heads FHA At Prospect

Linda Zwick will head the Future Homemakers of America at Prospect High School next year. Assisting her as vice-president will be Diana Harnish.

Shirley Von Bergen will serve as secretary with Pat Putkszta as treasurer, Dixie Hazel as historian, and Diane Hubrich as parliamentarian.

The annual spring style show, "Seven Keys to Fashion," sponsored by FHA, was held at Prospect High recently in the Little Theater.

The 50 girls who participated in the show made their own clothes, either at home or in homemaking classes. They modeled sportswear, school clothes and costumes for dressy occasions.

Marcia Mayes and Holly Paine directed the style show.

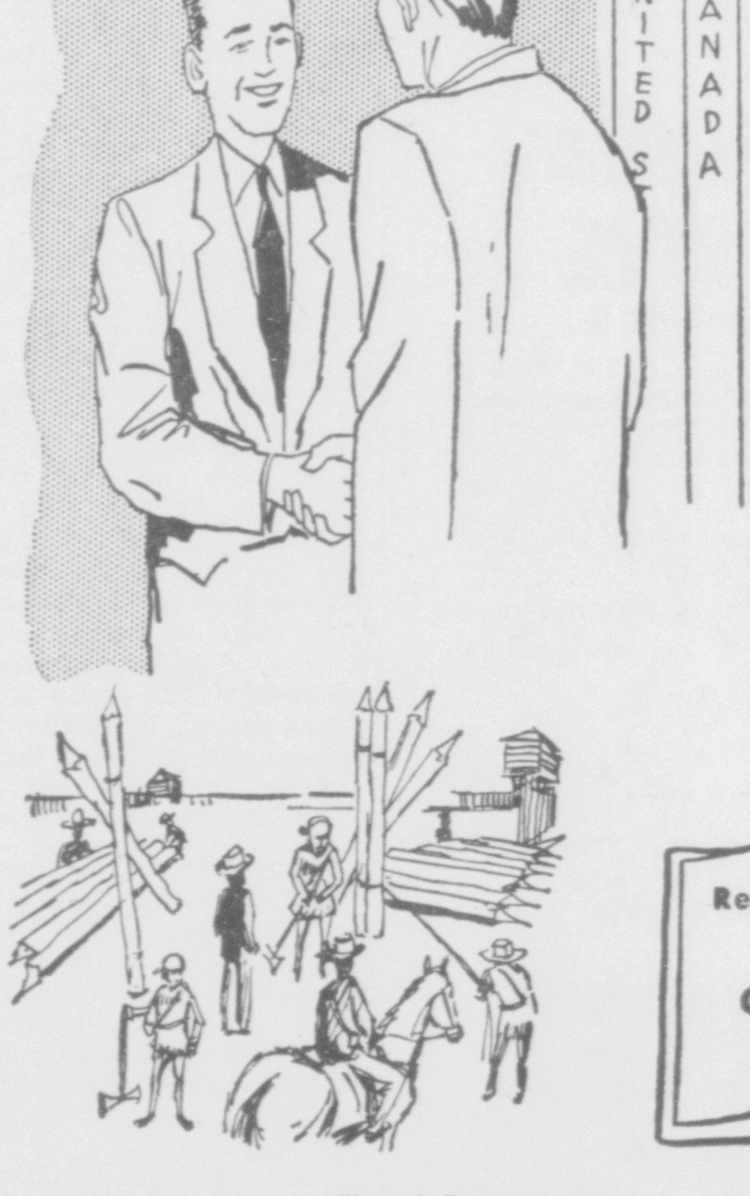
Work for Peace

"Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God." St. Matthew 5:9



IT is ironic that the Monroe Doctrine, which warned America's enemies to keep their distance, was jointly declared with announcement of a pact between the United States and Great Britain for complete disarmament of the boundary line separating Canada and our country.

That was in 1818. After all these years there remains a frontier of 3500 miles, along which there is not a single fort, great wall or barricade.

This is the type of peacemakers of which Jesus preached in His Sermon on the Mount.

Each of us can be a peacemaker. Each day we can work for that which is right; support that which is good; pray for peace.

Pray at the church of your choice this Sunday.

New Church President Is Named

RALPH E. WAGERS

Ralph E. Wagers of Boston and Chicago has been named president of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Active in Christian Science for many years, Wagers is currently serving as associate editor of the Christian Science religious periodicals. He succeeds Mrs. Mary Lee Gough Nay of Boston. The term of office is one year.

WAGERS' appointment was announced June 4 by the Christian Science Board of Directors at the annual meeting of the denomination.

A native of Michigan, Wagers has been a Christian Science practitioner since 1925 and a teacher of Christian Science since 1940. From 1946 until he was elected associate editor in 1959, he served as a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. (A14

Q. Is it considered proper for a woman to shake hands with her gloves.

A. Quite proper — and no excuses for the gloves are necessary either.

Q. Is it considered really proper for a man and his wife to kiss when meeting or leaving in public?

A. There's nothing at all wrong with this, but be sure it's a "public" kind of kiss. Long, tender kissing is better done in private. (A14

FULL SPEED AHEAD INTO THE FUTURE!

The exploration of outer space is just one facet of the fabulous future that stirs the imagination and challenges the ingenuity of Americans today.

Newspapers play an indispensable role in progress by providing a means by which research, new product development, new techniques, the problems of the expansion in our changing world can be brought to the public's attention.

Area Young Men Study for Priesthood

Program Long . . . Demanding

by JOHN R. BOYLE

Training a young man for the Catholic priesthood in the Diocesan Seminaries of the Chicago Archdiocese is a long, demanding program. It takes a total of 12 years of prayer, study, self-denial and work.

SEMINARIANS AT ST. MARY of the Lake Seminary, Junior College Department, preparing for the next day's classes are Thomas Schutter of Bensenville and Jerome Woods, 821 S. Mitchell Ave., Arlington Heights. The department is designed to serve as an intermediate study house for first and second year college seminarians. The separation of this intermediate seminary from the minor and major seminaries is a new concept in the Diocesan Seminary program.

The Diocesan Seminary Program of training commences at one of the Quigley Preparatory seminaries, continues at St. Mary of the Lake, Junior College Department in Niles and concludes at the major seminary of St. Mary of the Lake, Mundelein.

At the present time there are 2276 seminarians studying for the priesthood in this program, a record number in the history of the Diocese.

THE PRIME objective is to develop each of these boys into a zealous, intelligent priest, dedicated to the service of God and the faithful. However, this does not mean that each of these seminarians will become a priest. During the long arduous training, seminarians are eliminated for reasons from academic nonfullfillment to poor health. Some boys leave of their own decision after they determine they have no vocation. Probably in no other training are the candidates so thoroughly evaluated so many times.

The seminarian has the opportunity to drop his candidacy anytime prior to his ordination. Once ordained, he is a priest forever with all the powers Christ granted Peter and the other Apostles.

Young men normally enter the seminary after graduation from grammar school. Occasionally, they enter as a transfer student from high school. The first phase is the preparatory seminary. This training is taken at either of the Quigley Preparatory seminaries, depending on where the boys live. In general, boys living South attend Quigley South at 7740 S. Western Avenue. Boys living North and in the distant areas of Cook and Oake Counties attend Quigley North. The distant students attend Quigley North because of the suburban trains to the Loop.

At the preparatory seminaries the curriculum is basically the same as a college preparatory high school course, but there is more emphasis on Latin, Greek, religion and the modern languages. Currently these languages studied are French, Polish, Italian, Spanish and German. At this time there are 1569 boys at the two Quigleys. One interesting departure from normal school life is that Quigley students are off school on Thursday but attend on Saturday. It's tough during the football season.

FOLLOWING graduation from the preparatory institution a seminarian starts the second phase of his training at St. Mary of the Lake, Seminary, Niles. This is a junior college and represents a new concept in the seminary training, having commenced operation in September, 1961. Previously a student went five years to Quigley and then seven years to St. Mary of the Lake, Mundelein. Now the time is four years at Quigley, fifth and sixth years at the college and the last six at the major seminary in Mundelein.

In the intermediate phase, the young men are separated more and more from the secular life. They observe strict silence during certain periods of the day and wear cassocks at all liturgical services. The students stay at St. Mary of the Lake, Niles going home only one week-end each month. During the summer they divide their time between counselling at Catholic Youth Organization camps and vacationing at home. Currently there are 282 candidates studying at this institution.

MEMBERS OF THE "BEADSMEN" of Quigley Preparatory Seminary North are (above) Perry Duderstadt, 303 N. Lincoln Lane, Arlington Heights; Richard Luber, 844 S. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights; Thomas Hilton, 718 Algonquin Road, Bensenville; and James Sieck, Circle Drive, Roselle; (below) Russell Romano, 261 Western St., Hoffman Estates; Gerald Clarke, 606 Greys Court, Prospect Heights; Victor Zielinski, 95 W. Emerson, Palatine; and William White, 301 S. Pine, Mount Prospect. The "Beadsmen" meet in the chapel every afternoon after classes to pray the Rosary as the seminarians have a special devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary. These youths are among 2,276 seminarians now in training under the Diocesan Seminary program.

By CARL F. MEES, Chairman, County Extension Service

Chicago and several Cook County cities and villages were among those cited by the National Safety Council for outstanding accomplishments in traffic safety as reported in the Annual Traffic Inventory for 1961. They were among 238 cities and towns, 30 states and Puerto Rico which received citations.

Another 18 Illinois municipalities also received citations. Those receiving recognition in Cook County were as follows: Chicago received a Certificate of Achievement for maintenance of traffic records, which are necessary for any balanced accident prevention program.

Elgin, and Winnetka each was awarded Certificates of Achievement. Both were cited for maintaining accident records and for traffic engineering. In addition, Elgin received a Certificate for its program of traffic safety education in the schools, and Winnetka in special recognition of its record of no traffic deaths and its program of accident prevention activities.

Evanston, LaGrange, Northbrook, Park Forest, River Forest and Riverside each was awarded one Certificate of Achievement.

Riverside was cited for its exceptional death records and progressive programs of accident prevention activities.

Evanston was awarded a certificate for traffic engineering. The awards to Northbrook and River Forest were for maintenance of accident records.

LaGrange and Park Forest were cited in special recognition for no traffic deaths during the year and their programs of accident prevention activities.

This is a fine record for Cook County. However, it could be improved, therefore our goal this year should be to include on the list of awards every village and city in the county.

Just off the press from the University of Illinois is Bulletin 686 entitled "Space Standards for Household Activities." The title is too descriptive, but the content is quite good. It states among other things the minimum space required for a corridor where people walk single file, two or three abreast; space required for kneeling or bending at right angles, rising from tables and many other similar examples. If you would like a free copy, write or call the Cooperative Extension Service, 201 North Dunton Avenue, Arlington Heights, Illinois, CLearbrook 3-6460.

Lobster Bite Proves Fatal

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., (UPI) —Mrs. O. P. Greathouse, wife of the president and general manager of the St. Nicholas Hotel here, choked to death on a bite of lobster about 11:30 p.m. Friday as the couple celebrated their wedding anniversary by dining alone in a hotel suite.

Sangamon County Coroner W. C. Telford said an autopsy Saturday revealed the cause of death of the 45-year-old woman. She had been eating Lobster Newburg.

A PET ROOSTER carried by visitor at right visits some neighbors, native birds of the Cook County Forest Preserves. The Trailside Museum houses many birds and animals that children will enjoy. (A14

We're Off to Visit Unique Animal Refuge and Museum

(Here is the fourth in a series of articles written for Paddock Publications by Mrs. Connie B. Howes of Northbrook, a free lance writer and housewife. In the series, Mrs. Howes discusses places of interest in the north Chicago area for suburban families to visit.)

by CONNIE B. HOWES

The Trailside Museum is a museum devoted to nature in a unique way. It is a home for living animals as well as exhibits of these animals native to the Cook County Forest Preserves, and some domestic animals. The picturesque towered house built in 1874 at the corner of Chicago and Thatcher Avenues was opened to the public by the Forest Preserve District in 1932. The curator, Miss Virginia Moe has been there 22 years showing tenderness and kindness to all living creatures.

Here children can be introduced to animals in a way they can understand. Kindness and care of animals common to people in Chicagoland area is stressed.

The four small rooms are always crowded with different animals, as well as exhibits. A bird exhibit has a mounted figure of each bird native to the Forest Preserves with a legend under each. But not only are there stuffed birds that can be seen at most museums, there are living birds, and a bird hospital for wild birds. Here the wounded birds are treated with kindness, fed, and then returned to the forest from hence they came. The legends by the cages for these birds will teach your children how to care for a wounded one they may find.

There are balanced aquariums with tropical fish, goldfish, turtles and other amphibians. Perhaps you will learn how to better care for your fish. After seeing their healthy turtles I went home and looked at our sick one. Now I knew what was wrong, the tank was too small and not deep enough. Our turtle is better now.

THERE ARE cages of mice at all different ages along with a cage of common alley rats. These rats came to the museum as babies. By seeing these rats one can better learn the result environment has on living animals.

A white rabbit has been a pet of the museum for years. There is an opposum, skunk, chipmunks and many varieties of squirrels. Children see these animals close up in their well kept cages, and from observing can learn their habits.

Snakes common to the area are there, some live ones, some mounted. No poison snakes are native to Cook County. Snakes are necessary to maintain the balance of nature, and perhaps from seeing them, you will note that they are not as slimey as you always thought.

There are exhibits of both butterflies and insects. A large cage contains guinea pigs, happy and running around. Another interesting exhibit is one correcting many common beliefs people have in regard to wild animals which are wrong. One can observe kindness to animals in many ways.

FAMILIES ARE always welcome, but groups larger must phone for an appointment. The museum is open from 10 to 12, and 1 to 5 daily except Thursday and legal holidays. No admission is charged.

You could walk through the museum in a half hour. But the joy of this museum is for anyone who loves nature and animals. These people can spend hours seeing and learning. It is a place where children of all ages can be introduced to nature. (A14

New Country Club Clubhouse to Open

A new club house with floor to ceiling glass walls on three sides will open next Wednesday at Old Orchard Country Club.

The club house will feature a continental style public dining room known as the Orchard Room. Banquet rooms accommodating 385 people for dining and dancing will be available to clubs and groups.

GOLFERS WILL have the Club Room, which overlooks the first hole of the 18-hole course, for coffee, lunch and dinner.

Shower room facilities for men and women are having the finishing touches applied for the opening.

THE "PRO" SHOP will also be open, as will several lounges, said Lou Sabo, manager and golf "pro."

Grand opening month will be marked during July at the golt course, which is located. at Rand and Euclid Roads in Prospect Heights. (B8

'Selfish Interests' Exploiting Elderly

COMMUNITY CONCERN for the needs of senior citizens was urged Sunday in an address by Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications. Author of a six-part report on the aged of Illinois recently published in the 14 suburban newspapers, Hayes was guest of honor at an open house held at the Bensenville Home for the Aged in recognition of Senior Citizens Week June 4 to 11. (A14

by NANCY ANDERSON

Help for the aged of Illinois and the nation must be determined away from the ballot box and special interest pressure groups.

So declared Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, Inc., in addressing guests Sunday at the first open house at Bensenville Home for the Aged.

Hayes explained that problems of the aged should not be resolved by political expediency but by individuals, communities, and government working together. He accused both sides in the current debate over medical care for aged of "exploiting the elderly for selfish interests."

AUTHOR OF Paddock Publications' recent six-part report on the aged of Illinois, "These Lonely Rooms," Hayes was guest of honor at the open house for civic and business leaders. He said the newspaper series has drawn "controversial, dramatic reaction."

The 17 million elder citizens in the United States have turned into "excellent political fodder," Hayes noted. But, while they constitute the most important social problem in the country, they are also the most ignored, he said.

In summarizing the results of his state-wide investigation, the editor said the aged face serious problems in neglect, isolation, idleness, income, and infirmity. Employment, housing, and medical care are among their most pressing physical needs, he said.

STATISTICS tell the story about the "population explosion among the senior citizens," he explained. One in 10 persons in Illinois is 65 or older for a total of more than one million, most of whom are in need.

"However, we're talking about human beings, not just facts and figures; statistics don't tell the real story. It's time for us to stop working FOR and start working WITH the aged," he declared. "The elderly don't want handouts; they want to be helped out."

The open house at the Bensenville Home was held in conjunction with Senior Citizens Week, being observed in metropolitan Chicago through June 11.

BEGUN 80 years ago as an institution for children, the Bensenville Home was converted seven years ago into a residence for aged. It now has 99 senior residents.

In addition to its services for the aged, the home annually places 70 to 80 children in foster homes and cares for approximately 30 unwed mothers.

A Community Chest agency, the home is supported by the United Church of Christ. (A14

Arlington High Class of '47 Plans Reunion

The 15-year reunion of the Arlington High class of '47 will be held June 30 at Itasca Country Club.

The evening will begin with dinner at 7:30 p.m., followed by dancing and other entertainment. The reunion committee has sent special reservation forms and questionaires to all the graduates they have been able to contact.

The committee is interested in locating the following persons and has asked anyone knowing their addresses to contact Mrs. Marjorie Petersen Scalborn at CL 3-5787: Jeanne Hansen, Judy Markworth, Hume Young and Marjorie Joze. (B8

Telephone Workers Granted Wage Hike

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. on May 30 granted wage increases from $1.50 to $3 a week to employes represented by the Communications Workers of America. (AFL-CIO). A total of 102 employes in Arlington Heights will be affected.

The wage agreement involves 1,500 toll operators and clerks in Chicago and 5,600 local and long distance operators, clerks, supervisors, stenographers and dining room attendants in the area served by the company outside Chicago.

THE WAGE agreement, subject to ratification by union members by June 8, is effective May 20 for employes outside Chicago and July 29 for Chicago employes represented by CWA.

The agreement averages 7.5 cents an hour for the employes in the bargaining groups. It brings their average weekly basic rate to about $76 a week and represents a 3.5 per cent increase. The company said total annual cost of the contract provisions will be $1,100,000.

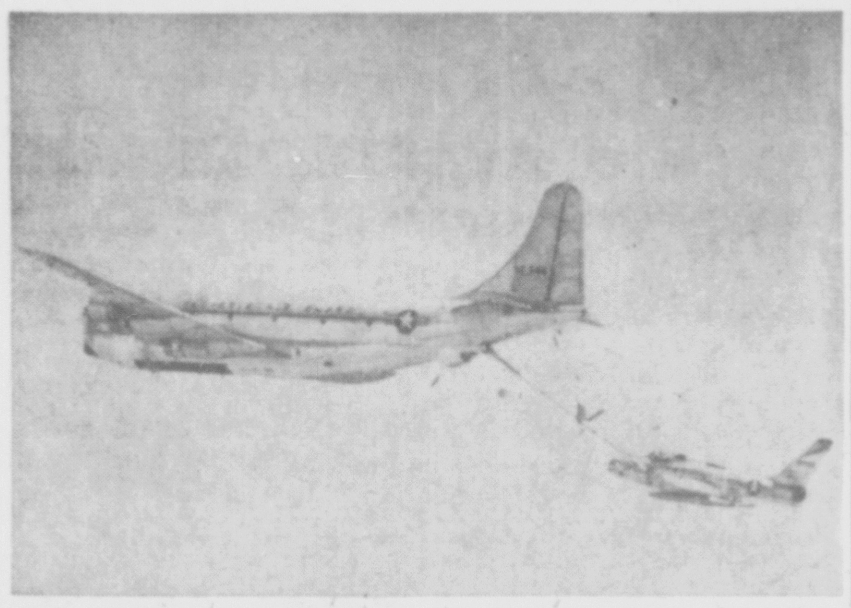
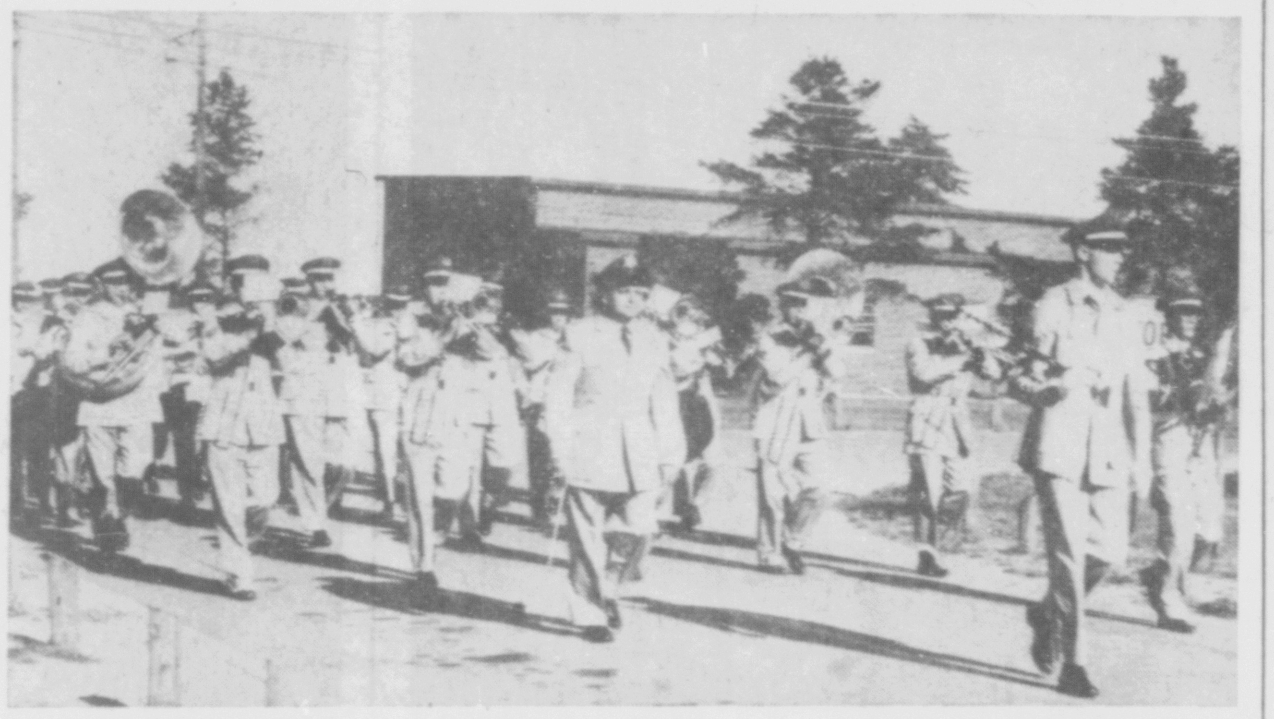
Air Force Offers New Opportunities



ONE OF THE WEEKEND exercises which are a regular part of the training of the Illinois Air National Guard unit which is stationed at O'Hare International Airport, is air refueling a jet in mid-air. (A14



ALTHOUGH THE AIR FORCE is noted for being in the air, there are a certain number of ground exercises. An Illinois Air National Guard unit stationed at O'Hare International Airport is pictured above at one of the regular monthly week-end exercises. The Air Guard is open to high school graduates, and involves six-months active duty and 5½ years reserve duty. (A14

Programs Are Varied, Many

(This is the second in a series of articles concerning various military programs open to young men in the area served by Paddock Publications. Subsequent installments will explain opportunities in the Navy and Army.)

by BILL HOGATE

It is indeed unfortunate that many young men reach military age and are totally ignorant of the many military plans available to them in addition to the draft.

Undoubtedly, the draft into the Army is the best plan for many — but each of the other plans has benefits and opportunities which may better suit some of those men who would otherwise go into the Army.

For instance, in the Air Force, there are the following separate and distinct programs: the regular enlistment, the Air Force Reserve, the Airman Education and the Aviation Cadet program.

ALSO, THE Air Academy, the Officer Training School program, and the Officer Candidate School. The Illinois Air National Guard also offers a six-month reserve program. High school students are eligible for the regular four year enlistment. A select few are eligible for the Air Force Academy.

The regular enlistment is for a period of four years, and, depending on an airman's aptitude, education, and Air Force needs will lead to training in any of a number of Air Force specialties.

Young men between the ages of 17 and 27 are eligible for this program. Young women are also eligible for this program.

TRAINING STARTS at Lackland AFB, Texas, just outside of San Antonio, Tex. After the period of basic training, an airman will be assigned to a job area, and subsequently will be sent to a school where he will learn his specialty.

The U. S. Air Force Academy, located in Colorado Springs, Colo., is the West Point of the Air Force. Men who are appointed to the academy from all 50 states complete a four year course leading to a B.S. degree and a commission as a Second Lieutenant in the AF.

Applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 22, rank high scholastically in high school, and receive a recommendation from their Congressman, among other things.

THERE ARE several Air Force Reserve units open to young men at O'Hare International Airport. A six-month reservist is required to spend six months in basic training, and then has a 5½ year reserve obligation to fulfill.

The obligation includes twice monthly drills and a 15-day summer camp. Training for this program also starts at Lackland AFB.

Most of the six-month programs available at O'Hare are open to both high school and college graduates, but placement is strictly by competitive examination.

Opportunities are somewhat limited for the high school grad applying for the reserve program, according to spokesmen, because of the large numbers of college graduates from the area who are competing for the program.

ONE OF THE newer programs available to young men interested in the Air Force is the Airman Education and Commissioning program.

Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 30, and must have at least one year of "C" average college work at an accredited college or university.

The Air Force assists those who are selected for the program to complete college, after which time they are sent to Lackland AFB to complete pre-commissioning training of three months duration before becoming 2nd lieutenants.

The Avaiation Cadet program is for outstanding high school graduates. Young men between the ages of 19 and 26½ are eligible for this program.

Upon completion of the Avcad program, the men are assigned to either flight school or navigator's school, and receive the same training as do the new officers from the various officer programs who are learning to become pilots or navigators.

ONE OF THE most recent and popular programs of the Air Force is the Officers Training School (OTS).

In 1957, it was suggested a program was needed to complement the Air Force's regular source of officers procurement — Officer Candidate School and the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Program (Air ROTC).

The Air Force felt it was passing up many qualified college graduates who either did not take the AirROTC program, or attended universities which did not offer AirROTC.

OTS WAS THE answer. The program offers the next thing to a direct commission in the Air Force.

Candidates selected for training are sent to Lackland AFB, San Antonio, for a three-months pre-commission course. In this "crash" period, OTS cadets are indoctrinated in a number of Air Force subjects, from drill and leadership to military law.

Upon completion of the training, OTS cadets are commissioned as 2nd lieutenants in the U. S. Air Force Reserve, and serve a period of four years.

OTS cadets are eligible for schooling in a number of technical and administrative fields, as well as flight and navigator training. Those who select the latter are obligated to serve the AF for five years after graduation from the pre-commission school.

THE OFFICER Candidate School program will be rapidly phasing out in the coming year, so it will not be discussed.

According to Brig. General Donald J. Smith of the Air National Guard Wing stationed at O'Hare International Airport, the Air Guard offers much to high school graduates wishing to serve in a six-months program.

The Air Guard airman undergoes the same training the Air Force airman does at Lackland AFB and the various post-graduation technical schools located at various U.S. air bases.

After the six months of basic training, airmen can return to civilian pursuits — spending one weekend a month at O'Hare and attending a two-week summer camp for the remaining 5½-year obligation.

RECRUITING FOR the Air National Guard is handled exclusively at O'Hare. The phone number is CY 6-4411, extension 535.

Recruiting for the Air Force reserve is handled exclusively at AF Reserve Headquarters at O'Hare. Information can be obtained by calling 296-4411.

All of the other regular Air Force programs are handled by the Arlington Heights recruiting statin .iner.e StTh W8,—ing station, 8 W. Miner St. The phone number is 392-1424.

Registration Opens For YMCA Day Camp

Registration is now open for YMCA Day Camp Adventure, operated by Northwest Suburban 'Y' in three 2-week periods of four days a week, beginning June 26.

Boys and girls 7 to 12 years of age are welcome to enroll for the sessions, which include mornings at a reserved shelter in Deer Grove and afternoons at the YMCA.

CHARTERED busses pick up the youngsters at all local elementary schools and return them to the same locations. Day Camp hours are approximately 9 to 5 p.m.

The three periods are the following: first period, June 26 through July 6; second period, July 10 through 20; third period, July 24 through August 3. Each period runs on a Tuesday through Friday basis. On the last Friday of each period a special events program highlights the session.

THE AFTERNOON swim program includes both instructional and recreational swim plus other 'Y' activities.

The low Day Camp fee includes insurance, transportation, milk daily, swim instruction and craft supplies. Campers need only bring their own lunch, swim suit and towel.

FOR THOSE children who are looking for activities on the Mondays of each week during Day Camp periods, the 'Y' offers a "Trip and Dip" program. During the six weeks of Day Camp, each Monday features a special trip to interesting places and a swim in the 'Y' pool to complete the afternoon.

This year's "Trip and Dip" parties will take the children sightseeing on a Lake Michigan boat trip, touring a Coca Cola bottling plant, Hawthorn Mellody Farm, Brookfield Zoo, Schwinn Bicycle Co., and a roller skating event.

THE 'Y' also has two resident camps available for boys and girls. Youngsters 8 to 14 years of age may enroll for 2-week periods at Camp Hastings at Lake Villa, Ill., and those 10 to 17 may register for Kroehler YMCA Camp at Hayward, Wis.

Information and registration for all of the camping and "Trip and Dip" programs may be obtained at the 'Y' or by calling Cypress 6-3376. (B9

Retired Teacher Honored with 'Life'

SUPT. L. R. MURPHY of Mount Prospect and Gladys Ackley, principal of Sunset School, congratulate Mrs. Magnussen on her retirement and on her career as wife, mother, and teacher.

FIRST GRADERS from Mrs. Magnussen's final class at Westbrook School, Mount Prospect, surround her after the surprise program, "This Is Your Life, Olga Magnussen." The program at Trinity Lutheran Church, Rolling Meadows, was planned by the Magnussen daughters as a retirement-birthday gift for their mother.

THIS IS YOUR LIFE
OLGA MAGNUSSEN

MRS. ARTHUR N. MAGNUSSEN, 622 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights, smiles with delight as she hears friends and relatives recount the story of her life leading up to her retirement from teaching this month. She holds a "crying towel" prepared by her daughters who were ready for the tears of joy and surprise that came to her eyes during the program.

215 Attend Surprise Fete

by NANCY ANDERSON

With the exclamation that "This is your life, Olga Magnussen!" 215 family members and friends recently turned "an evening at the concert" into a memorable event for a retiring Mount Prospect teacher.

The evening of May 26 was a "very emotional" one for Mrs. Arthur N. Magnussen, 622 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights, who had no suspicions about the special program planned by her daughters and their families as a combination retirement and birthday gift. Mrs. Magnussen will be 65 June 24.

Daughter Beverly (Mrs. James Henderson), 2303 Park St. Rolling Meadows, originated the plan and got things rolling about two months ago, sending out invitations and requests for information to relatives, co-workers and friends of her mother.

EVEN MRS. Magnussen's first grade class at Westbrook School in Mount Prospect was in on the secret—24 of the 30 students, many with their parents, attended the program.

As the ideas started congealing, the program was organized, with a script in a specially prepared scrapbook, and the trap was laid.

Mrs. Henderson invited her mother to a concert at Trinity Lutheran Church in Rolling Meadows, carefully following the plan by telling her other members of the family and their children would also be there.

THERE WAS no concert, but the guest of honor didn't know until son-in-law Henderson, as master-of-ceremonies, announced, "This evening we will take time to honor the untiring efforts and selfless devotion of a teacher who has spent a number of years seeking an education with one purpose in mind, to educate and train students in this area to become better citizens (and to pass into the second grade)."

Movies, slides, friends and relatives all helped tell the story.

The movies, taken for a birthday gift by Henderson, showed Mrs. Magnussen in her school activities. The big moments in her life—confirmation, wedding and family—were presented through slides prepared from family pictures.

THE WHOLE Magnussen family took part in the show, relating special events, and two brothers and a sister recounted childhood experiences.

Mrs. Magnussen's brother Gothard Waller and sister Mrs. William Stedman, both of Eau Claire, Wis., told of the time they both had their older sister as a teacher in the Eau Claire school about 1920. Mrs. Magnussen was the oldest in a family of 11 children, of which four of her sisters and five brothers are still living. Her brother Alfred, 6828 Beckwith, Morton Grove, was another story-telling guest.

Other tales were related by co-workers and students. Supt. L. R. Murphy of Mount Prospect and Prin. Kenneth Church of Westbrook School, where Mrs. Magnussen is finishing her second year, both appeared. The retiring teacher joined the Mount Prospect system in 1954, spending four years at Lincoln and two years at Sunset before going to Westbrook.

SHE FIRST taught in Wittenberg, Wis., after two years at Stevens Point Teachers College. After teaching at Eau Claire from 1919 to 1923, she went to St. Paul, Minn., where she taught until her marriage on June 19, 1929.

With her marriage she left teaching to assume her role as a farmer's wife, then as a mother of six children. The family, which now includes 14 grandchildren, lived in Wisconsin and Minnesota before coming to Illinois to farm, then moved to Arlington Heights. Magnussen is employed by Bell and Gosset, Morton Grove.

The daughters in addition to Beverly are Jean (Mrs. Kenneth Chappel), of Wauconda; Mary (Mrs. Joseph Civinelli of Mount Prospect; and Dorothy (Mrs. Eugene Leonardi), of Rolling Meadows. Two children, Audrey and Neal, are deceased.

Following the death of Neal in 1945, Mrs. Magnussen was encouraged to begin teaching again; she joined the staff at Palatine Lutheran School in Arlington Heights in 1947. After a year there, she went to Wilson where she started out as the sole teacher for all eight grades and even put in extra time as janitress.

THE YEAR 1954 was a big one for the teacher—she received the bachelor of education degree from Pestalozzi Froebel Teachers College after "hard study, long hours and summer vacations spent to catch up with all the young ones again" and joined the Mount Prospect system.

Co-Workers recounting their experiences with Mrs. Magnussen at these schools were Mrs. Gladys Ackley, Sunset principal who was also at Lincoln with Mrs. Magnussen; Phebe Hager, fellow Lincoln teacher; Maybelle Mitchell, Wilson, Lincoln and Sunset teacher, and Henrietta Klehm former principal and teacher at Wilson..

SAYING "Mrs. Magnussen, my shoes and socks are soaked" Jim Kottke, a former Wilson pupil who is now an Arlington High student, expressed the out-of-class problems the teacher has encountered with hundreds of students through the year.

This year's pupils, the Westbrook first graders, were represented by Gary Hecksel, who gave Mrs. Magnussen a gift certificate from the class.

PSST, MAYOR! YOU'RE ON!

Special All-Outdoors Issue for Supplement

Every article in the June issue of Suburbia Today, which comes to you in this week's edition of Paddock Publications, is a salute to some aspect of life out of doors. To begin with, there is a poem by Robert Frost in which the great poet sings a new song of the open road, in which you'll learn a lot about nature, Mr. Frost, and perhaps about yourself.

There is also the exciting account of how the people of Westport, Connecticut, acquired Longshore, an exclusive country club that is now the pride and playground of all the town's taxpayers.

Noted architect Edward Durell Stone presents his solution for the too-public back yard. Build your house aroud a garden room, says Mr. Stone, and enjoy all the privacy and shelter of your living room, plus light and air and growing things.

famous author of "Father of the THEN, EDWARD Street e r, Bride" and "Chairman of the Bored" tells the hilarious tale of Jeffrey Bottomly, last in a long line of great sportsmen. Jeffrey, too, tried all kinds of athletics—but with the most unexpected results.

For you summer campers, there is some expert advice from a veteran Maine woodsman about equipment, activities, and planning that should help you get the most from your adventures in the out-of-doors.

Golfers whose wives insist they go abroad this summer need not despair. "Saint Andrews, Gavea, and Kasumigaseki Are Waiting," championship courses, all, — and it's easy to get a good game and spectacular scenery, near almost any large city in the world.

Bridal authority Emma Aubert Cole describes all the essentials you should not overlook if you're planning an outdoor wedding. A garden wedding, she says, can be picturesque, romantic and something to remember forever with joy—if you begin with a firm foundation of common sense.

Then, Stuart Levin, the director of the Four Seasons Restaurant in New York explains the fine points of making summer coolers and lighthearted aperitifs—and supplies instructions for a dozen drinks, including Champagne Cassis, Salty Dog, Gimlet, and Planter's Punch.

IN THE FOOD pages, Editor Melanie De Proft presents new, barbecue-tested ideas for the nated Black Pepper Steak, Fiesta Kabobs, Grilled Shrimp in a Basket, and Swiss Cheese Fondue—so, go to it, men!

In addition to cartoons galore on practically every page, "Suburbia—Any Day!" cartoonists find that wherever there are men, chef's hats, and barbecue equipment, "The out-door cook. There's Marinated Black Pepper Steak, Fiesta Kabobs, Grilled Shrimp in a Basket, and Swiss Cheese Fondue—so, go to it, men!

Finally, in the news column, "Getting Around," you will marvel at electronics at the beach, automotives in the Cub Scouts, and monogrammed lawn mowers. (BB

George Wiersema Retires From Continental Bank

An Arlington Heights resident, George Wiersema, 413 S. Carlyle Place, has retired from Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co., after more than 42 years of service. He was a second vice president in the bank's operating department.

WIERSEMA began his banking career in the savings department of Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, a predecessor of the current Continental organization. He has subsequently worked in the bank's auditing and accounting divisions. He was elected an assistant cashier in 1943 and second vice president in 1952.

A graduate of Northwestern University, Wiersema received his certified public accountant's degree from the University of Illinois. He is a member of the Chicago Tax Club.

He and his wife, Ann, are planning to move to Florida.

GEORGE WIERSEMA,

Third Area Office Open For Nelson

BOB NELSON

Robert L. Nelson has announced that effective June 15 their firm will open an office in the Elms Shopping Center at 550 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, increasing the number of offices to three. The other office locations are in Mt. Prospect and Barrington.

This will mean that Nelson Realty will have the most extensive ooverage in the number of offices and number of salespeople, from Mount Prospect to Barrington. Sales volume has increased approximately 40 per cent per year for the past four years, and Mr. Nelson believes that the extensive growth in the northwest makes it mandatory to open branch offices for the utmost service to the public.

Illinois Bell Chorus Concert Set for June 15

The Illinois Bell Telephone Chorus will present its 41st Annual Spring Music Festival Friday, June 15 at Orchestra Hall, at 8:15 p.m., Chicago.

The 75-voice chorus is made up of Bell System employes working in and around the Chicago area. Under the direction of Robert S. Childe, the chorus has become one of the outstanding industrial choral groups in the state. They perform throughout the season, free of charge, before groups at veteran hospitals, churches, schools and civic organizations.

A number of northwest suburban residents are members of the chorus.

The chorus will present a varied program including "Moon River," "Cherubic Hymn," "Hey, Look Me Over," "Through The Years," and a special arrangement by Childe of "God Bless America." The men's chorus will again present their popular specialty numbers. Richard Otto, regular accompanist for the group, will be performing as soloist and William Whitaker will be guest accompanist.

Tickets may be purchased from any chorus member, at the door of Orchestra Hall, or by calling Miss Mary Ann Coppola, 727-4484. (BB

Jack D. Morgan Appointed To New Sears Roebuck Post

Appointment of Jack D. Morgan of Mount Prospect as assistant comptroller in charge of retail accounting was announced today by Sears, Roebuck and Co.

A veteran of 21 years service with the company, Morgan joined Sears in 1941 after graduation from the State University of Iowa. He held accounting posts at Sears stores in Columbus and Cleveland, Ohio, before entering the Navy during World War II.

UPON HIS release from active duty in 1946 with the rank of lieutenant j.g., he returned to Sears in Cleveland as controller of a large retail store. Later he served in similar posts in Mansfield, Ohio, and Grand Rapids, Mich.

In 1955 Morgan was transferred to Chicago as assistant to the Midwestern territory controller, and two years later became controller of the savings and profit sharing pension fund of Sears, Roebuck and Co. employes. Since 1959 he has been on the retail comptroller's staff, which he now heads.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, the former Miss Leola Haye of Hartley, Iowa, reside at 114 N. Pine St. in Mount Prospect. They have three children: Carol, 15; Dale, 9; and Chris, 2. (BB

Clarence I. Davis Retires From Public Service Co.

After an electric utility career spanning 46 years, Clarence I. Davis, 515 S. Vail Ave., Arlington Heights, retired from Public Service Co. June 1. He was staff engineer at the utility's Northbrook headquarters at the time of his retirement.

CLARENCE I. DAVIS

Davis began his career in 1916 at Evanston and, prior to retirement, held the longest service record among the employes in his division. One of his early jobs was the engineering of the first pole line along the company's Skokie Valley right of way.

IN 1924 he transferred to the utility's Chicago office where he served for 22 years in various auditing and accounting posts. He went to Northbrook in 1946 and was made staff engineer here in 1948.

Davis was honored for his service recently at a retirement party at the Villa Venice. Many past and present officers of the company attended.

Long - time residents of Arlington Heights, Davis and his wife, Helen, are active in the First Presbyterian Church. They have lived at their Vail address 34 years; have two daughters, Mrs. Bernard (Helen) Lamont and Mrs. Harry (Betty) Van Fleet, and eight grandchildren.

Davis is a past secretary of the Glencoe Rotary Club. His and flower gardening. (Bb

K-Mart Discount Stores In Kresge Expansion Plans

The S. S. Kresge Company, retail variety-department store, is going ahead full steam in development and expansion of its K-mart Discount Department Store division.

CURRENTLY there are five K-marts operating in Michigan, Illinois, California, and Tennessee. Commitments have been made for 45 additional K-mart openings later this year and in 1963.

According to Kresge president, Harry B. Cunningham, 32 leases for new K-mart stores have been signed, and deals have been approved for 19 additional openings encompassing 17 states and Canada.

Excepting two smaller stores originally planned as Kresge operations, the K-marts will range in size from 60,000 to 130,000 square feet. The majority will include full-scale supermarkets selling complete grocery, meat and produce lines at sharply discounted prices.

CUNNINGHAM declined to predict the eventual size of the K-mart division, which is headed by Vice President C. L. Yohe, but indicated that negotiations are progressing for many more units to open in 1963 and later.

All K-mart stores will feature functional, single-story construction. Streamlined, modern buildings—attractive on the outside, deluxe trim on the inside—are planned. Lighting and fixtures are of the most advanced type, combining customer convenience with efficient store operations. Each K-mart will be surrounded with well-lighted, paved parking area, designed to handle approximately 1,000 cars.

THE EXPANSION plans of the Kresge Company are not confined to the K-mart division alone. Kresge variety store openings have been projected at 40 for 1962, with more planned for 1963 and later. The majority of these units will be built in shopping centers.

Currently the Kresge chain includes over 800 variety and discount units from coast to coast in 42 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, and Puerto Rico. In addition to the variety store and K-mart divisions, Kresge also operates a Jupiter division consisting of limited selection discount stores. The operations of the chain are directed from the company's executive and buying offices in Detroit. (BB

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by James Fizzell
Assistant Farm Advisor

Alert Homeowners
Dial Daily 392-3060

Many lawns have begun to turn yellow even where fertilizer was applied in early spring. This is because the fertilizer, particularly the nitrogen has been used up by the grass plants.

Right now it is important to apply a fertilizer containing a high amount of nitrogen to green up the grass and keep it growing.

Since grass is somewhat tender now, try one of the slow acting fertilizers. They don't burn as easily and do last longer. Be sure to apply the material at the recommended rate, and water thoroughly if it doesn't rain after the treatment.

IS THERE moss showing up in your lawn? The presence of moss in lawns can be due to a number of factors, all of which can be traced to environmental or soil conditions, that are detrimental to the growth of turf grasses.

If moss is present in a lawn it is a good indication that something is preventing the grass from growing. The most common factor is depleted soil. Moss is much better adapted to growing in poor soil than grass. Proper fertilizing will help the grass to grow and eliminate the moss.

Poor drainage can also be responsible for moss. Low spots in the lawn should be filled in to provide natural runoff of water. In some cases, tile will be necessary to get proper drainage.

EXCESSIVE SHADE is a factor which is common in city lawns. Thinning tree branches can be helpful, but a grass such as creeping red fescue or Poa trivialis which is adapted to shaded areas should be sown.

Few lawn grasses grow well in acid soil. The only way to tell if soil is acid is to have it tested. Contact our office at 201 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights, for information on soil testing. If the soil is acid, the results of the test will give instructions on how to correct the situation with lime.

In areas where there is a dense mat of moss in the lawn, it should be killed by spraying with a 5 per cent solution of iron sulfate. This will stop the moss from growing while the lawn grasses become established provided that the factors responsible for the moss are remedied.

HOT WEATHER means insect problems. Have you found it difficult to keep track of all the different spray recommendations? If you have, we may have the answer to the problem. An all-purpose insect spray — whether you mix it yourself or have your garden supply center do it for you—the ingredients can help solve all of the home garden insect problems, whether they be with trees, shrubs, or other garden plants.

What are these magic mixes? No. 1 includes a combination of DDT plus Malathion and Kelthane, while with No. 2 you substitute Sevin plus Kelthane.

Combine the ingredients according to the application rates recommended on the individual container, and apply accordingly.

A caution, the malathion in spray No. 1 may injure Canaert Junipers! (BB

Craig entered the service in October 1958. (WUS

Suburb Man Killed By Passenger Train

A 45-year-old Arlington Heights man was killed last weekend when he evidently walked in front of a high-speed passenger train in downtown Arlington Heights.

Dead is Albert Jakubick, of 213 S. Chestnut. He was identified as a freight handler for the railroad.

Jakubick was killed about midnight Friday. His death was witnessed by Mrs. Peter Mulvey, of 338 N. Smith, Palatine, who was waiting at the Arlington Heights depot for a commuter train to Palatine.

Mrs. Mulve told police officers that Jakubick ignored the flashing red warning lights and track crossbars, which were down.

HE DUCKED under the crossbars and was continuing across the tracks on the sidewalk on Evergreen when struck by northbound Chicago and North Western train 507, a non-stop passenger to Crystal Lake.

The train, on track number three, the one farthest south, threw Jakubick 150 feet. His body came to rest between Dunton and Evergreen on the walk area, after striking the low cement wall.

Police at first were unable to identify the victim. They found his wallet, but it contained only a small amount of currency and a train ticket — no identification.

THE BODY was taken to the county morgue.

Police continued an investigation into the man's identity and found that Jakubick, known to many of the veteran officers, was missing. His sister, Mrs. Mary Frigo, of 33 W. Campbell, identified the clothing as belonging to her brother.

Later, Mrs. Frigo and another sister, Mrs. Betty Hill, of 213 S. Chestnut, and a brother-in-law, Joseph Luban, of 1 S. Vail, identified the body.

No explanation was given as to why Jakubick failed to see the train or heed several warning blasts the train sounded as it went through the village. Engineer on the train was Frank Purdy, of Bellwood.

An inquest is planned following Jakubick's funeral. (B8

In Germany

A/S4 Helmut Weiss, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm H. Weiss, 404 Virginia Place., Wheeling, recently participated in Grand Slam I, a five-day Central Army Group (CENTAG) exercise in Germany.

Grand Slam I involved headquarters units from the German, French and U. S. Armed Forces which are assigned to CENTAG, and was designed to test operational plans and procedures of these forces. CENTAG is a major element of NATO in Europe.

Weiss, a cook in the 29th Transportation Battalion's 547th Company in Boblingen, Germany, entered the Army in December 1957 and arrived overseas on this tour of duty in February 1960. His wife, Rosalinde, is with him in Germany. (WUS

Aboard USS Arneb

Howard O. Elliott Jr., fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard O. Elliott Sr. of 2507 Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, is serving aboard the attack cargo ship USS Arneb, which returned to Norfolk, Va., on May 25, after a round-the-world cruise.

The 60-foot vessel spent three months in the Antarctic region, delivering supplies to American scientific stations on the remote continent and evacuated the Seabee battalion that was responsible for assembling the power plant during the short Antarctic summer.

Enroute back to Norfolk the ship visited ports in New Zealand, Australia, the Republic of South Africa, Brazil and Puerto Rico, after logging more than 40,000 nautical miles. (WUS

Untitled Paintings Named by Art Critic

By LUCILE ERNST

One of the most interesting restaurants to me in our area is the Maitre D', in Elk Grove. I pop in there once in a while to see which paintings are being shown. There are always new paintings displayed since they sell well there and quite often one is given an opportunity to see an artist's work who has not formerally exhibited in this area. It can be quite exciting.

Many of Pat Schoonover' works were being exhibited at the Maitre D' the last time I was there. I liked her "After the Show," a large oil of a tired clown. The entire composition reflects a sense of completion. Her still lifes are realistic but most unusual. "Onions," which sounds like an ordinary still life is a great deal more. By the very clever use of color and composition, "Onions" engages the eye with its urgency and movement. The sheer vitality of this picture makes it worth seeing.

ONE OF THE most tremendously effective paintings I have seen in a long time is a face of Christ by Thomas Kowal. There is a great deal of organization of planes and it is done in a cubistic style in reds and black. One feels the very genuine pathos that the artist feels. It is an enormously moving painting.

Kowal exhibited another painting which was so entirely different it would seem it could not be painted by the same artist. This was a free but quite realistic painting of a musician. Although a very modern concept and technique is used, somehow an old world charm seeps through. After looking at Kowal's "Musician" for awhile, I knew it had two qualities in common with his cubistic Christ. Both paintings exhibit a high degree of craftsmanship and complete honesty.

I HAD BETTER explain one point of honor. Artists have a tendency not to bother too much with names for their paintings. It doesn't seem very important and it isn't for the appreciation of a painting. It is, however, practically impossible to write about a particular picture unless it has some sort of name. I use the one the artist supplies, if he does supply it. If not, I make one up. So far, artists have been most sporting about it and I haven't been clobbered. I suppose they are sometimes dismayed or possibly just surprised at the names I have given them, but they never say anything. I suppose it's just as well. The reason I brought this up is that I didn't see any names on either of Mr. Kowal's paintings so I gave them the most descriptive ones I could think of. If he has other and possibly better names, I stand corrected.

On June 1, the Mount Prospect Art League held their last meeting of the season at the Villa Venice. The business meeting followed a dinner for the members. Each member was asked to bring a painting for criticism by Mr. Fischer, a Critique.

On Sept. 4, the Mount Prospect Art League resumes its activities. Memberships are available at $4 per person, $5 per couple. For further information write Murial Liljequist, 113 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect, Ill. (Bill

Arts, Crafts Fair Set for August 10-12

Northwest suburban artists and craftsmen will have an opportunity to show their handiwork at the Second Annual Arts and Crafts Fair to be held in a model home in the Brigadoon subdivision of Cary Aug. 10-12.

The Fair, in which both amateurs and professionals may participate, attracted more than 100 entries last year including some well-known professional artists. Among these were Earl Rasmussen and Eric Haase, both of Crystal Lake, Mrs. Eleanor Rosenfeld, Barrington, and Sykes Horn, Palm Beach, Fla.

MEDIA included in the Fair showings were oils, watercolors, charcoal, sculpture, mosaic tile, woodworking, knitting and other handiwork, Mrs. Dolores Budd, spokesman for the committee sponsoring the event, said.

During the Fair, a group of musicians will play chamber music for the benefit of visitors. Included in this group is Mrs. Evelyn Stolfa, who plays the recorder, an ancient flute-like instrument.

Exhibitors at the Fair may price their works for sale, Mrs. Budd said. (Bill

OFFICERS OF MUSIC on Stage, Inc. are shown after their election May 28. They are Joyce Wahlquist, 109 Sixth St., Wheeling, secretary; Jacqui Cassel, 13 S. Owen, Mount Prospect, vice president; Pat Ryan, Lake Zurich, president; and Lou Lindeman, 916 N. Gibbons, Arlington Heights, treasurer. The 1963 spring production will be Meredith Willson's "The Music Man." Suburbanites interested in music or stage directing are invited to contact Pat Ryan at GE 8-1376 or Joyce Wahlquist at LE 7-0297.

Edens Art Fair to Open in Wilmette

The sixth annual Edens Plaza arts and crafts fair will be held in Wilmette Saturday and Sunday, June 23 and 24, from noon until dusk each day. Rain postponement dates are June 30th and July 1st.

Artists from this area who will display their work among the more than 150 varied and colorful exhibits are: Orville G. Bolte, 1314 W. Euclid, Arlington Heights; Rosemary Ahrens, 1824 Rand Road, Des Plaines; Evelyn Mitchell, 106 S. Edward, Mount Prospect; Frances M. Kubricht, 605 S. Elm St., Mount Prospect; Christl Hansen, 110 S. Edward, Mount Prospect; Jane Bennett, 2329 Walters, Northbrook.

Also, Ruth Prentiss Healy, 1114 Canfield Rd., Park Ridge; James A. Dunham, 425 S. Chester Ave., Park Ridge; Gertrude E. Dunham, 425 S. Chester Ave., Park Ridge; Charlotte Whitman, 315 Fairview, Park Ridge; Edith R. Goodale, 615 Austin, Park Ridge; and Alice Goodman, 1603 Orchard Drive, Prospect Heights.

ARTS AND crafts to be exhibited include oil paintings, water colors, etchings, portrait sketching, sculptures, hand-wrought jewelry, ceramics, stoneware pottery, mosaics, and many other original and creative works of art.

A special attraction during the two day event wll be Frank Yakoubek, a strolling accordionist, who will be on hand each day to play the visitors' favorite requests.

A brochure will be available, at no cost, to the fair patrons to help them locate their favorite artist. Refreshment centers will be located throughout the area. Free parking is available for 1700 cars.

The Fair will be located at Lake Avenue, Skokie Boulevard and Edens Expressway in Wilmette. (Bill

Set Outdoor Indian Pageant June 12-16

The Song of Hiawatha Pageant, which started as a Boy Scout campfire project 35 years ago and has developed into one of the nation's most colorful and spectacular outdoor Indian pageants, will be presented June 12-16 at Elgin, Ill.

More than 200 persons are involved in the production, with 120 in the cast.

Carl H. Parlasca, originator of the pageant, serves as director and narrator. Parlasca has spent most of his life studying the Indian, his legends and traditions. He is an adopted member of several tribes and has lived among the Indians on a number of reservations.

GREAT CARE is given to detail and authenticity. Most of the costuming is Indian made, some very old and originating at reservations in the West. Even the wood used to build the fire in "Old Nakomis Lodge" is pinion from a western Indian reservation.

The show is held in a section of the Fox River Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America camp, Big Timber, and has been built and rebuilt until it is a scale model of the real "Hiawatha" country which ranged from the Lake Superior region to South Dakota.

There are several stages surrounding a two acre lake built for the production and at times the show is like a three ring circus with action taking place at several locations simultaneously.

SPECIAL lighting effects, including black light, have been created and result in one of the most unusual shows seen anywhere, either inside or out of doors.

Each performance starts at 8:30 p.m. in order to take advantage of the natural sunset. Parking facilities are available at the pageant site which is located five miles west of Elgin on Big Timber Road. (Bill

In Hawaii

Pvt. Gordon I. Geffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Geffe, 899 W. Brookside St., Palatine, is serving in Thailand with the 25th Division's 27th Infantry (Wolfhounds). The 27th Infantry was the first U. S. Army combat unit in Thailand, as President Kennedy announced the movement of U. S. Forces to that country.

Geffe is part of the main body of Wolfhounds who journeyed to Thailand and participated in Air Cobra, a SEATO exercise, late last month. The 27th Infantry remained in Thailand at the invitation of the Thai government to participate in jungle training exercises with units of the Royal Thai Army.

The main body of Wolfhounds is presently being reinforced by personnel of other 25th Infantry Division units from their home base at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.

An assistant machinegunner in the infantry's Company B, he entered the Army in September 1961, completed basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and arrived overseas last December.

The 19-year-old soldier is a 1961 graduate of Palatine Township High School. (WUS

'Gold Cadillac' Was Polished Production

BY JIM PHILLIPS

Village Theatre, Inc. drove its dramatic vehicle into the Paddockland garage Friday night, tuned up the performance engine, polished the characterization chrome, and locked the dialogue doors tightly. The result was "Solid Gold Cadillac," a production that was not only slick and fast-paced, but thoroughly funny.

The play itself has been written to move rapidly from one scene to another, thanks to accomplished typewriter-tacticians Howard Teichmann and George S. Kaufman—but this isn't necessarily a guarantee that the director will follow-through. Fortunately for the players and the audience, Richard Tyler simply took "Cadillac" for what it was worth, and steered accordingly. I saw this production as the best Village Theatre has done to date, with credits to just about everyone concerned in placing the comedy before the Paddockland public.

THE STORY OF "Cadillac" is not an unusual one from the structure standpoint. It opens with a set plot routine, has the routine interrupted by the introduction of its chief character (Mrs. Laura Partridge, stockholder), and for a climax reverts back to the situation presented in the opening. Clear? Well, I didn't think so. At any rate, all this is the basis for some hilarious doings in and out of the politico-big business world.

Harriet Smith carried the difficult role of Mrs. Partridge beautifully. Her voice is probably the greatest of her talents. She can raise it to a point of door-creaking sarcasm, or she can lower and smooth the delivery until a motherliness creeps out. The four business wrecks—'er, I mean execs, were a whacky quartet, especially when they were grouped together in argument. Bob Hawley was a classic example of a money-hungry, woman-chasing prestige-seeker; John Grayson was in stride as the hobby-happy member of the foursome; John Lobenhofer rang a hilarious bell as the mousy, excitable stooge; and Pat O'Dea did a fine job bringing out all the villain-like legal-eagleness of the fourth member of the panic-panel.

As the company ex-president, now Defense Secretary, Red Pownall put a splendid bit of frosting on his own acting cake. It was his finest portrayal thus far in his Village Theatre acting career. The two secretaries in "Cadillac" were excellent answers to the question, "How different can girl-Fridays be?" Carol O'Dea as the plain-Jane who suddenly becomes a delicious dish was effective in voice and appearance; Alice Linde's Miss Logan was just looney enough to dwell on the brink of out-and-out Olsen-and-Johnsonism. Lou Brown rounded out the secondary roles with a competent delivery of the mail clerk's lines. with regard to the rest of the Specifics aren't necessary cast, which went its merry way, enjoying as well as performing.

From the directing standpoint, Dick Tyler's efforts resulted in an exact, fast-moving delivery of comedy. There were a few minor drawbacks: the announcer's opening words came too soon for the unprepared, unsettled audience, strictly because he was cued too rapidly—the house lights hadn't completely faded. Also, the curtain-closing and killing of the lights could have been accomplished more rapidly at the end of the play, permitting a quick, complete black-out to accompany Mrs. Partridge's final line. However, Mr. Tyler's common sense tactics with staging of the action, and planning of gestures was a major factor in putting "Cadillac" across to the ready-to-relax audience.

THE MOST IMPORTANT example was the scene in which Red Pownall delivered the "Spartacus to the Gadiators" monologue. With the Tyler direction as a guide, Red made full use of his own abilities, including a wonderfully-comic bit of leg-kicking and hand-waving; at this point, his ability to Shakespearianize his verses made the excerpt that much more ridiculous—and genuinely funny. Not to be overlooked was the director's concern with line-reaction as well as delivery. When one of the four business cronies was speaking, the other three were right on the button with frowns, open mouths, twitching-lips, and bulging eyes.

The scene involving the company's advertising plans was a highlight of the first act. (D'Anne Vogel came out modeling a bathing suit and four people in my row bumped heads trying to get a better view of her dimensions!) D'Anne, by the way, can deliver an unsexy line with more steam heat than a Pittsburgh boiler factory.

Although "Solid Gold Cadillac" is not one of those plays that invites all manner of richly-endowed set decoration, Village Theatre still managed to make everything look attractive and purposeful. The production crew, by this time, knows its business pretty well when it comes to building up and tearing down within the dimensions of Prospect High's theater.

As a final fling for the season, the Teichmann-Kaufman comedy was an excellent choice, and will no doubt have Village Theatre followers scrambling for tickets in the fall. And, as extra incentive, Director Tyler will be back as a permanent fixture. (Bill

Season Opens

Kim Hunter in O'Hare Stint

KIM HUNTER

Both sides of the Atlantic are well represented in the original Broadway production of "Write Me a Murder," which opened Monday to launch the first season of the new O'Hare Inn Theater, at Higgins and Mannheim Roads next to O'Hare International Airport.

Kim Hunter, one of America's top actresses, is supported by a cast of British favorites, including actors Donald Harron, who last appeared in Chicago in "Look Back in Anger" and Harry Geldard, seen in Brendan Behan's hit, "The Hostage."

The play itself — English in setting—is the newest work by "Dial M for Murder." Knott, an Englishman, is now married to an American and living in New York, making the international flavor of the play's cast especially appropriate.

THE PLAYING of "Write Me a Murder" at O'Hare Inn Theater marks the first time a Broadway hit has come direct from New York to a summer theater stage. O'Hare Inn Theater has even purchased the original set for "Write Me a Murder," which just ended its successful New York run.

Miss Hunter enthuses about the prospect of continuing her starring role for the two-week run at O'Hare Inn Theater, with the play being done exactly as it was in New York. "Acting in a play like 'Write Me a Murder' is great fun," she says.

Miss Hunter has chalked up successes on the stage, TV and movies, but admits her first love is the Broadway stage. It's just 10 years since she won Hollywood's coveted Academy Award for her supporting role in "A Streetcar Named Desire," a role she first created on the stage.

She is also well known for TV roles on top dramatic shows, her appearances including two by Rod Serling, "Requiem for a Heavyweight" and "The Comedian" and "Give Us Barabbas" on the Hall of Fame.

'Big Show' To Set Up On June 20

"The Greatest Show on Earth," which might properly fly from its banner the proud boast that it has been around the world in 92 years, brings its 1962 edition to Chicago for 12 days beginning Wednesday, June 20 through July 1, at the International Amphitheatre.

For this is the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, traditionally labeled "The Big One" by the entertainment fraternity. Matinees will be every day at 2 p.m. except Saturday at 2:30 p.m. Three performances on both Saturdays at 10:30 a.m., 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

TO ENHANCE the international quality of the Big Show, its president, John Ringling North, spent months on a talent quest in alll European capitals, key cities and touring circus stands, and engaged the largest number of star acts and circus novelties that has been assembled in the last 18 years.

Elephants are a synonym of the circus. These huge amiable and intelligent beasts attract more attention than any other feature of the huge circus.

Dundee Schedules Outdoor Art Show

The Dundee Outdoor Art Festival, to be held Saturday and Sunday, June 9 and 10, is the child of last year's Northwest Suburban Art Show held at Arlington Market.

Jack Brinkley, coordinator of the Arlington Heights exhibit, will serve in the same capacity at Dundee's first art show, and many local artists who exhibited at the Arlington Market show will exhibit at the Dundee Festival, to be held on the banks of the beautiful Fox River and the streets of Dundee.

WELL OVER A hundred artists will exhibit, Brinkley said. They will include professionals from Elgin, Arlington Heights, Barrington, Mount Prospect, Chicago, Algonquin and several Northshore suburbs.

The Dundee exhibition is unique, with many added festive touches, most of them in the French manner. Food and drink will be served at "sidewalk cafe" tables, while strolling musicians, street bookstalls and flower carts will add to the color.

ANDREW BENSON, professional artist and illustrator from Carpentersville, will hold his children's art classes in the open, as part of the show, and invite visitors to sit in and learn.

Ballots will be available, so the public may vote for "my favorite work of art in this show." A $25 prize will be given to the winner. First, second and third place ribbons of merit and two $25 first prizes will be awarded by judges to the high school and adult classes.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it proper to write a few lines of good wishes on the card that you enclose with a wedding gift?

A. While not necessary, this is a quite proper and nice thing to do.

Q. When invited to someone's home and the hostess has small dishes of potato chips and peanuts placed on tables, is it proper for a guest to help himself without being asked?

A. Since obviously these dishes are there for the guests, it is quite all right to help yourself.

Q. If I am in a group of persons and someone whom I do not know joins us, should I introduce myself to him or should I ask someone else in the group to introduce us?

A. Neither is necessary. If you happen to have something to say to the stranger, you would address him just as if he had been introduced to you.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS: The speaker of the evening will be The Rev. H. A. Kossack of the 1st Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights, addressing the 57 graduates of the high school on the subject "Training for Service."

The Community Dining Room, operated successfully last fall by the Arlington Heights Relief Committee and cooperating organizations, will close today, Friday.

Memorial Day in Arlington Heights, with weather cool and fair, with the exception of passing clouds, was oberved in regular form by organizations of ex-soldiers and their auxiliaries. Robert Reed of the Grand Army of the Republic, was the guest of honor; the only remaining representative here of the "Boys of '61." Commander George Davidson, as master of ceremonies, gave the address of greeting; Commander Phil Engelking delivered the chaplain's prayer, and the speaker of the day was County Commissioner Homer J. Byrd, an Arlington Heights resident. The VFW ritual was held at the grave of Raymond Oefelein, as for all departed comrades. Merle Guild Post of the American Legion held their service at the grave of Merle Guild. The Boy Scout Troops 5 and 7, commanded by Scout Masters Keith Chidley and Arthur McElhose, held their ritual at the grave of their comrade, Edward Kreft.

The passing of Mr. Wilke brought to mind his faithful service as lamp lighter; filling the lamps with gasoline in the forenoon, lighting them at dusk and turning them off at midnight, and O such nights as some of them were in winter.

WHEELING: Fourteen graduates from the grade school are: Marjorie Mohr, Genevieve Kassell, Louise Kassell, Betty Taylor, Martha Nein, Rollin Johnson, Douglas Cargill, Willard Ehlers, John Bargo, Homer Cokenower, Theodore Nein, Matthew Laskofsky, Norman Grandt and Alvin Bucher.

MOUNT PROSPECT: The graduation class from the public school this year is the largest in the school's history—seventeen. Members are Lorrayne Jonas, Ione Davis, Helen Parke, Eunice Ivers, Ethel Mundt, Warren Edwards, Raymond Helfogt, Robert Senne, Billy Salzman, Emma Kosmin, Audrie Davis, Harry Walsh, Virginia Deering and Ray Salzman.

SCHAUMBURG: Mrs. Mary Mahn, nee Piseil, who died last week has made her home on the farm, 1½ miles west of Palatine Road on Central, Schaumburg, for 38 years. She leaves a large family of descendants—57, besides other relatives.

PALATINE: Nobody can ever say again that the unemployed in Palatine are not ready to work. They are not only ready, but willing to donate their service to a civic cause. When inquiry was made of T. C. Hart and John Meyer if there was any way that Hillside cemetery could be cleaned up before Decoration Day, Mr. Hart's reply was "Yes, how many men do you want?" Mr. Henry Gaare, who offered to boss the job, refused to take more than 8, but there could just as easily have been 25 workers there. The men on the "unemployed" list were glad of the opportunity to show their appreciation for things that have been done for them.

BENSENVILLE: Mrs. Emma Sophie Stanger, nee Vehe was born April 12, 1858, at Plum Grove, near Palatine. There she received her schooling. When grown, she left the home of her parents and followed her brother, William Vehe, at that time a student of theology in the Evangelical Seminary, near Marthasville, Mo., and served as a helper in the household. Nov. 9 she was married to Rev. G. H. Stanger, and shared with him in the work of the congregations to which he was called. A few years ago Rev. Stanger being in ill health, retired from the ministry, and moved to Bensenville. She leaves to mourn her husband, son Otto Stanger, two brothers, Rev. William Vehe of Cherokee, Ia., and Charles Vehe of Chicago. Three years ago Rev. and Mrs. Stanger celebrated their golden wedding.

ELK GROVE — ARLINGTON Heights: Dietrich Friedrichs, 413 N. Pine Ave., Arlington Heights, passed away May 26 at the home of his youngest daughter, Mrs. William Milligan, aged 70 years, leaving a family of 11 living children and 15 grandchildren. Mr. Friedrichs was born Sept. 9, 1852 in Hanover, Germany. He came to America at the age of 3 with his parents, their first home being on a farm near Barrington. The larger part of his life he lived in Elk Grove, near Algonquin Road, West of Arlington Heights Road, there he engaged in farming. Jan. 12, 1876 he married Miss Maria Pauling of Itasca. Twelve children were born to this union. Eleven are living: Edward, a farmer near Woodstock; Dick, Mount Prospect; Mrs. Emma Kerth, Los Angeles; Mr. Louis of Deerfield; Mrs. Clara Niebuhr, Chicago, and Henry of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Christina Toepper, Des Plaines; Mrs. Ella Dohe, Bensenville; Mrs. Amanda Meyer, Roselle, and Mrs. Gertrude Milligan, Arlington Heights. He has lived in Arlington Heights the past 22 years.

Contest for Soloists Is Announced

A $200 cash award and an appearance as soloist in concert with the Northwest Symphony Orchestra will be the first prize in a Contest for Instrumental Soloists being sponsored by the Northwest Symphony Orchestra Association.

A second prize of $75 and an appearance as soloist with the orchestra is also being offered, it was announced this week.

The Northwest Symphony is celebrating the beginning of its second decade under the direction of Perry Crafton this fall.

THE AUDITIONS committee —Mrs. John Schwenke, chairman, and Dr. William Heller, both of Des Plaines, and Robert Johnson of Park Ridge — announces that the contest will be held next December with a deadline of Oct. 1 for entry into the contest.

There are no limits as to age or professional status of the contestant. Anyone interested in receiving an entry blank and brochure giving the contest rules may call VA 4-7727 or write Mrs. John Schwenke, 954 Prairie Ave., Des Plaines.

Judges for the contest will be outstanding musicians from the Chicago area. (Bill

Knights' Highlights for 1961-62

Curtain Comes Down On Another Big Year At Prospect

Foundry Rd. School in Spotlight

(The athletic campaigns at both Arlington and Prospect High Schools have terminated for the 1961-62 school year. Paddock Publications will present a rundown of the highlights of each school's varsity athletic program, starting this week with Prospect High).

The all-round performances of Bruce Andrise in football.

Tommy Thomas' sharpshooting in basketball.

Doug Vaughan's work on the mat in wrestling.

Mike Francek's slugging in baseball.

Four outstanding athletes and four big reasons why Prospect High School experienced another creditable year in Interim League and schoolboy athletics.

THE 1961-62 school year didn't measure up to the two previous varsity campaigns at the Foundry Road establishment, but there were some memorable moments, bringing tears and cheers to Prospect followers.

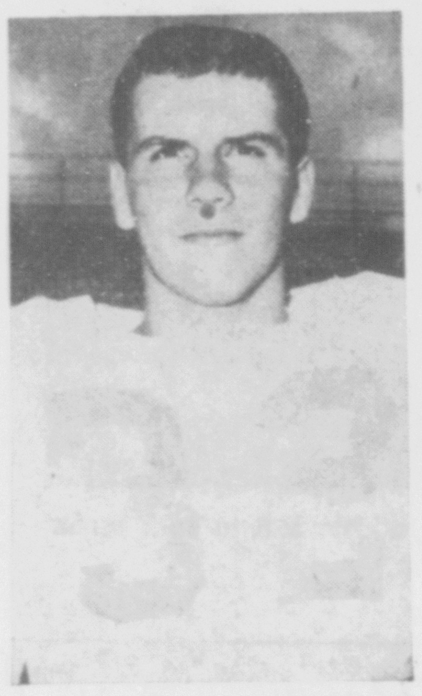
Andrise, Thomas, Vaughan, and Francek were just four names from the list of outstanding athletes who brought more recognition to Prospect High School. In three years Prospect has blossomed into a first-class athletic power in the Chicago suburban area.

An 18-game victory string in football came to an end when Proviso West dumped the Knights, 13-0. Coach Bill Beckman's outfit opened with six straight wins, then dropped two straight to finish with a creditable 6-2 standard and third place in the Interim League.

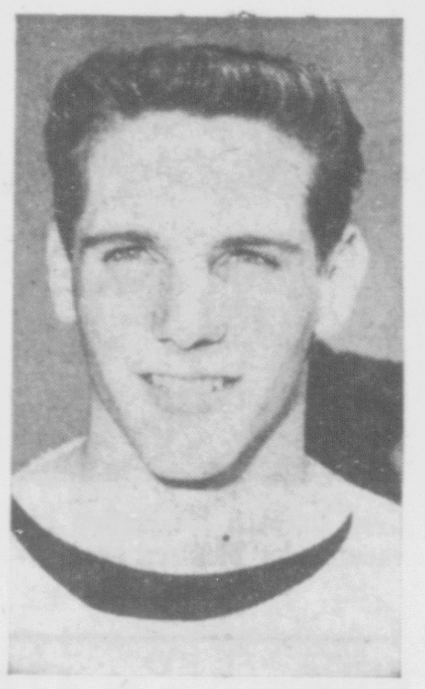
ANDRISE WAS the workhorse and individual standout, an all-league selection, and near-miss on the various All-State squads. Bruce carried 124 times for 716 yards and a 5.7 per carry average and scored ten touchdowns and two extra points.

Andrise and junior Ron Aukamp were named to the all-conference team. Tommy Thomas was another standout, alternating between halfback and quarterback, who just missed all-star recognition.

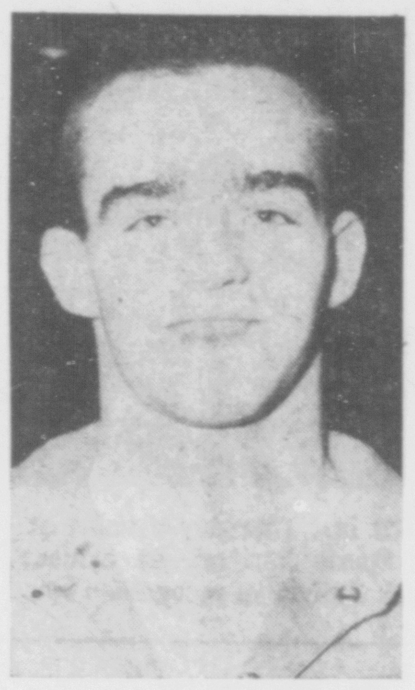
In cross country Prospect finished eighth in the Interim League run with Rog Luedke claiming a ninth. Coached by Ken Arneson, the Knights' harriers finished sixth overall in the league with a 3-4 dual meet standard. Prospect ran tenth in the district with Luedke 18th.



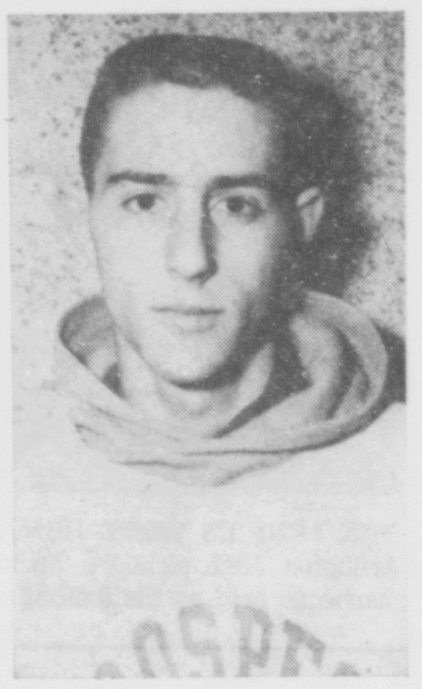
BRUCE ANDRISE



TOMMY THOMAS



DOUG VAUGHAN



WAYNE ZAEHLER

WORKING with an inexperienced alignment, Coach Dick Kinneman molded another representative basketball team at Prospect, a club that finished with a commendable 15-8 record and tie for third place in the Interim League. The Knights were third in the Kankakee tourney.

Thomas sparked the squad all season with some fancy shooting performances that netted him 402 markers and a school percentage record from the free throw line. Tommy earned all-league honors.

In three years Kinneman-guided units have compiled a 62-12 standard.

COACH RICK Farris' varsity gymnasts finished second in the district, tenth in the state, and third in the conference meet. Dick Anderson was the Knights' top finisher on a state level with a third place on the side horse.

Anderson, Dick Liebenow on the still rings, and Warren VanderVoort on the high bar picked up firsts in the district action. Gary VanderVoort won the parallel bars event in the Interim.

In wrestling Coach Dick Mudge guilded his Knights to a 7-3-1 record in the Interim and fifth place finish. Vaughan and junior Wayne Zaehler were all-league selections with Zaehler landing the Knights' only point in the state meet at Arlington. Wayne whipped Edwardsville's Bob Nelson 3-2 in the wrestle-back.

Prospect was seventh in the Palatine Sectional and second in its own district.

Vaughan lost only two bouts all season and one was to the state champion. Doug won district and sectional crowns at 133.

SWIMMING JOINED the athletic family at Prospect High in the 1962-63 school year and although Coach Don Barrett's outfit experienced only a mediocre debut record-wise, there were some impressive achievements by the tankers with promise for the future.

The spring campaign was highlighted by a strong track squad that won nine of 11 duals, finished third in the Interim League indoor test and fifth outdoors, third in the district, and sixth in Class A of the Palatine Relays.

Four boys qualified for the state finals with Jim Anderson in both the high and low hurdles, Tom Bremner in the high hurdles, and Dick Westergaard and Dan Johnson in the pole vault.

IN THE Interim League outdoor meet the top finishes for Coach Bob Scott's Knights were recorded by Cliff Stock in the mile run, Dave Gobeille in the high jump, Anderson in the high hurdles, and Gary Marks in the 220. They each fashioned thirds.

An eighth place finish in the Interim League standings was recorded by the Prospect varsity linksmen under the direction of new coach Bill McKillip.

The Knights were seventh in the conference tourney at Chevy Chase with Chris Bersted carding an 83. Prospect was eighth in the district with John Krause's 80 leading the way.

COACH RICK Farris' varsity tennis team posted an impressive 8-2 dual meet standard but had to settle for fifth in the conference meet. At one stretch the Knights won seven straight duals.

John Heuer in second singles and Bob Gewecke in third singles both reached the semi-finals of the league affair before falling. Gewecke, only a sophomore, was unbeaten heading into the meet.

Francek's .400-plus batting average sparked Prospect High's Knights in a 7-9 Interim campaign with juniors Dave Leekley and Ron Aukamp and senior Tommy Thomas also sporting averalso sporting averages that topped .300 in league outings.

FRANCEK WAS named to the Interim League all-star team for the second straight year.

Jim Hogarty and Bob Hanson did most of the toiling for Coach Chuck Aldrich's crew with Hogarty only a junior. Prospect bowed out of tourney play with a district loss to Maine East.

That's the Prospect High School story for 1961-62.

It had its high and low points, its cheers and tears.

The future is promising.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK

EACH SUMMER A NUMBER of high school athletes with eligibility remaining forfeit their right to use it by participating in activities that violate regulations set down by the Illinois High School Association, governing body for the state's prep athletic program.

Many times youngsters unknowingly break the rules, and in an effort to clarify the situation, the IHSA has set down a list of common pitfalls in the May issue of its official organ, The Illinois Interscholastic.

Following are the restrictions, with accompanying penalties that high school athletes should be aware of:

1. An athlete may not compete under any name other than his own. Penalty: Ineligible for one year.

2. An athlete may not attend any coaching school or clinic (except in baseball) nor any summer camp set up for the specific purpose of providing coaching or instruction in one or more sports. Penalty: To be determined by the Board of Directors.

3. A boy may not play on any all-star football or basketball team. Penalty: To be determined by the Board of Directors.

4. If a boy participates in any athletic meet or tournament he may not accept an award of any kind except a medal, cup or trophy furnished by the sponsor of the meet or tourney. Penalty: To be determined by the Board of Directors.

5. Athletes may not accept any cash, regardless of the amount, or any merchandise of any kind, regardless of the value, for his knowledge of athletics, his skill as an athlete or for participating in any athletic contest. Penalty: Permanent ineligibility.

6. A boy may not in any game, meet or tournament compete on any team on which there are players who receive pay for playing. Penalty: Ineligible for one year.

7. If a boy was a member of any high school football or basketball squad at the close of the season, he may not play in any football or basketball games during the summer months. Penalty: To be determined by the Board of Directors.

8. Credit for not less than 15 hours of high school work must be received during the current semester. Such work must be completed during the current semester and summer makeup work for possible eligibiliy is not permited except in cases of disabling illness. Penalty: Ineligible for one semester.

9. When school opens in the fall, boys must enroll and be in attendance no later than the beginning of the 11th school day. Penalty: To be determined by the Board of Directors.

10. Any change of residence must be reported to the athletic administration. Penalty for participation while parents are non-residents of the school district is ineligibility for at least one year.

Take heed, athletes. The eligibility you save may be your own!

OKLAHOMA TRACK COACH Bill Carroll had a story to tell on himself after his team recently won the Big Eight title.

Before the meet he gave his squad a pep talk usually reserved for the footballers. One of the trackmen had a recorder and got all of Carroll's talk on tape. After the meet it was played back to the coach.

"It was terrible," Carroll grimaced. "If I'd heard it I would have gone straight home and forgotten about the meet."

A RECENT SURVEY by the National High School Federation reveals more preps take part in football than any other sport.

The survey showed 678,801 boys take part in football, 583,826 in basketball, 404,055 in track and 327,046 in baseball. Basketball shows the most teams with 19,396 to 12,151 in football.

Record 311 at Acacia

Arlington Golfers Top WSC Tourney; Claim 2nd Overall

An Arlington High School varsity golf team that had been hot and cold throughout the 1962 campaign was red-hot last week when it counted!

Coach Ralph Meyer's Cardinals, carrying a 4-3 dual meet record in West Suburban action, registered a nifty 311 score at Acacia Country Club for team honors in the league tournament.

Rusty Blix fashioned a 77 and Doug Wiborg, Jack Smith, and Jerry Peterson came home with 78s as the Cardinals turned in their best medal score of the 1962 campaign.

With the strong finish in the conference meet Arlington gained a tie for second in the overall West Suburban standings. The league crown is based on performances in dual meets and the league meet.

RIVERSIDE-Brookfield had a 5-2 dual meet record and was credited with 4½ points for the season after its second place in the tournament.

Arlington's 4-3 dual meet standard and first in the WSC tourney was good for a final tie with Hinsdale's Red Devils. Second in the state meet and unbeaten in league duals, Hinsdale slumped to fourth in the conference meet. Maine East's Blue Demons rounded out the first division on a varsity level with fourth.

In the frosh-soph firing Hinsdale picked up the overall team championship with a 6-1 dual meet record and second in the conference tourney. LaGrange finished second and Riverside-Brookfield, team leader in the meet with an aggregate 322, was third.

ARLINGTON HIGH, 3-4 in dual meets, posted a 343 team score at Acacia and wound up sixth in the overall standings.

Arlington's Meyer, in his last year as head man of the Cardinal golf program, entered a legal limit of 13 players in the

Interim Standouts

Mike Francek Named To League All-Stars

Twenty-three boys, headed by three-time selection Logan Dugaw of Proviso West, were named to the Interim League's all-star baseball team announced last week by the division coaches.

Four players each were chosen from Maine West, Glenbrook, and Niles West on the post-season honor squad with Prospect High's Knights landing one berth.

Outfielder Mike Francek of Prospect, possessor of a .404 plate average in the Interim and .389 over-all, was named to the all-league squad for the second straight season.

FRANCEK WAS one of three boys to earn honors for the second straight year. Maine West's Danny Humay and Proviso West's Dugaw were also selected in 1961 with Dugaw making the select group for the third season.

Three Willowbrook players were named to the squad: pitcher Harlan Krafft, infielder Bill Bornemann, and outfielder Paul Pavesich.

The coaches honored three catchers, six pitchers, eight infielders, and six outfielders.

OF THE 23 BOYS selected ten will be back next year. Underclassmen cited by the coaches were Lee Mungai of Morton West; Earl Hoffenberg and Tom Harfst of Niles West; Art Allen, Al Waters, and Humay of Maine West; Bornemann, Krafft, and Pavesich of Willowbrook; and Bill Dempsey of Glenbard East.

9th District Action Opens

Ten American Legion baseball aggregations, including three area entries, will swing into action within the next week as the Ninth District title scramble gets under way for 1962.

Twenty-three games are slated for the initial week of district competition with a battle between neighboring Arlington and Mount Prospect kicking off proceedings on Saturday, June 9.

Saturday's opening encounter will begin at 3:30 p.m. at the Prospect High School diamond.

ARLINGTON WILL tackle St. Viator next Monday, June 11, to complete the initial league encounters for the area squads. The two Arlington Heights units will meet at the St. Viator High School diamond.

In addition to area entries Mount Prospect, Arlington, and St. Viator, other outfits hooked up in the Ninth District this summer are Holy Cross, Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Palatine, Hoffman Estates, Edison Park, and Northlake.

Park Ridge is the defending champion and is expected to be in the running for the coveted flag again this summer.

AN 18-GAME schedule faces each of the Ninth District aggregations with two rounds of competition. Action is slated to conclude on Wednesday, July 18, with the champion moving into the division playoffs.

The Arlington—Mount Prospect battle is the only game scheduled for Saturday with three contests on Sunday. Des Plaines will meet Edison Park, Holy Cross will face Palatine, and Northlake will battle Hoffman Estates in the Sunday affairs.

Arlington will play three league games before next Thursday. In addition to the contests with Mount Prospect and St. Viator, Coach Lloyd Meyer's squad will meet Edison Park on Wednesday, June 13.

ARLINGTON will face Downers Grove this Friday, June 8, in a non-league game at 6 p.m. at the high school diamond.

Mount Prospect will meet Hoffman Estates next Monday and Northlake Wednesday with the former contest at home.

St. Viator will host Arlington Monday, Park Ridge Tuesday, and then travel to Hoffman Estates Wednesday.

All weekday games will begin at 6 p.m. with the Saturday and Sunday encounters beginning at 2 p.m. unless otherwise noted.

Lloyd Meyer is coach of the Arlington—Merle Guild Post 208 squad with George Bauer handling Mount Prospect Post 525 and Frank Mariani guiding St. Viator, also under Merle Guild Post 208.

Area Drivers in Races at O'Hare

A number of suburban area drivers are now among newcomers for 1962 in the new and late model Cadet stock car races at O'Hare Stadium, Mannheim and Irving Park Roads, where speed and excitement are now the order every Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday night. First race is at 8:30 p.m.

Making their debuts the past week in the new cars, 1959-'62 model stock cars, were the 1961 Cadet champion, Dieter Holz of Arlington Heights, as well as Kenny Paulsen of Stone Park, Al Warfield of Forest Park and Roy Martinelli of Half Day. The new cars are in action every Saturday and Sunday with the Cadets.

New in the Cadets, which also race on their own every Wednesday and with the mauling modifieds every Friday night, are Tom Armstrong of Addison, Dick Erickson of Des Plaines, Don Purkey of Elmhurst, Jim Hieber of Northlake, Curt Watson of Elmhurst and Norm Marcukaitis of Villa Park.

With four nights of stock car thrills every week, O'Hare's high asphalt banks are now the scene of nearly 400 laps of racing per week to make the northwest suburban track the busiest in the midwest.

PHS Spring Units Feted At Banquet

The Prospect Knights Booster Club of Prospect High School honored the spring sports program last Thursday evening, May 31, at the annual banquet.

All boys who participated in baseball, golf, track, and tennis were honored guests at the Booster banquet.

Included on the program were squad introductions and presentation of awards.

Ray Eliot, assistant athletic director at the University of Illinois, was guest speaker.

Dick Kinneman, who will serve as Prospect's athletic director in the 1962-63 school year, handled the introductions of the various coaches.

Mulligan, Pirates Blank Yanks, 15-0 In Hoffman Opener

Terry Mulligan hurled a one-hit shutout last Wednesday to lead the Pirates to a 15-0 rout of the Yankees in the 1962 inaugural of the Hoffman Estates Babe Ruth League.

Mulligan had a no-hitter going for six innings until the Yanks' Cal Miller lined a solid single to right.

The Pirates, meanwhile, blasted out a total of 11 hits including two each by Joe Paul, Larry Robertson, Dick Rodenbostel and John Heisel.

HOFFMAN started for the Yanks and was relieved by Sheldon in the second.

In another well-pitched game played last Thursday, the Dodgers gained an early share of first place by turning back the Cubs, 5-1.

Dave Sander threw a two-hitter for the victors to gain credit for the decision. John Warder pitched three-hit baseball in going the route on the hill for the Bruins.

THE DODGERS broke up a tie game with four big runs in the bottom of the fifth. Key blow in the inning was Lou Fetters' two-run single.

The Braves came up with three runs in the bottom half of the sixth frame Friday to turn a 3-3 stalemate into a 6-3 triumph.

B. Shaw held the Sox to one base hit in racking up the victory. Ron Zimmerman was saddled with the defeat.

Interim All-Stars

the 1961-62 school year.

Hart, a 6-foot-2, 185-pounder, was an all-star in football at quarterback, in basketball at forward, and in baseball now in the infield.

PROSPECT'S FRANCEK was a unanimous selection in the outfield, and Mike deserve all the honors he received. A heavy hitter and dependable fielder, Francek was one of the top stars in the Interim for two seasons.

Mike hit safely in 12 of the Knights' 19 games over the season and had two or more hits in ten of the Prospect contests. The senior rapped four home runs.

Francek boasted a solid .346 plate average as a junior with a .322 mark in the Interim League competition.

Every year there are some near-misses, boys who miss by a whisker making the select honor team. Whether or not their absence is justified is debatable.

Prospect boasted three of those boys in 1962. Tommy Thomas, Ron Aukamp, and Dave Leekley all turned in impressive seasons and were all-stars as far as the Knights were concerned but failed to gain the coveted berths on the coaches' team.

Arlington Second

conference tourney, nine of a varsity level and fourth with the sophs.

He shot nine in the older division in an effort for balanced scoring. Only two strokes separated his lowest season average from his highest.

Other varsity scores were Ken Seeger (80), Mike Heyl (82), Tom McGrath (85), Rich Wallhoff (88), and Jim Wolf (90).

BLIX'S 77 was good for fifth place in the battle for medalist honors on a varsity level. Riverside's Marv Rezabek, frosh-soph medalist in 1961, toured Acacia in 34-38 for a fine 72 and one-stroke advantage over Hinsdale's Leigh Anderson.

Riverside's Pesola was frosh-soph medalist with a 78. Arlington's Fred Devin, who had been shooting with the varsity for a good part of the 1962 campaign, posted a fine 81 for sixth place.

Other Arlington scores were Roger O'Neil and Robert Armour with 87s, and Darryl Burkett with an 88.

Backing Hinsdale, LaGrange, and Riverside in the final frosh-soph standings were Downers Grove, York, Arlington, Glenbard West, and Maine East in that order.

Vault Record Stands

DICK MICHALSKI

The pole vault record at Arlington High School, reportedly broken by Bob Laughlin's effort of 11-10 in a dual meet, still stands, according to a check of the track and field files.

A summary of Arlington track records, compiled by the high school, listed the pole vault standard at 11-9 set by Dick Michalski in 1954.

Michalski does hold the record but his vault was 12-0 at the Riverside-Brookfield Relays in 1954. Dick set a meet record at 12-0 but went out at 12-3. His mark was snapped the following year.

Only six of Arlington High's marks were established prior to 1956.

Dick Winterbauer still holds the shot put mark of 57-2 3/8 and the discus standard of 175-5½ established in 1954. His discus effort is the best ever recorded in Illinois.

Gordon Busse shares the 100 yard dash record with Rich Bader with both owning :09.9 clockings. Busse, who set his marks in 1950, also holds the broad jump standard of 22-7.

Dave Schimmel skimmed over the 180 yard lows in :19.4 in 1955 for another record.

Jaycee Swim Meet Set for June 16

The Mount Prospect Park District and the Mount Prospect Jaycees have combined efforts to sponsor a Swimming Meet at Lions Park Pool on June 16 at 9 a.m.

Youths from ages 10 to 15 are eligible to enter. Entry blanks are available at the pool office and also at the Jaycee's barbecue pit at the Lions Fair to be held at Lions Park this week.

Winners of each event will be eligible to compete at the sectional meet in Evanston on August 4. Transportation to the sectional will be provided by the Jaycees.

This meet is part of the Jaycees Olympic Jamboree. A track meet was held in May.

Members of high school swimming teams are cautioned that this meet is not sanctioned by the C.A.A.U. and that participation in this meet could affect their eligibility.

Deadline for entering has been set at 5 p.m., June 15.

Garden Liquors in Fast Start

The Garden Liquors softball team, defending champs for the past two years, started the "62" season with a victory over the Strats, 13-8, in the Arlington Park District league.

Matics, 1962 runner-up in the Arlingotn Heights Park District Classic League, squeezed by the Pure Oilers in their opener, 9-8.

In other games the Turfs edged out Bob Scuba 6-4, Sigwalts rolled over Hofbrau 17-7, and the Pioneers took a forfeit win from Meyer's Dairy.

Chargers Handle 'Cats, 33-5

The Chargers, sponsored by the Elk Grove Village Currency Exchange and Bob's Standard Service, routed the Black Cats 33-5 in recent action in the Elk Grove men's softball league.

Joe Rand went 5-for-5 and had a homer to spark the winner's attack. Paul Savino collected six straight hits, and Whitey Hefferan connected for a home run.

The Lucky Sevens evened their record for the season with a 14-9 victory over the Salt Creek Divots. In a second game Salt Creek fell to Champa Construction, 17-15.

For the Divots Harry Damore hit two homers. Bill O'Connell, Frank Motto, Jim Gaynor, and Clarizio also hit for the circuit.

Elk Grove Launches Little League Play

Elk Grove Village Boys Baseball, Inc. launched their season on Memorial Day with all six Little League teams participating in the season's only triple header.

Attending the game and throwing out the first ball was Village President, James Gibson. "Rusty" Finkler of the Braves caught the ball, beating out the other members of his team and the Yankee squad.

The first game found the Yankees coming out on top by a score of 8-2 over the Braves. Anthony Palmieri went all the way pitching a dazzling 5 hitter. He struck out ten and walked no one. He was ably assisted by a sparkling defense as his team mates played errorless ball.

THE YANKEES scored quickly in the first inning as Mike Sczcepanik hit the first home run of the season with Victor Rose on base. Sczcepanik was the offensive star with 3 hits and 3 RBI's. John Kuksa and Anthony Palmieri each had two hits. In all the Yankees garnered ten hits.

The Braves were paced by Gary Rogowski who collected two hits. Rick Radtke, the losing pitcher, struck out 5.

In the second game the Dodgers beat the Cubs in a close one, that found the Dodgers coming from behind to win. The final score was 9-7.

DAN WAGNER, Larry Pahl, Don Schnell and John Moroney were the hitting leaders with two hits apiece. John Moroney hit a clutch home run with a man on to put the Dodgers ahead for keeps in the fifth inning.

Defensively, the Dodgers were led by Jim Evans and Rick Paul both of whom came up with outstanding catches. Glen Jagiello made a good throw to third from the outthrow to thrid from the outfield for the out that squelched a Cub threat.

Larry Pahl went all the way for the win.

The Cubs were led by the hitting of Tony Raffale and Billy Eitsenhoefer. Each got two hits. One of the Tony's hits was a triple with the bases loaded.

THE DEFENSE of the Cubs was exceptionally sharp. Steve Sholten speared a sizzling line drive at second. Billy Eitsenhoefer starred in centerfield.

Roger Kocolowski, the losing pitcher, struck out 11 batters. Offensively, Roger got a triple.

The third game proved to be a real cliff hanger as the Indians, down 7-2 in the last inning, scored 8 runs after 2 outs and then held on for a 10-9 win over the Sox.

The key to the victory was a single by Mike Losch after Jim Jones had walked and Ken Hari had doubled. This tied the score and the Indians proceeded to add 3 more runs which proved to be necessary as the Sox scored twice in their half of the last inning.

Roy Dickerson started for the Indians and was relieved by John Markham in the fifth inning. Due to the heroics of the Indians in the last inning Markham was credited with the win.

For the Sox, Ken Zubak started and pitched 5 2/3 innings. He was relieved by Bill Austin. The winning run was scored off Billy and he was the losing pitcher.

Steve Bentall and Bob Mortensen hit home runs for the Sox.

ON FRIDAY, June 1, the Dodgers played the Indians, both had won their first game. The Indians won 5-2 behind Allen Novelli, the winning pitcher.

On Saturday, June 2, the Cubs and Braves played, each trying for their first win of the season. The Cubs won 13-6. Billy Eitsenhoefer had a grand slam home run for the Cubs.

The League is still looking for some volunteer umpires. Anyone interested please contact the Umpire-in-chief, Joe Dytko at 437-0935.

Arlington's Legion Nine Blanked, 3-0

Dave Muller yielded only four safeties, three to second baseman Ken Layden, as the Glen Ellyn American Legion baseball team blanked Arlington Heights, 3-0, last Sunday afternoon in the season opener.

Muller fanned five and walked only one in a mound duel with Arlington's fast-balling right hander, John Lane.

Lane, an all-conference selection in high school, had his strikeout pitch working, nailing eight, but he had trouble with his control, a common malady during the West Suburban campaign. John walked seven and hit one batter.

GLEN ELLYN, composed primarily of the boys who led Glenbard West to the WSC title in the spring, scored single runs in the second, fourth, and sixth en route to the decision.

In a strange first inning Arlington's Lane walked three men and also struck out three to prevent any runs from scoring. Glen Ellyn's Larry Black counted the first run in the second after gettng on via a walk. He stole two bases and scampered home on Tom Hancock's single.

With two outs in the fourth a walk led to another run. Black again scored thanks to a base knock by Muller.

Dave Palmer tallied in the sixth after reaching first on Lane's sixth free pass. An error and two passed balls helped bring Palmer across.

ARLINGTON THREATENED in the first when with two outs Layden and Rog Lindstrom put together successive singles, but Muller fanned Ray Miller to check the threat.

Layden led off the fourth with a double but was stranded, and Ken slapped out his third straight hit in the sixth only to be wiped out attempting to steal.

Layden had a perfect day at the plate with his three hits. Lindstrom's first inning single was the only other Arlington safety off the slants of Muller.

Rounding out the Arlington starting alignment in the season lidlifter were Mike Frase at shortstop, Paul Splittorff at first base, Layden at second and Lindstrom at third, Miller in center field, Vince Furlong in left field, Joe Mueller in right, and Ross Retterer behind the plate.

Cards Conclude Outstanding Net Season with Wins

Arlington High School's varsity and frosh - soph tennis teams, champions in the West Suburban Conference for 1962, concluded a brilliant season last week with convincing 5-0 victories over Elgin's Maroons.

Coached by Ken Schaller and Rog Steingraber, the two units finished the season with a combined record of 29 victories, only seven defeats, and one tie. The varsity stood 16-4-1 with the frosh-sophs 13-3.

In the varsity tussle against Elgin Tom Benson, Jim Jakubiec, and Bob Bohac wrapped up easy straight sets victories.

BENSON whipped Dave Stephens in first singles 6-0, 6-2, and Jakubiec handled Carter Beverly 6-3, 6-3. Bohac posted a 6-2, 6-2 triumph over Dick Brown.

In doubles the two WSC championship units of Chuck Close and Dave Wollerman and Russ Walters and Rick Wollerman came through again.

Close and Dave Wollerman bumped Scott Rexinger and Bob Beverly in first doubles 6-1, 6-4, and Walters and Rick Wollerman fashioned a 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Mike Peters and Dick Trolson in second doubles.

IN THE frosh-soph competition Bob VonBoeckmann, Mirrel Kephart, and Pete O'Neil came through with easy wins, and Greg Inman and Bob Schuldt and Pete Loris and Steve Carns also posted decisions.

VonBoeckmann whipped Bill Deck 6-3,6-3 in first singles and Kephart posted a 6-2, 6-4 win over Al Rexinger in second singles. O'Neil rounded out the singles sweep with a 6-1, 6-0 decision.

In doubles Inman and Schuldt topped Gamble and Crawford 6-1, 6-0, and Carns and Loris claimed a 6-2, 6-3 decision over Davis and Steinberg.

New Club House Opens Wednesday

An unusual new club house with floor to ceiling glass walls on three sides, will open Wednesday, June 13 at Old Orchard Country Club.

The new club house will feature a continental style public dining room known as the Orchard Room.

Banquet rooms accommodating 385 people for dining and dancing will be available to clubs and groups. Already many dinners and banquets are scheduled in these rooms.

GOLFERS will have the Club Room for coffee, lunch and dinner. The Club Room overlooks the first hole of the 18-hole golf course. The Orchard Room overlooks the nine-hole course.

Shower room facilities for men and women, with latest modern conveniences are having the finishing touches applied for the opening.

The "pro" shop will also be open together with several lounges, announces Lou Sabo, manager and golf "pro."

HOWARD LESTER, who is the new athletic director at Arlington High School, addresses the athletes and parents at the spring sports banquet last Thursday evening. Looking on is Walll Grace who is retiring after 17 years as Arlington's athletic director. Lester, who formerly served as basketball and baseball coach at Arlington, has been athletic director at Prospect High School for three years.

Initial Season

St. Viator Records 10-17 Diamond Mark

St. Viator High School's initial baseball campaign came to an end last Friday in Elmwood Park.

The host Tigers bumped the Lions 7-2 with a nine-hit attack in a sophomore encounter.

Over-all, St. Viator, coached by Frank Mariani, finished with a commendable 10-17 record. Eight of the losses were incurred in action against varsity units.

FRANK MARIANI

Ron Rose collected two hits in the Elmwood Park clash to push his hitting streak to 14 straight games. Chuck Heinrich had a single and double and Jim Vidt, Bill Christensen, and Tim Walinski each banged out singles.

Bill Ewald started on the hill for St. Viator.

Score by innings:

St. Viator	110 000 0—2-7-6
Elmwood Park	024 100 *7-9-3

ON SATURDAY the Lions battled the faculty and came out on top of an 18-16 score.

Ron Feiereisel sparked the faculty with four hits, and Father Gilgallon collected three safeties.

Heinrich had the best day at the plate for the Lions with four straight hits.

IN OTHER recent baseball action for the Arlington Heights School the Lions ran up a three-game winning streak before falling.

St. Viator enjoyed one of its most explosive afternoons of the season when it bombed St. Procopius, 10-0. The Lions pounded out 10 hits, including two homes.

St. Viator pushed over four runs in the first inning and coasted home with the victory.

EWALD turned in a masterful one-hitter for Mariani's crew and was backed by four-base clouts by Heinrich and Mike Graczyk.

Knudson collected two singles and Heinrich added a single to his home run. Rose blasted two singles and Rich Ulbrich recorded one single. Walinski rounded out the offensive heroics with two singles.

Score by innings:

St. Viator	422 20—10-10-1
St. Procopius	000 00— 0- 1-2

THE LIONS wrapped up their second straight victory with a 7-3 decision over St. Mel of Chicago.

Johnny Carroll went the route, posting his third triumph of the 1962 campaign.

The Lions rapped out six hits with Walinski, returning to his early season form, slamming two singles. Tom Nitch recorded a triple and Knudson, Rose, and Graczyk had one single each.

Score by innings:

St. Viator	402 000 1—7-6-3
St. Mel	001 100 1—3-6-1

ST. VIATOR won its third straight game with an impressive 3-2 victory over Holy Cross in the initial contest of a doubleheader.

Ewald extended his shutout pitching to 11 innings before Holy Cross counted with two runs in the home half of the seventh to tie the score.

The Lions won the game in the top half of the eighth with a run-producing single off the bat of Graczyk. Walinski hit a solo homer, his second of the year.

Graczyk's two singles sparked the Lions' six-hit attack.

Score by innings:

St. Viator	002 000 01—3-6-2
Holy Cross	000 000 20—2-5-2

HOLY CROSS checked the Lions' string in the second game with a tight, 4-3 victory.

Holy Cross won the game by stealing home in the seventh frame. Jim Vidt was the victim although he pitched excellent baseball and also hit a homer. He missed by inches getting another four-bagger in the seventh.

Collecting the base hits for St. Viator were Vidt, Knudson, Rose, Graczyk, and Ron Bakalar.

Score by innings:

St. Viator	000 120 0—3-5-2
Holy Cross	101 010 1—4-5-1

Booster Club Honors AHS Spring Units

The Cardinals Booster Club of Arlington High School honored the Spring Sports program last Thursday evening, May 31, at an outdoor barbecue.

All boys who participated in baseball, track, golf, and tennis both as competitors and managers were honored guests at the Booster banquet.

Special recognition was accorded the senior athletes and the three senior cheerleaders, Judy Erwin, Kitty Crockett, and Marj Haizmann.

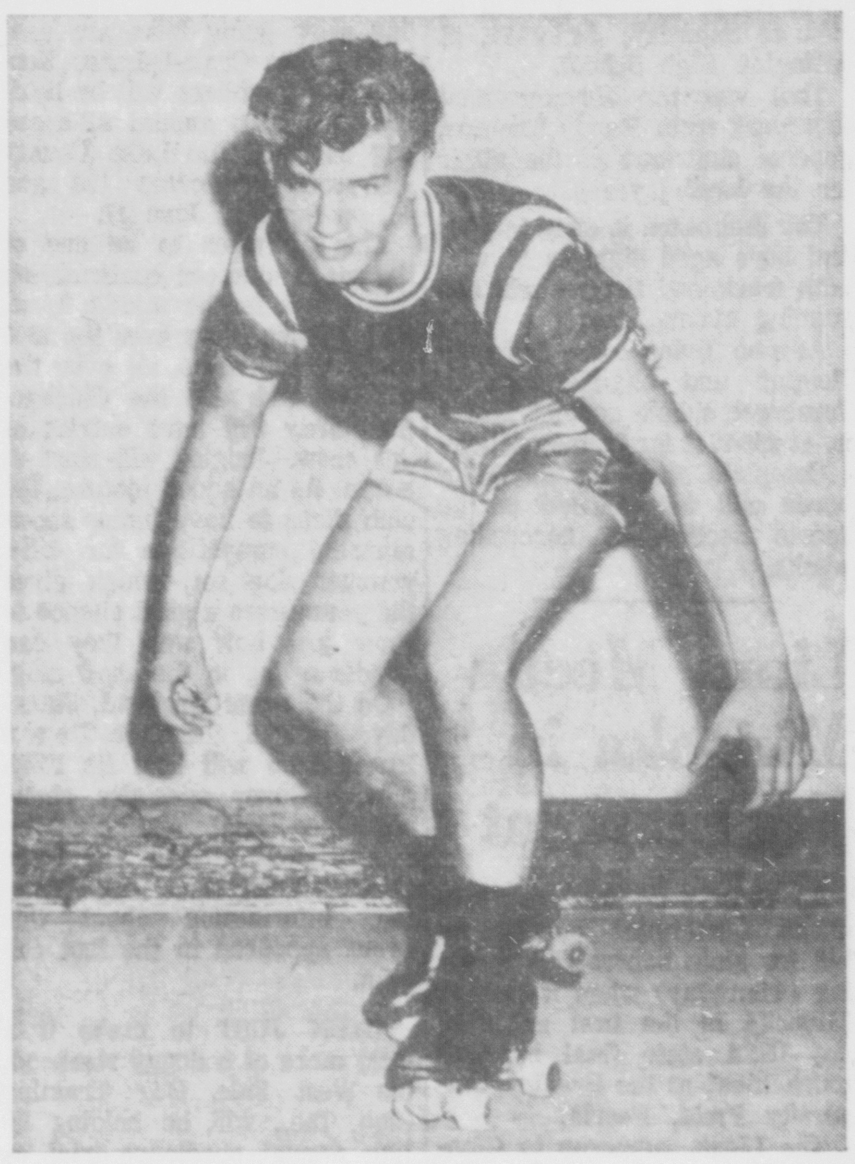
Kucek, Jurs Become First Derby Entries

Jim Kucek of Rolling Meadows and Al Jurs of Barrington are the first official entries in the Paddock-Triangle Roller Derby, race sponsors announced this week.



JIM KUCEK, 2902 Campbell, Rolling Meadows, is one of the first entries in the Paddock-Triangle Roller Derby scheduled for Sunday, July 8. The applications for Kucek and Al Jurs of Barrington were received last week by Abe Linderman, co-operator of Triangle Roller Rink.

Scheduled for Sunday, July 8, the 25-mile race, cosponsored by Paddock Publications and Triangle Roller Rink of Arlington Heights, is expected to draw competitors from throughout the middlewest.

Details of the First Annual Roller Derby have been sent to various members of the Roller Skating Rink Operators Association of America.

Abe Linderman, co-operator of Triangle Roller Rink, and Bob Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications, Inc., currently are completing arrangements for the race.

THE ROLLER DERBY will begin at Triangle Roller Rink on Northwest Highway in Arlington Heights and run to Pepper Road beyond Barrington and back.

The 25-mile race is open to members of the Roller Skating Rink Operators Association with an age limit of 16 and up. Anyone who has an amateur card with the RSROA is eligible.

Anyone who is an amateur and is in need of an RSROA card may purchase one at a nominal cost.

ABE LINDERMAN, co-operator of the Triangle Roller Rink, has indicated that he is providing a training track on the parking lot west of Triangle. The lot will be available at posted times.

A filing fee has been arranged by the promoters with a premium arranged for early registration. Entries received or postmarked before 12:01 a.m. July 3 will be $4.00.

Entries received after that time will be $6.00 with entries accepted until 30 minutes before race time.

FREE SETS of wheels and training wheels will be available to all entrants. Anyone interested in learning more about the Roller Derby should contact Abe Linderman at CLearbrook 5-3316.

Three handsome trophies will be presented to the top three finishers.

Applications for the event are also available at Triangle or may be requested by contacting Linderman at the rink.

Remember the date: Sunday, July 8.

Mount Prospect's Pony League Opens

The Mount Prospect Pony League season started Memorial Day with two games on each diamond at Lions Park.

The Cubs' "A" squad beat the Cardinals "A" unit in their first game, 9-3. Selle worked for the winners with Kuklinski tagged with the loss. Kent Gedman hit a home run for the Cards.

In the second game on the West Diamond the Orioles stopped the Braves, 13-9. Chudik got the win with Grady suffering the setback.

GRADY PITCHED a creditable game, scattering nine hits but he didn't receive any solid support in the field. Profida was knocked out in the fourth inning and Chudik pitched near-perfect relief to claim the decision.

On Saturday the Yankees whipped the Indians, boasting a 12-run lead at the end of the fifth inning. The Cubs bumped the Braves for their second decision.

On Sunday the Cardinals dumped the Indians decisively with a 12-run margin in the sixth, and the Orioles handled the Yankees. Kowal pitched a two-hitter with 15 strikeouts.

Profita and Erback hit a home run each for the Orioles.

Wilkenson and Ryan comprised the battery for the losers.

The "A" standings:

Arlington Jamboree Scheduled

The First Annual Junior Sports Jamboree, sponsored by the Arlington Heights Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held on Saturday, July 21, at Arlington High School.

That was the announcement this week from Randy Thomas, general chairman of the affair for the local jaycees.

The Jamboree is open to girls and boys aged eight to 17 with both track and field events and running events.

Anyone living in Arlington Heights and eligible for the Jamboree should contact Thomas at 259-3742 for further details.

Complete plans for the Jamboree will be included in the sports section in succeeding weeks.

Lions Meet Minooka in Tournament

La Grange of the West Suburban Conference opened its bid for state honors this morning (Thursday) when it battled Minooka in the first game of the IHSA state final baseball tournament at the Bradley University Field, Peoria.

The Lions, runnerup to Glenbard West in the WSC, were scheduled to meet Minooka at 9:30 a.m. In the second morning game Centralia was slated to meet Taylorville.

The afternoon encounters will match Galesburg and Decatur (Eisenhower) and Rockford (East) and Chicago (Schurz).

Semi-final games will be played Friday morning with the championship game at 4 p.m. Friday.

St. Viator Frosh Top Prospect

St. Viator High School's frosh baseball team posted its second victory of the season over neighboring Prospect last week with Jim Vidt going the route in a 7-5 decision.

The Lions rapped out seven hits in their victory with Ron Rose collecting a triple, Vidt two singles, and Mike Graczyk a double and single.

Ron Bakalar made an outstanding relay the plate in the seventh inning to cut off a Prospect run and help preserve the victory.

Greg Kowal worked on the mound for the losing Knights with Rick Lytle behind the plate.

JUST DOGS

Chain-O-Lakes Show

The weekend of Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17, is going to be a busy one as far as dog show going folks are concerned. The Chain-O-Lakes Kennel Club members will be holding their 12th annual all-breed dog show at the Lake County Fairgrounds, Routes 120 and 45, on Sunday, June 17.

This promises to be one of the major outdoor confirmation dog shows in the middle west, with entries going over the 1000 mark. Folks from all over the country and also the Chicagoland area will have entries at this show. Judging will start at 8 a.m. As an added feature, the club plans to have junior showmanship competition for the younger dog set, which gives the youngsters a good chance to show just how well they can handle a dog in the show ring.

On the same weekend, Saturday, June 16, the Tree Town Boxer Club will hold its Fifth annual Boxer specialty show, obedience trial and puppy sweepstakes at the Du Page County Fairgrounds in Wheaton. Information about this event appeared in the last column.

THEN JUST to make it a little more of a doggy weekend, the West Side Dog Training Club, Inc., will be holding its 12th annual obedience trial on Sunday, June 17, at Hawthorne Race Course, 35th and Laramie, Cicero. The West Side Club is holding a tracking test in conjunction with the obedience trial on Saturday, June 16, at 35th and Route 83, in Hinsdale. Both days, trails will start at 8:30 a.m.

So there you have it — take your choice, if you really want to take a weekend and "go to the dogs," you'll never get a better chance. There are probably some field dog trials going on as well as hound dog trials in the area . . . your editor was almost afraid to check.

Dog Hero ..

Information just released shows that 12 of the 37 purebred dogs eligible for the 1962 Ken-L-Ration gold medal, emblematic of America's most heroic dog, are German Shepherds, a breed which has won two of the previous eight awards.

Other breeds with more than one candidate are the Boxer with 5, the Collie with 4 and the Beagle, Standard Poodle and Wire-Haired Terriers wtih 3 dogs each. There are a number of other breeds with just one dog each and there are 17 dogs of mixed-origins eligible.

Past winners were 3 Collies, 2 German Shepherds, a Cocker Spaniel, a Shetland Sheepdog and a mixed-breed. Last year's winner, Duke, was a Collie from Niles, Ohio. It will be interesting to see who wins this year when the winner is announced late in July.

Gee! No Cavities

While driving past one of our local veterinarian's offices the other day, it reminded your editor about a report that he saw in a recent issue of Gaines Dog Research Progress.

The fact that very few dental caries are found in dogs received this explanation from Dr. A. F. Gardner, D.D.S., Ph.D., and associates in the Journal of the A.V.M.A. In brief, a dog's tooth does not lend itself to retain food around it and also the high alkaline salivary pH found in dogs is also an excellent neutralizing agent for oral acids which are necessary for the development of cavities.

Finally, the urea salivary content is higher in dogs than man, thus allowing a constant bathing of the tooth structure by the ammonium carbonate molecule, which is an excellent neutralizing agent in the presence of acids. Result . . . no plate problems.

Wrestling Show At Palatine High School June 15

Miguel Perez, top ranking Puerto Rican heavyweight who wrestles Karl VonHess of Germany, Friday, June 15th in the new Palatine Senior High School is just twenty four years of age and is rated one of the most promising challengers for heavyweight honors in the mat sport.

Perez comes from Santursi in Puerto Rico where he starred in the amateur ranks at the age of 18 years. He turned to professional wrestling two years later and has been in the pro ranks four years. He is five feet, eleven inches in height and weighs 210 pounds. When he came to the USA, he immediately scored twelve consecutive victories.

Perez has a tough task in trying to defeat Von Hess. The plodding, methodical wrestler who uses hard boiled action in his matches. He prides himself on being called the most hated man in wrestling.

VON HESS attended a Prussiar military academy in Germany and was on a fencing team. He has scars on his face and head to show for his many duels in the old country. The disliked Von Hess has the experience over Perez while the latter has youth and aggressiveness.

In a tag match on the Palatine show, Angelo Poffo and Jack Wilson will clash with the team of The Scufflin' Hill Billies, an unorthodox duo who wrestle in overalls and appear barefooted in the ring. Both Poffo and Wilson have been unusually successful in tag matches in the mid-west.

Bad Boy Joe, of Minneapolis will face Billy Goelz, of Fox Lake and in another action packed match Paul Christy, of Hollywood, California faces Bob Sabre, of Chicago The 22 year old Christy since coming to the mid-west has definitely established himself as a leading contender in the heavyweight division. Sabre, likewise is one of the younger group of talented wrestlers.

As a result the Christy-Sabre match will be an interesting bout with much at stake for both youngsters.

IC Golf Squad Tops St. Viator

Immaculate Conception of Elmhurst fashioned a 176-196 victory over St. Viator High School in the Lions' final golf competition for 1962.

The match was played at Rob Roy in Prospect Heights, the Lions' home course.

Anton Sadler won the lone medal for the Lions when he carded a 44. Harry Drnec shot a 46, Pat Fee a 50, and Marty Serbins a 52 for the last nine at Rob Roy.

Leading Immaculate Conception was Raymond Popp with a 40.

Sportsman Award to Erickson

Jim Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Erickson, 911 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, was selected from 300 candidates for the Tenth Annual Paul Bennett Memorial Sportsman Award at Northwestern University.

Erickson, a junior at Northwestern and standout on the tennis team, was presented his award last Thursday evening at the school's spring awards dinner.

Erickson, an Arlington High School graduate, teamed with sophomore Marty Riessen for the Big Ten doubles championship.

All-American

Lynn Chandnois, Michigan State All-America football halfback in 1949, holds nine modern Spartan game, season and career records.

MRS. G. DALE PATE, 914 S. Vail, Arlington Heights, landed this impressive Walleye while fishing at Lazy Acres, Long Lake, Phelps, Wis. Mrs. Pate's catch was 29 inches long and weighed 7¼ pounds. With her prize catch Mrs. Pate won the Eagle River Pike Derby and an Aluma Craft sailboat with a 14 foot mast.

Salt Creek Club Adds Nine Holes

Salt Creek Country Club is sporting a new look these days.

The DuPage County layout, located on Thorndale Road one-quarter of a mile east of Arlington Heights Road just outside of the northern village boundary of Itasca, has added an additional nine holes to its already-challenging golf course.

With the addition of 2,037 yards which comprise the new nine hole course, Salt Creek will now play to 3,807 yards with a par of 59. Included among the newly-constructed nine holes are four par-four situations.

ALSO INCLUDED in Salt Creek's current expansion program is the construction of a third banquet room and a fully-equipped pro shop. With the completion of the third banquet hall, Salt Creek will be able to accommodate a capacity gathering in excess of 500 persons.

The club offers a complete catering service for parties and serves light luncheons and sandwiches daily in its attractive cocktail lounge.

Roy Hunter, who serves as the pro at Salt Creek, will direct the operations of the new pro shop when completed. An extensive line of golf supplies will be contracted and made available to the club's patrons once the addition is opened for use.

SALT CREEK Country Club opened its doors for business in the spring of 1959 under the management of Earl Schmidt, who has remained in this capacity to the present day.

Centrally located within the entire circulation area served by Paddock Publications, Salt Creek offers to golfers an excellent opportunity to sharpen their mastery of the short irons and putter.

Approaches to most greens are doggedly guarded by foreboding traps, requiring pinpoint accuracy. The golfer can also look forward to additional harassment from the Salt Creek, which flows lazily along the periphery of the course.

Rex Mays Classic Attracts Nation's Leading Drivers

Rodger Ward, Indianapolis, and Len Sutton, Portland, Ore., one-two finishers in the 1962 500 mile race at Indianapolis, driving the same cars they used Memorial Day, head the list of 49 entries for the 13th annual Rex Mays 100 mile national championship speedway big car Classic at Wisconsin state fair park next Sunday, June 10.

Race director Tom Marchese stated he had 25 of the 33 starters of the 1962 Hoosier Classic and fourteen of the first 16 finishers. Ward and Sutton will drive their Leader Card roadsters. Both have been fair park favorites and have competed many times here on the one mile paved track. Ward holds the 100 mile mark he set winning the Mays race last June, 57 minutes, 46.21 seconds, a speed of 103.89 miles per hour.

Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex., voted "Rookie of the Year" after the 1962 500 mile race, is one of three promising young drivers who will be appearing here for the first time. Others are Bob Marvin, Cleveland, Ohio and Eddie Kostenuk, Vancouver, B.C.

BIG NAME drivers are literally a dime a dozen. Others are A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., 1961 national USAC big car champ; Eddie Sachs, Coopersburg, Pa.; Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif.; Bobby Marshman, Pottstown, Pa.; Dick Ratemann, Roselle, Ill., and Troy Ruttman, Dearborn, Calif., all established speedway stars.

Practice session next Saturday (June 9) from one to five p.m. Ticket holders for race admitted free. Time trials on race day at 12:30 p.m. after one-half hour practice. Lineup for 20 mile added event at 3 p.m., all central daylight saving time.

Tickets at Wisconsin Auto Racing, Inc., 1200 S. First St., Milwaukee, 4, Wis. General admission bleacher thrill seats will go on sale at the Saturday practice session.

Most Improved

Cited as the "most improved frosh back" of Michigan State's 1962 spring football drills was Dick Gordon, wingback from Walnut Hills High Scool in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Qualifying Procedure Announced for Open

Qualifying procedure for the 1962 Western Open golf championship was announced recently by the Western Golf Association. The $50,000-minimum event will be held June 28 - July 1 at Medinah Country Club's No. 3 course.

Defending Champion Arnold Palmer, all the stars of the PGA circuit, and 10 Chicago-area club pros are among the approximately 100 professionals who will be exempt from qualifying. Those on the exempt list automatically will gain positions in the starting field of approximately 132 players.

A pre-tournament qualifying trial will be held to fill the remaining spots from among non-exempt pros and amateurs. The 18-hole qualifier will be played Monday, June 25, at Medinah Country Club.

"IN BRINGING our Western Open to Chicago on a permanent basis, we have devised a special qualifying formula which guarantees Chicago-area golf fans one of the finest fields anywhere," explains Stanley J. McGiveran, chairman of WGA's 1962 Open Committee.

"We want a quality field and have achieved that with the exempt list. We want a limited field and yet we want local pros and amateurs to have a chance to participate, and we have achieved that with the qualifying trial."

Foremost on the exempt list are the elite of the golf world, the "name" stars who are previous winners of the Western Open, USGA Open, National PGA and Masters championships, and members of the last U. S. Ryder Cup team.

REGULAR players on the pro circuit can qualify through several categories—by finishing among the low 32 in the 1961 Western Open, 1961 National PGA or 1962 USGA open; by winning a major tournament in the previous 12 months, or, by ranking among the 40 leading money winners of 1961.

Special allowance also was made for one group of touring pros. Exemptions will be given to those who qualify for the final round of the Eastern Open the week preceding at Baltimore, Md. This was arranged due to the conflict of competing in Baltimore on one day and teeing off in the qualifying trial at Medinah the following morning.

The 10 Chicago-area pros also gained exemptions on a category basis. Johnny Revolta, of Evanston Golf Club, did it as a former Western Open champion from 1935. The others are:

Illinois Open champion — Chuck Malchaski, Brookwood CC.

Illinois PGA champion — Bobby Harris, Sunset Ridge CC.

Host pros — 1962, Jack Bell, Medinah CC; 1963, Charley Penna, Beverly CC.

Low four pros in 1961 Illinois Open not otherwise exempt: Darrell Hickock, Edgewood Valley CC; Felize Torza, Aurora CC; Dave Mose, Calumet CC; Ed Oldfield Glen View Club.

A LIMITED number of amateurs will be exempt, also by categories, and they include two from Chicago. One is a natural, veteran Chick Evans, the only amateur ever to win the Western Open (1910). The second is Bernie Magnussen, of Knollwood Club, who made it via his third-place finish in the 1961 Illinois Open.

The exempt list includes the last 10 winners of the Western Amateur, the medalist and Masters, and the winner and runnerup in the 1961 USGA Amateur.

It is expected that the non-exempt pros will compete for about 20 positions in the field to fill it to its minimum of 120 pros.

Amateurs who are not exempt and wish to enter must carry a handicap of two or less and must be a member of a club which belongs to WGA. They can gain a position in the starting field by scoring within the qualifying range of those pros who succeed in the trials on June 25.

Oak Brook Hounds Show in Progress

The 19th annual Oak Brook Hounds Horse Show will be a five day show this year, running June 6-10. According to Wade W. Smith, co-chairman, the event began at 1:30 p.m. yesterday, Wednesday, and will continue through Sunday.

All performances will start at 9 a.m., with the exception of the opening day. An extra full day has been added to the 1962 show because of a great increase in entry applications.

The Oak Brook Show is a member of the American Horse Show Association and has an "A" rating in Conformation Hunters, Working Hunters, Jumpers, Junior Hunters and Junior Jumpers divisions. It has a "B" rating in Green Conformation and Green Working-Hunters divisions.

There are 63 classes scheduled, with $4,627 in cash awards and trophies.

A primary attraction this year will be the famous $1,000 Miss Budweiser Stakes, Sunday afternoon. The course over which this class is run is the international famous "General Jonathon Wainwright" course. Originated in 1944 in honor of the late General Wainwright who was then a prisoner of war in Japan, it is not duplicated anywhere else in the country.

Prellberg's 33 Headlines Scratch Play

Ron Prellberg found Old Orchard's fairways and greens to his liking last Friday as he led the low scorers in the Scratch league with a fine 3 under par 33 over the 3,350 yard back nine.

Ron started with a bogey on No. 10 when he missed the green with his second and needed three putts to get down from the green's edge. On the 360 yard 11th it was a different story for his second was hole high and 20 feet away, it required a beautiful putt for his birdie. Hitting No. 12 and with two putts he made his par but Prellberg slipped to a bogey on the long 430 yard 13th where he 3-putted.

The 480 yard 14th was again a test for after a drive and 4 wood Ron knocked in a fairway chip shot for an eagle 3, then proceeded to birdie the 540 yard 15th hole. The 16th was an easy par 4 and on 17 he nestled his nine iron shot to within twenty inches of the flag for his birdie, then closed out with a par 3 on the 235 yard 18th. Prellberg hit 3 under with a round consisting of an eagle, 3 birdies, 3 pars and 2 bogeys.

PRELLBERG'S 33 was a gallant attempt for team points but his opponent's team, F.B.K. Realtors, took five of the eight points when Bill Hugo and Bob Noble teamed together and each toured the back nine in one under par 35's. Hugo scored four 3's when he hit par on the water hole 12th and finished his round with 3's on 16, 17 and 18.

Bob Noble scored his 1 under 35 when he matched Prellberg's eagle by blasting his 3rd shot out of the right hand trap into the hole on the 480 yd. 14th. With Bob's 15 ft. birdie putt for a deuce on the 12th, Hugo's two birdies and Ralph Becker's birdie on the 15th the F.B.K. Realtors lowered the boom for a team best ball of six under par. Tis rumored in the locker room that this team could be rough. I wonder!

WOULDN'T IT BE wise to consider the Dean's Landscaper team rough also, as the 1-2-3 men Len Arnold, Don Prehl and Bob Johnson each shot par matching 36's. The No. 4 man "Cully" Berlin slipped in a 39 with a birdie on No. 16 to help the Landscapers while they got out the tape and measured the Lohrs Pharmacy team for 6 points and first place in the standings.

The following scores of 1 under par were posted without ado and fanfare but were very instrumental in team points. "Bud" McKaig of the second place No. 7 team posted his 35 for the back side after dropping an eight foot birdie on No. 12 and delicately snuggling up to the 15th flag for a 'tap in' birdie putt. According to the 'ole master' Til Foy's statement, Bud staggered around and 3 putted No. 10 for a bogey and missed a six foot attempt on No. 18 when it hung on the lip of the cup.

THE SECOND 1 under was scored by Bob Sederberg on the front side where he hit 8 pars and 1 birdie for a tally of two 3's and seven 4's. Very sound stroking for any golf team and Bob's 34 helped the 444 Press outfit to a win over the Kamp's team.

Robert Lee of the L'Nor Cleaner team took a 1-up lead against Dan Musser on the second hole and held on to defeat the 'lefty' by a 37 to 38 score. Lee's victory 37 was a very deciding factor team wise, and the Cleaners took 6 points from Peterson's Floor and Tile outfit. I wonder if the secretary's 18th hole six iron put a crimp in his foot, and close by reminding you about the forthcoming 2-Ball event. Sign up now it's a barrel of fun.

Gunnell's Squad Takes Slim Lead In Rob Roy Loop

Gunnell's Restaurant took over the lead in the Rob Roy Tuesday night league by the narrow margin of one-half point with a 5-2 victory over last place Webber Paint.

Berney Magneson was the big factor in this match coming through the wind and rain with a 38-4-34 ti lead his team, as well as the league, for low net honors.

Rand Henry Sunoco Station hung onto second place right on the heels of the leaders by trouncing C-P Floor and Wall Covering, 6½-½. Bill Behrens tied No. 2 man Bill Asher of the opposing team for the match, but took team with low net honors with a 41-6-35.

CHUCK VAN Boxtaele and Leo Kazmierzak with 40-3-37 and 45-7-38 respectively played fine golf to win their individual matches and aid the low net and gross totals.

Kelter Realty slipped from last week's lead to wind up in third place, two-and one-half points off the pace. Golf-Rand Golf Center were the culprits in knocking off last week's leaders and boosting themselves into contention by taking over the fifth spot in their 5½-1½ victory over the Realty boys.

Don Schmidt with a low team net of 41-4-37 and Bill Stroben's 41-3-38 paced the Golf Center team to ium p h. rpsuttihre team to their upset triumph.

Prospect Heights Pharmacy moved up to a third place tie by virtue of a decisive win over Borchardt's Restaurant, 5-2. The oddity of this match was a three-way tie for low net honor between Don Frantell, John Novotny and Ton Donushi, all of them card net 36s.

Two Eagles Highlight Golf League Action

St. Raymond's Holy Name Golf League's fifth week of play was highlighted by the recording of eagles by Denis St. Denis and Larry Selbach. Both Denny and Larry had an eagle on the par 5, 485 yard, 15th hole.

Although it was a perfect day for golf, with the weather warm and the course in good shape, there was a noticeable lack of good scoring. One of the few exceptions was a "38" turned in by Jack Moran.

IN LEAGUE 1, McMahon's increased their lead by winning 9 points from Keefer's with Dick McMahon's 3 point performance leading the way. Safford Stamps continued in second place but are being closely pursued by the Strass Ladies Apparel team who won 9½ points from Kirchoff Insurance.

In League 2, Busse Automotive took 10 points from Trapani Plumbing and have moved out to a five point lead over second place Mount Prospect Savings & Loan. Moran Furs continued in third place but are now tied with the Jake's Pizza team who moved up from sixth place by winning 9½ points.

Van Ness Finds Range in Friday Night Golf Play

The members of the Arlington Heights Twilight golf league are finding the range at Golden Acres Country Club.

Bud Van Ness, who got off to a slow start this season, suddenly found the range Friday night with an eagle 3 on the par 5 first hole and a deuce on the par 4 seventh hole on the white course. Gordon Otto scored an eagle 3 on the par 5 second hole of the yellow course.

The following members settled for birds: D. Magnuson and J. Andrup each had two; D. McGowan, R. Service, C. Kleinhofen, K. Seeger, L. Haines, Jr., C. Jamison, J. Paredes, T. Cara, and J. Flick all had one apiece.

WITH THIS exhibition of fine scoring the race is becoming tighter for the first three team positions. Beisler-Griffith Insurance Center managed to retain its hold on first place just three points ahead of Lauterburg and Oehler.

Arlington Structural Steel re-City Welding Sales couldn't admained in third place one half point in front of New Emerazld Cleaners. Harris Pharmacy and vance from their fifth and sixth place positions.

Stan Polly led his team, Stan's Standard Service, to a resounding victory over Crest Heating & Air Conditioning. This enabled Stan's Standard Service to climb out of the cellar position, five and one half points ahead of Lohr's Pharmacy.

Realtors Retain Golf League Lead

F.B.K. Realtors retained first place in the Friday Night Men's League at Mount Prospect Country Club last Friday with an 8-3 victory over the last place Esquire Barber Shop squad.

Dudley Hartman paced his mates to the win with a sparkling 35-4-31 that included birdies on the 11th and 15th holes. Hartman's round was good for three points. Ken Sophie backed him up with a 39-7-32 for two more. He birdied 13 in the process.

Fred Garlock and Ed Pool turned in 34 nets to split five points and lead second place Arlington Camera to a 7-5 conquest of the Pro Sport Center. Garlock scored a birdie four on 15.

JUD BROOKS' 49-20-29 garnered three points and helped boost Doyno Motors into third place after an 8-4 win over Mount Prospect Liquors.

In other matches, Keefer's Pharmacy whipped Wille Fuel and Lumber 6-4, Mount Prospect State Bank beat Kruse's Restaurant 8.7-3.4, and Jim's Standard Service tied Mell and Paul's Drive-in 6-6.

Arlington's Tennis Club Tops 3 Classes

The Arlington Tennis Club opened its season last Saturday against a strong Berwyn team and won in three of the four divisions.

Arlington's Juniors, league champs last year, won an easy 5-0 victory as Berwyn won only 12 games in ten sets of play. The Juniors labeled themselves as favorites in the league with this impressive win.

The Women' division was pressed harder by Berwyn. Marge Fink of Palatine had little difficulty with her opponent, but Arlington's Donna Cunningham and Mary Mockenhaupt were forced into long, tough matches by Berwyn.

IN THE MEN'S "B" division Arlington avenged last season's loses to Berwyn as Arlington dumped the league champs 4-3. Both Clarence Feiereisel and Don Johnson won their singles matches and them teamed up for the deciding doubles victory.

In the Men's "A" division the tables were turned. Berwyn won three singles and one doubles match to earn a 4-3 victory. Will Neu was the only Arlington player able to win twice. Neu beat Ron Fijkes in singles and then teamed up with Rog King of Buffalo Grove for a three set doubles victory.

Gay Messick, Berwyn's number one man and former Northwestern player, carried the load for Berwyn as he beat Chuck Schunk and then teamed up with Ken Bogda for a doubles victory.

NEXT WEEK Arlington hosts Wheaton, league champs for the last two years. Gene Buick and Bon Bennorth, former Big Ten Doubles Champions, will lead the Wheaton team. Supporting them are Wheaton College's Stickler and Bennema.

Arlington will counter with Jim Erickson, former Arlington High School player and now a member of Northwestern's varsity, and teammate Bob Inman, now playing varsity tennis at Harvard. Matches will be at Arlington High.

Annen-Busse Records 4th Straight Win

Annen and Busse Realtors, struggling for the undisputed lead of the Tuesday division of the Mount Prospect Twilight League since the opening night, posted their fourth consecutive victory last week and finally put a little daylight between thmselves and the rest of the pack.

The Realtors made it the hard way by defeating second-place Phil's Pure Oil in a most convincing way, 7-2/3 to 2-1/3. This moved Annen and Busse 4-1/3 points out in front of the new second place club, Winkelman's Shell Service, and dropped the strong Phil's team down to fourth.

BREAKING the match down to individual matches, Ken Sophie, Annen's "A" player, scored a 41 gross 35 net and won 2-1/3 points from Glenn Adams who posted a 46 gross 38 net. The Realtor's "B" player, Fred "Ringer" Jilek, likewise posted a 41-35 to take Art Hammerstrom who scored 42-36.

In the "C" flight, Bill Christensen of Phil's scored his team's only points as he took 2-1/3 from Olaf Carlson. The final points for the winners were scored by Geo. Laubenheimer who won 2 points from Ed Hendricks. The Realtors took the last point by winning low team net.

As mentioned earlier, Winkelman's Shell Service replaced Phil's Pure Oil in runner-up position by defeating Golden's Food Shop 6-4. Third place went to Mount Prospect State Bank as they scored the most convincing victory of the evening, Garden Center.

Low gross scores for the night were a 38 by Len Johnson and a 39 by Walt Double. Birdies were posted by Gene Raasch 1 and 7, Rollie Becker 3, Ed Stofft 9, Don Snyder 10, Ken Sophie 11 and 15, and Len Johnson 16.

Gunnell's, Union Hotel Setting Pace

Gunnell's Lanes still holds the top position in the Friday night league at Arlington Country Club with Union Hotel and Portage Auto Parts in second and third.

Bob Martin registered low gross with a 37, and John Goetz picked up low net with a 32.

Birdies were recorded by Martin on No. 7, Durand on No. 5, and Bob Durant on No. 8.

Little League Competition

White Sox, Braves Set Fast Pace in Arlington Baseball

The season is only a few weeks old, but already the White Sox and Braves are setting fast paces in their respective flag chases of the Arlington Heights Little League.

Unlike their Major League counterparts who have been hot-and-cold outfits thus far this season, the Arlington aggregations are both unbeaten after five outings and are holding comfortable (for this stage of the campaign) two game leads.

The White Sox added two more victories in their latest week of action in the American League.

AFTER BEING held scoreless for four innings, the front-running Sox broke loose in the last two stanzas to score a 7-0 victory over the Yankees behind the three-hit pitching of Bob Luber. Tom Epperly sparked the attack with a homer and triple.

Epperly fanned 13 and allowed only two hits as the White Sox pasted the Red Sox, 8-1. Jim Millay and Bob Luber collected key base hits in a four-run third inning.

Scott Anderson pitched a masterful one-hitter, allowing only one walk, as the Athletics bumped the Senators 4-1, and Bill Schaefer twirled a three-hitter in the Red Sox's 6-0 triumph over the Tigers. Tom Baness had two hits for the victors.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

A SIX-RUN explosion in the fourth inning carried the Yankees to their first win of the season, an 8-4 triumph over the Athletics. Bob Graham and Bill Kervick led the winners' attack with home runs. Bill Croarkin scattered seven hits while fanning seven.

Greg Galyon supplied two hits, including a two-run homer, as the Tigers bumped the Senators 5-2 behind the one-hit pitching of Jack Nebel. Jack struck out six.

In the National League the pace-setting Braves bounced the Angels and Pirates in their latest action.

BOB HECHT got the win with relief from Scott Guilfoil as the Braves stopped the Angels 9-2. John Shelly slammed a homer. Bill Ross scored the tie-breaking run as the Braves edged the Pirates 3-2. John McNamara clouted a two-run homer for the Pirates' only markers.

The Giants exploded with 16 hits over six innings and clubbed the Pirates 16-1. Bobby Edgerton pitched two-hit ball and fanned 15. Del Brandau slammed two triples and Pete Loughman collected one three-bagger.

Scoring five runs in each of the last two frames, the Giants came from behind to handle the Dodgers 10-5. Rick Loner contributed a grand-slam homer.

STEVE SHAWHAN got the win and was backed with a nine-hit attack as the Cardinals edged the Cubs 3-2 with Jim Gumz slamming two doubles. Mike Collins had three hits.

Tim Burke and Gregg Leydig slammed homers to spark the Cards to a convincing 15-3 victory over the Angels, and Scott Pregent claimed the mound decision as the Twins blanked the Dodgers 14-0. Scott also rapped a home run.

In a tight, well-played game the Twins edged the Cubs 6-5 as Bill Drake hit two triples, driving in four runs.

In the South Varsity League play opened last week with the Orioles, Phillies, and Redwings picking up triumphs.

DAVE HOWARD bested Craig Butler in a mound duel as the Phillies edged the Rams 3-2. Clemans slammed a home run for the winners.

Back row, Hugh McCauley of Des Plaines, Nicholas Engels of Wheeling, Douglas Holz of Arlington Heights, and Ken Koeppen of Arlington Heights.

Tokar Gains Show Honors

Tokar, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Angell of Bloomingdale, took home a trophy and blue ribbon Saturday in the Colt Class at the Northern Illinois Arabian Horse show in Wayne, Ill.

Jules Nielson of Roselle handled Tokar in the competition.

Mr. E. W. Schroeder of Elgin, riding Bright Diamond, claimed the grand championship in the show.

Yankees Blast White Sox, 26-9, In Mount Prospect

The first returns are in for the Mount Prospect Little League.

Results of five games during the initial week of action show the Yankees of the American League "A" division fashioning the most explosive offense with a resounding 26-9 victory over the White Sox.

Mike Wells went all the way in the contest at Busse Field in Mount Prospect.

BEHRENS BESTED Mehmzow in a mound duel as the Yankees topped the Tigers, 3-2. Mehmzow sparkled in defeat, however, by fanning 14 batters.

The Bruning Sox and Orioles staged a first-class donneybrook at Owens Field with the Orioles coming up with seven runs in the final inning for an 11-10 decision.

The two teams combined for 21 hits with B. McDonough and Bahrer rapping home runs. Muszynski and Harris slapped triples and French, Grysentrog, Ruehrdanz, and Gottschalk collected doubles.

MIKE Ellenberger twirled a neat two-hitter as the Lions bumped the Indians, 3-1. DeJongi slammed a homer and Cartier contributed a triple.

Gil Bathgate was the winner as the Giants edged the Bruning Sox, 8-7, in an extra inning contest. Bob Riggs was tagged with the loss.

The initial game reports turned in to Paddock Publications were too limited in information. Complete game reports with legible writing should be submitted each week. First names of boys should also be included.

Parfaits: Delicious Fun for the Family

Ice cream is good any time, anywhere, but what's more delicious—and glamorous, too—than a parfait! It's the most!

Parfaits look so fancy they seem difficult to prepare. In point of effort, though, they are no more trouble than dumping a few ingredients into a bowl.

Perhaps the glassware in which they are usually served dismays you. A parfait is a parfait . . . not a glass . . . but a blending of flavors. Be daring. Use a pilsner glass (always for beer?) or a simple drinking glass.

IF YOU WANT to be a perfectionist (after the French) buy some parfait glasses. They're not expensive. Go shop and see.

If you want to have a barrel of fun, give the youngsters a chance to play fancy, the younger ones as well as the teenagers. Teach them how to prepare parfaits. They'll be impressed to know parfaits are served as a fine dessert in the fanciest restaurants.

Into the bottom of the glass goes a scoop of ice cream, then a spurt of fruit or other flavored syrup, another scoop of ice cream — etc. The number of layers depends on the depth of your glass, but the flavoring layer should come out on top!

TEACH THE children to serve things prettily by providing whipped cream, either fresh or in a push-button can, and whole nut meats and cherries for garnishes.

After the last cool mouthful has slid down the children's throats, complete the lesson by having them wash their glasses and put them away, ready for the next parfait-making session.

"Parfait" is the French word for "perfect." With today's fruit concentrates, frozen or fresh fruits, and exotic flavors of many kinds (including liqueurs available in small quantities in your market) parfaits of perfection are a breeze to prepare. They can be made far in advance, frozen as the hotels do, and served with all the grace of a maitre d' honoring his best paying guest. Be sure to let them mellow a bit by taking them out of the freezer well before serving time. A hard-frozen parfait misses fire. Here's a recipe for a perfect parfait. Vary it with different combinations — strawberries and fresh pineapple, boysenberries with sweetened lime juice. Vary the flavors of ice cream. Use more than one kind in the same parfait, for added color and taste.

FRUIT PARFAITS
6 8-ounce servings

1 cup (10-oz. package frozen red raspberries.
1½ pounds fresh nectarines or peaches
½ cup sugar
1½ quarts vanilla ice cream
½ cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar

Partially thaw raspberries. Pare and slice nectarines or peaches; add sugar and chill. When ready to serve, scoop ice cream into the bottom of each glass and cover generously with fruit; repeat. Pour a few spoonfuls of juice from the fruit over each parfait. Whip cream until stiff; blend in sugar and spoon over top of parfaits.

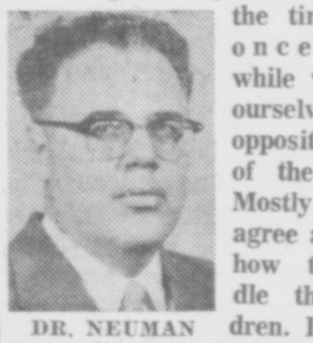
Family Differences Helped by Exchange

by DR. GERARD G. NEUMAN

Dear Dr. Neuman,

I am writing to ask you to settle a family quarrel and tell us who is right. My husband and I get along well most of the time, but once in a while we find ourselves on opposite sides of the fence. Mostly we disagree about how to handle the children. Right now, it's the problem of bedtime for our 12-year-old- son.



DR. NEUMAN

My husband thinks that it's very important for Harry to get enough sleep. He makes him go to bed at nine o'clock on week nights, whether he has his homework finished or no. He says it's up to Harry to do the things he has to before bedtime. This is the way he was brought up, and he says it hasn't hurt him.

I know a growing boy needs his sleep, but the homework is really heavy some nights. Then there are extra activities after school, and naturally Harry likes to spend time with his friends. I hate to tell him he can't have any fun, because I remember how I felt when I was his age. My home was like my husband's. No matter what, we had to go to bed at a regular time. I always said that when I had children, I would do things differently. Am I wrong?

Mrs. C.

It's interesting that although you and your husband grew up with the same rules about bedtime, you each feel so differently now. Your husband wants to do things just the way they were done when he was growing up. You want to do just the opposite.

To get back to your question, there isn't any one right way to handle such problems, there are many ways. The trouble is that most of us know only one way — the way it was done in our own home. We're either for it or against it — but all we really have is the experience of growing up in our own family to guide us.

I'VE OFTEN thought that it would be a wonderful learning experience to be able to live in another family for a week. Our nation sponsors a Foreign Exchange Plan for students, so that students of our country can live with families in a foreign country and to go school there, while we have students of other lands in our homes and schools.

In the same way, I would like to propose a Family Exchange Plan. Since we cannot imagine what we have not seen, we often feel completely blocked in trying to work out a problem. Seeing how another family does things would give us new ideas.

Failing a Family Exchange Plan, as a guide-line I would like to suggest that it would be good to avoid getting into an either/or position. By keeping our minds open to other possibilities, different answers are often found.

If you have any questions or comments you want to direct to Dr. Neuman, address your letter to Box B-18, c/o Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, Ill. Confidentiality will be respected.

Retire from Work, But Not from Life

Make Plans Early For Golden Years

by BETTY AINSLIE

After that last company banquet, the gift of the gold watch and final emptying of desk drawers, your husband is retired. He's suddenly home, everyday — all day from now on. Not only will hubby find his life has changed but after a few canceled shopping dates and bridge club meetings with the girls you'll realize things sure "ain't what they used to be" not since Pop retired.

More and more books and magazines are being written about this business of facing up to retirement. So what will you do with the so called golden years ahead?

Like most of us at the "now life begins" or younger age, retirement looks like a million years away. But at the rate the days, months and years fairly leap by the sixties, social security benefits and retirement will be here before we can turn around.

"I'M READY to retire anyday. No commuting, no big city rat race, just time to relax and boy that's for me," declared a friend several years back. But suddenly he reached that magic number and was forced into retirement. After a couple months of just relaxing he stated flatly. "I'm bored, sick of watching "I'm bored, sick of watching my wife do housework. The yard's as neat as a pin, everything is fixed. I'm so restless I'd welcome even joining the commuters race again—at least I'd have a reason then for being tired."

Fortunate and smart are those who start early to plan for future retirement.

"Believe me," stated a neighbor. "You guys start thinking about what you'll do now, a long time before you retire, don't wait until that day arrives. Days that never had enough hours before now drag. It took my wife and I two years to get organized, now we are at the place we should have been the day I left the company. Now we know what we want to do."

IN THIS couple's case what they want to do is move to a settlement in Arizona. Such places are found more and more in the sunny side sections of the United States built and organized for the people past fifty—catering to their incomes, their wants and their needs. Complete with golf courses, swimming pools, large recreation centers that have classes in ceramics, drawing, painting and all the fine arts, these low cost homes are becoming more and more popular.

However, such places haven't been in existence long enough to actually test their success.

Our retired friends after visiting two of these places decided on the more nearly completed spot in Arizona. In both places one of the couple must be over fifty and have no children of high school age or younger living with them. By not having children in the development, school taxes are almost non-existent and with all your neighbors in the same age group you are bound to discover like interests.

Such places are to be found in Florida and other Southern climes which seem to suit the stiffer joints of Senior Citizens.

"EVERYONE was very friendly and there would never be a loss of things to do," our Arizona bound friends declared as they busily prepared to sell their house and furniture here to permanently settle in this town near Phoenix.

"You can get your lawn either in grass or in red, white or green stone which is kinda pretty and attractive and more important, saves work."

There must be disadvantages of such a wonderful sounding paradise. One might be that there are no young couples near. Of course children and grandchildren may visit but some retired couples would miss the companionship of younger neighbors.

"Kinda sounds to me," said a younger neighbor "like you'd be mixed up in a group that's just sitting around discussing aches and pains and waiting to die."

I'D MISS the seasons changing myself and having young neighbors keeps my wife and I more alert as to what is going on. Besides most of these places are sure a long way from watching the grandchildren grow up," declared a happily retired friend.

The ideal situation, of course, would be a place in a warm climate to go to escape the tough northern Winters and a place here to enjoy our Springs, Summers and colorful Falls. But few of us are able to manage such an arrangement.

A trip to some of these spots a few years before retirement might be ideal and make it a long enough visit to see if you would really enjoy living in one of these organized communities before you sell out and leave a lifetime of friends and relatives to begin a new life in a strange spot.

Personally, it sounds like the ideal arrangement for retired years. No matter how young in spirit you might be the older and younger generations are still mentally as well as physically many eons apart.

Men and women who figure they'd like to draw, paint, do work in cutting and polishing stones, and never had time for such pastimes while the children were growing up, would enjoy following out these hobbies more with people of their own age. Persons in these groups are from every part of the United States and are anxious to make new friends—friends of their own age are easily found and eagerly formed. Besides they've golf courses, swimming pools and shuffle board courts to condition older muscles and keep them in shape all year. Just think of all the bridge partners they could always find.

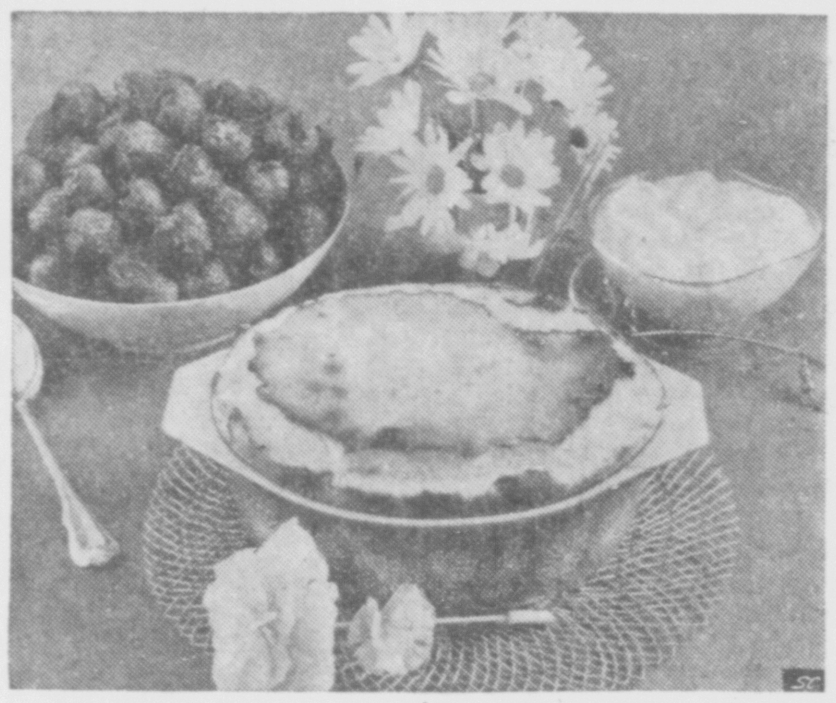
I'VE AN UNCLE who always enjoyed repairing watches. He had a regular work shop completely equipped long before he retired from a government job. Between this hobby and a talent for woodcarving he could hardly wait to retire so he could spend full time at his fun hobbies which also help to increase his retirement income.

Hobbies which have been entertaining and fun while we're young are bound to fill in those longer hours when we grow older. With something more then TV viewing to do we'll find more purpose and meaning to the retirement years.

"Start now throwing out old junk," was another suggestion of a retired friend. "Don't save all those odds and ends. Keep the basement and attic cleaned out, and for goodness sake do it while you're younger then you won't have years of accumulated junk challenging your aching muscles and joints if on retirement you decide to move."

SO WITH MORE and more companies now having forced retirement, those good years after 65 can become the really happy, content Golden Years if we start making plans for retiring gracefully, now.

Dessert Souffle Baked With Twin Dairy Foods



The next time you entertain and are wondering what to serve for a "different" dessert investigate Dairy Dessert Souffle developed by the Borden Kitchen.

This easy-to-prepare souffle of the dessert variety combines two dairy products—cream cheese and sour cream. At serving time pass the strawberries and additional sour cream and let your guests top their portions generously.

DAIRY DESSERT SOUFFLE
(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

2 (3-oz.) packages cream cheese
1 cup sour cream
3 eggs, separated
¼ cup honey
Dash of salt

Let cream cheese stand at room temperature until softened. Beat until smooth and fluffy; blend in sour cream. Beat egg yolks until slightly thickened; stir into sour cream mixture. Stir in honey and salt.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into sour cream mixture. Pour into a 1½-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 35 to 40 minutes, or until top is golden brown.

Serve with sour cream and sweetened sliced or whole strawberries.

Palatine Couple Married East

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Cunningham Jr., 350 N. Inverway, Inverness, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Courtney, to Donald Teegan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Teegan of Palatine. The marriage took place May 28 in New Hampshire.

Both young people are graduates of Palatine High School and the bride also studied two years at Skidmore College. This summer she is enrolled at Northwestern University.

The newlyweds are residing in Highland Park.

Gardeners Plan Meet At Dunes

The dressy, high heels of the usual garden club devotee will abdicate to sturdy walking shoes June 11 as members of area garden clubs affiliated with the Garden Club of Illinois visit the Dunes Park before and after their first meeting of the summer months.

Club members in the Paddock area were pleased to learn that this first meeting would be within easy driving distance. The meeting will begin with a noon time luncheon in the Dunes Park Lodge, where Dr. Marjorie Carlson, staff member of the Biology Department of Northwestern University, will be guest speaker.

Deerfield garden clubs will be hostesses. Plans are being made for a July meeting at Ravinia Park and an August meeting in Kankakee.

Jayn Cees Host Jaycee Husbands

The Mount Prospect Jayn Cees played hostess to their Jaycee husbands at a party in the home of outgoing Jaycee president Mel Buettner, 617 N. Fairview, May 26.

Games, climaxed by a Twist contest, preceded a buffet supper prepared and served by the wives of the 20 persons present.

Quite Contrary by Mary

Just a You-Know-What

Everybody hates me. Almost no one will speak to me. And I can't understand it, because underneath this hard exterior beats a heart of, well maybe not pure gold but at least an old alloy of some sort.

MARY

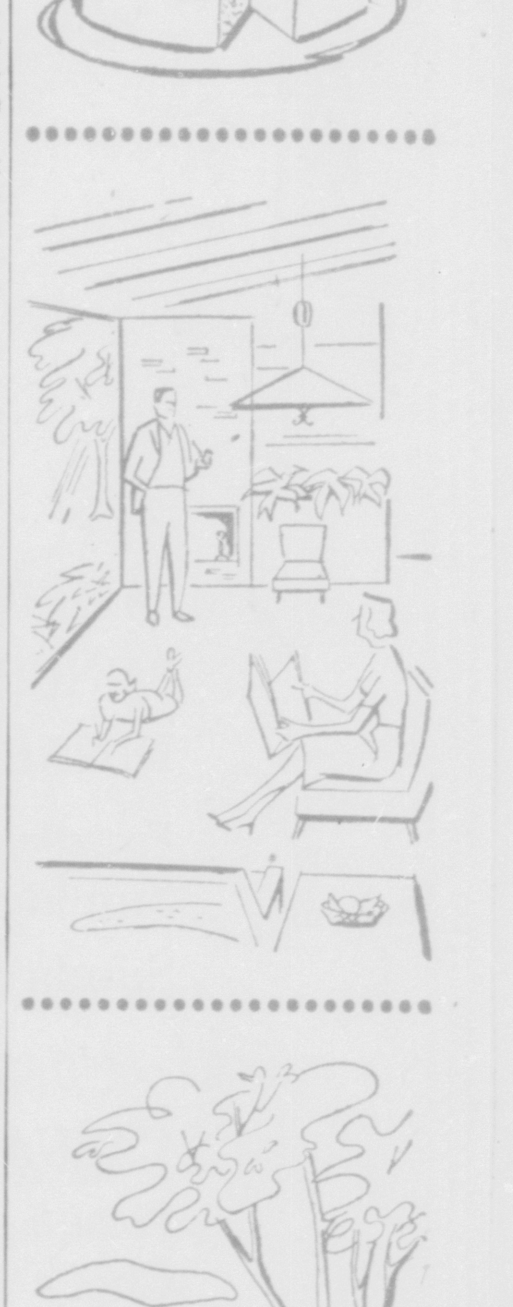
All I did to deserve this condemnation was to shoot my second hole-in-one Memorial Day. There I stood on the seventh tee watching my three iron shot arch out over the water to the green. And then it rolled and rolled and then I couldn't see it any more. I had a hole-in-one about three years ago but must confess it was on a pitch and putt thing and not much to get spastic about. Sort of a long approach as it were. But, this was different.

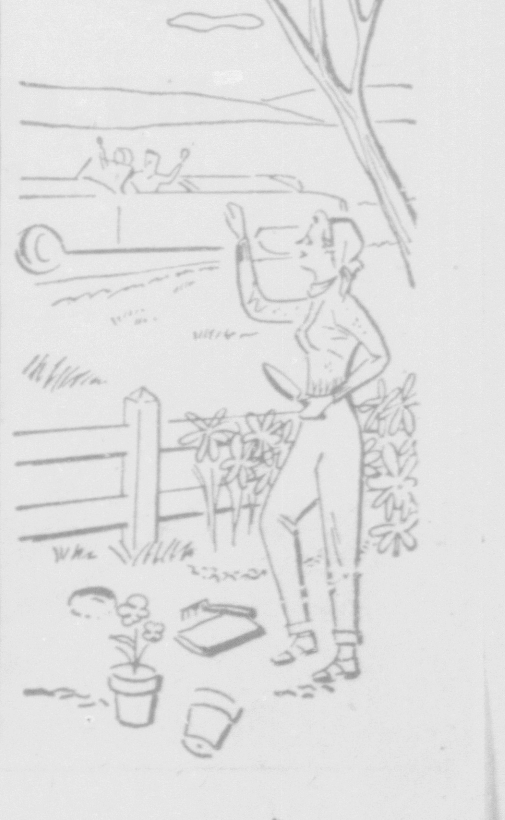
Boy, was it different. Father said that, by jove, he thought I had a hole-in-one. The other fella agreed that, by jove, he thought so too. His wife allowed as how she agreed. Notice that so far I have kept my lip buttoned up. Thereby showing marvelous control. Actually, for once in my life, I was speechless. All I managed to squeak out was to ask if it was really a you-know-what.

That really set them off. Father piped up and said he always maintained I was a lousy winner. I thought this was unkind of him even if it is true. Figuring I might as well have the game as the name, I informed all three of them that I thought it was awfully silly of them to have to putt on that green.

When we arrived home, I started canvassing the neighborhood with my great news. I'm not exactly known as the modest type. As I made my announcement to anyone who would stand still and listen, I found out who my friends really are. There aren't any. All they did was groan and say that they supposed they would never hear the end of it.

All I ask is to have my three iron mounted sort of like a prize Muskie and to have people greet me as the Babe Didrickson Zaharius of Busse Avenue. A simple enough request, if you ask me. And, no one did.





Toastmistresses Elect Mrs. Schinke President

Using the theme, "State of Mind," Midtown Toastmistress Club concluded its year at Tuesday's meeting in Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Association. The business session included the installation of new officers.

Mrs. Chester Swanson of Chicago, chairman of Council 12, conducted the installation of the following: Mrs. Douglas Schinke, president; Mrs. Thomas Brannan, vice president; Mrs. H. A. Edwall, secretary; Mrs. Richard Patton, treasurer; Mrs. Edward May, club representative.

THE INVOCATION was given by Mrs. Richard Patton, lexicologist was Mrs. James Elf, and Mrs. William F. Brown was topicmistress. All are from Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Thomas Brannan of Elk Gove, toastmistress for the evening, introduced the speakers, Mrs. Arlo Robinson and Mrs. H. A. Edwall, both of Mount Prospect. Mrs. Charles Opela was guest evaluator, and Mrs. Edward May was the timer. Both are Arlington Heights women.

DELEGATES from the Midtown club who attended the regional conference in Chicago on May 19 and 20 were Mrs. Douglas Schinke, Mrs. Edward May and Mrs. Edward Paul.

Mrs. Schinke spoke to residents of the Lutheran Old Peoples Home on May 25, her topic being "Our Often Forgotten Heritage." It included colored slides of an Indian reservation.

Mike Dickover Is Returning With Bride

Mike dickover 1-18 ital 1 col

Following their May 12 wedding in Washington and a wedding trip to Ocean Shores, Mr. and Mrs. Michael M. Dickover will be returning this summer to reside at 19 Ash, Orchard Hills, Palatine, the former home of the groom's parents. The groom met his bride, the former Marie Elizabeth Brulotte, daughter of the Lawrence Brulottes of Yakima, Wash., while stationed with the Naval Reserves in Washington.

For her marriage the bride chose a classic gown of brocaded white cotton and carried gold orchids and stephanotis in her bouquet. She was attended by Mildred Ternes of Seattle and her sister, Laura, who wore green silk sheath dresses and carried arm bouquets of white mums. The groom was attended by James Daleiden of Palatine as best man.

The bride studied at Seattle University and the groom, son of Mrs. Carl Johnson of Whittier, Cal., the former Mrs. Fred Dickover of Palatine, was graduated from Palatine high school. After returning to Palatine, he will resume his position with the Palatine Post Office. (S

Especially for Women

NEITHER BUGS NOR weather problems could haunt one of of the first picnics of the year for it was held indoors where grass mats, potted flowers, garden statuary and flowering shrubs greeted guests of the Ben Kalaways and Bill Calkinses of Elk Grove Village. Mrs. Kalaway readies the picnic table for the early May party. (S

Arlington AAUW To Discuss Plans

The official board of the Arlington Heights Branch, American Association of University Women, will meet tonight, June 7 in the home of Miss Marian Heniken, 506 N. Hickory, Arlington Heights, to discuss plans for the coming year. Both outgoing and new officers will attend. Mrs. John Wallschlaeger, branch president, will preside.

Those who will hold office during the 1962-63 season are Mrs. Wallschlaeger; Mrs. Ted Meyer, vice president and membership chairman; Mrs. Robert Brown, secretary, and Miss Carey Clark, treasurer.

COMMITTEE chairmen include Mrs. Rudolph Ellinger, arts; Mrs. Sam Cullison, education; Mrs. Thomas Dabovich, international relations; Mrs. Garrett Duel, legislative; Mrs. Donald Novaria, mass media; Mrs. Carlton Kattreh, social and economic issues; Mrs. John Barron, status of women; Mrs. Lowell Wills, program; Mrs. Morris Pumphrey, social, and Miss Heniken, publicity. Miss Mary Heller will serve as parliamentarian, and Mrs. Robert Botthof, bulletin editor.

Mrs. Wallschlaeger, Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. Dabovich, Miss Heniken, Mrs. John Gessert and Mrs. Richard Cook attended a workshop on program planning held May 26 in Maywood by the Illinois State Division of AAUW.

Women in this area interested in AAUW are invited to telephone Mrs. Meyer, CL 9-1049, for information about the Arlington Heights Branch. (S

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Exciting Project

Dear Peg:

For those of us who believe that Chicago has as many cultural advantages and cultured interests as any city in the U. S., I have great news! We are to have a World's Fair of Music and Sound to be held at McCormick Place August 31 through September 9. This will be the largest national exposition ever held anywhere covering all phases of the music and sound industries, including both the trade and consumer public.

Included in the exposition will be imaginative and instructive product and scientific exhibits. There will be an educational symposia covering such controversial subjects as "The Status of Musical Arts Behind the Iron Curtain" and "Music in the Electronic Age," with such artists and authorities as Leonard Bernstein, David Sarnoff and Aaron Copeland invited to participate.

Strange instruments from all over the world will share the spotlight with famous musicians and performers on the three special stages to be erected in the exhibition area. And to further international exchange of interests and ideas, a Chamber Orchestra Composition Contest will be held—manuscripts from as far away as Austria and Germany have already arrived at the World's Fair offices. Entries have also arrived from the leading Music schools and universities. In addition to the $1,000 prize offered in this contest, the winner will be given the opportunity to come to the fair to conduct the premier performance of his work.

The 5,000-seat Arie Crown Theatre will be used for live talent presentations in a "World of Music" spectacular ranging from primitive music through jazz to grand opera, in a single hour and a half performance presented three times daily.

Among the artists already signed for these special events are Eleanor Steber, a leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, and Henry Mancini, one of the top composer-arranger-conductors in motion pictures and television (he recently won two Oscars for the Best Song—Moon River and for the Best Musical Score for a Movie—Breakfast at Tiffany's).

I saw pictures of the decorating plans for the Fair and, believe me, they alone will be worth seeing.

From everything I heard and saw, this promises to be one of the most exciting and worthwhile projects ever undertaken in Chicago—we'll be hearing lots more about it later.

My love,
Patty

Sister 'Trio' Makes April Ceremony A Family Affair

Strictly a "family affair" was the wedding ceremony which united Miss Carol Kindler and Sgt. Alfred Fazzini, son of the Michael Fazzinis of Detroit for the roles of maid of honor and bridesmaids were given her three sisters: Susan, Patricia and Mary Anne.

Miss Kindler, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kindler of 407 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, repeated vows with Mr. Fazzini in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church on April 28.

PERFORMING the 1:30 p.m. double ring rites amid yellow and white carnations at the altar was Rev. Harold T. O'Hara. Seated nearby was Mrs. Kindler, dressed in pink chiffon. Seen across the aisle in a silk blue print was the groom's mother; both wore orchid corsages.

Before the bride's appearance, her three sisters came down the center aisle gowned in light green nylon organza outfits and carrying bouquets of yellow carnations. Their dresses gave pleasant contrast to the pure all white effect of the bridal ensemble.

CHANTILLY lace and nylon net made up the bride's dress, styled with chapel train and long sleeves. Fastened to her pearl crown was a short veil of silk tulle; flowers were white carnations and a single orchid.

Best man was Wade Teeter and Bob Clark and Bob Robbson were ushers. All three, stationed at Arlington Nike Base, were present at a reception given at the bride's parents home for 125 guests that evening.

AN ARLINGTON High School graduate, the new Mrs. Fazzini previously was employed at Kindler's Confections and Bella Pizza in Arlington. A sergeant in the air Force, the groom received his education in Detroit.

He was transferred from the local Nike base to San Angelo, Texas, new home for the newlyweds. There, working in the aereonautical division of the air force, the groom will attend the army's radio and electronics school. (Bak(S

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

A Mug and Jug Party Is Fun

By DOLORES HAUGH

Yes, summer is flirting with us and soon it will be picnic time so use your mugs and jugs for a party theme.

INVITATION

If you have the summer do-nothing attitude, buy invitations with a mug on them—and forget the do it yourself invites but if you have a zippy spurt of ambition, cut mugs from striped paper and on the reverse side write the following:

Mugs and jugs—mugs and jugs

Our table will be overflowing.

Won't you come and join in the fun?

The whole bunch is hep on going.

Down by the poolside, or even the lake,

Maybe just under the trees,

No matter the place we decide upon going

The only things you will need will be these:

List: Kind of clothes: if bathing equipment, towels and caps should be listed. If you want a pitch-in type dinner, which is lots of fun, list the meal. If you are short of tables and chairs, tell your guests to bring their own chairs. And, wind up with each bringing their own jugs filled with hot coffee, cold punch, or you name it according to the theme of menu you have chosen.

Last but not least, enough mugs for their own group, family or just themselves as a couple, unless you have a large enough supply.

MENUS

Here you have a free field. You can have anything from fried chicken, potato salad, fruit salad in a halved watermelon, cake and cookies or you can have make it yourself sandwiches providing all the cheeses and meats yourself and letting the guests bring unusual breads and condiments.

Add a bucket of potato chips, a wash tub of relishes on crushed ice and your menu is finished. If you are in the back yard under the trees then mug it up with a casserole of various things. Make it a Japanese theme and string lanterns and have chop suey and egg foo young or sukiaki, shrimps or tempura with teas of different kinds in the jugs.

Your timing for your picnic Mug and Jug party will vary with the theme, and place you will have it, so be sure and clearly state this on the invitation. Calculate, or better yet, have a trial run, to your picnic spot so you will know exactly how long it will take to get there.

If it is an unusual place, provide maps with the invites or if you leave from your home give the maps when the party disperses for said place. When you make your trial run and you plan for a fire, check authorities for permits. You will avoid a lot of last minute disappointments.

Patio, or back yard parties can be so much fun that this is just the beginning of several such events and HAUGH TO PLAN them.

ENTERTAINMENT

Eat. Relax. Swim. Relax. Who needs planned entertainment? If you're tired, this is an easy way to entertain: let everyone put their mugs in jugs of cool liquid refreshment or hot coffee and relax, this goes for the hostess, too. So fill up the jugs, pour full the mugs to overflowing and before you know it you'll have a picnic going. (S

Hess-Moudry Rites Unite Local Families on May 5

After a short honeymoon at Eureka Springs, Ark., local newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Moudry, returned to the area to make their first home in Palatine at 24 N. Oak St.

The bride, Sandra Hess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cundiff of 2405 Sigwalt, Rolling Meadows, exchanged vows and rings with Mr. Moudry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moudry, 207 W. Euclid, Arlington Heights.

Officiating at their May 5 ceremony in St. John United Church of Christ, Arlington Heights, was Rev. Robert McDonald. Church decor included two vases of white mums and gladioli and white bows on every other pew.

FOR HER 4 p.m. nuptials Miss Hess was gowned in white silk organza. Lace appliques over taffeta trimmed the neckline, and in three rose designs decorated her full skirt.

A sequin crown held in place her elbow-length veil and white glamellias and lilies of the valley in crescent shape, formed the bridal bouquet. She was given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Cundiff.

Karen Moudry, the groom's sister, served as maid of honor, while Judy Horning, Chicago; Jill Legg, Arlington Heights; and Maryann Rau, Palatine, took the parts of bridesmaids.

ALL WERE dressed alike in aqua silk shantung sheaths with matching silk organza overskirts; their bouquets consisted of pink crescent shaped glamellias. Carrying a basket of baby mums was flower girl, Dawn Kvisgaard of Chicago, the bride's 3-year-old cousin.

Ring bearer was Billy Cundiff, brother of the bride. In the groom's party were three Arlington Heights men: Burton Bauer, best man; Dennis Hackbarth and Luther Legg. Another groomsman was Ernest Ternovits of Wheeling.

Both mothers had butterfly orchids to complement their outfits. Mrs. Cundiff wore a turquoise silk chiffon dress with full skirt and Mrs. Moudry chose a beige crepe sheath with lace jacket.

GUESTS NUMBERING 275 offered congratulations to the newlyweds later at a buffet dinner and reception in the Arlington Heights American Legion Hall.

A graduate of Kelvyn Park High School, the bride is now employed at Illinois Bell Telephone Co. in Arlington. Her groom, an employe at John Hancock Insurance Co., Chicago, was graduated from Arlington High School. (Times

DAR to Sponsor Flag Day Picnic

Eli Skinner Chapter of DAR will hold a Flag Day picnic June 14 at noon in Potawatomi Woods. Families of members are invited.

Mrs. John Gustitus, Arlington Heights, Regent of the chapter, invites area women who are eligible for membership in DAR to come and get acquainted.

Potawatomi Woods is just east of Milwaukee Road, on the north side of Dundee Road. Chapter members and guests will meet in and around the shelter which has been reserved by Eli Skinner for the afternoon.

PLANS FOR organizing a CAR Chapter will be discussed during the afternoon. CAR is the name for children whose ancestors fought in the American Revolution. These groups are formally called Children of the American Revolution, and Eli Skinner Chapter is interested in sponsoring such a group in this area. (S

Mrs. Hartley Named To State Position

DONNA HARTLEY

At the 67th Annual Convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs held in the Sherman House, May 8, 9 and 10, Mrs. Myron R. Hartley of Mount Prospect was elected and installed as State Junior Director.

In her new capacity, Mrs. Hartley will coordinate the activities of approximately 10,000 junior club women of the Illinois Federation, and through her various chairmen and board members, will receive and relay vital information necessary for the continued excellent work now being accomplished.

MRS. HARTLEY has actively participated as a member of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club for a number of years and has served as assistant publicity chairman, first vice president, president and parliamentarian. District and state positions included American Home Chairman, Second Vice President and Membership Chairman, Junior Director and Junior State Project Chairman.

St. Mary Society Installs Officers

Highlight of the June 6 meeting of St. Mary Altar and Rosary Society of Buffalo Grove was the installation of new officers for the coming year. The ceremony followed the business meeting and commenced with the ladies of St. Mary's choir singing "Ave Marie," accompanied by Sister Mary Romelle, O.S.F.

Mrs. Eugene Huxhold accepted her second term as the Society's president. Mrs. Donald Thompson, Mrs. Steven Wojtanek and Mrs. Ted Bartman were installed as vice president, secretary and treasurer respectively.

MRS. ROBERT Dressler, a former president of the Society was the installing officer. The ceremony closed with the choir's singing "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

The ladies present at the meeting were then entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Heidemann who presented a musical program. Refreshments were served by Guild 6, Helen Koch, leader. (S

Peace Is a Product Of Prudent Planning

Peace and quiet is a scarce commodity in today's homes, yet it needn't be an expensive one. Good planning allows built-in peace and quiet by banishing noise and traffic in certain areas of the home.

The first step, says the June issue of Better Homes & Gardens, is privacy. Build a wall, or a suggestion of one, to shut out street noise and unwelcome eyes.

Add some greenery and plant a few flowers—spots of color that harmonize with your temperament. Make sure that indoor leisure areas are restful, too.

A secluded screened-in patio will make neighborhood bustle seem far away. Make use of fiberglass screening and airy rattan furniture for cool looking, carefree comfort.

Small patios can have privacy without a hemmed-in feeling. Utilize roof overhang for partial overhead shelter. Let vines on poles and frames and other plants serve in place of solid walls.

A patio screen can contribute color and pattern in addition to privacy. Flat, translucent plastic panels, set in grooved redwood frames, make an eye-catching unit.

FOR RESTFUL shade on a treeless lot, an easily-constructed small shelter filled with colorful shade-loving plants makes a refreshing, cooling spot any time of the day.

The solution to a wasted, unusable slope in the backyard is a sun deck, where potted plants in full bloom can complement permanent plantings. Any handyman can construct a deck that will last for years.

A screen house near a stand of trees offers a fast retreat from the world of bugs, without leaving your own backyard. Built-in cabinets will store outdoor furniture and barbecue gear.

The barbecue area itself is any man's paradise, says the magazine. Here, he can relax as he cooks, forgetting the worries of the day. (S

Mr. Landmeier was graduated from Arlington High School and attended Michigan State University. He will graduate from Southern Illinois June 13 with a degree in management.

Former Arlington Girl Married to Chicagoan

A former Arlington Heights resident, Miss Jane Speers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Howard Speers of Aurora, became the bride of William Mansur Franz o. Chicago, son of Mrs. Bisbee Franz of Crystal Lake and Robert Franz of Barrington, May 26.

Dr. William Jacobs officiated at the 3:30 p.m. ceremony in the New England Congregational Church which was decorated with arrangements of gladioli and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Herschel Hudgens provided the organ accompaniment.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was escorted to the altar in a gown of silk mist with a sabrina neckline, elbow-length sleeves and princess lines. Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls and sequins was appliqued on the front of the gown and on the chapel train. Her full, shoulder-length veil was secured to a seed pearl crown and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses with florets of white stock.

JUDITH SPEERS, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Coyne of Skokie, Conny Drew of Evanston and Karen Smith of Chicago, all college friends of the bride.

The attendants wore simply-shaped empire-waisted, street-length dresses of aqua silk crepe. Their matching short over-jackets with boat necklines and elbow-length sleeves were fastened in back with three bows. They carried bouquets of yellow glamellias with variegated foliage and they wore garlands of English ivy in their hair.

Three of the groom's brothers were in the wedding party, with Frederic of Crystal Lake as best man, and James of Chicago and Donald of Stamford, Conn., as ushers. Also an usher was Robert Speers, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony there was a reception in the church for the wedding guests. Mrs. Orville Jones of Pekin, Mrs. Glenn Shurr of Pontiac and Mrs. Robert Speers of Emington, aunts of the bride, and Miss Natalie Glover of Arlington Heights assisted.

THE NEW Mrs. Franz graduated from Arlington High School, attended Knox College, and graduated from the University of Illinois. She is now employed by Rotry Intanaertioanl ployed by Rotary International in Evanston. Mr. Franz received his bachelor's degree from Syracuse University and a law degree from Kent law school. He practices law in Chicago and Crystal Lake.

After a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, the couple will reside in Park Ridge.

Wheeling Juniors Install Officers at May Banquet

"Keeping pace with the rapidly expanding community and the needs which accompany such expansion provide the stimulus for the untiring efforts of the Wheeling Junior Woman's Club," commented Mrs. William Hayden, the re-elected and newly-installed president of the group at the club's spring banquet held May 22 in Wheeling's Union Hotel.

Mrs. Hayden also summed up the achievements of the organization which have earned for the club in the last two years, both a first and second place recognition in the state in the General Federation-sponsored community Improvements Contests. The club is also the recipient of a certificate of appreciation from the Wheeling Junior Chamber of Commerce for successfully promoting civic and social advancement. Recognition was also given the group for work done for the Brain Research Foundation and the Tuberculosis Mobile Unit Service.

PLAQUES AWARDED by the club during the banquet included one to the Union Hotel for "outstanding contributions to community development" one one to Kenneth Gill, school superintendent, fr "outstanding contributions to the community from an individual."

Other new officers of the club include: Mrs. Hubert Sommerfeld, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Steinman, second vice president; Mrs. Elic Nekimken, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jack Behar, recording secretary; Mrs. Herbert Agase, treasurer. Past President Mrs. William Farr conducted the candlelight ceremony installing the new officers.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the evening included Mrs. Raymond Spletzer being appointed as representative to the Community Council and Ruth Weidner assuming a board of director's position representing the Comunity Improvement Committee.

During the banquet festivities, club members viewed various achievements including a press book which took first place in the Seventh District Juniors Contest.

The club will resume activities in September, at which time new members will be welcome. (S

Urges Gathering Food Of Region on Travels

Tired of bringing home gaudy gimcracks of "native handicraft" as souvenirs of your vacation or motor trips, some of which turn out to have been made in Japan or Czechoslovakia?

For a change of pace this summer, bring your relatives and friends foods native to the regions you have visited, suggests Don Parsons, executive director of Super Market Institute. Give them a real treat of delicacies which can't be obtained in your local food stores.

In any part of the U. S., you'll find distinctive regional delicacies put up in forms which can be brought home easily, he points out.

TOURING THE Southland? Bring home some of the region's famous cornmeal grits, now canned or packaged as mixes and just as tasty when prepared at home as they were done by a Dixieland cook in a black iron skillet. On the shelves of southern super markets you'll also find such native delicacies as Brunswick stew, greens cooked with fat back, brandied peaches, hush-puppy and spoonbread mixes, and buttermilk biscuits. Prepared by regional manufacturers for southern tastes, these items rarely find their way out of the South.

You've never had peanuts until you've bought them green and boiled them in salt water for about 15 minutes. A dark ruby Virginia ham is a must for your southern souvenir basket. And, if you buy them at the last minute and pack them in an insulated dry-ice fish box, you can bring back hard-shelled crabs and oysters from the Chesapeake Bay region.

As you pass through the bayous of Louisiana, stop in any town to browse the shelves for unusual dainties like Louisiana Celeste fig preserves, Creole mustard, pure ribbon cane syrup cooked in an open kettle, the Southland's famous Remoulade sauce, and local blends of coffee and chicory.

FROM SEMI-tropical Florida you can bring home mangos (their flavor a distinctive combination of pineapple and apricot), lychee, an exotic fruit shaped like grapes and the color of strawberries; chayote, a pear-shaped green-and-white squash noted for delicate flavor; sapodillas, a thick-skinned potato-like fruit with flesh that's sweet and faintly spicy. All this in addition to the inimitable flavor of tree-ripened oranges, grapefruit and tangerines.

Western steaks aging to mellow perfection under dry ice on the way home ... barbecue sauces from California, world capital of outdoor cookery ... giant jars of fish chowder and sacks of fresh-picked cranberries from New England ... sweet corn plucked at night in Midwestern fields to catch the peak of flavor ... Texas chili and corn-chowder mixes ... field and tree-ripened apples, potatoes and tomatoes fed by the warm rains of the Northern Pacific and Rocky Mountain states ... these are only a preview of the delicacies in store if you take the tip and "taste" America first." Bethel 103 Elects New Line Officers

Arlington Heights Bethel 103, Job's Daughters, elected line officers and initiated two new members at its May 23 meeting. The new members are Lu Ann Schmidt, 724 S. Chestnut, and Debbie Deehring, 502 S. Patton, both of Arlington Heights.

Other officers will be appointed in the near future.

THE PUBLIC installation of these officers is scheduled for Saturday, June 16, at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights Masonic Temple, 1104 S. State Road. A practice for the installation will be held June 13, at which time the new council and associate council members will also be installed.

Bethel 103 participated in a progressive dinner on May 26, the members gathering in Sue Livingston's home for the first course. Salad was served at Karen Ballou's, the main course at Carol Herda's and dessert in Karen Dobricka's home. (S

Hours June 14 and 15 will be from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m. and June 16 from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m., according to Mrs. Hunter Hicks of Inverness, who is on the show committee.

Work Addiction— A Family Problem

One of the most pressing family problems of 20th Century American life is that of the man who works too hard. Often, an Illinois psychiatrist believes, this type of individual overworks because of the fears and anxieties within him—not just for material rewards. He is, in effect, a "work addict."

Asking, "Is there a work addict in your family?" the June issue of Better Homes & Gardens, in the first of a new series on the challenging family problems of our times, discusses the work addict with Dr. Nelson Bradley, chief of psychiatric studies at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

THE WORK ADDICT, according to Dr. Bradley, exhibits symptoms identical to those of drug and alcohol addicts: He craves work, he develops a tolerance to it so that the doses must grow even larger, and he experiences withdrawal symp-

The problem is doubly hard to attack because, unlike drugs or alcohol, work is approved of in our society, Dr. Bradley says. The addict strays from the norm, however, because he attempts to solve his personal problems through longer and harder hours.

He may be chasing a job promotion "rainbow" that he doesn't really want or that wouldn't satisfy him if he did capture it. Or he may be trying to maintain a standard of living for his wife that she doesn't really want—at least not at such a cost.

A WORK addict almost never pays full attention to his family. And after building up a staggering tolerance for work, he's ready for a coronary. His death can be every bit as great a tragedy as that of the alcoholic who kills himself with drink.

Affected most by his problem, his family should be first to help the work addict back to normalcy, the Better Homes & Gardens article says. First comes recognition of the addiction, then an attempt to deal realistically with the addict's inner stresses and anxieties.(S

Couples Attend Special Service

Several local couples were among those invited to the 23rd annual Wedding Bells Service conducted by Dr. Kenneth Hildebrand in the Central Church of Chicago. The traditional "refresher course" in the art of achieving a happy marriage is to honor the couples Dr. Hildebrand has united in marriage during the 29 years of his ministry.

Among those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. Welch of Rolling Meadows, daughter and son-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. Hildebrand; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. LaPieire and Mr. and Mrs. James R. King, both of Mount Prospect; Palatine residents Mr. and Mrs. Edmund W. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Owen B. Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph N. Suchanek Jr.; and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Glover of Rolling Meadows. (S

Culinary Delights

Add fresh, cut-up dates to baked rice pudding for flavor. Use stick cinnamon inserted in the pudding while baking to add zest and prevent discoloration of rice.

Brush sugar cookies with slightly beaten egg white, sprinkle with sugar and finely-chopped almonds before baking.

Thicken fruit cocktail syrup with cornstarch and add more sugar. Fold in fruit and serve as a sauce for sponge or pound cake. If desired, add a blush tint with a few drops of red food coloring.

Helen's Favorite:

Deviled Scallops

(Serves 6)

1 quart scallops
½ cup butter
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
¾ teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne
1 cup hot milk
Buttered crumbs

Chop scallops, heat and place in baking dish. Beat butter until creamy, add mustard, salt and cayenne. Add to scallops and pour on milk. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 20 minutes.

Vanilla pudding takes on glamor if you make according to package directions, cool and fold in 2 tablespoons orange marmalade or candied ginger. Top with a swirl of whipped cream.

Make tartar sauce in a hurry with mayonnaise, chopped parsley, pickle relish and a squirt of lemon juice.

For a breakfast treat broil cling peach halves with current jelly and serve with bacon or sausage.

Drizzle fresh grapefruit halves with maple syrup and broil for breakfast or dessert.

Donald Dougan Elected Dance Club President

Donald Dougan was elected president when the Coterie Dance Club recently held their election of officers. Other new officers are Dorothy Hartman, vice president; Dorothy Fricker, secretary; and Frank Trapani, treasurer. Dance chairmen for the new year are Oliver and Virginia Thelander, and hospitality chairmen are Erwin and Ann Wieger.

The Coteries begin their new season in September, with 10 dance lessons and four organized dance parties. Two of the dance parties will be held at neighboring country clubs and two at the Arlington Heights VFW hall where the dance lessons are given under the direction of Peter Lund, assisted by Ray and Maureen Rudnik.

MEMBERSHIP is $30 per couple, or $20 for those couples interested only in the organized dance parties. Club members are urged to submit their dues by the end of this month.

Anyone interested in joining the group should contact Dorothy Hartman, HE 7-4832. (S

Clam Tidbits Star With Beef Stroganoff

CALICO BAKED BEANS

1 cup chopped onions
1 clove minced garlic
1 tablespoon shortening
½ cup catsup
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1 to 2 tablespoons vinegar
1 large can (3½ cups) pork and beans
1 No. 303 can (2 cups) kidney beans, drained
1 No. 303 can (2 cups) lima beans, drained or 1 10-ounce package frozen limas, cooked and drained
3 or 4 strips bacon

Saute onions and garlic in shortening until tender but not brown. Add catsup, brown sugar, dry mustard, salt and vinegar and simmer entire mixture for 15 to 20 minutes.

Place the three varieties of beans in a bean pot or casserole and stir in sauce. Place raw bacon strips over the top and bake uncovered in a 300 degree oven for two hours or more. Serves 6.

SAUSAGE MACARONI DISH

½ pound link sausage cut into 1-inch pieces
1 cup diced celery
1 cup diced onion
½ cup diced green pepper
1 large No. 2½ can stewed tomatoes
¼ pound diced process cheese
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2½ teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup uncooked macaroni

Saute sausages, celery, peppers and onions. Add tomatoes, cheese and seasoning. Stir in uncooked macaroni. Simmer for about 45 minutes in covered skillet on top of stove. Serves 6.

HOT CLAM HORS D'OEUVRES

2 small packages softened cream cheese
1 can minced clams, drained
1 tablespoon horseradish
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 to 3 tablespoons clam juice

Mix above ingredients together in the morning. Place in the refrigerator until time to make the hors d'oeuvres.

Cut bread in 1-inch rounds. Toast in broiler on one side and turn over.

About one hour before serving, place a dab of clam mixture on each round. Cover with waxed paper. Broil for 3 or 4 minutes just before serving.

Yield: approximately 100 hors d'oeuvres.

BEEF STROGANOFF

1½ pound round steak cut in thin strips
1 package onion soup mix
1 pint sour cream
1 can mushrooms

Flour and brown steak strips in as little shortening as possible. Completely cover with water; add soup mix and simmer for about two hours or until tender. Add mushrooms during last half hour of cooking. Stir in sour cream and just barely simmer for another 15 minutes.

Serve over buttered parsleyed noodles or crisp Chinese noodles. Serves 4 to 6.

CHERRY CHEESE CAKE

15 rolled graham crackers
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 large package cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup sugar
2 egg yolks
2 beaten egg whites
1 can prepared cherry pie filling

Combine graham cracker crumbs, melted butter, cinnamon and sugar. Pat mixture into the bottom of a 9-inch square pan.

Cream together the cream cheese, vanilla, sugar and egg yolks. Fold in the stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour over crumb crust and bake at 250 degrees for one hour. When cool, pour the cherry pie filling over the top and chill.

This dessert is best made the day before and will keep in the refrigerator for one week. Serves 9. (SH

Tasty Cheese Cake Shares Spotlight

by LOIS SEILER

Five favorites play a starring role in Mrs. Edward R. Deppman's culinary productions. One is her specialty for potluck suppers and picnics; another is a family favorite, while the remaining three comprise her most popular company meal.

Interesting in name and contents are the Calico Baked Beans which always make a big hit at outdoor parties, especially with the menfolk.

There is no soaking of beans for this dish, as three varieties of canned beans are used: pork and beans, kidney beans and limas. Mixed with a savory sauce and topped with bacon, the beans are baked for two hours or more and are an excellent accompaniment for almost any type of picnic fare.

"I grew up with a Sausage and Macaroni Dish which my mother always made," said Mrs. Deppman, "and it is now one of my children's favorites."

"It can be put together in a hurry and is easy to prepare as there is no precrooking of the macaroni."

LINK SAUSAGES are sauteed with celery, green pepper and onion; then stewed tomatoes and cheese are stirred in. Macaroni is added and the concoction is simmered for 45 minutes.

This hearty and unusual dish needs only a vegetable and green salad as accompaniments for a tasty and appealing family meal.

Mrs. Deppman's standard menu for a really special dinner party starts with hot clam hors d' oeuvres. Beef Stroganoff is served as the main course and an elegant Cherry Cheese Cake for dessert.

THE WELL-SEASONED clam and cheese mixture for the hors d'oeuvres can be prepared in the morning and is spread on toasted bread rounds an hour before serving. They need only be popped into the oven for 3 or 4 minutes, and are a tempting appetizer for a delicious dinner.

This good cook devised the recipe for Beef Stroganoff herself, and her well-chosen ingredients have made this simplified stroganoff a savory taste treat.

Only four ingredients are necessary: thin strips of round steak, packaged onion soup, sour cream and mushrooms. This flavorful concoction can be served over parsleyed noodles or crisp Chinese noodles.

"GREEN BEANS almondine, a green salad with Italian dressing and hot rolls are good accompaniments for this dish," said Mrs. Deppman.

Her elegant cheese cake is made with a cinnamon-flavored graham cracker crust. Beaten egg whites are folded into the cheese mixture to give this cake an especially light texture.

After baking it is cooled, topped with prepared cherry pie filling and refrigerated until served.

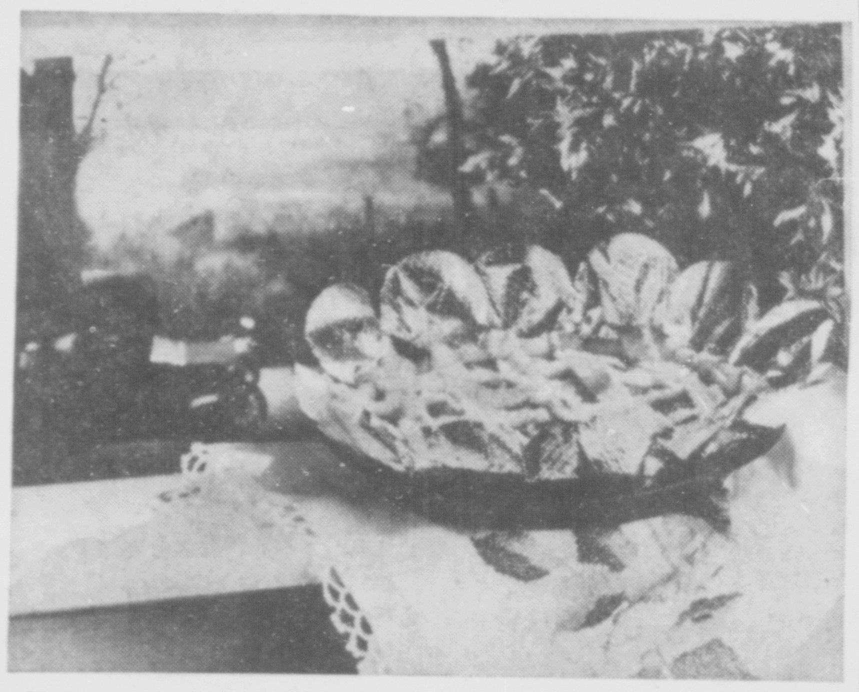
"This cake is best made the day before," Mrs. Deppman said, "and will even keep in the refrigerator as long as a week."

"It is a nice bridge dessert too," she commented, "and will serve two tables nicely with a piece left over for your husband."

Youngsters also enjoy this delectable cheese cake as Kristin, 7, and Eddie, 5, the Deppmans' two children, will testify.

IN ADDITION to her culinary interests, Mrs. Deppman is active in several organizations. She is a member of Circle 1 of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church, where she and her husband also belong to the Couples' Club. The Deppmans are members of the Arlington Squares dance club, the Miner Junior High Round Robin Bridge Group and enjoy the Village Theatre productions and community concerts.

Fresh Rhubarb Pie Baked in Foil Pan



You can make an Old Fashioned Rhubarb Pie as good and as easy as your grandmother did if you try a modern-day trick. Even if you've never baked a pie before, you can bake this one.

The secret to success is a quilted cooking foil pie pan liner on which you roll out the crust to the exact size of your pie pan. Then lift foil and crust onto pie pan—no tricky juggling which sometimes breaks a tender crust and frightens young cooks away from pie baking.

IF YOU CUT your quilted foil liner with scallops around the edge (using a glass as a guide) you can pull the scallops up around the crust to shield the rim from over-browning and to prevent bubbling filling from dripping onto your oven.

And when the pie is baked you can lift foil and pie onto a server and leave the unattractive pie pan in the kitchen.

You can use this trick for any pie you bake—it'll never look prettier than when it's surrounded by a frill of quilted cooking foil.

OLD FASHIONED RHUBARB PIE

Pastry for 9-inch double crust
5 cups rhubarb (about 2 lbs.), diced in 1-inch cubes
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
1¼ cups sugar
3 to 4 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 or 5 drops red food color
Quilted cooking foil

To make pie pan liner, turn pie pan upside down on a sheet of quilted cooking foil large enough so you can move a small jelly glass around its outer edge and mark off petal circles—approximately an 18-inch square.

First, draw around outer rim of pie pan with a pencil. (You will roll your pie crust to this line.) Set a small glass up to this line and draw around it. Then move it to the side so it touches both the pie pan circle line and the side of the first circle. Draw around it.

CONTINUE making circles in this manner until they meet. Tear off the foil, place it on an old magazine and, with a razor blade, cut outer half of circles just to where each meets the next one. Now you have a circle of foil with scalloped edge.

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Roll half of pie crust dough on this circle of foil. Roll the dough till it reaches half an inch beyond the circle you marked with the pie pan rim. Turn this extra half inch under and crimp, or trim it off with a fluted pastry wheel.

Lift foil liner with pie pastry onto pie pan. Fit crust and foil to sides by easing and pressing with fingers. Straighten and shape foil petals.

FOR LATTICE top, roll out rest of pie dough and cut in strips with knife or pastry wheel.

Beat egg slightly. Blend in sugar, flour, water, lemon juice and food color. Spread half of rhubarb evenly in pie shell and cover with half of filling mixture. Pile remaining rhubarb into pie and spoon on the last of the filling. Top with pastry strips.

Push foil petals up to shield pie rim from over-browning. They will also prevent bubbling juices from boiling over into your oven. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce oven to 350 degrees and continue baking (about 30 minutes more) till brown and bubbly.

TO SERVE, lift foil liner and pie onto silver server or pedestaled cake stand, and leave the pie tin in the kitchen—or pull foil petals down to disguise pie tin. (SH

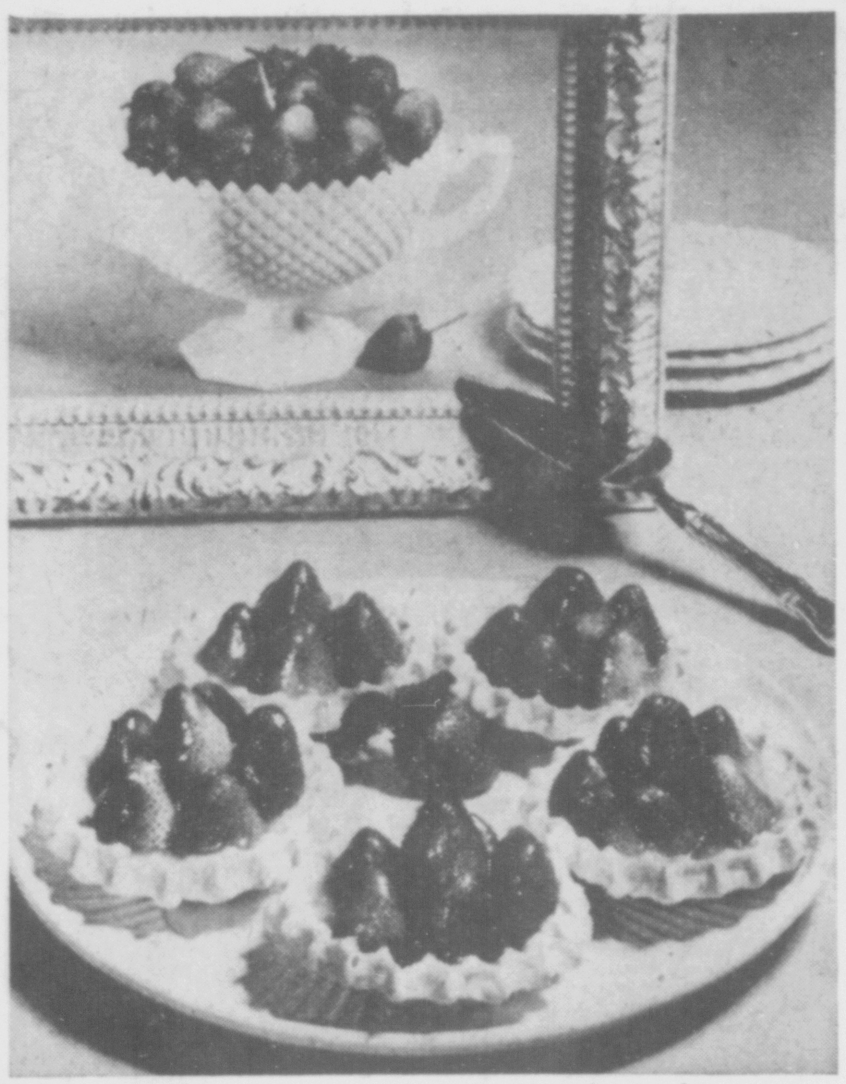
Six Luscious Strawberry Ideas for June Desserts



There's no use trying to think of a lot of high-powered adjectives to describe strawberries. They are simply one of the most delicious, most fragrant, most decorative of all foods eaten by man!

They are as high in vitamin C as they are low in calories. Men, women and children adore them and May and June are the months in which to eat our fill of these luscious fruits.

It was Cardinal Wolsey, they say, back in the days of Henry VIII, who first poured cream over strawberries, relishing the flavorful combination as he spooned them up. That's probably still the preferred treatment. That, or maybe old-fashioned biscuit dough strawberry shortcakes.

BUT, OF course, there are all manner of delightful things to do with fine, fresh strawberries. If you want to show off their ruby perfection, set whole berries matched for size, if possible, in tart shells and spoon a glaze over them.

These Fresh Strawberry Tarts (see recipe which follows) are very elegant for parties, ladies' luncheons and Sunday dinner.

Or, if you have two ice cube trays free, why not make Fresh Strawberry Mousse? It's as easy as mixing crushed berries and whipped cream and letting the mixture freeze until firm. (A lovely surprise for a deserving family!)

IF YOU MUST always get dinner "on the double," including dessert, treat the family to a strawberry sundae: crushed berries spilling over store bought ice cream. This same sauce is delicious over slices of sponge or angel cake, too.

STRAWBERRY TARTS

1 qt. fresh strawberries (small to medium)
¾ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
Dash salt
1 cup water
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Heavy cream, whipped or sour cream

Wash strawberries, remove caps and drain while making glaze. Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in a 3-cup saucepan. Add in water. Stir and cook 6 to 8 minutes or until mixture is clear and has thickened.

Remove from heat and add lemon juice and pure vanilla extract. Cool slightly. Arrange whole strawberries, stem end down, in cold baked tart shells. Spoon glaze over the top. Refrigerate to set glaze.

Top with whipped cream or sour cream. Yield: 6 servings.

STRAWBERRY MOUSSE

1 quart fresh strawberries
2/3 cup sugar
Dash salt
¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Select 8 ripe big strawberries and set aside to use as a garnish, leaving caps attached. Wash remaining berries and remove caps. Drain. Mash and add sugar, salt and pure vanilla extract. Fold in whipped cream.

Turn into 2 ice-cube trays or a 6-cup casserole. Place in freezer until firm and ready to serve. Garnish with whole fresh strawberries, leaving caps attached. Yield: 8 servings.

STRAWBERRY MELBA

1 quart fresh strawberries
½ cup sugar
½ cup fresh orange juice
Fresh mint sprigs

Wash and remove caps from strawberries. Place in a bowl and sprinkle with sugar. Add orange juice, mix gently and chill at least 2 hours. Serve in sherbet glasses. Garnish with sprigs of fresh mint. Yield: 6 servings.

STRAWBERRY SAUCE

2 cups (1 pint) fresh strawberries
1/3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice

Wash strawberries, remove caps and drain. Mash berries. Add sugar, pure vanilla extract and lemon juice. Chill. Serve over cake or use as a topping for ice cream, custard puddings and other fruit desserts. Yield: 1½ cups.

STRAWBERRY COMPOTE

1 quart fresh strawberries
½ cup sugar
1 cup water
Dash salt
¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract

Wash strawberries and remove caps. Place in sherbet dishes. Combine sugar, water and salt in a 3-cup saucepan. Bring to boiling point, lower heat and cook 2 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in pure vanilla extract.

Spoon 3 tablespoons syrup over each serving. Chill and serve. Yield: 6 servings.

STRAWBERRY CUSTARD SAUCE

1 quart (4 cups) fresh strawberries
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch
2 teaspoons water
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
½ teaspoon grated orange rind, optional

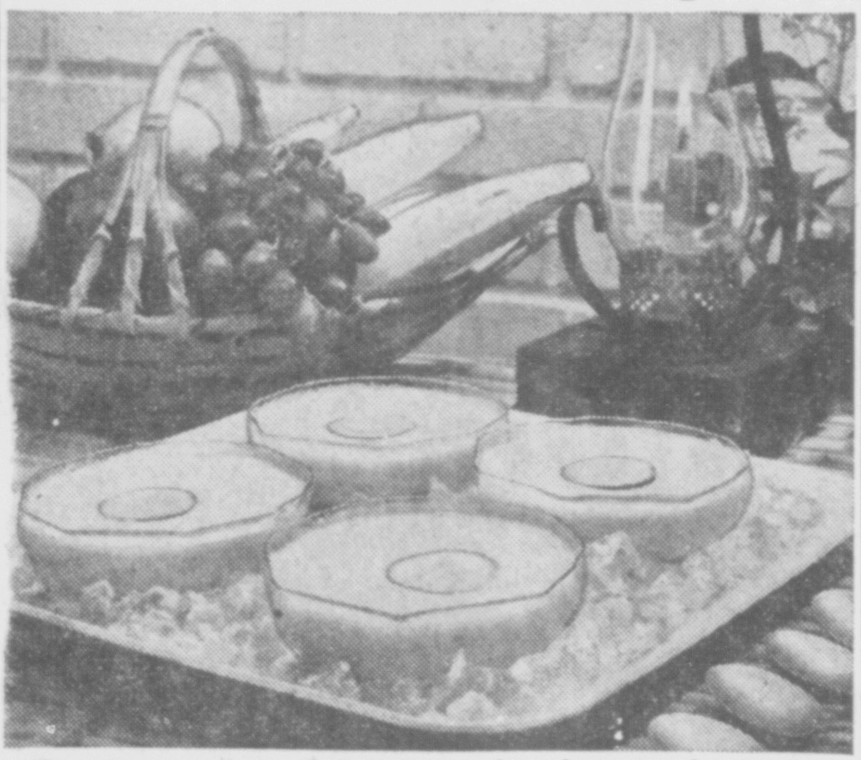
Wash strawberries, remove caps and cut each in half. Add sugar and cook 5 minutes over low heat. Press through a fine sieve, rubbing an much pulp through as possible. Blend cornstarch with water and add to the berry pulp.

Stir and cook 5 to 6 minutes or until the mixture begins to thicken and is clear. Remove from heat.

Beat a little of the hot mixture into the egg yolks and then, add to remaining hot mixture. Stir and cook one minute. DO NOT BOIL.

Add pure vanilla extract and orange rind, if desired. Serve over ice cream, cake, orange or grapefruit sections, pineapple or rhubarb desserts. Yield: 2¼ cups. (SH

Chilled Vichyssoise— Excellent Patio Dining



The "Season of the Patio" is almost here. Many homemakers already are breathing sighs of relief as they eye their cool ovens. Enter the months of simplified and informal menus!

Outdoor dining need not mean constant barbecues. Why not give your first meal "a fresco" a note of elegance.

SERVE Vichyssoise. It takes less time than you imagine.

Just a few minutes, a can of condensed frozen cream of potato soup, and a blender are all that are needed for this famous chilled soup.

The results will be just as smooth and sophisticated as those using the conventional cooking method.

NESTLE individual bowls of soup in a tray of crushed ice. Float a cool slice of cucumber on each. What an attractive introduction to your meal! The mood has been set. Your reputation as a hostess and cook will have attained new heights!

As the method of making Vichyssoise is so simple, why not prove your ingenuity by adding a bit of horseradish?

VICHYSSOISE WITH HORSERADISH

1 can (10¼ ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
1½ teaspoons horseradish
1 soup can water

Place unopened can of soup in pan of hot water for 30 minutes. In blender, combine soup, cheese, and horseradish.

Gradually add water; beat until smooth. (Strain if desired.) Serve immediately in chilled bowls, or place in refrigerator until ready to serve. Makes 3 servings. (SH

Tea with Orange, Spice Originated by 'Taster'

RUTH CAMPBELL BIGELOW'S search for a tea reminiscent of the spicy beverage served during the Early American period resulted in the discovery of a tea which boasts an interesting combination of orange and spices. Her "Constant Comment" is now pre-packaged by a well-known firm. (SH

The big swing these days is to a very special tea with orange and spice. You sip and discover these ingredients have been skillfully blended for a bright new taste in tea, the recipe for which actually dates back several centuries.

But only for the past 10 years has it been "pre-packaged" by a well-known manufacturer. Here's the story on "Constant Comment," the tea that literally named itself.

THE LADY responsible for its subtle blend was a "tea-taster" at heart. She felt something was missing from tea—something which if discovered would make tea an even more popular beverage.

Ruth Campbell Bigelow recalled that in early American days, the special treat in the teacup was a slice of orange and carefully selected spices. These were added after the tea was brewed, but fortunately in those days there were servants at hand to attend to such niceties.

However, Mrs. Bigelow wanted a convenience package for the modern homemaker, with the delicious orange and spice flavors already "packaged in."

SHE WENT to work in her kitchen, adding a bit of orange, dashes of spices, brewing tea, tasting, testing, again and again and again. In her search for the "perfect blend" she served the tea to her family, friends—and even idle passers-by then asked for a name to give this unusual new tea.

And as the experiments grew, so did the list of names. But on the great day of the unveiling, the tea which has since become famous all over the United States had to be served "nameless" to a large social gathering. Actually, the constant comment it created suggested its name — "Constant Comment" Tea. (SH

Week's Best Food Buys

THURS., JUNE 7, 1962

Suburban Living

Especially for Women

Ample meat supplies with costs declining from holiday peaks, slight improvement in seasonal produce supplies, and a return of stewing hens as a spot bargain brighten this week's University of Illinois consumer service food value list.

Augmenting this is the indication that hams are heading into a lower price category for July 4, some forecasts pegging prices below year-ago.

Only major item showing retail firmness is bacon, better grades reflecting some advances.

FOR THE marketing period ending June 9, the U of I notes these consensus values: Meats — porterhouse and sirloin steaks, chuck and rump roasts, pork steaks and chops, hams; poultry — fryers, large eggs, stewing hens; produce — lettuce, radishes, cucumbers, strawberries, avocados, oranges.

Cattle receipts were large and about equal to week-ago despite the holiday, causing earlier gains to fade although the total market was still ahead by ¾ cent. Wholesale beef took a "less than expected" price rise placing retailers in position to cut chucks and steaks.

These retail tags become typical: blade cut chuck roasts, symptomatic of the roast trade, quote 35-59 cents commonly, round bone roasts 49-73 cents. Steaks reflect 85 cents - $1.09 generally for sirloins, 85-89 cents promotionally; $1.35 for porterhouse, 95-98 cents on feature, and round steaks a firmer 95 cents.

WHILE other markets ranged heavy, some Chicago curtailment was noted for hogs. Prices closed even despite a strong eastern shipper demand. Wholesale pork loins were in good demand, costs up 1¼ cents, other fresh lines steady.

Hams revealed lowering trends, bacon firm to higher. Retail pork prices were not holding as expected, setting up these situations: rib end roasts commonly 39 cents and on feature 29 cents, loin end roasts 39-49 cents, center cut chops 59-89 cents, fresh Boston butts 45-49 cents, pork steaks mostly 55 cents but sometimes lower. Better grade bacons quoted 69-73 cents.'

Lamb continues in small volume and low demand, causing a one cent drop at live markets but a steady to one cent higher quote at wholesale. Retials are essentially unchanged.

STEWING hens perked up the wholesale trade, even lower seasonal supplies being enough to rate a value nod. Pricing is by dealer's choice. Old faithful fryers are the continuing bargain in the face of unrelenting large receipts of light weight birds at the 27-39 cent prevailing range.

New - crop turkeys are hitting the market as storage stocks exceed year-ago levels by 14 million pounds. Storage factors and a pending federal market order referendum tend to dull trade.

Heavy breaker trade activity offsets volume egg receipts, but weakens the market trade little. Retailers hold current 43-47 cents quotes for large grade A.

PRODUCE receipts are growing in seasonal lines, especially for peaches and blueberries. Some costs drop. Short-term consumer advantages are in sweetcorn, lettuce, radishes, tomatoes, beets and greens. No one is venturing a long-term outlook, however.

In fruits, Florida oranges are in greater supply than anticipated, the crop now forecast at 11 per cent over year-ago. Peaches, especially from the south, are 22 per cent over the five-year crop average but less than year-ago.

Cherries are running 10 per cent over the average, and 5 per cent over the year. Avocados are 50 per cent greater in supply than last year. (SH

Why you will now find all Sara Lee cakes only in your grocer's freezer —and why they are now fresher than ever

A statement from Charles W. Lubin, President, Kitchens of Sara Lee, Inc.

"In order to bring you a fresher, more delicious cake than has ever before been possible, beginning immediately all Sara Lee cakes will be frozen fresh from the oven!

'Free Choice' Value Stressed

Public school education is doing a terrific job in training our young people. Our dedicated teachers have shown that enthusiasm really pays dividends when it comes to training the individual to think for himself.

It is unfortunate that your news editor, Jim Davies, used the phrase "Free Ride" in such a false, high-handed way. To my knowledge Parochial school children are still Americans and deserve all the rights the State school children have. The Parochial school children's parents are being penalized because they exercise their "freedom of choice."

Is it really so important in what we choose as long as we have a choice? The U. S. Supreme Court have already stated that the parents have a prior right to train their children in a school of their choice.

SINCE WE have not reached a totalitarian state, as yet, I hope those parents will always follow their conscience and send their children to the school of their choice, and not to be forced into accepting the State school through economic pressures creating a huge monotype state school system.

I am sure all fair-minded Americans know that the Parochial schools are doing a tremendous job and service to the country. Should the Parochial schools drop untold thousands into a State school system that is already overcrowded? Why not? We are paying taxes, too, and they are darn high as anyone can attest. No one gets a free ride in the matter of education.

Since the Parochial and public schools must meet the standard state requirements, I can see no reason why the two types cannot work in complete harmony. We must not discriminate against a parent because he wants his children to have a God-centered education. America was founded on the concept that God is the "Author of our Liberty." While public schools are not allowed by law to favor any particular church, the founders of our nation certainly did not intend that our educational system should be godless.

They explicitly acknowledged in the Declaration of Independence that it is a "self-evident truth" that "all men are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights."

I AM SURE the public school parents do not want the tax money of the Parochial school parent (This is actually the case.) The Public schools seem eager to accept tax money from everyone concerned, but are terribly short-sighted about a large segment of our population who believe that their conscience is their guide (even when it hurts).

If, through economic pressures, Parochial schools are forced out, we will have lost an important part of our American heritage. We will have a school system fashioned by "Big Brother." The only countries where a one-school system rules are Russia, Red China, and Cuba—so suit yourself.

Let us all give a vote of confidence to free enterprise and the Parochial school system. Don't short-change these children—they are Americans, too!

Taxpayer Asks Area Reform

The headlines of your May 31 issue of the Rolling Meadows Herald shocked me greatly. My first thought — "What, another Stickney"? I had to read the article several times before I'd believe my eyes.

Why doesn't a man, that has been in township government over 20 years and a real estate man to boot, know the duties and responsibilities of the township collector's office? Didn't he run for the office?

Now $2 million is an amount not to be sneezed at nor is the interest on it. Is the withholding of this money from the various governments for a month, two months or maybe six, a means of lining the pockets of the collector?

I AM NOT a lawyer but it seems to me that one could call this action malfeasance of office.

For the good name of Palatine Township and the Republican Party I believe the Supervisor and the Township Board should demand this man's resignation, if nothing more.

The taxpayers are entitled to a collector whose conduct, as far as his office is concerned, is above reproach.

If there is any profit in the way of interest to be received, it certainly should go to the various local governments not into private pockets.

Is this one of the reasons why taxes in Palatine are so high?

Lack of Brevity Can Be Ironic

I think by and large you produce a very acceptable newspaper. It is amusing that someone who complains about using more than 200 words in a letter to the "Fence Post" writes approximately 300 words to register the complaint! I admire your willingness to let the public express its views.

Literary Award Is Made to Professor

Dr. Roy F. Nichols, vice provost and dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, University of Pennsylvania, was one of two men to receive The Athenaeum Literary Award medals for 1961 on May 4.

Dr. Nichols is the brother-in-law of Stuart and Charles Paddock, president and vice-president, respectively, of Paddock Publications, Inc. He received the non-fiction award for his book, "The Stakes of Power."

He won a Pulitzer Prize in American history in 1949 for his book, "The Disruption of American Democracy," a study of causes of the Civil War

HE IS author of several historical works, including a biography of Franklin Pierce. Several other works were written in collaboration with his wife, Dr. Jeanette Paddock Nichols, a well-known historian and scholar.

The fiction award for 1961 went to Lauren R. Stevens, 24, a Philadelphia author.

The Athenaeum created its literary awards in 1949. Medals are presented annually to the author of the best fiction and non-fiction works by a Philadelphian.

'Buying Votes' Poses Threat To Security of the Nation

Thank you for Mr. Paddock's May 17 editorial making mature comment on various matters of national concern.

Some of your younger editors seem so militant for the "downtrodden" that their zeal actually commits its own "wrongs" by presenting a lopsided point of view.

Most people support in spirit all crusades against hunger, fear, and even "loneliness." But they also recognize that the never-ending "social welfare" legislation of recent years also threatens to bankrupt not only our country's economy but the character of its citizens—and further, that much of this noble-sounding legislation is mere political chicanery designed to win votes.

Too little is said on the other side of the coin.

WE HAVE A domestic problem because in our industrial economy, subject to quick changes in preferences and manufacturing methods, workers at times have trouble finding jobs. The national government should try to lessen "undeserved distress."

However, years back, politics sensed a golden opportunity in this situation and ever since, decisions as to what the government should do, have been largely influenced by political expediency.

For example, as over-production made farming less profitable, the government provided help. The farmer needed help. But as the voting pay-off became clear, a temporary stopgap became permanent policy.

What worked with the farmer was politically "proved" with various other groups, both in and out of labor, so that out of this situation, politics created a tremendous pork-barrel which has constantly bribed various voting groups with special help, while increasingly making it the responsibility of provident persons to support the improvident.

THE NEWEST such scheme is medical aid to the aged. Here, again the hardworking citizen, through taxes, will help pay medical bills of not only the elderly who have had special misfortune, but also of the wastrels who never saved a dime in their lives.

Firmly underlying this newest "humanitarian" innovation is the basic consideration that there are lots of "elderly votes" and further that there are more improvident people than provident ones, and therefore more improvident votes—and that always, the easiest way to remain in office is to appear as a "defender of the common people."

Such "defenders" must have a target and so, starting with Mr. Roosevelt, business is constantly castigated, with indifference to the fact that business is not only "Big Business" but also the corner druggist, the local painter, and thousands of other individuals who had courage enough to risk their savings by starting a business, thus creating jobs.

They pay endless taxes—social security, unemployment, licenses, etc.—yet the income tax prevents any substantial accumulation of surplus for lean years. If they make money, taxes take a large bite. If they go broke next year, it's their tough luck.

NEW DEAL governments make the risk even greater by constantly encouraging labor to ask higher wages. No politician mentions that if labor worked for more moderate wages, manufacturers could reduce prices, which would create broader demand for goods, thus create more jobs, and of itself eliminate much unemployment.

Instead, labor is encouraged to follow the John L. Lewis philosophy, which involved regular strikes for increased benefits until coal prices were driven so high that buyers changed to other fuels. This created permanent unemployment among thousands of miners. Was this a service to either the miner or the economy?

The fact that many of our government leaders have never had to scratch to live, risked their savings in business, or had to meet a payroll, may explain their disregard or ignorance or the fact that individuals must be encouraged, by reasonable chance of profit, to make business ventures if jobs are to be available.

In contrast, when the full power of our government is used to bludgeon a national corporation into price maintenance (including use of the F.B.I. to interrogate in the dark hours of the night) it strongly suggests that in the future, management of a business may no longer be able to control its destiny.

THAT THIS possibility is being soberly considered by our citizens nationally is obvious in many ways, including the drop in stock market prices.

This country was built by free enterprise, by people who risked their money to produce goods. Now that business men reportedly have been tabbed as s.o.b.'s by the administration, who wants to start or expand a business? Yet, lack of business expansion can eventually cause a depression far deeper than that of the 30's. This, at a time when America is comitted worldwide and critically needs all of its moral, material and financial strength. The end possibility may well be complete government ownership and a welfare state hardly distinguishable from the communism we currently decry.

Yet there is no slow-up in the constant seeking of new ways to buy votes by pouring out public funds to various minorities.

More important than money, a nation whose citizens do not shoulder their own responsibilities becomes a nation without heart or backbone.

WITH EVERYONE encouraged to "play it smart," labor to "get theirs" while the farmer "gets his," illiterates prompted to have 15 illegitimates at public expense, with people influenced by these welfare schemes not to provide for a rainy day but instead, to "live it up" and let the thrifty "chumps" provide for them through heavier taxes—with politicians constantly seeing it proved that the improvident keep them in office and that "spend and elect" does win elections—under these circumstances, who is going to defend this country, and willingly die for it, when the chips are down, as some day they may well be. The "chumps"?

But it surely is time for editors to find ways to convey the real truth to the minorities who have been led to believe that there is a Santa Claus, and to stimulate plain private citizens to take action that will force politicians, both Republican and Democrat, to place the security of the country above their security in office, before the country suffers irreparable damage.

Landlord Speaks Up in 'Defense'

"Landlording" is part and parcel of the American system of free enterprise. Like any other small businessman who starts from scratch, he usually works and saves for a long period of years before he accumulates enough capital to make a start.

Then, in "partnership" with a bank or mortgage company, he can win or lose — depending upon how he handles his project. If he is lazy, unenterprising, irresponsible, careless, inefficient, unwise — or seeks to raise prices beyond competi-rates—he will find himself out of business.

AND IF HE loses his health while he is trying to keep up with almost confiscatory taxes and spiraling maintenance costs, he will truly find that he has gambled away his future as well as his past!

The "costs" he sets aside every month include mortgage, interest and insurance payments as well as taxes. Maintenance of the building — keeping it clean and in repair; adding needed improvements and keeping all utilities in functioning order, take another big hunk out of "profits" and he usually is lucky to make a decent living.

As much as any small community entertprise, he performs a public service — yet is often maligned by people who have chosen to make their living in some other way. They seem to think the landlord "has it made," disregarding the responsibility, work, worry and effort that is continually required! Now comes a new twist.

LANDLORDS ARE at fault for creating a bad image of America in the minds of foreigners! Mr. Zaroslinski in his "Angry Citizen's" letter, last week, waxed exceedingly eloquent, and indignant about the position of the young Indian Doctor who was unable to rent a suburban apartment because he was an Indian.

Speaking as one landlord who DID offer to rent an apartment to just such a young man, may I state that the Doctor made the choice! Calling over the phone, he inquired about the advertised apartment and asked if he would be refused on account of color. I answered "NO" and went on to say that we "screened" our tenants, because having choice apartments we wanted "nice" people — but did not judge them on the basis of race, creed or color.

I quoted the price which was exactly the same as given to anyone who called about this particular unit. The personable young Indian came out and admired the apartment; then asked if I would consider a LESSER RENTAL. He wanted to bring his wife over from India and then after a year's time they would return — but would have to save on expenses meanwhile.

I STATED THAT it was not our policy to lower any established rates and I would have made this reply to anyone — black or white. He was NOT discriminated against because of his race and we parted (I thought) on a friendly basis. As an American citizen, I refuse to be castigated by Mr. Zaroslinski.

If we are writing about the same young man, (and I believe we are), may I suggest that if Mr. Zaroslinski believes so ardently in the verbose statements he makes, that he, personally, make the contribution that will enable this young couple to carry out their mission as well as their future plans? I just don't happen to feel under any obligation to do so. It's awfully easy to hand out advice as to how the other fellow should spend his money — or run his business.

Renting apartments is a business — not a charitable handout — and if Mr. Z. ever tries it, I hope he keeps track of the times he jeopardizes his own livelihood by dropping rates for either Americans or foreigners. I am assuming that this is what he thought the landlord should have done to gain an Indian tenant!

Student Health Issue Apprised

On May 24 your paper advised me my children would no longer be able to benefit from the student health service, and on May 26 I learned from the Chicago Daily News that Rev. James Windham of POAU that the Lisle Post Office cancelled some letters with a die honoring the anniversary of St. Procopius College. I would just like to advise that my parish, St. James, is planning a new eight classroom school building and to suggest that a petition be taken up by all sincerely interested POAU'ers urging the exclusion of the use of the sanitary sewers to that new building. Also, a policeman can be seen every Sunday directing traffic in front of our church, and such an overt violation of the principle of separation of Church and state must be stopped!

To get deadly serious for one moment, doesn't it mean anything to the village that a possible diphtheria epidemic may have been stopped by mass inoculation after two diphtheria cases were found at St. James? Not only Parochial school children's health in the student health service; the health of all of us is involved. This health program should not be financed by or administered by the school board but by the village entirely. The school board needs all its allocated funds for educational purposes, and should not be expected to assume the financial burden of such a program any more than it should be laden with the cost of administering police protection.

Congratulations On Safety Award

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Stuart R. Paddock and the staff of Paddock Publications upon your recent receipt of Allstate Insurance Companies' award for outstanding contribution in the cause of traffic safety.

It is gratifying to live in a community which is serviced by a newspaper such as yours. I know that Mr. Paddock and his staff contribute a substantial amount of time to those matters which involve the health, welfare and public safety of those residents residing in the northwest suburbs.

The recent series written by Chuck Hayes on the problems of the aged in Illinois is only another indication of the service you are rendering to the people of the state of Illinois.

David E. Bradshaw

Raps Negative Presentation

I have just reread the series "These Lonely Rooms" published in Paddock Publications over the last few weeks. Mr. Hayes stated his negative premise in the first sentence of the first article "I toured the State looking for the aged cast aside by younger generations." You find what you look for. What if he had started out looking for the aged who are setting the pace for us for the future—those who are learning to use their added years, and those who are helping them do it?

This is not to say that what he says is untrue—only that he has overemphasized one side of the coin. It is easy to write about old age, sickness, mental illness and the mentally retarded and point out how awful everything is. I can show him younger people who are lonely and unable to cope—and this is also a depressing sight. I know elderly who are full of courage and faith and who live their lives each day as well as they can.

IT IS becoming less and less true that "mental hospitals and nursing homes (are) largely dumping grounds for people who (have) nowhere else to go." The nursing home is changing. It is becoming a place of hope to those who can be restored, and a haven to those who are dying.

I hope Mr. Hayes will accept my invitation to visit the Plum Grove Nursing Home. He traveled 2,000 miles in 18 weeks but he did not visit our nursing home in Palatine. We have had a rehabilitation program for several years. We specialize in helping stroke patients—sometimes newly crippled, sometimes in bed for years—to care for themselves and walk again. It is possible to help a senile patient relearn to remember. Aphasic patients can be motivated and helped to regain their speech. We provide activities, and dedicated volunteers provide a tie with the community. There is a feeling of hope in both staff and patients where the emphasis is on the patient doing as much as he can as well as he can for as long as he can.

Geriatrics is probably the fastest growing field in medicine. Standards are being raised in nursing homes as fast as they were in hospitals a number of years ago. Within a year there will be a national accreditation program for nursing homes similar to the Joint Commission for the Accreditation of Hospitals. Home care, visiting nurse programs, meals-on wheels, and day care for the elderly are being developed throughout the country.

THE PUBLIC Health Service through the Community Facilities Act is supporting research and demonstration projects in the field of aging. Foundations like the Kramer Foundation are actively involved in research. Psychiatrists are teaching us how to handle the emotional needs of the frustrated patient, and also how to help the dying patient. Some firms are beginning to hire older workers—why can't Mr. Hayes interview these employers for their experiences?

Truly much needs to be done. But we need a constant recognition of what is being done, a positive approach to the problem which will not overwhelm the reader with its vastness but which will show him what he can do for the aged now, because we will all be aged some day if we live long enough.

Special Series Are 'Important'

Concerning Mrs. Vitoux's letter of May 31 "Fence Post":

As seniors in the University of Illinois, we have enjoyed and followed closely the Arlington Heights Herald's special features concerning social problems. On numerous occasions we have referred to the features for class work. It was pointed out to one of us (actually it is obvious) that this is the type of journalism that makes a truly excellent newspaper. It is this type of depth writing that separates a socially aware newspaper from a carry-over from an 18th century newssheet. We feel fortunate that we come from a community that has a newspaper that recognizes this fact.

Mrs. Vitoux, you may not have the time to read the articles-in-depth, but we do. We think that we'll agree with the Dean of the School of Criminology at the University of California; these articles are important. They are important enough that to any socially-concerned person the short time it takes to read them is a ridiculous and trivial point.

The Arlington Heights Community Concert Association, which recently concluded a successful membership campaign in the northwest suburban area, this week announced the concert artists for the coming season.

At a meeting held Sunday in the home of Mrs. Clayton Sauers, the artist selection committee announced four concerts to be presented next season.

In addition to Rise Stevens, star of the Metropolitan Opera, the Rockefeller Chapel Choir will appear.

ALOS included in next year's series will be the Beaux Arts Trio of New York, featuring Menahem Pressler, piano; Daniel Guilet, violin; and Bernard Greenhouse, cello.

To complete the series, Stuart Gordon, promising young pianist, will appear. Exact dates will be announced as soon as confirmed by the New York booking office.

The 1962-63 season will mark the 15th concert year for members of the Arlington Heights Community Concert Association. (B8

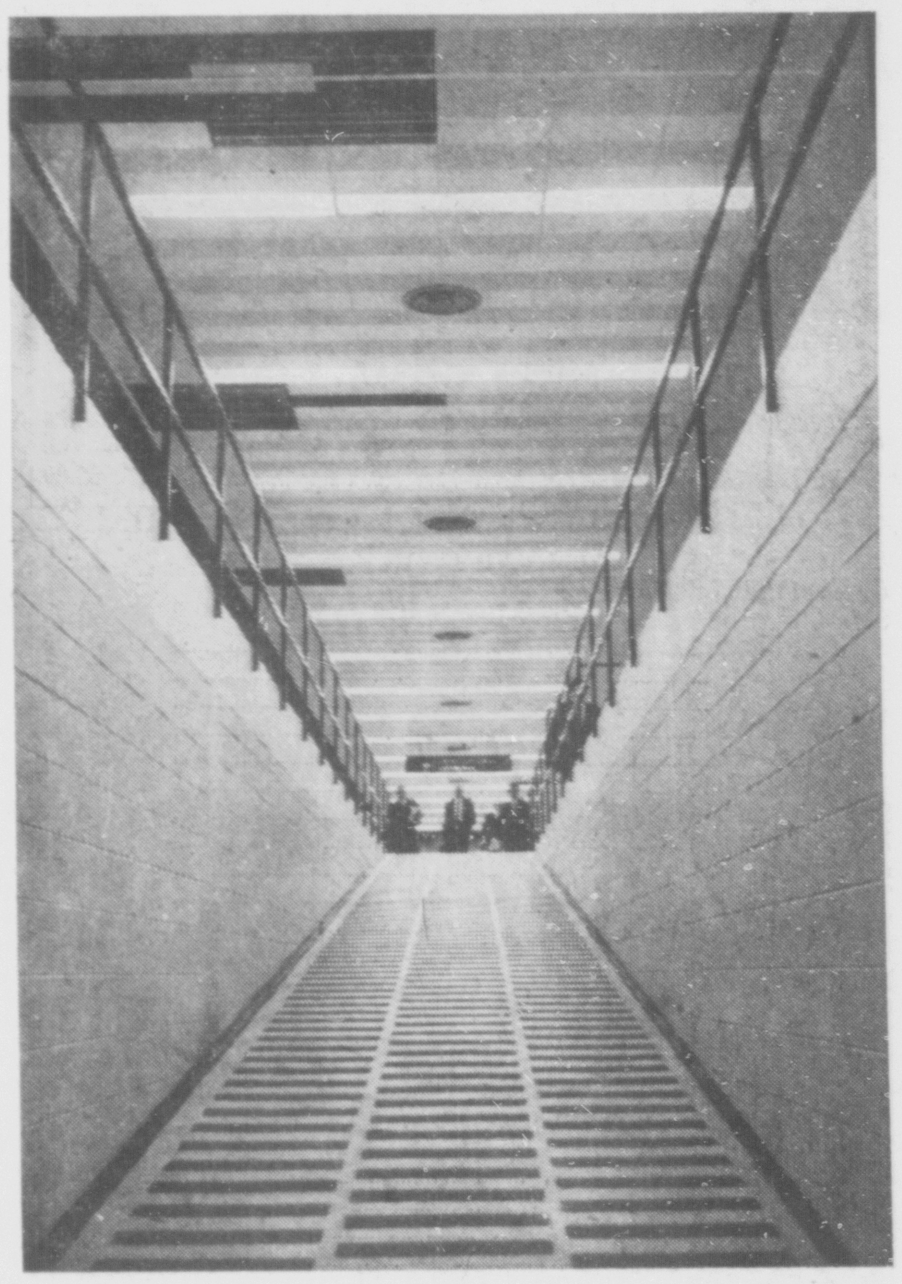
PASSENGER TERMINAL AREA where waiting jets are refueled, given pre-flight maintenance checks, and loaded with baggage before passengers board. There are observation decks in modern, comfortable lounges where waiting passengers may watch landings, take offs and other airport operations. In April, a total of 1,079,883 domestic and private passengers passed through O'Hare on 26,614 planes. Of these, 10,149 were jets. This compares to the 1,263,147 passengers on 231,412 planes during the entire year of 1958. In March, 1959, one jet a day passed through O'Hare. Today, more than 360 visit the airport. In 1961, O'Hare eclipsed older Midway airport as Chicago's busiest air center.



SYMMETRICAL DESIGN of O'Hare's new terminal buildings is emphasized in this photograph in one of the many passageways and connecting ramps. Tinted windows line the corridors, reducing glare. Contour lounge chairs are comfortable giving passengers a chance to relax between flights, listen to soft music provided by hidden speakers. Designed by C. F. Murphy Associates, Chicago, the terminal is divided into two modern structures, each 750 feet long and 440 feet wide. The two-story buildings house offices on the second floor. The old O'Hare terminal is being remodeled to form a third passenger facility. When completed, the entire structure will form a giant "U" with a huge circular restaurant at its base. Long finger-shaped corridors lead to 61 gate positions for departing and arriving passengers.

O'Hare: City Within a City

by WILLIAM HALLS • Photographs by LARRY CAMERON

For an infinitesimal moment the aluminum bird sits, poised at the end of an 11,600 foot runway. In the squint-like cockpit, a veteran airlines pilot makes last minute checks.

"Clear to take off," comes an unseen voice, audible through wire despite the whining scream of the huge jet engines. There is a sudden roar. The great machine begins to roll, leaving behind grey vapors of kerosene fumes.

As it gains momentum, the great mass of rivets and metal goes through a curious metamorphosis. Now a shining silver tube. Now a mass of positive force. It belongs in the air!

Below and behind this momentary drama—repeated every 66 seconds—lies a fantastic city within a city. O'Hare International Airport, Chicago, Ill.

Behind the name is a lasting memorial to Lt. Commander Edward M. H. (Butch) O'Hare, a native of Chicago. During World War II, O'Hare gallantly charged a flight of enemy bombers in the Pacific. He destroyed five planes and saved the aircraft carrier Lexington.

Later killed in action, O'Hare was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor. On June 22, 1949, the Chicago City Council named the future jet-age airport in his honor.

Already the world's largest airdrome in area—7,200 acres or nearly 12 square miles —O'Hare officials hope to surpass Los Angeles International Airport in air passenger traffic late this year and become the busiest air terminal.

"All we need to be completely self-sufficient is a sewage disposal plant," says John Carr, one of O'Hare's 375 administrators and other city employees (including police and firemen).

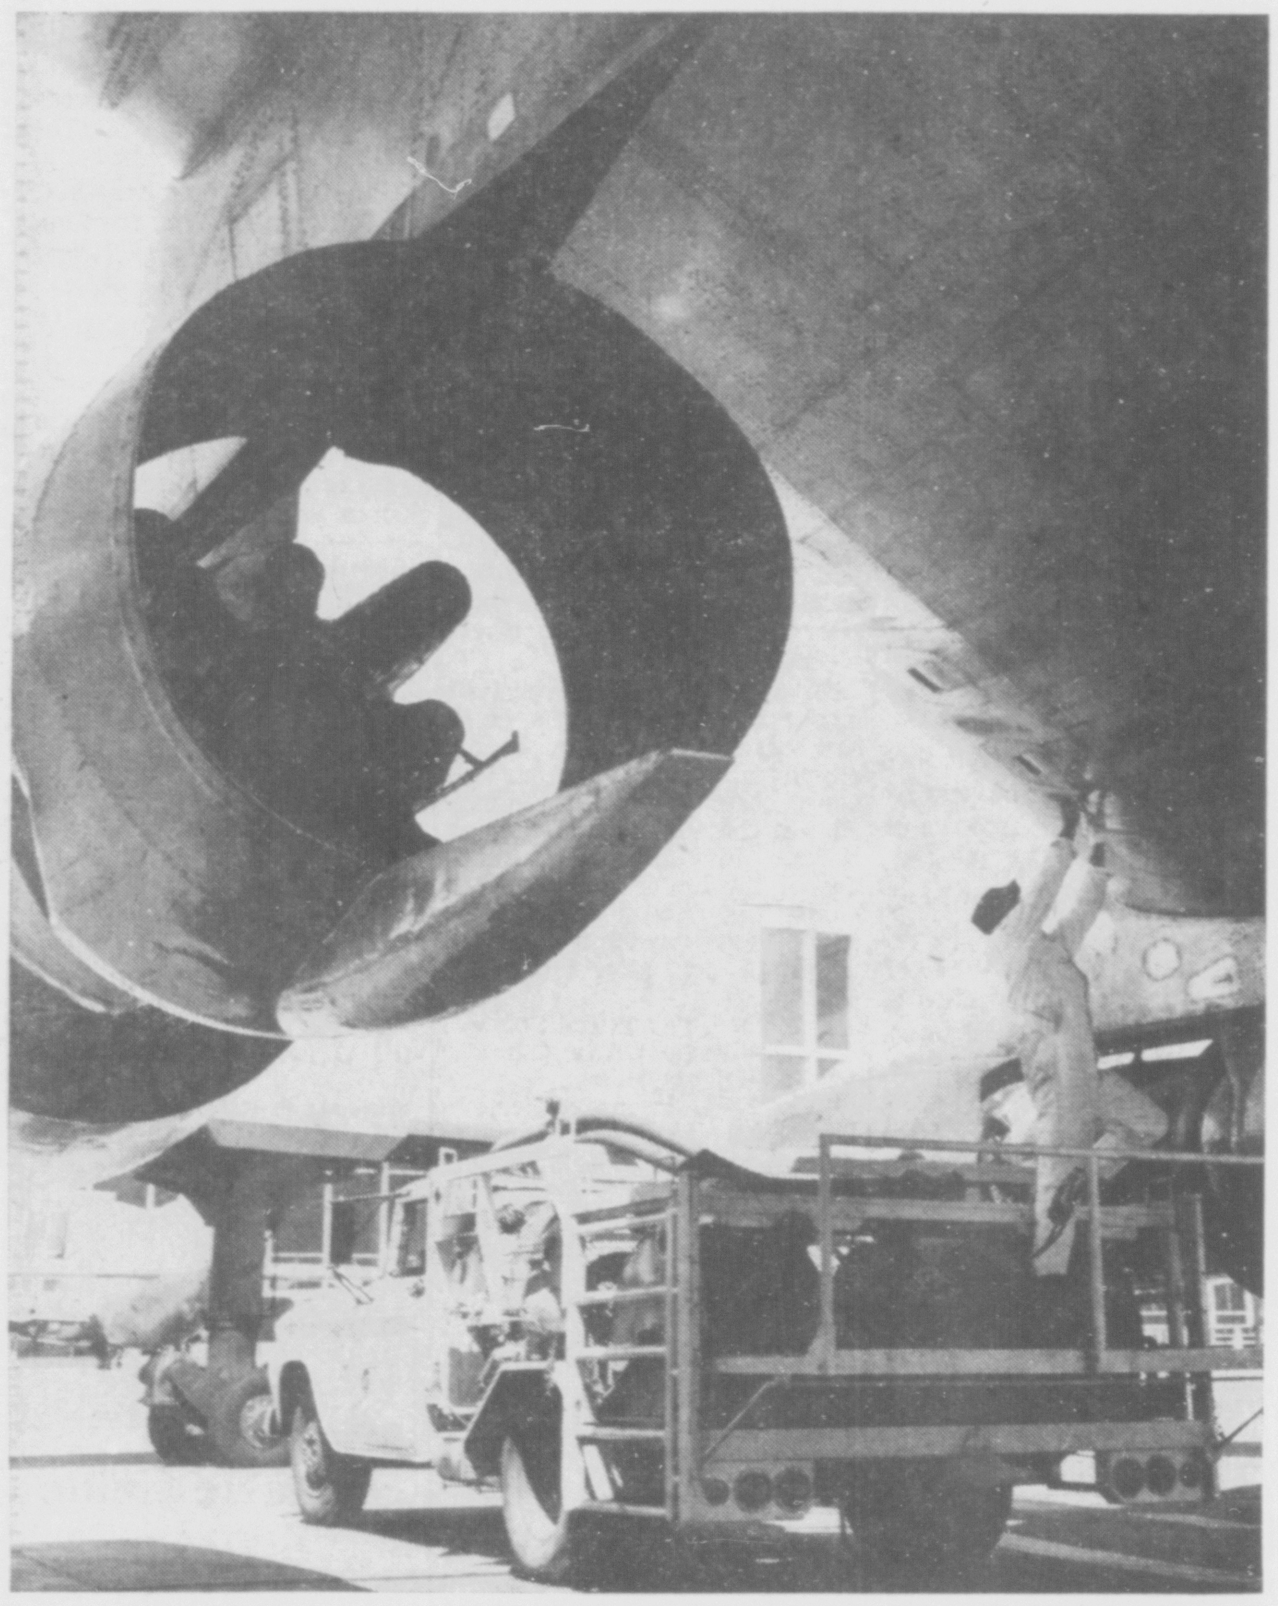
It takes 18,000 people to service the great flow of passengers. This figure includes all airlines employes, maintenance people, even the man who sells the hotdogs at one of the many concession stands.

When most service facilities are completed—in about one year—officials estimate O'Hare will provide jobs for 25,000 people.

The huge air complex includes two giant passenger terminal buildings; a fire and police department; a partially completed 5,000-car parking lot; and an 85-acre lake to catch drainage from four runways and 160 acres of concrete around the terminal area.

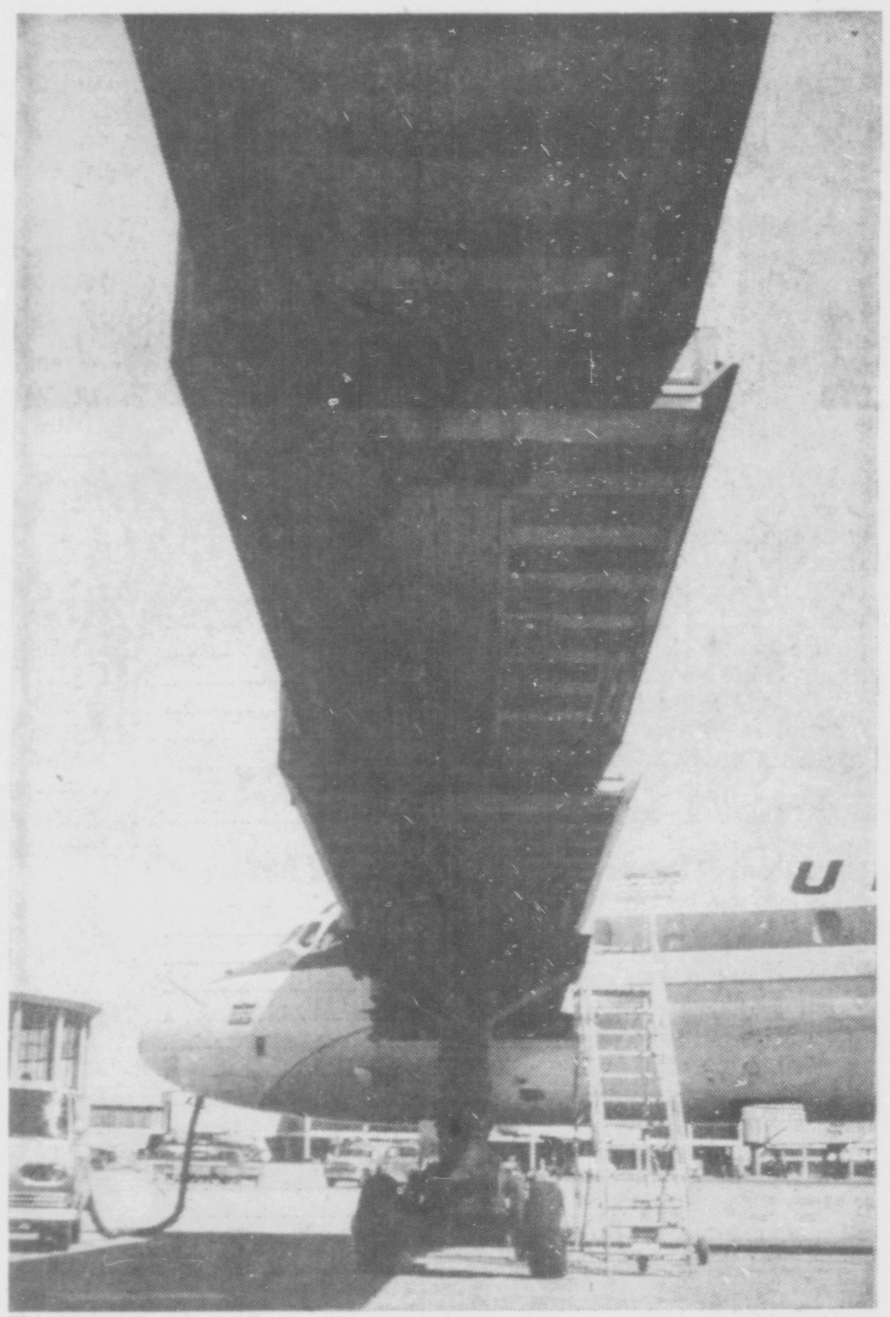
The hangar area includes facilities for flight personnel, a medical center, canteens and recreation. A glass-walled power plant, a telephone exchange building, a fuel "tank farm," including rail, truck and pipeline service; and a post office, round out some of the major facilities.

Still in the planning stage are a new control tower, an east-west runway and a modern hotel. A three-story, glass-walled restaurant, to be operated by Carson Pirie Scott, is about half-finished. It is 300 feet in diameter and will afford diners a classic view of the giant airport.



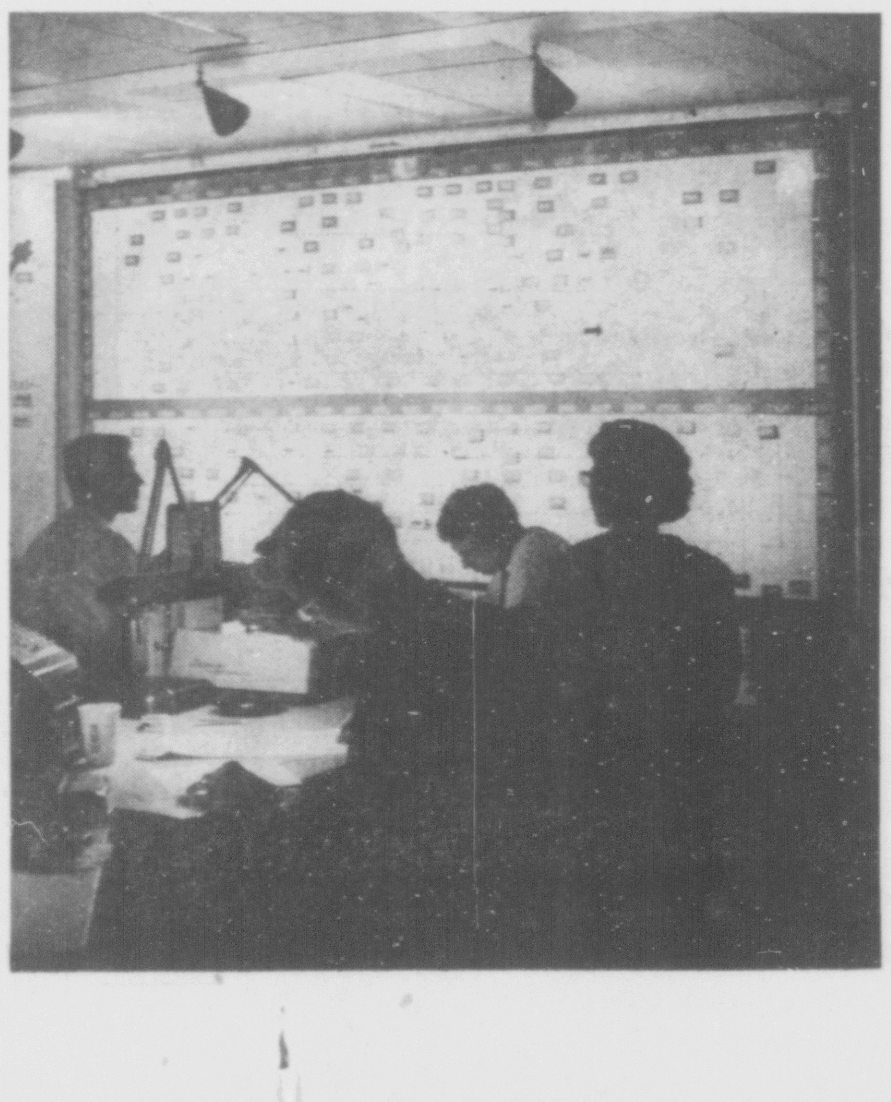
REFUELING AND MAINTENANCE — Mechanics and other trained airlines personnel move into action as soon as passengers alight from the aircraft. Equipped with modern, highly mobile vehicles, in some cases especially deigned for airport use, the ground crews load baggage and food on board, as well as checking the aircraft for mechanical defects.

THE NERVE CENTER of all airports is the air traffic control tower. O'Hare's control center is being overhauled. New equipment includes a more comprehensive and sophisticated set of Radar. It has a longer range, better target depiction. In May, George H. Niles, tower director, and his 15-man crew handled 983 scheduled aircraft each day, and an additional 160 international (foreign) airlines planes each week. The tower personnel work in three shifts, keeping the control center in continuous operation. "Our job is to safely and expeditiously guide aircraft in and out of O'Hare," says Niles, who has been at O'Hare since 1946. Tower personnel must be former pilots or have previous military tower experience. They undergo a 21-month training program, before being "checked-out" on all eight control tower positions and two non-control positions. Each man is capable of handling all 10 positions interchangeably.



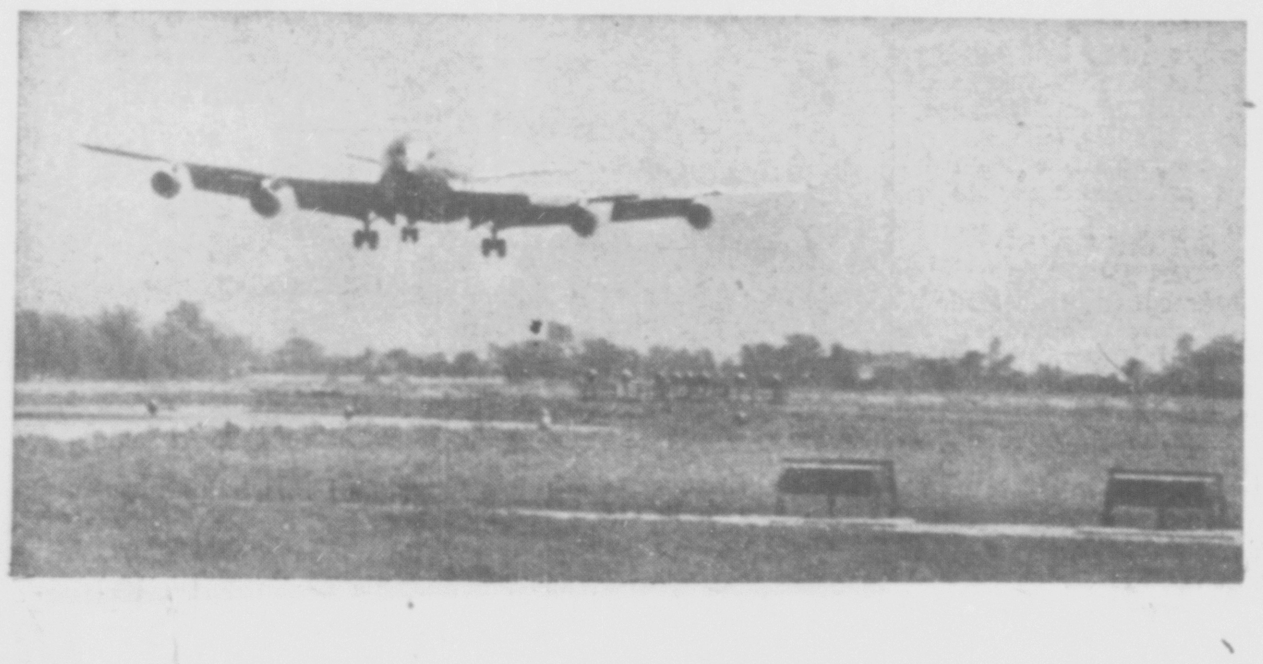
TELESCOPING 'JET WAYS' — These portable corridors permit passengers to board planes without exposure to weather. The gateways telescope and swing back into the side of the gate positions for storage.

KEEPING TRACK OF FLIGHTS — United Air Lines employes watch schedule board listing all scheduled flights for a given 24-hour period. Cards on the board indicate aircraft and flight numbers. They are spaced according to arrival and departure times. The running check system helps coordinate United's flight schedules.



AIRPORT MAINTENANCE is one of the most important jobs at O'Hare. Above, a radio truck foreman keeps a check on tractor-powered lawn mowers cutting grass. Cutting grass all summer, snow removal in winter, are the biggest problems. Cut grass keeps out birds, a continual airport hazard; keeps ground lights visible, and keeps the airport attractive. Maintenance men also repair runways and keep runway lights in working order.

THURS., JUNE 7, 1962



NEARING TOUCHDOWN, this huge jetliner hovers a few feet above the runway on its final approach. Ground equipment in the right foreground are special electronic guidance devices which help pilots remain on course. A new approach light system (for night traffic), and navigational aides, including a Visual Glidescope indicator, will be installed soon. The VSI equipment includes four banks of red and white lights, red on top and white below. If white lights go on, it notifies the pilot he is too high on his glide path. Red lights mean glide path is too low.

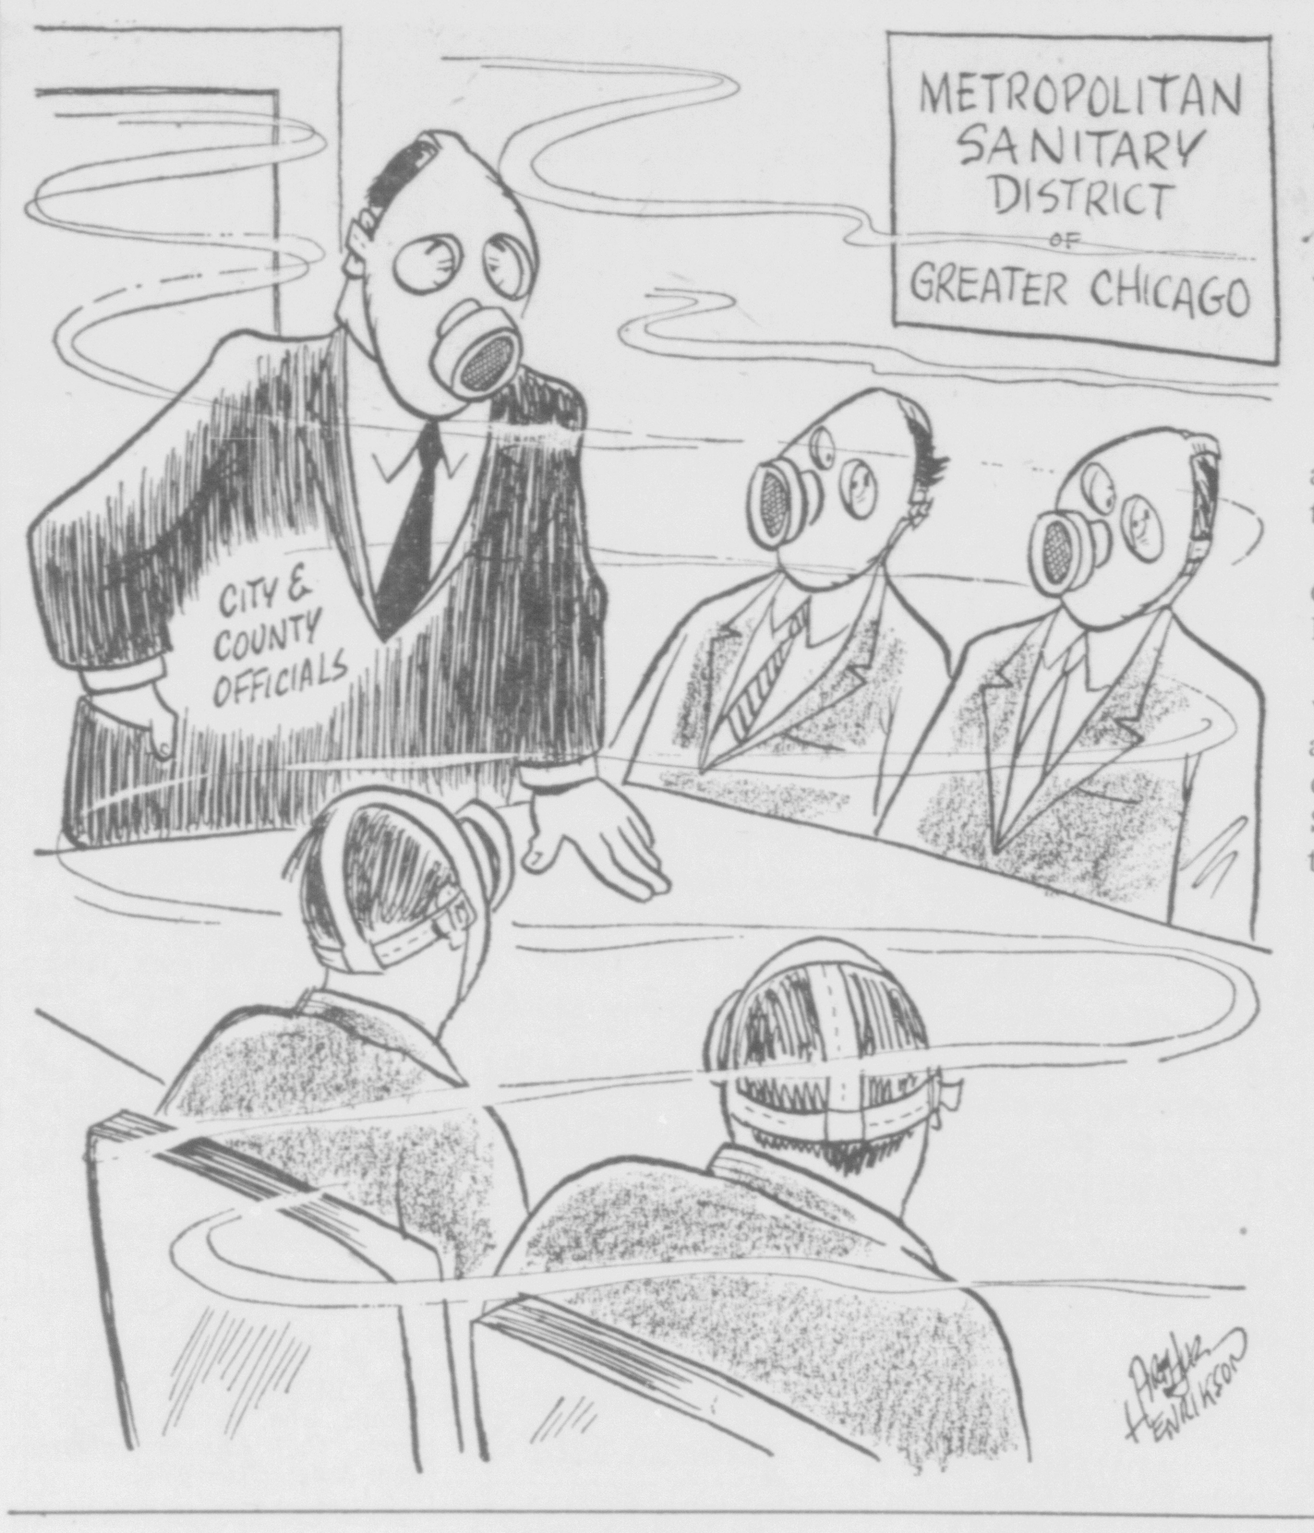
'Anybody Notice Anything Around Here That Stinks?'



The Way We See It

Sanitary District: Riddled by Scandal

(This is the first of three special editorials on the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago.)

We feel compelled to comment on the deplorable state to which the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago has sunk. All but one of our northwest suburban communities — Buffalo Grove — supports the district with tax dollars. To what use that support, and the taxes of the majority of other communities in Cook County served by the district, is being put is the question we raise here.

The sanitary district was named one of the "Seven Wonders of American Engineering" by the American Society of Civil Engineers in 1955. But its history as a source of patronage, bizarre contracts, and questionable land leases has earned it the distinction of being probably the most scandal-ridden institution ever reared on the shores of Lake Michigan.

At this moment, federal and Cook County grand juries are probing possible links between electrical contractors and suppliers and union officials in the awarding of electrical contracts by the sanitary district. A federal prosecutor has been quoted as saying that the results of the grand jury investigation so far "staggers the imagination."

It has been found that five firms supplied all electrical service to the sanitary district from July, 1959, to December, 1961. The five have been paid more than $7,600,000 in two-and-one-half years for electrical construction, but substantially more money is involved since it is paid as work is completed and many contracts have not yet been satisfied.

These favored five are the only firms awarded bids. Of two contracts let totalling $4 million, it was found there was $2 million worth of unaccountable work. An expert electrical engineer, Franklin D. Troxel, reportedly told a federal grand jury that on the basis of work accomplished, if these two contractors had been paid $2 million they would have made a "handsome profit."

In another instance involving a major sewer contract, the contractor reported running into a soil condition not anticipated. He said he would be unable to complete the contract at the prescribed price. Rather than ordering him to meet the terms of the contract, the sanitary district relet the bid for the work — permitting the contractor who could not fulfill the agreement to walk off the job, probably with a pocketful of profits to show for his incompetence. Sanitary district records reveal that such benevolence is not an uncommon occurrence.

Estimates of costs prepared by sanitary district engineers to be used as a basis of comparison in accepting or rejecting bids often bears little or no relationship to final contract prices. Second and even third cost estimates frequently appear to support final contract prices.

In one roofing contract, the preliminary estimate of costs by sanitary district engineers stood at $105,000. Two contractors bid on the job, and it was eventually awarded to a contractor whose bid amounted to $338,000. Two additional cost estimates were made by sanitary district engineers the day the bids were opened. The second estimate reached $180,000; the third added $120,000 to raise the engineers' estimate to a total of $300,000.

The contractor who was awarded the bid sublet the contract to a roofing concern for a price of $237,000, he has admitted. The bid was awarded last Nov. 30. Work on the roofing of 35 sanitary district buildings, however, did not begin until February or March even though the contract contained a 100 days completion clause, after which time a penalty of $25 a day was to be assessed. The penalty clause was not enforced, although work is still in progress and the contractor did not request a time extension.

It was further learned that the roofs in question were not inspected to see if replacement — let alone repairs — was required. Determination of the replacing of roofs was made on the basis figuring out which ones were over 20 years old. Those that had reached this arbitrary age were replaced. The firm which was awarded this contract is a frequent contractor on sanitary district jobs.

Some Serious Questions

It is our opinion that the public is entitled to an accounting of the use to which tax money has been put by Palatine Township Tax Collector Albert DePue.

DePue deposited more than $3 million of locally-paid taxes in two local banks and then refused to advance any of it to financially pressed school districts.

He told the Town Board of Auditors last week that he withheld money from the local grade and high school districts because he was angered by demands made for the money by one of the district's business managers. Such petulance has no place in public office.

Furthermore, Mr. DePue acted against state statute and a town board resolution which limits the amount of tax money deposited in any one bank to 75 per cent of that bank's capital stock and surplus.

He admits depositing more than $2 million with one local bank whose limitations, under these restrictions, would amount to $225,000.

We think the public is entitled to know how much interest was earned by these funds and to which taxing body they will be forwarded. If there is no accrued interest on the funds, then Mr. DePue was not thinking of the taxpayer's financial burdens and acted in disregard for the public interest.

While the $3 million lay in local banks, School District 15 was paying $16.50 a day in interest on $250,000 in outstanding tax anticipation warrants.

Mr. DePue refused to advance tax money to the school districts until May 30. He then extended them only $150,000, a rather miserly amount in relation to the estimated total on hand. The township road and bridge commissioner had to make repeated requests for funds before obtaining $10,000.

The town board of auditors, who called Mr. DePue on the carpet last week, apparently are satisfied with his admission of error and promise of payments.

We feel, however, that his actions have raised some serious questions which require answers. Mr. DePue and the town board of auditors owe this to the responsible citizens who paid some $3,048,000 in taxes prior to the May 1 deadline.

Rep. Church Reports

Poll Suburb Opinion

by JOHN REDDY

A strong military stand, limitations on powers of the President and the federal government and a conservative fiscal policy were advocated by a majority of the 13,308 persons who returned signed questionnaires of U. S. Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church, R-Ill.

A dominating majority of those returning signed questionnaires favors resumption of nuclear testing, the U. S. embargo on trade with Cuba and the sending of troops to Latin America and Asia to prevent a Communist take-over.

STRONG opposition of the majority was voiced against U. S. aid to Communist-satellite countries, the recognition of Red China and abandoning of atomic tests without a guaranteed inspection system.

Twelve of the 30 questions put to every fifth registered voter in the 13th Congressional District dealt with foreign or Cold War policy matters. The remaining 18 questions queried attitudes of constituents on domestic issues, most of which centered on the role of the President and the federal government in internal problems.

Some 73 per cent of the answering electorate indicated there should be a cut in non-defense federal spending and that there should be no increase in taxes to finance desired federal programs. A balanced budget and reduction of the national debt is favored by 83 per cent of the responding public.

FEDERAL AID to education for school construction is opposed by 51 per cent, supported by 43 per cent. Sixty-nine per cent of those responding oppose federal aid for teachers' salaries and 79 per cent oppose aid to private and parochial schools.

An even 80 per cent of the replies favor gradual transfer back to states and local communities of complete responsibility for such programs as slum clearance, sewage treatment plant, etc., if some federal tax sources are also transferred to the states.

Compulsory medical care financed by increase in Social Security taxes is opposed by 56 per cent. Alternative programs are opposed more than they are supported, with at least a quarter of the respondents indicating no opinion on three questions directed to the issue.

THE PUBLIC opinion poll indicates support for tax changes that would benefit business. Some 60 per cent of the replies indicate disfavor of action to provide the President with authority to impose tax cuts and speed up federal public works spending if he deems that economic conditions call for such action.

On the other hand, 46 per cent of the replies indicate support for authority to make across-the-board cuts in tariffs on major groups of commodities in return for cuts abroad on U. S. products. This measure is opposed by 43 per cent of the respondents.

An impressive 71 per cent of the replies voiced support for consideration of the differential in wages and working conditions between this nation and foreign countries in formulating our foreign trade policies and regulations.

FEDERAL assistance to domestic industries and employes if adversely affected by the proposed cuts in tariffs is opposed by 46 per cent of the respondents and supported by 39 per cent.

An administration proposal for stricter controls on agricultural production and marketing is opposed by 69 per cent and supported by 20 per cent.

Sixty-seven per cent of the respondents oppose federal spending for fallout shelters.

A SLIM margin indicated approval of federal grants to states for mass vaccination programs of children under five. A total of 59 per cent support the suggestion that there is a need for a federal drug law to regulate prices and testing of drugs. This issue is opposed by 34 per cent of the respondents.

The proposed expansion of national park and recreational areas at a cost that could amount to $2.5 million over 8 years is supported by 47 per cent and opposed by 44 per cent.

A Family Vacation

Camping Has Advantages

by MARTIN E. MARTY

MARTY

With the closing of school this week we will be saying good-bye to friends and neighbors on their annual two or thre week escapes. Their experiences will provide many an autumn evening of note-comparing. How different these experiences will be from the vacation patterns of the not-too-long ago! I recall working in a resort in the Pocono mountains in my college years; young people, mostly secretaries and clerks from the New York and Philadelphia areas frequented it.

What impressed or depressed me about their vacation was that they did on it exactly what they did for recreation all year long in the city. They didn't notice trail, tree, or bird call; getting them to go on a hike was impossible. Bowling, dancing, going to the movies—these were vacation.

THE LAST FEW years vacation habits have changed to a mania for camping out, particularly on the part of large families. It has its hazards, too, and the popularity of the fad is one. Last summer in Yosemite we found the campgrounds as crowded as Grand Central, State and Madison, the floor of the Stock Exchange, and McCormick Place during the revival—all wrapped into one. You may think that is hyperbole, unless you too were there.

But still camping has its advantages. I have found that the boredom-level of four-year-olds comes fairly soon. Washington Monument holds interest for four and a half minutes, the Grand Canyon for six, Gettysburg for eight, and My Old Kentucky Home for 22 seconds.

Camping removes the necessity for entertaining the offspring—they are too busy in the sheer endeavor of pitching and taking down; laughing at father's clumsiness; commiserating with mother as she fights off mosquitoes; sweeping out tents and sleeping bags; being afraid of the sound of a bear at a garbage can. Where can you get such entertainment for such low cost?

THE PURCHASE of a fine tent for a family of four or more amounts to motel expense of four or five nights. But embarking for the first time on camping out, whether in the forms of roughing it or smoothing it (many campgrounds and facilities and much equipment provide all the comforts of home) often confuses beiginners.

A growing literature is available, and I have selected four for this week of quiet-paced reading and reviewing.

Indispensable is the Rand McNally "Campground Guide" ($2.95) which lists in accurate detail every reasonably well-known site for camping in the United States and Canada. It is folly to proceed without this book or one like it.

THE SUNSET "Family Camping Book" ($1.75) is a paper back full of good sense on thousands of topics.

"A Guide for Young Campers" (Hart, $3.95) by Lt. Colonel Mauno A. Lindholm will keep boys busy; "Camping Out" by Bruno Knobel ($1.00) is a very simple aid.

Stock up on the books and supplies. Have a less expensive, more adventurous summer than last year in the motels. Then come home and rest; park the kids at Grandma's; spend a week-end at a downtown hotel. This is the perfect prescription to prepare for autumn when the home movies and the 35 mm. slides are hauled out for the neighbors.

Wedded Bliss?

MARION, ILL. (UPI)—Williamson County Sheriff Dean West is beginning to wonder if he's running a jail or a matrimonial bureau. The second wedding this month involving a prisoner was performed in county jail this week. The principals were Dennis Howard, 22, and Shirley Newland, 19.

Howard has pleaded guilty to an attempted escape charge. He was originally jailed May 10 on a charge of disorderly conduct. The complaint was filed by his new bride.

Critic's Corner

How Courts Break Tedium

by BOB CUMMINS
News Editor, Bensenville and Addison Registers

Among the institutions of community living, few are as important and certainly none more interesting than the courts.

In a courtroom, the citizen can free himself of burdens, fears, and guilt. Often this happens even when he loses the case. He has had his "day in court."

I recall a little old lady who came to justice court as one of the parties in a dispute over lot boundaries. She bounced with impatience to take the witness stand.

WHEN SHE got it, she informed the judge she could tell him the history of the case in 20 minutes.

The judge, looking at the fairly crowded courtroom, said, "We don't have 20 minutes."

"Ten minutes," the little old lady countered.

"Five minutes," the judge replied.

THE JUDGE WAS wise enough to realize that the chance to sound off for five minutes in a court of justice might be just what was needed to settle the feud.

All justices of the peace aren't as wise.

A suburban-area state's attorney, checking the list of prisoners in the county jail, noticed that a man had been locked up for "keeping a disorderly house."

Distributed that he hadn't been notified of such a serious offense, he called the JP who signed the warrant and asked him about it.

"OH, YES!" the JP replied. "Why, the sink was full of dirty dishes and there were towels all over the floor."

Taverns seem to be prime targets for law suits.

A downstate tavern is being sued by a man who just served a prison term. He says he wouldn't have committed the crime if the tavern hadn't sold him too much to drink.

In a similar case, a tavern in Marengo is the target. This tavern, too, is charged with dispensing too much firewater to a patron.

AS A RESULT, he went outside, climbed a tree, then fell to the ground, suffering grievous injury.

What may turn out to be a classic lawsuit was reported recently by the New York Times.

The International Association of Iranian Art and Archaeology and others are suing the Hotel Astor in sort of an omnibus affair.

The suit says the hotel's banquet manager failed to show up when the art association held a banquet. As a result, everything went wrong — so far wrong that the association lost $50,000 because annoyed patrons withheld contributions.

FURTHERMORE, a collector of Persian art objects demanded $20,000 because, he said, the hotel had not provided a screen for him to project photographic slides of his collection.

In addition, the suit charges the hotel with keeping 65 pounds of caviar provided for the banquet by the Shah of Iran. The guests ate only 35 pounds of the 100 pounds donated by the Shah.

One guest asks $20,000 damages because the hotel failed to serve her wine.

ANOTHER co-plaintiff was angry about the wine situation, too. Her section of the complaint charged, according to the Times:

"No wine was served to said plaintiff at said 'Persian Dinner' or to the other guests at the table to which she was assigned, although the menu stated that Almaden Pinor Noir 1955 would be served with the main course Pilaff of Lamb Kerman."

The next move is up to the Hotel Astor.

Our courts need some reform. However, we couldn't afford, in this grim age, to have the humor "reformed out" of them.

Warns State Of Tax Need

(UPI)—Gov. Otto Kerner said Tuesday that citizens of Illinois are living in a dream world if they think the state can meet the future without major tax changes.

Putting off a reckoning with the long-range fiscal problems of Illinois, he said, "Delays the day when possibly their children will have no alternative but to pay the piper—and the sum in crash programs will be astronomical."

Kerner made the comments in a speech prepared for delivery to the Governor's Conference on Youth Employment. The Chicago conference of experts and civic leaders is concerned with stemming school drop-outs and lessening unemployment among the youth population.

"FOR JUST one example of current needs we might cite vocational and technical education beyond the high school level to provide the skilled technicians we need to backstop our professional scientists," he said.

"If we had such a system today," Kerner added, "The personnel department at Argonne National Laboratory would not be forced to go outside the state to obtain the qualified persons it needs."

BAIRD & WARNER

MADAM, CAN YOU COOK? Why not try your technique in this beautiful kitchen with all the culinary appointments! It's smartly planned and so is the rest of the house. Separate entrance hall, sep. dining room, 3 bedrooms, full basement, top quality throughout, brick and on a spacious wooded site. Middle 40's and worth it.

VISIONS OF SUGAR PLUMS have danced before happy youngsters in this estate-home on 210 acres or not less than 10. Five bedrooms, the rich heritage of country living in beautiful Bull Valley. Complete with barns and caretaker's house—a good buy in the middle 40's.

"I HEARD A BROOKLET RUSHING" thru the wooded seclusion of this 3 bedroom home, with fine family room, on a cul-de-sac away from heavy traffic, but close to thru-highway, transportation, schools and lake. Ideal family home for Illinois-Wisconsin-Minnesota salesman. $18,000.

HERE'S A DREAM home for a 4 bedroom family: Beamed ceiling and cove lights, beautiful fireplace and family room, 3 baths and 2 cars, close to golf course and popular lake. It's a steal in the middle 30's.

Geological Group Plans Final Meet

The Des Plaines Valley Geological Society will hold its last monthly meeting of the season Thursday, June 21, in the Rand Park fieldhouse, Des Plaines.

During the months of June, July, August and September the Society has planned field trips to Hamilton, Illinois, for geodes; Bellevue and Muscatine, Iowa, for agates; Galena, Illinois, for galena and sphalerite; Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, for agates; St. Louis, Missouri, for barite; and Wausau, Wisconsin, for moonstone.

Information on these trips will be made available at the June meeting. Guests are welcome. (B8

Costs of State Government Can Be Slashed, IMA Says

The cost of state government, appropriations for which have risen from $2.8 billion in the previous biennium to $3.5 billion in the current biennium, could be controlled better if the pressures on state legislators were reduced by earlier presentation of the budget, a spokesman for the Illinois Manufacturers' Association told a subcommittee of the Revenue Study Commission at a hearing last Thursday.

E. Edgerton Hart, secretary of the IMA, also suggested that duplication of effort between the Department of Finance and the Budgetary Commission be eliminated and that specific reasons for increases in appropriations called for in the Governor's budget message be clearly stated.

He said also that, at some point in the budget making processes, the public should have an opportunity to participate to the extent of examining budget requests and making suggestions thereto.

HART RECALLED that the Governor's budget message was not given to the General Assembly during the last session until April 19 "when the session had only ten weeks left before adjournment" and indicated this did not leave enough time for legislators to study specific appropriations because of "pressures on members to consider a wide range of other subjects."

The IMA spokesman listed a number of areas where there might be possibilities to reduce expenditures called for against the General Fund, including:

The Governor's expenses, where a total appropriation increase of $168,000 was recorded in the 72nd Assembly over the 71st, including an increase of $162,000 in executive office expenses;

The Department of Agriculture division of meat and poultry, with an increase in appropriations of $852,000;

GENERAL OFFICE operations of the Secretary of State, up $96,000;

Contractural services of the Secretary of State's division of title, up $105,000;

And the driver education program under the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, up $37,000.

Hart said these are only a few examples of increased spending authority, and that "further study of the budget will bring to light many more opportunities to reduce expenditures by many millions of dollars." (A14

Surgery Best Cure For Hernias Now

When some portion of the abdominal contents protrudes through a weak place in the abdominal wall, a hernia, or rupture, develops. Hernias also occur in the groin and may be mild or serious.

Many factors are involved in the development of hernias. Primarily associated with a weak spot in the muscalature of the body, particularly the mid-section, a protrusion may be marked with pain following undue strain. This is true of workmen and athletes. Sometimes hernias occur in old scars of surgical operations.

Hernias may be reducible or incarcerated. They are reducible when the bulging mass slips back into the abdominal cavity, either when the patient lies down, or under gentle pressure.

THEY ARE incarcerated when the protrusion cannot be replaced, due to inflammation, adhesions, or scars between the sac and its contents, by hardening and narrowing of the neck of the sac due to the wearing of trusses, or by the twisting of blood vessels supplying the trapped hernia contents.

Trusses are valuable in the treatment of small ruptures, since they prevent bulging of the strain on the weakened area. It is well to remember, however, that a hernia is more apt to increase in size, rather than decrease in size or heal.

As the continued pressure increases, the opening is enlarged and eventually, if uncontrolled, the mass will fill the opening. When this happens, the walls of the opening may create a pressure on the tissues inside that may result in serious complications previously mentioned.

INCARCERATED hernias usually are characterized by abdominal pain, nausea or vomiting; this type of hernia demands immediate surgical attention.

Surgery is the most effective treatment in hernia. Recurrences following surgery have been reported and may occur in persons of excess weight or failure of the tissues to heal as in a dietary deficiency. With proper surgical repair most people can resume their former occupations. (A14

Praises Rumsfeld

Rep. Church Hails 'New Age' for GOP

Retiring Congresswoman Mrs. Marguerite Stitt Church praised Donald Rumsfeld, GOP Congressional candidate in the 13th district, as a man who brings to political life "a freshness of viewpoint," and "steadfastness of purpose."

Mrs. Church, who has represented the 13th District in Washington, D. C. for 12 years, spoke at a breakfast meeting held in her honor recently in Evanston.

"I think it is wonderful," she said, "that we have in the Republican Party men who are attuned to a new age, yet still have in their hearts a thorough respect for the traditions of the past."

MRS. CHURCH added that Rumsfeld's exceptional abilities for governmental work attracted attention in Washington when he served as an assistant to two former GOP Congressmen.

The North Shore Congresswoman said the Republican Party can achieve one of its greatest victories November 6 provided "we overcome machine manipulations and get our votes counted.

"We are becoming a socialized republic. Everything in our lives is in danger of coming under government control. This means Republicans must fight in this campaign," Mrs. Church declared.

"The issue at home is whether we will remain free in our thinking, in our work, in our lives. The issue in our foreign policy is whether we will remain free in the world under the will-o'-the-wisp policies of the Kennedy administration," she stated.

Mrs. Church stated that Republicans can win provided every party member sacrifices "his time and efforts" to achieve a party victory in the fall.

CANDIDATE Rumsfeld paid tribute to Mrs. Church as a wise and gracious woman "whose friendship and counsel I value."

"My debt to all Republicans in the 13th District is to see that the district remains in Republican hands," he added.

"I believe it's sheer arrogance to believe, as the present Administration does, that Washington knows what is best for the people," Rumsfeld declared.

He pledged that as the 13th District's Congressman he "will oppose any attempt by the federal government to gain more power over American citizens, and resist any effort to soften our foreign policy toward world communism."

Harry Wells, business manager of Northwestern University, was master of ceremonies for the occasion. (B-8

YMCA Summer Classes Start Week of June 11

All summer program at Northwest Suburban YMCA begins the week of June 11. A large variety of activities are offered for members, with special emphasis on swim classes for adults and children over 8.

Of interest to both members and non-members are special low-fee courses which will run for six weeks with instruction in a variety of activities. These courses, whoch also begin the week of June 11, include the following:

TINY TOT swim instruction for 3-5 year olds, Mondays, 1:15 to 2:15 p.m., and Tuesdays, 9 to 11 a.m.

Small Fry swim for 6-7 year olds, Mondays through Fridays, 6 to 6:45 p.m.

Swim instruction for handicapped children, Wednesdays, 9 to 10 a.m.

Scuba driving for men and women, Fridays, 8 to 11 p.m.

HORSEBACK riding for children 8 to 15, Thursdays, 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Baton twirling for 5-year-olds and up, Wednesdays, 10:30 a.m. to noon.

Arts and crafts for grades 3 through 8, Thursdays, 10 a.m. to noon.

Archery, grades 3 through 8,

GOLF CLASSES for teens splash parties on the fourth Saturday of each month. Fridays, 9 a.m. to noon.

In addition to these activities, there are special family nights and adults: teens, Tuesdays, 10 a.m., adults, Mondays, 7 p.m.

Judo from men, Tuesdays, 8:30 on Fridays and teen dance and to 9:30 p.m.

YMCA membership is available on an individual or family basis at reasonable rates. Everyone is welcome to join.

New Beginner Class In Judo at YMCA

Over 120 men, women and children have learned the "gentle way" to learn judo at Northwest Suburban YMCA. Fundamentals of judo are being taught at the "Y" by qualified Black Belt instructors in beginners' classes for adults and boys.

A new class for men will begin Tuesday, June 12, from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. The class will continue every Tuesday evening for six weeks.

DURING THE school year, judo classes on Saturday mornings have intrigued boys, who are enthusiastic students and even enter junior competition at an early age.

Judo is many things. To the beginner it is rough and tumble, to the veteran a thrilling subtle counterpart of movement. To active men it is a way to keep fit, to women an effective method of self defense.

MORE AND more adults and boys in this area are becoming interested in judo, according to Ernie Hauser, judo instructor at Northwest Suburban YMCA. Anyone wishing information on the class starting Tuesday evening may call the "Y" at CY 6-3376. (B9

Stables Gutted In $50,000 Fire

(UPI) Fire Saturday burned out a two-story building at the Idle Hours Stables, Higgins Road and Cumberland Avenue.

Firemen from Park Ridge and Des Plaines battled the blaze for about five hours before bringing it under control.

Nine horses in the building were led to safety by a caretaker.

The loss was estimated at $50,000. (B8

Boy Scout Leaders Plan Outdoor Meet

Boy Scout adult leaders from Palatine, Lake Zurich, Barrington, Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg will camp overnight Friday at Lakota Reservation, north of Woodstock, for an outdoor training session. The men will spend Friday evening and all day Saturday learning new tricks of the basic Boy Scout outdoor skills.

Upon completion of the course, these adults will train their boy leaders who do the actual training and leading of Scouts in the troops. While designed primarily for new leaders, many "old timers" like to attend to brush up on new ideas and enjoy the fellowship of the session.

ROBERT NALLY of Hoffman Estates, chairman of leadership training for Signal Hill District, is in charge of plans for the training program.

Leonard Milewski of Rolling Meadows is the course Scoutmaster, to be assisted by Alvin Weber, Charles Gresens and Dick Goodell, all of Rolling Meadows. (B9

THE MAGAZINE OF PLEASANT PLACES

In This Issue . . .

Robert Frost . . . page 6

To begin this special All-Outdoors issue, we're proud to be able to bring two observations by Robert Frost. In his poem, "Closed For Good," the great poet sings a new song of the open road, in which you'll get a new look at nature, at Mr. Frost, and, perhaps, at yourself. He also adds two lines, all about himself, that should warm your heart.

The Garden Room . . . page 8

Noted architect Edward Durell Stone outlines several ways in which you can take full advantage of your own piece of the out-of-doors, now that you're spending so much time in it, and keep your privacy, too. He recommends planning your house around an all-year garden room, or atrium, that will give you every comfort you now have in your living room—plus light and air and growing things.

Want to Buy a Country Club? . . . page 10

The people of Westport, Connecticut, did want to buy one, so they set out to acquire Longshore, an exclusive private club in their town. Here is the account of how they did it, what they have made out of it, and what it means to the families of Westport that now use it, told by the man who acted for the town in wrapping up the deal.

What a Sport! . . . page 30

Edward Streeter, famous author of "Father of the Bride" and "Chairman of the Bored," tells the tale of Jeffrey Bottomly, of Bottomly, Pennsylvania—the last specimen in a long line of great sportsmen and great outdoorsmen. In the family tradition, Jeffrey tried all kinds of athletics, from musical chairs to golf, swimming, and quail shooting—with most unexpected results.

Denny Hampson

Our cover artist shows the breadwinner—physically trapped behind his desk at the office, but mentally many commuter miles away from the stuffy, hot city. He muses about barbecuing and golfing and dancing and boating—all dreams that will come true, a little after 5 o'clock.

GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

ANYTHING that's anything happens out of doors, these days. For instance, while it is not unusual to see a sign, "Danger—Men Working," says Mrs. W. B. Perrin, of Alpharetta, Georgia, she recently came upon one near an outdoor barbecue that read, "Danger—Men Cooking."

We've just heard a success story that we think is worth passing on to all of you. Some time ago, at a construction site a few miles from Sewickley, Pennsylvania, a robin fell into a 30-inch deep, four-and-a-half-inch-wide hole in a cement-block installation. Workmen tried to get the bird out, but failed, till along came 10-year-old Danny Sippy, who calmly took a bucket full of sand, poured it slowly into the hole, elevating the bird. The operation took an hour.

When police in Pacoima, California, picked up a charming three-year-old stroller wandering aimlessly down the main street, they tried to discover where she came from. When they asked what her name was, she either couldn't or wouldn't tell them, so they began to go through her little pockets hunting for identification. At this point, she looked up at the circle of officers and said, "I don't have a gun."

Other communities please take note: Around Boulder, Colorado, a driver-improvement course has been instituted for people who are 65 years of age and over. Students take regular driving subjects which stress special problems of the elderly, such as slower reaction time and the effect of advancing age on sight and hearing.

Dr. Wes McKenzie, of Bellevue, Washington, has two power lawn mowers. One is labeled "His," the other "Hers," but, says the good doctor, "I always make sure that only 'Hers' has any gas."

• •

Mrs. Moselle S. Caldwell, of Arlington, Virginia, writes to tell us about a Scouts project from which both the Cubs and the Explorers in her neighborhood profited. It seems that Den Mother Mrs. Everet Hedahl got two old jalopies for her 14 nine- and ten-year-old Cubs to take apart, as a Den project. With a Boy Scout adviser and a group of Explorer Scouts on hand to help and advise, the Cubs fell to with wrenches, hammers, and screwdrivers. Five hours later, there was nothing but a big pile of parts and a happy mass of enlightened youngsters. And the Explorer Scouts seemed even more pleased as they prepared to haul the dismantled cars away; their next project is to put the two automobiles together again.

From Helen S. Phillips, who lives near Littleton, Colorado, we understand there is an excellent orchestra formed each summer out in Estes Park, called the Blue Jeans Symphony. It is composed of outstanding young musicians from high schools and colleges all over the country, who spend their vacations working on ranches and resorts in the area while studying music. Aside from the quality of their performances, what distinguishes this group is the fact that all of the young musicians wear blue jeans at every concert, while conductor Walter Charles sports a set of specially tailored blue-denim tails.

In Glen Burnie, Maryland, the Don Carpenters have a praying mantis, and they're taking very good care of it, knowing how valuable these small creatures are in the garden (they eat all kinds of undesirable insects). Peggy Carpenter found the mantis half-frozen a while back, named it "Mr. Fiddle-Sticks," and decided to adopt it. "Mr." turned out to be a female, who laid a mass of eggs on the kitchen window, so now the Carpenters are looking forward to having about 100 tiny praying mantis to put to work in their garden. Meantime, Mr. Fiddle-Sticks is living high on raw hamburger, dead flies, herring roe, hardboiled eggs, raw liver, and likes melted ice cream for dessert. It will only drink water or milk from a silver spoon and has refused to touch a beverage in a plastic spoon. After meals, which it eats with great gusto, it washes up carefully, just the way a cat does.

A Grosse Pointe, Michigan, woman whose son had just got married was asked if she was going to visit the young couple, who had settled in California. "Not yet," she wisely replied, "I'm waiting until they have their first baby. You see, I have a theory that grandmas are more welcome than mothers-in-law."

You can get a new insight into the electronics age by strolling along Compo Beach at Westport, Connecticut, any sun-swept day during the weekend. Several itinerant waiters and two walkie-talkie radios now make it possible for lazy sun bathers to place orders and receive deliveries from the beach pavilion without having to interrupt their pleasure for even one warm moment. The walkie-talkie-equipped waiters simply take your order, phone it in, and within a few minutes a colleague cycles up the beach with it.

When Mark and Melvin Smith became carrier boys for the Valley Times Today in Quartz Hills, California, they formed a wonderful partnership that cuts down their delivery time and offers them a lot of fun, too. The boys have a tandem bicycle which one pedals while the other throws the papers. And there are never any arguments because the boys swap positions every day.

*A great poet and a great outdoorsman sings
a new song of the open road
—and adds a few words about himself*

Closed for Good

They come not back with steed
And chariot to chide
My slowness with their speed
And scare me to one side.
They have found other scenes
For haste and other means.

They leave the road to me
To walk in saying naught
Perhaps but to a tree
Inaudibly in thought,
"From you the road receives
A priming coat of leaves.

"And soon for lack of sun,
The prospects are in white
It will be further done,
But with a coat so light
The shape of leaves will show
Beneath the spread of snow."

And so on into winter
Till even I have ceased
To come as a foot printer,
And only some slight beast
So mousy or so foxy
Shall print there as my proxy.

It takes all sorts of in and outdoor schooling
To get adapted to my kind of fooling.

House Around a Garden

A distinguished architect's solution for the too-public back yard

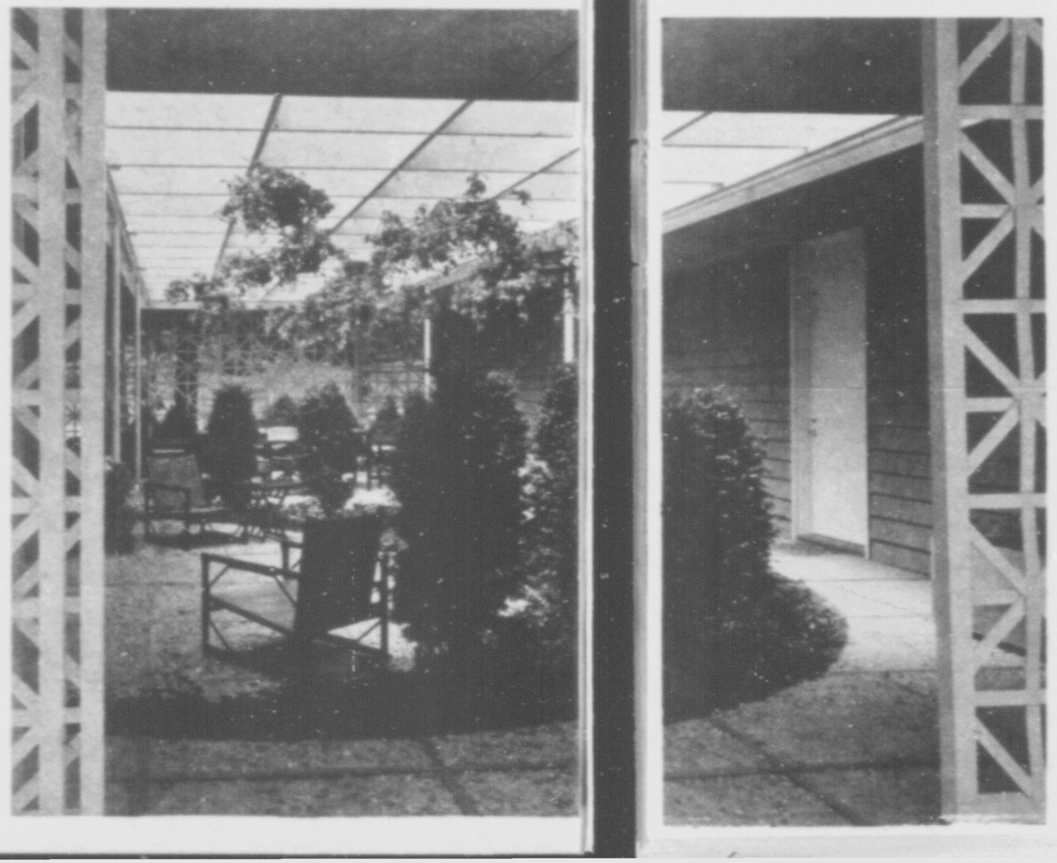
BY EDWARD DURELL STONE architect of the U. S. Embassy in New Delhi, U. S. Pavilion for Brussels' Fair, etc.

As time has passed, the area of land available for housing has dwindled in many suburban towns, as it did in the cities before them, until now we often attempt to have an individual dwelling on a 50 x 100 lot. With the current enthusiasm for outdoor living this means that houses opening widely to terraces have no privacy. Your neighbor's life is perforce conducted within 20 or 30 feet of your own—you can hear the steak sizzling on his charcoal, the door slamming behind his child.

My solution is to build the house around a garden room or atrium. This room can be lighted from above and in turn open on one side to the out-of-doors. It can have air, planting, and fountains, and do away with space-consuming hallways. As the photographs show, the all-weather garden room can be a dominating feature, alive the way every garden is, with light and air and growing things, and in addition the further charm of privacy will be restored.

In the past, it was difficult to make top lighting practical, as skylights were usually leaky and accumulated dirt. Today, however, with the advent of plastic, and perfected waterproofing, an interior garden, lighted from above, employing plastic bubbles, can be a charming and useful element. All my houses are now planned according to this principle. Recently I did one in Texas, enclosed by high walls and all the rooms open to courtyards; all the floors are white marble. There is a swimming pool within the house, too. Masonry, marble floors, the use of fountains, lagoons, courtyards, enclosed gardens—all these are characteristic of my present work.

In designing such houses it is my hope to provide a client with a beautiful building, and above all, one that he will be able to live in contentedly, under today's crowded and strenuous conditions.



House is built around an all-weather garden, a dramatic free space under its translucent ceiling, where people and plants can flourish in peace and privacy.

Aerial view from over Long Island Sound shows what Westporters now enjoy at their public country club.

Once private, Westport's spectacular Longshore Club Park is now open to all—and the taxpayers' pride and joy

BY JULIAN P. BRODIE

On the sunny morning of Saturday, September 5, 1959, a day I'm not likely to forget, I received a telephone call.

The caller was Herbert E. Baldwin, First Selectman of the Town of Westport, Connecticut. My town, 50 miles from New York City, of which it was rapidly becoming a suburb.

Since I had served for six years on the town's Board of Finance, Mr. Baldwin was calling to tell me that the Longshore Country Club might possibly be available for purchase. He was deeply interested in even a mere possibility. Longshore was a beautiful spot along Connecticut's lovely shore, which had long been a kind of enclave, a privately owned club. The town would dearly love to own it. Would I be good enough to look into this rumor, discreetly, and report back to him? I said I would.

Longshore contained 191 acres on Long Island Sound, a large clubhouse with restaurants, bars, locker rooms, 19 bedrooms, an 18-hole golf course, seven tennis courts, a beach, senior and junior swimming pools, 54 cabanas, boating facilities, 11 summer-rental cottages, and seven or eight other houses and apartments equipped for year-round use. Quite a package!

I won't bore you with the details of the negotiations. They took four and a half months and were difficult. At first, the owner didn't want to sell at all. Following several months of persuasion, he was ready to listen, but for $3,000,000!

After innumerable meetings and endless Oriental rug-trading, we finally got the price down to one I liked and thought the town would, too: $1,925,000.

But we weren't yet out of the woods. I still had to have an option. "Option?" asked the owner. "What option? Bring me the money."

I pointed out that he wasn't selling to an individual with millions in the bank; he was selling to a town, and it had many legal procedures with which we had to comply. We needed at least 30 days to clear it through town machinery, to say nothing of building up town interest through the newspaper, word of mouth, and so on.

All I could get from him was 17 days. But one great Friday night I raced to the train with my homemade option signed and reposing warmly in my pocket. I felt nine feet tall.

Next morning I met with the town fathers. We were all jubilant. Although a 17-day limitation was tight, perhaps impossible, we did some figuring and decided to try it. As it turned out, the most important thing we did that morning was to phone Elwood Allen of the Elwood Allen Organization in Bennington, Vermont, possibly the country's greatest expert on the planning of public recreation facilities.

He was so interested in our story, he flew right down in his private plane and spent the better part of three days studying Westport's existing recreation facilities and the attractions of the Longshore Club. The upshot of his report: the greatest facility he'd ever seen available to a town of our kind. And in a confidential aside, he said, "If you guys don't buy this, you're crazy!"

Various volunteers got to work to assemble data for the case I was to present to the town authorities and the townspeople. In quick succession, we won approval of the Board of Selectmen, the Planning and Zoning Commission, and the Board of Finance. The pay-off was the presentation to Westport's Representative Town Meeting, a legislative phenomenon which in larger New England towns replaces the outgrown Town Meeting. Nevertheless, this one turned out to be more like an old-fashioned Town Meeting. A huge crowd grabbed every seat—early. An unprecedented overflow tucked itself around the edges.

The staff and committee work had been excellent. Allen's report was powerful. My presentation lasted almost two hours and was replete with facts, figures, charts, graphs, and a big map of the beautiful club.

The presentation itself fell naturally into three parts. I began by phrasing their first question: "You're probably wondering why we need Longshore." I pointed out that, although the town was a privileged community and everybody owned some grass and trees, there were other reasons for having a park. As the Allen report made clear, Westport was actually underequipped with park facilities. We didn't have enough tennis courts; we had no public golf course, and in these and other ways the town fell below the standards of the National Recreation Association for communities of our size, to say nothing of our income level, which is high. This greatly surprised the audience. Like a lot of other suburbs in recent years, we'd been asleep while the town had grown.

I also pointed out that shore-front land was scarce and getting scarcer, that the town had sadly missed opportunities to buy a nine-hole golf club some years before and several tracts along the water that had been gobbled up by developers. Furthermore, if Longshore were ever sold to a builder, we could expect a hundred or more houses to sprout there, with up to 250 children dumped on the town, bringing with them the need to build a new million-dollar school. In our town, moreover, any family (average 2.3 children) that lived in a house selling for less than $50,000 actually cost the town money in education, police, fire, and other services. Our God-given location on Long Island Sound, our excellent schools, beaches, boating facilities, and air-conditioned commuting all made our town almost too attractive to big-city immigrants. Unwittingly, they added a financial burden to the rest of us when they chose Westport.

GAS NEXT TEE
SUBURBIA TODAY

The second question I also phrased right out of their own thoughts: "Can the town afford this club?" My answer was that the town could not afford to pass it up. I singled out several prominent realtors in the audience. I asked them to tell the crowd what shore-front property was worth these days. By luck, one announced she had just sold a piece of land on the shore that week for $25,000. Another, who was then developing 26 acres of waterfront property, told the gasping populace he was getting $15,000 and $20,000 an acre. So I pointed out that even as a real-estate investment, the thing was cheap at the price. Moreover, it was getting more valuable every minute that I stood there. And so were their houses.

The third question I knew the audience was pondering was: "How can we pay for this?" I was ready with a properly endorsed plan for a $2,000,000 bond issue, repayable over 20 years. It would add to the town budget only $150,000 a year for interest and amortization.

For a man with a $25,000 house this figured out to only $15 a year more in taxes. Others would pay proportionately.

So much for the cost of acquisition. The operating expenses were another matter. We had guesstimated that the club would cost somewhat more than $200,000 a year to run. This included salaries, upkeep, repairs and supplies, utilities, and minor items. However, by our calculations, the income from the sale of family-admission windshield stickers, golf permits and greens fees, tennis permits and fees, rentals, income from restaurants and bars, and other sources, would probably fully pay these annual running expenses.

Anyway, it was my belief and that of my committee that the town could well afford to treat itself to Longshore and could comfortably pay for it. I also pointed out that it was time that the Westport father got a break. He worked hard, sweated much, took a round trip of 100 miles a day for the privilege, and richly deserved a little golf or tennis if he could squeeze it in.

After very few objections, the meeting, in solemn conclave assembled, voted 38 to 0 to buy Longshore.

All of us took it as a great triumph and the pay-off of months of hard work. My wife and I had delayed leaving until that very night for a Caribbean vacation. We'd packed the car with our bags, hired an off-duty patrolman to drive us to the airport, kissed the family, put out the cat, and gone to the meeting. Accordingly, after the vote was announced and the entire assemblage rose to applaud its own magnificent decision, we strode up the aisle, through the lobby and into the car, whose door was being held by the cop.

My work, though, was really just starting. Selectman Baldwin asked me to stay on and head up a committee to transform the club into a public park. Having already made so hefty an investment of hope and hard work, I agreed.

In February, I set to work with my trusty executive committee (I called them my Longshoremen) and seven other committees we put together—43 dedicated specialists in all. According to the purchase terms, we weren't taking title till April 14th. What's more, we couldn't set foot on the property until we did take title. At the same time, I was most anxious that we not miss the beautiful spring and summer season, the best, of course, for a club park in our location.

We set ourselves an opening date of May 20th, so we had about five weeks to do the job. In those five weeks we hired 34 people, wrote the public policies of the park, drafted all the regulations, set the admission and sports fees, and held public

Crème de Menthe Frappe

Heap glass high with shaved ice and slowly add green crème de menthe until full. Serve with short straw and cherry if desired.

Champagne Cassis

Fill beer glass with chilled champagne, add half an ounce crème de cassis if you prefer the drink dry, or one ounce crème de cassis if you prefer it sweet. Stir and serve.

Salty Dog

Dip rim of glass into lemon juice and then into crystal salt, forming a frosted ring around top edge. Put one cube of ice into glass, add two ounces of vodka, and fill glass with grapefruit juice. Stir lightly and serve.

Mint Julep

Put chopped mint leaves into highball glass, add one teaspoon sugar, and muddle with wooden muddler for about 10 seconds. Add one ounce of 100-proof bourbon whiskey, add shaved ice, and stir slowly, adding bourbon until glass is full. Garnish with mint that has been frosted with sugar, and put the glass in a silver dish heaped with cracked ice.

Scotch Mist

Fill glass with shaved ice, pour shot glass full of Scotch whiskey over it, and add a twist of lemon peel. Serve with short straw.

White Wine Spritzer

Put three or four cubes of ice in white wine glass and fill half way with white wine. Add soda until glass is almost full, and stir.

Apricot Sour

Shake with ice, juice of one lemon, three ounces apricot brandy and strain into sour glass, pouring over one slice of lemon and one maraschino cherry.

Gimlet

Shake with ice, one ounce of bottled lime juice, half an ounce of cointreau, and three ounces of gin (or vodka). Strain into glass and serve.

Planter's Punch

Fill glass with shaved ice and add one teaspoon sugar, juice of one lemon, two ounces of rum, and two ounces of orange juice. Stir well and add one slice of orange and one maraschino cherry. Fill glass to brim with rum and serve with long straw.

An expert explains the fine points of making summer coolers and lighthearted apéritifs

Chill Your Glasses First

BY STUART LEVIN

Director of The Four Seasons Restaurant in New York

■ THE LONG, hot summer is the season of the long, cool drink, and with just a little imagination anyone can come up with an array of drinks, coolly colorful and delicately flavored, as refreshing to eye as they are to the palate. One of the easiest ways of giving an original look to even the most classic drink is by varying the glass you serve it in. Instead of using the standard highball glass, try red or white wine goblets, tulip champagne glasses, or even pilsner glasses. Frost glasses ahead of time by wetting them and placing them in your freezer for about an hour before you mix and serve the drink, and for an extra icy touch, dip the wet rims in finely powdered sugar before freezing them. Since sugar dissolves slowly in cold liquids, it's advisable to sweeten sweet drinks with a simple sirup made by boiling two parts water to one part sugar for two minutes. The sirup can be bottled and stored in the refrigerator until you're ready to use it. Or for added fruit flavor, sweeten drinks with the sirup drained from canned fruits. Garnish your drinks with slices of citrus fruits or with corkscrew curls of peel cut from limes, lemons, or oranges. Sticks of fresh fruit such as pineapple, mint leaves frosted with sugar, maraschino cherries (red or green), and slices of cool cucumber are other final touches exceptionally well-suited to summer coolers. And to achieve the kind of professional look you see in the drinks opposite, prepared at the Four Seasons, you'll find an electric blender and ice chopper invaluable aids. To make the assortment complete, we've planned some of these drinks as apéritifs, others as after-dinner coolers, but all are guaranteed to revive wilting spirits and calm heat-frayed nerves.

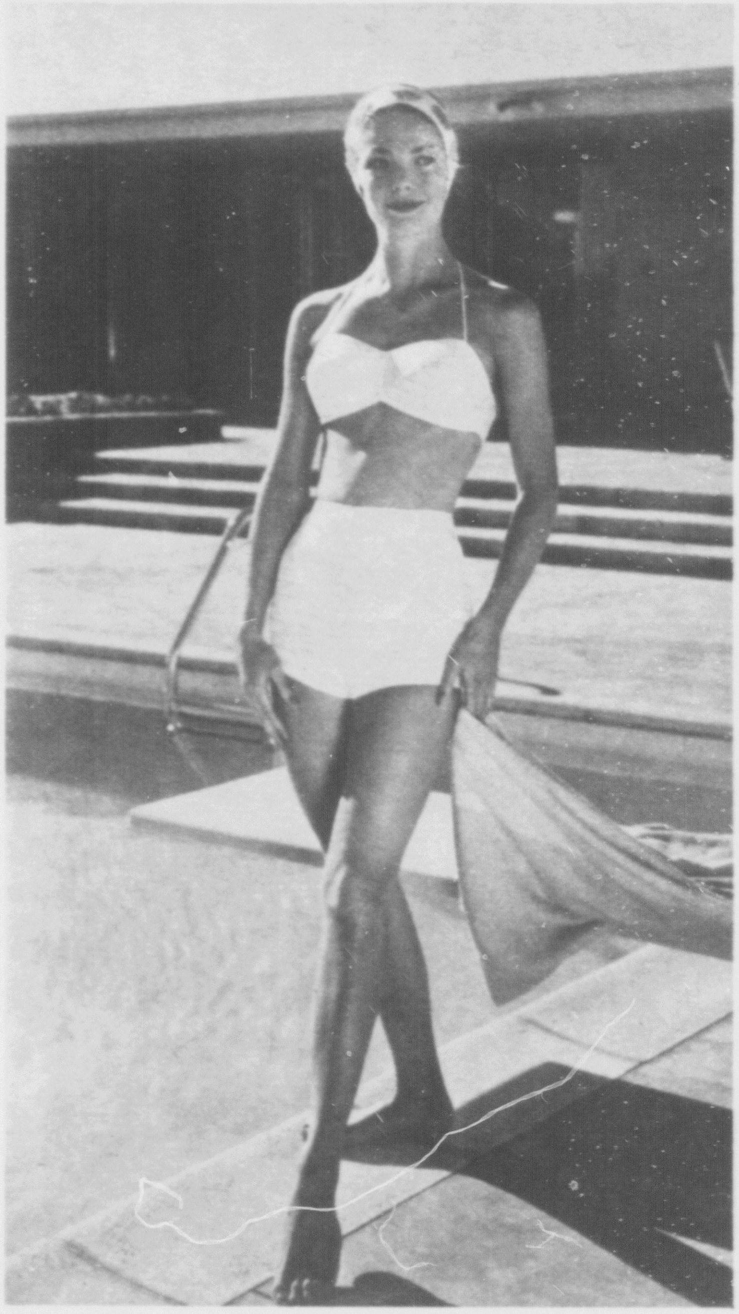
Summer Glow –Top to Toes

Anoint yourself lightly and completely with dewy lubricants and tanning aids—and bask to your heart's content

BY BARBARA ELLIS

Beauty Editor



Jantzen

For a bloom, not a burn—combine full exposure to the delicious dangerous sun with an invisible mask of lubricants.

YOUR HAIR, skin, and face need extra care now to prevent punishment from sun and water. Here, from top to toes, are a few simple tips for protecting the outdoor girl.

Starting from the top: Overdoses of bright sun will deplete natural oils and make the hair streaked, strawlike, and brittle. Protect it with a light, airy kerchief (heavy, tightly tied ones block ventilation), a pretty beach hat, or a good hairdressing or conditioning cream which acts like a moisture screen to help keep the hair from drying. Brush daily and always have brittle ends trimmed before a new permanent. Be sure to rinse hair after swimming to rid it of any residue of chemicals, salt stickiness, or sand. Use the lighter sprays, and even these sparingly. A lanolin-based or other nondrying type will help condition your hair as well as keep it neatly in place during romps on the beach. Always keep tinted hair covered on the beach. The sun can lift color several shades—and please, never swim in a pool without a cap. Pool chemicals can pale tinted hair greenish.

Your face, though free from winter's heavy make-up and glowing with the beginnings of a heavenly tan, still needs a lot of looking after. For a bloom, not a burn, don't go into the sun without first applying a sun-tanning preparation. Any of the good oils, solutions, lotions, or creams will do the trick. Their effectiveness in protecting your skin and giving you a pretty tan depends on just how much sun-screening agent they contain, and the amount you apply. For you who love the out-of-doors but can't take sun, there are sun-block preparations which stop all the ultraviolet rays.

The eye area, the dryest and most delicate of your whole face, must be protected at all times from bright sun. To avoid squint lines and sun puffing, pick good quality sunglasses with lenses that give ample coverage. You might look into some of the enormous new wraparounds that will protect you, come what may. Also, lubricate your eye area well—and regularly—with a rich eye cream. Another important summer beauty accessory is lip pomade, which should be worn under an ample application of creamy lipstick (or all by itself) while you are sunbathing.

Whenever you're out in the sun for more than a few minutes, go over all exposed areas with a good sun-tanning preparation—you need complete and thorough coverage for an even tan. Reapply it every few hours to make up for dissipation by sand and water. Remember that those sensitive and most exposed areas of your body need more frequent application of tanning aids: forehead, tip of nose and shoulders, top of cheekbones, top of feet, and back of neck. Watch out you don't get an overdose of sun when it's at its strongest (between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.); even a big beach hat or umbrella won't protect you from the reflected glare of sun on water—and don't be fooled by a hazy day. The sun can burn through haze.

WHEN YOU'VE COME in from a day in the sun, use a body lubricant to further counteract drying effects. Slather it on; it will help, and it'll make you feel good, too. And, to look like an outdoor girl instead of a paleface while you're starting your tan, try one of the tinted sun-tanning aids.

Your feet, mostly bare right now, or in the merest suggestion of a sandal, take their greatest punishment in the summer. To counteract dryness and improve your summer foot complexion, lubricate your feet with an application of baby oil or a rich hand or body cream. Massage it deeply into the insteps, soles, heels, even the surface around toenails. Leave it on to work overtime at calluses and "pump bumps."

Sun and air and wind and water can do wonders for you—but not without the fragrant, soothing aids that lie, literally, at your fingertips.

Hints collected
by Mrs. Dan Gerber,
Mother of 5

With summer days showing longer rays, tanning sessions are in order for sun-bathing beauties. Suggestions for the soft-skinned set:

- Timely tip. Start with two minutes the first day, divided between topside and backside. Increase by two minutes each day. Limit exposure to 30 minutes no matter how tan you think baby is.
- Position counts. When baby's on his back, the top of his head should be toward the sun, eyes away from direct sunlight. A pad on dry ground is preferable to baby's carriage.

Summer appetites usually rise to every mealtime occasion when you serve foods that look good and taste good. Easy as 1-2-3 with Gerber Strained Foods. Colors are delightful . . . flavors delectable. All due to the special Gerber methods of preparation. Fruits, vegetables, meats, high meat dinners, vegetable-meat combinations and desserts make up the luscious list. When served in wide variety they provide your baby with the well-rounded nourishment he needs.

Summertime or any time, babies need protein for strength, growth and muscle development. Tasty ways to give your baby protein: Gerber High Meat Dinners. Lots of savory meat is subtly blended with garden-good vegetables for wonderful flavor and a goodly variety of nourishing food values.

Duo of cooler-offers for cherubs. You can't beat the heat completely but you can take some of the swelter out of summer. (1) A nursery shaded against morning sun will be cooler for that afternoon nap. (2) After naptime, a cooling sip of a Gerber Fruit Juice will help chase away heat and post-nap blues.

Note from Dan Gerber. According to nutritionists your baby needs all the essential amino acids (supplied by high quality proteins) to maintain a normal growth pattern. Gerber High Protein Cereal is a good example of a food which provides these amino acids. In developing this special cereal our research staff spent many months studying the protein values of various ingredients. Those selected offered a good balance of protein factors.

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business . . . our only business!"®

Want to combine a good trip with some golf?

Saint Andrews, Gavea, and Kasumigaseki Are Waiting

One of man's last refuges, at Scotland's renowned St. Andrews, the clubhouse which no woman enters.

One thing about golfers—they make the most happy travelers if they can just find a championship course at a safe distance from the guidebooks, museums, and monuments. And what courses you can find, right outside most of the world's great cities!

It's only fair to warn you that, while some of these courses are public, many are not, so you should go prepared with a letter of introduction from your club manager or a handicap certificate to make sure you get all the courtesies of a club.

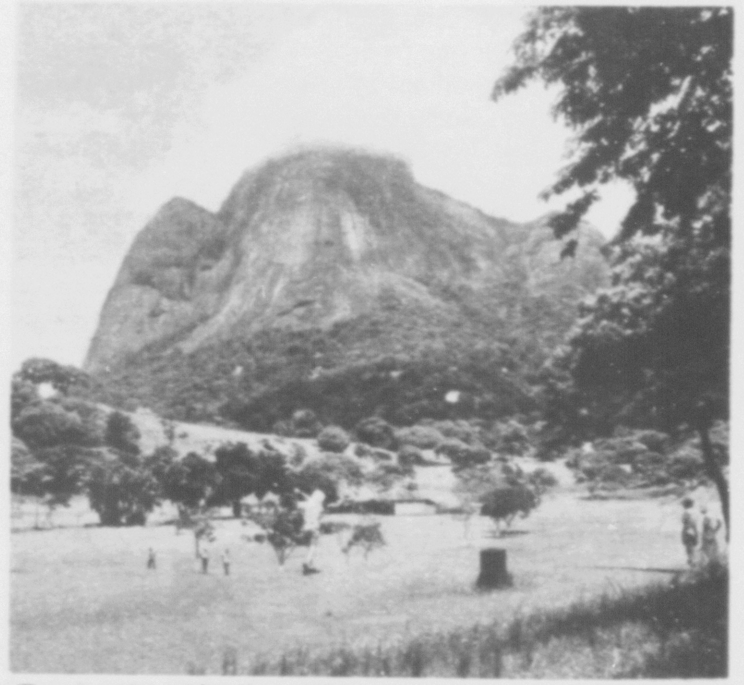
If you're going to Scotland, you will undoubtedly want to try St. Andrews, the oldest and still one of the toughest of all courses. With the wind changing direction about every half hour, this course calls for ingenuity, and you'll soon understand why great golfers can never forget bunkers such as the Principal's Nose and Ginger Beer and The Coffin (originally carved out by sheep huddling against the dunes to get out of the biting wind).

On the other side of the world, Kasumigaseki, Japan's finest, is 40 miles from Tokyo and has some of the most formidable traps in the world, as well as pretty (and rugged) girl caddies, and two fairways—one for summer and one for winter.

Along the same route, you should go a round at the Royal Hong Kong Club, if only to claim, when you're back among your cronies, that you sliced one off towards Red China (three and a half miles away, across the 17th hole). Founded in 1889, the club is reminiscent of much that was charming about 19th-century sport. Witness the two clubhouses (one for men and one for women), the antique dues of $5 a month, the cows grazing across the greens, and the pagoda for refreshments at the 10th tee.

If you're touring Canada, detour long enough for a game in the Rockies, at Banff Springs. The views of glaciers, mountains, lakes, and forests that greet you at each tee are magnificent.

No golfer's trip to Rio de Janeiro would be complete without a visit to Gavea, set between the mountains and the sea, 10 miles from Copacabana Beach. Gavea, also the name of the mountain, means "crow's nest" and sports nine holes up and over the foothills, five holes along the ocean, and the last four back into the hills.



Gavea means the "crow's nest," a magnificent course between the mountain and the sea, a few miles from Rio.

To mention but a few of the loveliest courses in Europe—Saint-Cloud, a half hour from Paris, is a gentle park course set among large old trees with a wide-verandaed clubhouse that is the rendezvous of many of the fashionable international set. In Lisbon, you can play at Estoril most of the year, though the favorite months are from September to May, a real boon to the inveterate player. Estoril has grand views of gardens, villas, mountains, and the sea. In Belgium, the Royal Antwerp is still outstanding—and tough.

Until recently Italians didn't go in much for the sport, but now you will find several links near Rome. The newest and most spectacular is Olgiata, 15 miles out, where the fairways sweep around close to Etruscan ruins. Up the coast, at St. Remo, you can play at Gli Ulivi, named after the impressive, classic olive trees that dot the course.

As you see, there's no reason in the world why a man must miss his golf, just because his wife wants to take a trip abroad.

SUMMER CAMPERS

veteran woodsman's advice

BY BILL RIVIERE

Director of the Maine School of Camping, author of "The Camper's Bible"

Never build a larger fire than you need. Always clear away pine needles, twigs, and litter from the fire area, and when the fire is built never leave it untended. When you've finished with your fire, put it out completely.

Stoves: While it's true that no stove can replace a campfire for cheeriness and warmth, a modern camp stove is as efficient and almost as easy to use as a new kitchen range, and it's essential for bad weather. Probably more gasoline-burning stoves are sold than any other kind. Next in popularity are stoves burning pressurized LP (liquid petroleum) or propane gas. For general camping, the two- and three-burner models are ideal.

Cooking in camp: On a car camping trip your choice of foods is limited only by your ability as a cook around a campfire or a camp stove. Preparing a list of supplies for a week's camping trip is not much different from doing a week's shopping at your local supermarket.

There's no good reason why meals shouldn't be as good in camp as at home. If you keep your menus simple, you'll find food served out-of-doors takes on a new flavor. There are many good cookbooks for campers available at most local libraries.

New campers often make the mistake of bringing into camp household utensils that aren't suitable for cooking outside the house. After a couple of weeks in camp they're no longer fit for use. Thin aluminum gets dented, wooden handles are charred, pots are blackened, glass units are cracked and chipped. It's better, and more economical, to buy utensils designed especially for camp use.

Wide-bottomed coffeepots, camp broilers, cast-iron Dutch ovens, long-handled griddles and frying pans are usually carried in stock by your local camping-equipment dealer or hardware store.

Sleeping gear: The camp cot is a basic item of sleeping gear. It should be collapsible, of course, but don't buy a cheap one lest it collapse when it shouldn't. In buying a cot, be sure that all the joints and hinges are well-reinforced and that all rivets are tight. Cots are luxuries, but if there's room in your car or trailer take one along for each camper. It makes camping more pleasant if you don't have to sleep on the ground.

A camp cot is a cold bed unless you have as much insulation under you as above. Worn-out blankets discarded from home use are never "good enough for camping." If your budget won't allow for a summer sleeping bag remember that a worn blanket won't provide you with much insulation. If you must take blankets from home, take the best you own, even at the risk of soiling them. They can always be dry cleaned.

A final bit of advice: Don't expect perfection of yourself as a camper. Take it easy and you'll have a great time.

Some lumber-company woodlands, as well as national and state parks, provide camp sites.

DANDELION
NARROW-LEAVED PLANTAIN
BROAD-LEAVED PLANTAIN

YES...NEW WEEDONE KILLS MORE LAWN WEEDS THAN ANY OTHER WEED KILLER

BECAUSE IT'S NOW SILVEX-FORTIFIED

It's true! Weedone is better than ever because it's Silvex-fortified. Silvex extends the killing power of Weedone to such hard-to-control weeds as Chickweed, Henbit and Prostrate Spurge, in addition to Dandelion, Plantain, Wild Garlic and more than a hundred others. There's no need for special formulas; no need to know the name of the weed. Weedone, fortified with Silvex, kills more lawn weeds and yet costs you less than many ordinary weed killers. And Weedone won't kill desirable lawn grasses; is easy to apply, liquid or dry. Sold wherever quality garden products are sold.

SPRAY IT • SPREAD IT • WEEDS DREAD IT

5 lb. bag (dry) Only $2.25 other sizes at proportionately low prices. (Slightly higher west of Rocky Mountains.)

8 oz. can (liquid) Only $1.00 other sizes at proportionately low prices.

OTHER WEED PROBLEM SOLVERS:

WEEDONE SPOT GRASS KILLER Gives spot control of unsightly grass clumps in lawns. Kills Muhlenbergia, Dallis Grass, etc. Does not sterilize soil. Reseed in 2 to 3 weeks after treatment. Available in ready-to-use 16 oz. Aerosol spray container $1.98.

X-ALL Kills all weed and grass growth. Lasts an entire season. The quick, easy way to clean up patios, driveways, walks, walls, tennis courts . . . wherever complete control of weeds and grass is desired. 2 oz. or 8 oz. containers. You mix it in water. Can be applied with sprayer or watering can. Non arsenical. 2 oz. $1.00 treats 75 sq. feet, 8 oz. $2.75 treats 300 sq. feet.

Harold M. Lambert from Frederic Lewis

Your tent is your most vital item. Don't skimp on it.

A Maine Guide Looks at

Don't rough it any more then you have to, is this

During the next few weeks millions of families from the cities and suburbs will take to the woods and get away from their daily routine by engaging in one of our fastest-growing national pastimes—camping.

Most of these families will enjoy themselves and will return home refreshed. But let me make one prediction. Thousands will be just plain miserable. They'll spend most of their waking hours doing their daily chores the hard way.

There's really no reason for such a struggle. After all, vacations are for rest and recreation. Most of the problems the suburban Daniel Boone will encounter can be solved by applying a standard backwoods commodity—common sense. A well-thought-out plan before you leave home, plus the right equipment, will save you time and work.

Shelter: The most basic piece of equipment is the tent. Your choice will naturally depend on the size of your family as well as the size of your budget. Actually, any tent you buy will have to be a compromise. My family of four use a 9′ x 12′ umbrella tent. This allows us each 27 square feet of floor space—a good average area. But even this is a compromise with us. My daughter and wife sleep on cots while my son and I use sleeping bags on the ground. During the day the sleeping bags are rolled under the cots to allow use of the floor area for other purposes. On a hiking or canoe trip, however, this tent would be too large and too heavy to be carried easily.

Whatever your choice, buy the best you can afford even if you have to forego other equipment. You can always add the luxury items later.

The campfire: Even with today's modern camping stoves, the ability to build a campfire is almost indispensable. There are certain blessings of wood fires that the best mechanical equipment cannot provide. A gasoline stove can't dry clothing, it can't heat an open tent and, most important, it's less cheerful than a campfire.

Woodsmen generally agree that the best tinder is the bark of the white birch. It burns readily because of its oil content. Peeling the bark won't kill a tree but it will disfigure it. Always try to locate a dead birch or a fallen tree trunk or branch. When you've gathered kindling and tinder, the secret of starting the fire is to keep the weight of the kindling from crushing the tinder. If air cannot reach the tinder, you'll have no fire. This is the source of trouble for many fire builders.

A sizzling Marinated Black Pepper Steak, Fiesta Kabobs, Double-Treat Frank-Burgers, and Tomatoes in Foil will satisfy hearty outdoor appetites.

Chef's Note: Cooking times and distances from coals in these recipes are given only as a guide. The final judgment must be that of the outdoor chef and will vary with the type of grill, the intensity of the heat, and the direction of the wind.

MARINATED BLACK PEPPER STEAK

The amount of crushed peppercorns used on this steak depends entirely on personal taste. As a guide, try two teaspoonfuls for each side of a large steak.

Purchase a sirloin steak, cut 1½ to 2 in. thick. (Allow ¾ to 1 lb. per person.) Put steak in a large, shallow pan and cover with Steak Marinade; allow to marinate several hours or overnight, turning occasionally. Before grilling, remove steak from marinade and press coarsely crushed peppercorns liberally into both sides of steak. Grill 3 to 4 in. from coals, allowing about 15 min. for total grilling time; turn once. Test doneness by slitting meat near bone and noting color of meat. To serve, cut steak diagonally into thin slices.

STEAK MARINADE

TO PREPARE: 10 MIN.

1 cup red wine vinegar
½ cup salad oil
⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar
Few drops Tabasco
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon marjoram
¼ teaspoon rosemary
2 large onions, thinly sliced
1 clove garlic, minced

Combine all ingredients and mix well to blend.

About 2 cups marinade

FIESTA KABOBS

Thread on 12-in. skewers cherry tomatoes, 1-in. slices of zucchini, cooked small whole onions, pimiento-stuffed olives, carrot strips (marinated in dill pickle juice), artichoke hearts, green pepper squares, and large whole mushrooms. (See photo.) Grill about 3 in. from coals until lightly browned, brushing with French dressing.

PEAS IN FOIL PACKETS

TO PREPARE: 10 MIN. TO GRILL: 35 MIN.

2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen peas, slightly thawed
1 cup thinly sliced green onion with tops
½ lb. fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced lengthwise through stems and caps, or use small whole mushrooms
2 teaspoons celery seed
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
6 tablespoons butter or margarine

1. Put peas, onion, and mushrooms onto center of a large square of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Break peas apart, if necessary.

2. Sprinkle a mixture of celery seed, sugar, salt, and pepper over peas and dot with butter. Bring foil up over peas and seal tightly.

3. Place packet on grill about 5 in. from coals and cook about 35 min., or until peas are just tender; turn packet over once during cooking.

About 10 servings

TOMATOES IN FOIL

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN. TO GRILL: ABOUT 10 MIN.

4 large tomatoes
Salt
Freshly ground black pepper
8 teaspoons butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped parsley
⅓ cup chopped green onion including tops
1 teaspoon basil, crushed
1 teaspoon tarragon, crushed
1 clove garlic, crushed in a garlic press

1. Cut tomatoes crosswise into halves. Sprinkle cut surface of each tomato half generously with salt and pepper; top each with 1 teaspoon butter.

2. Mix remaining ingredients and mound equally on each tomato half. Set four tomatoes on each of two large pieces of heavy-duty aluminum foil; wrap and seal tightly. Grill 3 in. from coals about 10 min., or until just tender. 8 servings

Note: To seal packets tightly, bring lengthwise sides of foil together above mixture; turn edges under in 1-in. folds. Seal ends with a double fold.

GRILLED SHRIMP IN A BASKET

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN. TO GRILL: 5-6 MIN.

2 lbs. (about 24) jumbo-sized shrimp or prawns, fresh or thawed frozen
1 cup olive oil
½ cup lemon juice
¼ cup soy sauce
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
4 teaspoons crushed tarragon
½ teaspoon chervil
¼ teaspoon basil

1. Using scissors, cut through shell at the back of each raw shrimp; remove the black vein. Rinse shrimp with shells thoroughly; drain on absorbent paper. Put the shrimp into a large bowl.

2. Blend remaining ingredients together and pour over shrimp. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hrs., tossing shrimp often to coat.

3. Arrange shrimp in a basket broiler. Grill about 3 in. from coals until shells are slightly charred. Turn broiler and grill shrimp several minutes longer. Serve immediately. About 6 servings

Note: If serving shrimp as an entrée instead of as an appetizer, increase number of shrimp per serving.

DOUBLE-TREAT FRANK-BURGERS

TO PREPARE: 10 MIN. TO GRILL: 10-15 MIN.

2 lbs. ground beef
2 teaspoons salt
Black pepper
2 tablespoons catsup
6 frankfurters, cut in halves lengthwise
6 ½-in. strips Cheddar cheese
3 dill pickles, cut in quarters lengthwise
French dressing

1. Combine first four ingredients; mix lightly. Form into twelve flat patties of equal size.

2. Place two frankfurter halves, cut sides down, on each of six patties; place a strip of cheese and two pickle strips between the frankfurter halves. (See photo.) Top with remaining patties.

3. Place frank-burgers in a basket broiler. Grill about 3 in. from coals 10 to 15 min., frequently turning and brushing with French dressing. 6 servings

SWISS CHEESE FONDUE

Traditionally a Swiss after-skiing supper dish, cheese fondue, eaten bubbly hot from the grill or hibachi, can be a fun kind of appetizer with the convivial spirit of outdoor eating. Each guest spears on his fork a bite-sized piece of bread (through the soft side and securely into the crust), dips it into the fondue, stirs around the pot once or twice, lifts it out with a twirling motion . . . and eats! To keep the fondue at proper consistency, someone should be stirring at all times and scraping the bottom with the crust of his bread. According to Swiss tradition, a lady who loses her bread in the fondue forfeits a kiss; a gentleman who loses his piece buys a bottle of wine.

TO PREPARE: 10 MIN. TO COOK: 15-20 MIN.

1 1-lb. loaf French bread
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons kirsch
1 clove garlic, cut in half
2 cups dry white wine
1 lb. natural Swiss cheese, shredded (4 cups)
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
⅛ teaspoon black pepper

1. Cut bread into bite-sized pieces having at least one crusty side; set aside.

2. Mix cornstarch and kirsch together in a small bowl and set aside.

3. Rub inside of a 2-qt. flame-resistant casserole or porcelain-finish saucepan with cut surface of garlic. Pour in the wine and heat on a hibachi or grill, about 2 to 3 in. from coals, until wine is about to simmer. (Do not boil.)

4. Combine the shredded cheese and a mixture of the next three ingredients; add in small amounts to the hot wine, stirring constantly until cheese is melted after each addition.

5. Blend in the cornstarch mixture and continue stirring while cooking 5 min. longer, or until fondue begins to bubble.

6. Spear bread on forks to use for dipping. Keep the fondue gently bubbling throughout serving time.

ROCK-LOBSTER TAILS WITH ORANGE-BUTTER SAUCE

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO GRILL: ABOUT 10 MIN.

- 1 6-oz. can frozen orange-juice concentrate, thawed
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon rosemary
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon celery salt
- ½ teaspoon grated onion
- ¼ teaspoon Angostura aromatic bitters
- 1 tablespoon snipped parsley
- ½ cup butter
- 12 frozen South African rock-lobster tails, thawed (2 1½-lb. pkgs.)

1. Combine orange-juice concentrate and next seven ingredients in a saucepan. Heat slowly, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to boiling; boil 1 min. Stir in parsley and set aside.

2. When ready to grill, melt butter in a small saucepan over coals. Add seasoned juice, stirring until thoroughly blended.

3. Slit thin underside membrane of each lobster tail down center and peel open. Insert tails on prongs of a barbecue stand or thread on long skewers. If laid flat on grill, grasp tail in both hands and bend backwards toward shell side to crack sharply in several places. This prevents curling during cooking.

4. Place tails, shell side down, on grill about 4 in. from coals for 5 min., brushing occasionally with butter sauce.

5. Turn tails and grill 5 min. longer, or until meat is opaque and creamy white. Serve with remaining sauce. 6 servings

GINGER CHICKEN

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN. TO GRILL: ABOUT 30 MIN.

- 1⅓ cups honey
- ½ cup currant jelly
- ½ cup finely chopped preserved ginger
- 6 cloves garlic, crushed in a garlic press
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco
- 2 broiler-fryer chickens, 2¼ to 2½ lbs. each, ready-to-cook weight, quartered

1. Combine first six ingredients in a saucepan; heat, stirring occasionally, until jelly is melted. Remove from heat.

2. Place chicken quarters on greased grill. Brush with sauce. Grill 8 in. from source of heat about 30 min., turning and brushing with sauce every 5 min. until chicken tests done. 8 servings

Note: If this sauce is made in advance and stored, the flavors will intensify.

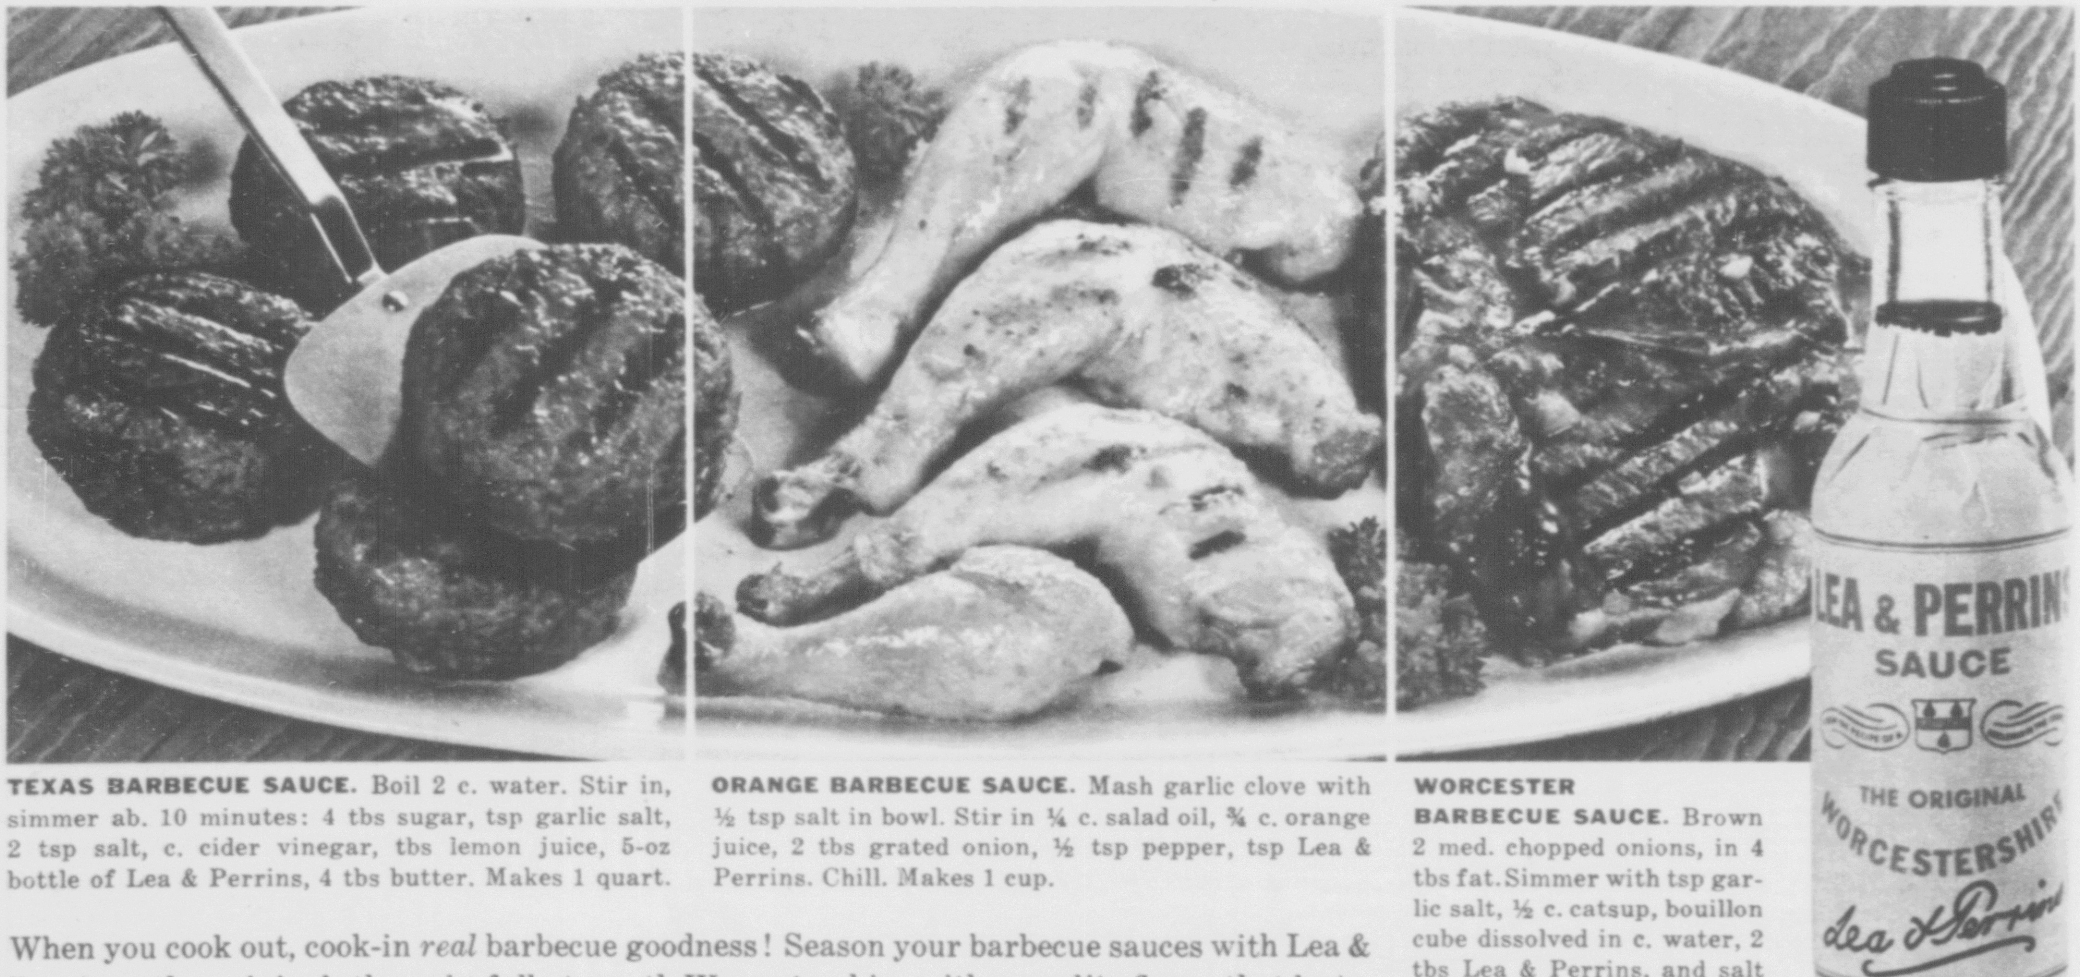
AND LEA & PERRINS . . . THE ORIGINAL WORCESTERSHIRE



TEXAS BARBECUE SAUCE. Boil 2 c. water. Stir in, simmer ab. 10 minutes: 4 tbs sugar, tsp garlic salt, 2 tsp salt, c. cider vinegar, tbs lemon juice, 5-oz bottle of Lea & Perrins, 4 tbs butter. Makes 1 quart.

ORANGE BARBECUE SAUCE. Mash garlic clove with ½ tsp salt in bowl. Stir in ¼ c. salad oil, ¾ c. orange juice, 2 tbs grated onion, ½ tsp pepper, tsp Lea & Perrins. Chill. Makes 1 cup.

WORCESTER BARBECUE SAUCE. Brown 2 med. chopped onions, in 4 tbs fat. Simmer with tsp garlic salt, ½ c. catsup, bouillon cube dissolved in c. water, 2 tbs Lea & Perrins, and salt and pepper, for 30 min. Makes about 1 pint.

When you cook out, cook-in real barbecue goodness! Season your barbecue sauces with Lea & Perrins—the original, the only full-strength Worcestershire with a quality flavor that lasts. FREE! COOK BOOK. 168 original recipes! Write Lea & Perrins, Box U, Fair Lawn, N. J.

PHOTOGRAPH BY FRED BURRELL

The sun shines on a simple lighthearted wedding dress—no cathedral trains and cutaways for a service in a summer garden.

mer, the runner was not anchored and bridesmaids and bride made a wobbly approach as their heels caught in the loose canvas. One other point—be sure that there is a firm surface for the wedding party in front of the altar. Nothing undermines dignity like the feeling that one is gradually tipping over backward as spike heels sink in soft and clinging ground.

If your garden is not looking its very best at the time set for the wedding, don't despair. Flowering plants in pots can be sunk in the flower beds to create a fine display of foliage and color.

If the lawn is large enough, folding chairs may be set out in rows for the guests, leaving an aisle in the center. When chairs are provided, the procedure is exactly the same as in a church, with the ushers conducting guests to their places.

When there are no chairs, the guests simply stand where they choose, leaving the area nearest the altar for the families and close friends of the bridal couple. Of course, when the guests are not to be seated, the function of the ushers is purely honorary—and decorative!

After the ceremony, when the bridegroom has kissed his bride, the couple turn toward the guests and receive their good wishes where they were married. The ushers and the best man withdraw, leaving only the bride's attendants to form the receiving line. For this reason, it is important to plan beforehand so that the bridesmaids may turn where they stand without any hasty shuffling of places.

AT A GARDEN WEDDING the bride's mother, with the bridegroom's mother beside her, has greeted the guests as they arrive, and thus no parents' receiving line is necessary. However, the four parents will naturally stand near the bridal party and speak to friends as they approach the receiving line.

What will you wear? Because cathedral trains are not only unwieldy but also too formal for house or garden weddings, you will probably wish to wear a gown with a short train or with none at all—in other words, ballerina length. And as the style of your gown determines what all the rest of the wedding party will wear, your bridegroom and his attendants will either be in striped trousers and author of "The Modern Bride Book of Etiquette and Entertaining"

Happy Is the Bride the Sun Shines on

A garden wedding is all romance—on a firm foundation of common sense

BY EMMA AUBERT COLE

If you want a picturesque garden wedding, and if you live in a reliable climate, you can proceed lightheartedly with your plans. Even if your climate is unpredictable, a garden wedding can still be yours, as we shall see.

Supposing you have the advantage of a reliable climate, the first thing to do is to choose the spot for the altar. A large and handsome tree might form the setting, or a tall hedge, a stone wall edged with blossoming plants, an arbor at the end of a grassy vista, or a mass of flowering shrubs. Whatever you decide, choose a spot where the sun will not shine in the eyes of the guests and where there is adequate lawn space to accommodate them. If there is no ideal spot for an altar convenient to the necessary lawn area, an arbor, twined with green vines, may easily be erected.

You will need a table covered with a white cloth to serve as a temporary altar and a kneeling bench with white cushions. Your clergyman will advise you as to what other accessories may be needed for the service of your faith.

It is often advisable to have a heavy white canvas runner to form an aisle for the processional. But be sure that it is firmly stretched in place. At a wedding I went to last sum-

Bride

Oxford gray jackets, or dark business suits. If the weather is really warm, they may wear gray worsted trousers and white linen jackets, or all-white tropical-worsted suits.

Incidentally, if you are going to have a face veil, let me tell you of a garden wedding at which, just as the maid of honor had lifted the young bride's veil and the bride turned to receive her husband's kiss, a breeze blew the veil back over her face. She again turned to her maid of honor and again the breeze was uncooperative. This happened three times before the frustrated bridegroom was able to kiss his bride.

Had she had a single row of fine pearl beading to weight the edge of the veil, this contretemps could have been avoided.

The lesson of the face veil applies also to tablecloths. Be sure that weights are invisibly stitched to the hems so that they will not blow about.

IT IS ESSENTIAL, even in the smallest garden, to have seats for elderly guests who would find standing too tiring. In addition, and depending upon the number of guests, there must be at least two large serving tables—one for food and one for punch or champagne or whatever beverage is to be served, with attendants to replenish supplies. All that is necessary is a beverage, little sandwiches, and small cakes, although a complete wedding breakfast may be served if everyone is seated.

Where rain is a possibility, you must of course plan an alternate place for the ceremony. Because gardens usually accommodate more guests than houses do, one good alternative is to have the service on a covered terrace or porch with a large connecting marquee on the adjoining lawn to protect the guests.

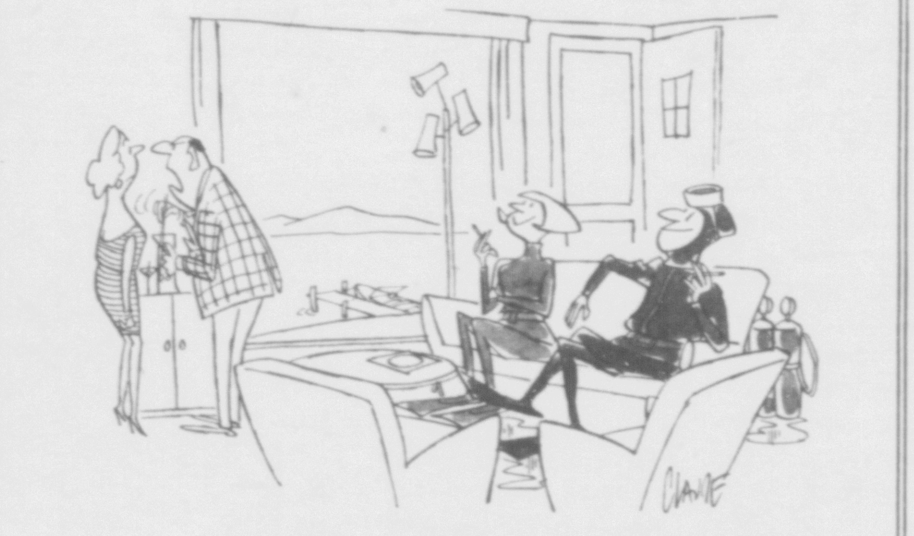
Even in rainless climates such a marquee can be useful for shade or as a windbreak. At my daughter's wedding which took place in July, we had had no rain since April and were gloomily certain that it would rain on the day. We therefore had a canopy erected over our westward-facing terrace. Although it fortunately did not rain, the sun shone with its usual ferocity, and the shade of the canopy was most welcome.

Of course, as you may know, you can insure against rain at a moderate premium, if you wish, thus obtaining some small solace.

Music at a garden wedding may consist of a single accordionist or, in addition, you may wish to have a violinist and perhaps a guitarist. If the ceremony is to be performed indoors with a garden reception to follow, the accordionist can double on the piano and then take up his accordion.

When dancing is planned for the reception, you may have a temporary dance floor laid in the garden, and then you will want a good three-piece orchestra—piano, violin, and drums, for example. Small pianos may be rented for this purpose if your own is unwieldy.

Whether the wedding is small, or large and fairly formal, you may be sure that if it is held in a garden, it will be long remembered.



"You and your, 'Come as you are'!"

How Jeffrey Bottomly came into his own—a gem of a new story by the famous author of "Chairman of the Bored"

The Great Outdoorsman

BY EDWARD STREETER

THE OTHER DAY, I was puttering about in my library. Several of my nephews and nieces were sitting on the terrace beneath the window, and I overheard one of them say, "I never saw anyone who knew so much about sports and outdoor things as Uncle Jeff," and my oldest niece said, "Of course. He was a terrific athlete. The whole family was, but I don't think any of them did as many things as Uncle Jeff. He seems to have been good at everything." Then another said, "The family must have been proud of him."

I felt a warm glow of contentment creep over me such as I had never known before. These words were an acknowledgement of something I had striven for all my life. I decided right then and there to write my autobiography.

These rough preliminary notes will serve, I hope, to pull the threads together until I have time to expand them into a more definitive work.

My name is Jeffrey Bottomly. I am 70 years old and of approximately sound mind and body. I was the youngest of five children. We came from a long line of athletes dating back to Thomas a Bottomly of Bottomly-on-Thames, who was said to have been the most skilled horseman and jouster in the British Isles.

Be that as it may, my immediate family was obsessed with the conviction that the Bottomlys were a race of champions and that their chief reason for being was to maintain this centuries-old tradition.

From the time that I learned to walk, this responsibility was impressed upon me daily. Father and Mother, my uncles and my aunts and my four brothers were always winning cups. Our home looked like a trophy room. There wasn't anything that someone wasn't good at—except, unfortunately, me. Even in the first grade I was a complete flop at such sports as musical chairs and pinning the tail on the donkey.

This was, of course, deeply humiliating to my family. I don't think they were ever quite sure that I was not just being perverse. Everything came so easy to them. My oldest brother John, for example, was captain of the Yale football team, and my Uncle Alcott was captain of the Princeton team in the same year. It was taken for granted that they would be.

John and Alcott were really the best of friends, but the first time they met on the football field during a Yale-Princeton game John caused Alcott to be carried off on a stretcher. The following year, during the second quarter, John went off in the same manner due to Alcott, and on the occasion of their final meeting they performed the remarkable feat of knocking each other out simultaneously and being carried off side by side amidst thundering applause from the stands. I merely mention this to indicate their dedication to family tradition.

My brother Bertram was a track man. When I was quite young, Father took me to see him run the mile. Bert lost a shoe at the quarter mark and broke the intercollegiate record with one bare foot. I remember my father tugging at his mustache excitedly and crying, "That lad could run with one foot behind his back."

Harold and Donald, my two younger brothers, were what you might call general-purpose athletes. They just went around the country winning tournaments. It didn't make much difference to them what they were.

When my parents discovered that at the age of seven I couldn't catch a baseball without endangering the expensive braces on my teeth, there was considerable talk about sending me to a sanitarium. My mother, however, was against it. If I was crazy, she said, I was crazy. Mother was very practical about such matters. "Let's try to build up his body and teach him what we can," she would say. "If that doesn't do any good . . ." At that point she would shrug in an ominous way.

After that, I had instructors in everything imaginable. They all admitted, subsequently, that I was hopeless, but at the time they wanted to hang onto their jobs so they kept telling Father and Mother that I showed great promise.

Nobody had time to check up on them. Father was what they used to call a traveling man in athletic supplies and Mother was usually rushing around the country attending golf tournaments. My brothers were away at school during most of this period, so that everybody more or less forgot all about me, including most of my instructors, and I enjoyed the happiest years of my childhood in consequence.

WHEN I WAS ABOUT 12, my father took me to some public courts to see how I was coming along in tennis, and I knocked two of his front teeth out with my racquet. It really wasn't my fault. He shouldn't have had his teeth where they were, but he never saw it that way, and that fall I was sent to Buxten's School for Boys.

Buxten's had the highest athletic standards of any school in the East. Father had a hard time getting me in. During the first year I battered myself up so much that I spent more time in the infirmary than I did in classes. The cost of this was borne by the school, and eventually they let me be editor of the school paper as an economy measure.

It almost killed Father when he heard about it. It did something to him, I'm afraid, because he never paid much attention to me after that, and a few years later he died.

My brothers were very nice about it. They never openly accused me of having been responsible for Father's death, but I could tell it was on their minds. I didn't see much of them because soon after that I went to college. They all hoped I would show some improvement there. I seemed doomed to disappoint them, though. I went out for the gymnastic team because that was about the only thing I hadn't tried, but the very first day I strained something in my back trying to open my locker. It really wasn't my fault. The door of the locker was so rusty that the coach of the gym team couldn't open it himself. Anyway, the doctor said the gym team would have to get on without me. That made me pretty blue, of course, knowing how my family was going to feel, and then the next thing I knew I made Phi Beta Kappa. That was the crowning blow. Mother took it very hard. My brothers did everything they could to comfort her. John told her it was just hard luck, and if I didn't wear the key people wouldn't know about it.

Mother died that summer, just after winning the Women's Open Golf Tournament of Upper Nassasoit Lake. Everyone said what a wonderful way to go. At the funeral the minister said she was one of the healthiest women he had ever buried.

When the estate was settled, I found that I had enough money to live in reasonable comfort, so I decided to devote my life seeking some outdoor sport in which I would be good enough not to disgrace the name of Bottomly.

I ruled out tennis and golf because I had already tried them, and they didn't seem suited to me. It wasn't so much a matter of hitting the ball—I could do that quite regularly and briskly. My difficulty was that I never knew where it was going.

This was particularly bad in the case of tennis because it gave my opponents very little chance to participate in the game, as a result of which I found it more and more difficult to find anybody to play with. In the case of golf it was the expense which eventually caused me to drop the game. The caddies never knew in which direction to look, and we lost a ball on almost every shot unless I was lucky enough to miss it entirely.

I WAS GETTING discouraged. I had been a miserable failure in everything I had tried to date. I used to spend my summers at various watering places on the south shore of Long Island, and it occurred to me that swimming might be an excellent sport on which to concentrate. It required only a few simple movements of the arms and legs. Once I had really mastered those I could enter swimming meets all over the country with an eye on the Olympics as my ultimate goal.

I found swimming difficult, so I employed the lifeguard to teach me the fine points. I don't believe he was a very good instructor, however, for although I finally learned to swim quite well I was never able to make any progress through the water, which is, of course, a very basic thing in swimming. I did discover an unusual technique, however, which enabled me to walk on the bottom by expelling all the breath from my body. It was quite sensational to see me calmly enter the ocean and disappear, at least it would have been if the lifeguard had not insisted on plunging after me and dragging me out each time. So I gave the whole thing up and took to floating.

I was good at floating. I seemed to be more buoyant than most people. On calm days I could clasp my hands behind my head and pretend that I was sleeping, which always astonished the bathers as my body was washed quietly among them.

Although I had failed at everything I tried, I had attempted so many things that I was beginning to establish a reputation as a sportsman. For instance, a friend invited me to go trout fishing in the Adirondacks although I warned him that I had never done it. He said, nonsense, that everybody fished for trout and that he knew a stream where you could scoop them out with your hands. We fished from a canoe. An evil-looking man with a soiled mustache did the paddling. My friend insisted that I sit in the bow and fish while he relaxed in the middle, which I did much against my better judgment.

On the first cast I removed the guide's hat with my hook, which he seemed to resent although I thought it was rather a neat trick. On the next try I hooked my friend in the back of the shirt. That seemed to make him restless, and we went ashore and changed places. This irritated me because he was the one who had insisted on my coming, and I never even got my line in the water.

In the fall of the year I used to be asked to shoot duck and quail and such things. I preferred to call it firing as I never really shot anything, which pleased me, since I am opposed to unnecessary slaughter.

I gave up duck shooting, however, when I blew a hole (quite accidentally, of course) in the bottom of the duck boat, causing my host and myself to sink into the waters of Chesapeake Bay. It wasn't much of a boat, but you might have thought it was the Queen Mary the way he took on about it. Some people are like that.

QUAIL HUNTING I enjoyed. The South Carolina woods are beautiful in the early spring. I liked walking behind the dogs, looking at the flowers and ferns and everything. When we put up a covey, it was fun to hear the whir of their wings and the shot spatter against the trees. I never saw the quail because they had learned to fly just along the line where one's reading lenses join one's distance lenses. Once I caught a glint of white, but it was just one of the dogs. You might have thought I'd killed him instead of nicking the end of his tail. Actually it pleased me because it proved that when I did see something I could hit it.

I had a dreadful experience with horses when I was invited to ride with the Bonebrake Hunt. We went looking for foxes in the woods, of all places. Thank heaven we didn't find one. It was hard enough to keep the branches out of my eyes just riding at a walk.

By and by, we came to a barbed-wire fence with a wooden gate in it. Did we open it the way any sensible person would? Of course not. Nothing would do but we must jump over it. That meant one at a time, of course, with everybody watching. I envied the hounds who could wriggle under.

The first man over had a red coat and a high hat. If clothes meant anything he was the best rider in the Hunt, but he almost fell off. The next was a woman. She had red hair and a derby and did fall off. I was next and managed to wrap my legs around the brute's neck and work my way back to the saddle. That seemed to be about par for the hearings on them as required by law, set out signs, paved roads, doubled the parking spaces, and did some remodeling. We also cleaned up, refurbished and rented 11 summer cottages and several apartments. In spite of the lateness in the season, we found a park manager; we also found, by competitive bidding, a concessionaire ready to start right away to clean up and open the four restaurants and agreeable to stipulations that the Selectmen had to approve all menus and prices. It was vital to be sure there were always meals available in all price ranges.

In addition, we had to prepare budgets. What a job that was! How to budget all these varied activities when you couldn't imagine the traffic each was going to enjoy, the weather, the cost of the million things you knew you wanted and needed and the two million you didn't know about, and how much money the town fathers would actually approve?

In the end—don't ask me how—the jobs all got done, and only a very few overworked volunteers dropped by the wayside.

A prominent local decorator contributed her services and helped us to get curtain material and reupholstering at minimum prices. The Garden Club pitched in and beautified the grounds, and the Community Art Association lent pictures to adorn the walls. A greenhouse gave its finest.

AND ON MAY 20TH, golf play started, complete with golf house, score cards, course rules, pros, starters, rangers, and greenskeepers.

Eight days later we had public dedication ceremonies on the park lawn, featuring Fourth-of-July-type speeches by the Selectmen and other dignitaries. The high-school band played. The flag was raised, a tree was planted, and our club park was blessed with the prayers of three clergymen.

Once open, we inaugurated many extra activities. A special-events committee planned and ran heavily patronized free teen-age dances, square dances, track meets, field days, swimming meets, amateur theatricals, dances, wiener roasts, and marshmallow burnings.

People came, saw, liked what they saw—and said so. Kinds words are a help!

Don't misunderstand me, there's still a hard

CHICKEN CACCIATORE
KÖTTBULLAR
BEEF STROGANOFF

A Remarkable New Eating Experience

Five authentic foreign foods in cans had convenience minded Americans raving this week. Never, they said, had anything so incredibly good come ready to heat and serve! The three fabled meat dishes and two noble soups labeled Famous Foods of the World were being whisked off grocery shelves across the country and heralded as "a milestone in the developments of canned meats." (St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

"Meat pieces are hefty and plentiful with a lavish portion of sauce", drooled the N.Y. Herald Tribune. "Low in cost, the cans of meat and chicken contain about three servings for less than a dollar," enthused The Miami News.

Drawing this praise were Italian Chicken Cacciatore—Breasts of chicken in tomato, herb and mushroom sauce. Swedish Köttbullar—Savory little meat balls in dill-spiced sour cream sauce. Beef Stroganoff—beef slices in sour cream laced with sherry in the Imperial Russian tradition. Spanish Garbanzo Bean Soup and traditional French Onion Soup.

Were the raves warranted? Best bet: Find out for yourself.

course because nobody paid any attention to this maneuver.

Before we came to another fence a very pleasant fellow rode up and said wasn't I bored to death and wouldn't I like to go back to his house and have a mint julep. I said I was and I would. He suggested we take a few jumps on the way home. I said I was so thirsty I thought we should go straight to his house, and that was the end of horses as far as I was concerned.

By this time, it was becoming obvious to me that I was more adapted to what you might call sedentary athletics. The most sedentary one I could think of was surf casting, so I bought an outfit and resolved that here was one sport I was going to master. I found, however, that every time I cast, one of two things happened: (a) the line got all snarled up in the reel, which meant that I had to sit on a log and spend the rest of the morning untangling it, or (b) the hook caught on the bottom, and I either had to swim out and free it (which I never saw anybody do), or I had to cut the line (which I never saw anybody do, either).

Then I realized that probably all the surf-casting Johnnies that I used to pass on the beach, standing there hour after hour like window dummies, were not fishing at all. They had caught their hooks on the bottom and were waiting for dark so they could cut their lines and go home to their families.

That seemed to me like a silly way to spend one's life. I talked to several friends, and one of them suggested bird watching. That seemed to fill the bill exactly, and I wondered why I had not thought of it before. My friend loaned me a book of bird pictures and field glasses.

I THINK I would have liked bird watching if it had not been for the fact that all the birds I saw looked like round gray balls. The fellow that wrote the book must have lived in another part of the country because all the birds he pictured had bright colors. I couldn't find any of the birds that I saw in it except sea gulls. I had just about decided to specialize in those because there are all kinds. Then one day I walked off the end of the dock and lost the glasses. The owner acted so unreasonably about it that I gave up the whole thing.

I had spent my life trying not to disgrace the family, but I just didn't seem to have what it takes. By this time, my four brothers were dead. John died of an enlarged heart; Bert, the runner, fell off his exercise machine and broke his neck; Harold and Donald both ruined their insides dieting and just faded away. There was no one left to uphold the Bottomly tradition except me.

So I said to hell with the great outdoors. From now on, I said, it's going to be just a place to sit in when the sun is shining. I have a steamer chair with a cushion on it and a table next to it for a Tom Collins and things like that. I have plenty of time to read now and some of the nephews and nieces are apt to drop in, so it is never lonely. They like to hear me talk about the old days and tell them about golf and tennis and fox hunting and shooting and fishing and swimming and all those things. It's good for my morale. It makes me feel young again and proud to have done my share in upholding the tradition of the Bottomlys.

core of diehards who are against Longshore, and always will be.

But the $10 family sticker (now $12) is no longer a burning issue. The golf course that we thought had a capacity of no more than 375 has been known to handle as many as 420 people on a weekend day. The tennis courts have been jammed from the day they opened, and several more are to be built. Every mooring has been rented, and on the board are plans for a new marina for 500 to 1,000 boats.

The first year almost 50% of the total population of the Town of Westport applied for admission cards! The second season saw a big increase in that figure.

The main restaurant, which turns into a ballroom accommodating more than 600—the largest dining room in Fairfield County—has been a great success. Most of Westport's big functions, as well as those of the surrounding towns, are held here. And the concessionaire is making a profit and turning in a healthy contribution to the operating budget of the Park.

AMONG unexpected results, the Park is helping to attract better teachers to Westport, a manna for the fiercely competitive market in our section! (The Board of Education's recruiting brochure describes the club's facilities.)

Projected: a modern playground where kids can skate and ride their bikes and mothers can sit with their baby carriages. Also in prospect is a long addition to the sandy beach and another swimming pool.

Now for the $200,000 question I know is on your minds: "How did you do in the money department?" In Longshore's first year it made an almost unintentional operating profit of more than $14,000!

When we started this venture, we got in touch with the National Recreation Association to get the figures, policies, and other data of towns that had attempted to buy and transform a private club. We were told that the Association's records showed no precedent for such an undertaking. In fact, we were urged to tell the Association all about the idea and to let it know how we came out, as undoubtedly other towns would want to know.

It turns out NRA was right. Towns all over the area—and as far west as Utah—have been pressing for information and advice.

Our advice is always the same: do it by all means—if you have the strength!

Despite all his work, Longshore is actually a sparetime interest of the author. Julian Brodie is occupied full time as an executive of the Lawrence C. Gumbinner Advertising Agency in New York.

End-o-Weed
LAWN WEED KILLER

End-o-Weed kills every kind of broadleafed weed through its two powerful killing ingredients—not available in all weed controls. It kills the entire weed—tops, stems and roots—for complete control. It upsets the weeds' growth process—so they wilt and die. Yet End-o-Weed leaves grasses untouched. Now you can have a weed-free lawn with no guesswork.

Get End-o-Weed Lawn Weed Killer wherever fine garden supplies are sold.

Also available as a concentrate. Goes a long way in your own sprayer

How to identify and control lawn diseases

If your lawn doesn't look as healthy as it should, then it may have a fungus disease. Here's how you can recognize some of the more serious diseases — and what to do to get rid of them.

Rust shows as a small yellow-orange or red-brown spot or spore and will stain a cloth rubbed against the affected leaves and stems.

Brown Patch is a high-temperature, high-humidity disease. The damaged splotches have a "smoke ring" or dark halo.

Leafspot turns grass a bright yellow or develops yellow-brown leaf spots with darkened borders.

Prevention and eradication: Experts rely on specialized lawn chemicals such as ACTI-DIONE-THIRAM* and ACTI-DIONE RZ* developed by Upjohn. Use them regularly. They'll help prevent most fungus disease and bring even severe cases under control. Directions are easy to follow.
